BUILDING MANAGEMENT

NEW TREND IN COMMERCIAL REALTY

Conducted by Raymond P. Roberts, Building Manager for The American Real Estate Co.

BUSINESS men seem to agree that one result of the war will be more intensive commercialism. In the broader, modern sense, this means that two dollars will be produced where only one came forth before. Just how this is going to be accomplished is becoming apparent and real estate promises to be a major benefactor in the process.

American business interests for some time hereafter will be developing new markets in many lines. Some of these avenues of trade will lead to South America. Others will lead to the seats of strife abroad. Business will reach into buying centers that other nations have monopolized for years, but the newest, biggest and best artery of trade will be that which leads to the little house around the corner; the concern that all along has been making things just as good as those made in foreign lands, and possibly better. In the past it was ignored because the Sherman law forbade anyone putting the word Imported upon a domestic article, and it was the imported article that gave the biggest profit because that was the product wanted. The public, up to the outbreak of the war, considered that the word "imported" meant "guaranteed." Frequently it was the symbol of the opposite.

POOR LIGHTING DETRACTS FROM ARTISTIC MERCHANDISE DISPLAYS.

Americans Independent.

The Americans are beginning to learn how to depend upon themselves, and the symptoms are most virulent in the U. S. A., particularly in New York. The money-back principle in business is growing fast. It is the checkmate of domestic manufacturers against the revival of indiscriminate importation. But who is going to tell the big buyer, the jobber, the commission merchant, the wholesaler, the retailer, as well as the ultimate consumer that America can make as good lace, silk and jim-cracks as England, France or Germany?

Advertising helps, but seeing is believing. So the tendency of the times is to take the small ware merchandise, put it on display in some central point where buyers come and go and congregate and then tell them through advertising that if they are not satisfied with the goods they can get their money back. At least they do not have to take chances. They can see what they are going to buy before they touch pen to order blank.

Ample Room Essential.

Here is where the building manager and real estate man come in. Goods to have proper display must have room. But the questions are to find proper space and adequate light, suitably located in the vicinity of the particular trade center and finally to have a place presentable enough to please the most fastidious American buyer.

Are suitable lofts available? F. K. Anderson's experience is the answer. He is the Eddystone of the five, ten and twenty-five cent store trade. Realizing the trend of the times he decided to establish a showroom that would be a model five and ten cent store, complete with store front, ribbon counter and all the accoutrements that accompany a well-regulated Woolworth store. He started out to find a suitable loft in the vicinity of his principal trade, Fourth avenue in the twenties.

Brokers "On the Job."

Once the real estate brokers found out he was a possible client Mr. Anderson said he was tempted to believe that of the 5,000,000 population in New York 99 and 44/100 per cent. were real estate agents, having lofts to rent, and the balance were builders who would build anything, from a packing case to the tower of Babel, for him. Two available lofts were sifted out of the batch. One was large and dark. The other was smaller, but well located. He took the latter and put in his display at 119 East 24th street. Hence it is apparent that well shaped, fair sized, well lighted lofts are the ones in demand for show-room purposes, especially in small wares. Columns are not objected to. In fact, they help the display, if handled judiciously. Which brings us down to the building manager's opportunity.

Demand for Stock Display.

There is a growing demand for stock display buildings. Such buildings are not lofts, nor warerooms. There is a difference in the requirements of the display floor. The ceilings must be higher; as high as a store ceiling. The space must be susceptible of being arranged as a retail store, not merely as a place for a row of offices or stack upon stack of shelving, and also there must be a good approach, without the too-frequent freight elevator effect. The structure must be strong enough to show machinery on one floor, laces and embroideries on the other, groceries, staple and fancy on another, automobiles on a third, fourth or fifteenth. There must be installed some furnishings, because it must be remembered that those who will frequent buildings of this character are impressed with good decoration and expect full measure of comfort and convenience. Besides it helps the tenant's display.

Such a building will call for a special type of glass wall construction, in front and rear, if it is not possible on three or all sides. The latter plan is more preferable, hence an irregular, light-protected site would have an advantage. A triangular plot with entrance on the apex in a well-located square or street intersection would be ideal if it offered the required floor space.

The department store buyers talk about putting up such a building and the associated advertising men have such a plan under discussion. There is reason to believe that the grocery, machinery, clothing, printing, paper, leather and other lines will adopt the new method of buying and selling in wholesale quantities and it will be interesting to note just how the building managers and architects work out this type of building in the light of present-day progress in modern advertising methods and economies enforced by the necessity to supply better goods than could be imported at or about the same price.

In the meantime merchandising experts like Mr. Anderson, and members of the Sphinx Club, among whom are some of the greatest efficiency selling men in the country, are doing the best they can, in displaying wares to visiting buyers, in buildings entirely unsuited to the purpose. It seems to them to be a matter of wonderment why building investors have not looked into this matter long ago. The demand for suitable display rooms is growing, but the supply is low.

Unsuspected Clauses.

It is quite an ordinary thing for controversies to arise over the provisions of a lease after the paper is signed and the signer has taken possession of the premises. In the majority of instances it is due to the fact that the tenant signed the lease without thoroughly understanding the provisions thereof—without, in fact, even reading the paper through. A lessee is supposed to have understood the significance and meaning of that to which he has put his signature. It is often exceedingly difficult to make people who are thus careless, and who sign without understanding, believe that they have not been tricked, but the error is their own, and the penalty, if penalty there be, is theirs.

Of course, where the right kind of an agent is employed a square deal is assured, but even when men of this class handling the business controversies and misunderstandings sometimes arise long after a deal is supposed to have been consummated and closed. In a great many cases, provisions of a lease that are afterwards complained of as burdensome or unsatisfactory to a tenant, if objected to before signing, might have been modified or changed so as to meet the ideas of the lessee. Controversies, however, can and do arise even where the utmost care is exercised, if there is not a thorough understanding by all parties.—National Real Estate Journal.

BUILDING MANAGEMENT AS AN ENGINEERING PROFESSION

A New Field of Employment For Mechanical Engineers —Nature of the Training and Experience Required

By R. W. MURRAY*

MANAGEMENT of buildings is becoming more and more to be recognized, not only by real estate agents, but by owners of improved property, as a branch of the engineering profession. At present it is in its infancy, but although some firms have recognized it and employ engineers, and others realize it but have not as yet put it into practice, the day is not far distant when every reputable firm, to meet competition, if for no other reason, will be forced to recognize it. Unfortunately, owners have not as yet fully realized this; but it is only a question of time when they will do so and demand that their agents employ a graduate engineer to look after their interests.

Economies Shown.

Mechanical engineering has been defined as the art of saving money, considered usually in relation to industrial plants. The same definition applies to all classes of buildings, especially office and loft buildings from ten to twenty stories high. The results that have been obtained by practically applying engineering principles to building operation have shown certain economies that have opened the eyes of both agents and owners. There are buildings today in New York City, and many of them, that have lately had such treatment and are now showing a profit where formerly they were operated at a loss. What an engineer accomplishes in the operating economies of a building is the same as the present day "efficiency engineers" are accomplishing in industrial plants. They save money.

There are entirely too many buildings today that are operated in a most unscientific and careless manner. The principal fault is the fact that those in charge of such operations do not have the necessary mechanical knowledge to apply to the building. Owners either do not give the time and attention necessary to this matter, or they consider the operation of buildings entirely out of their line and understanding, and oftentimes give the entire matter to some friend in the business, regardless of the friend's qualifications. Real estate today is entirely too much of a friendship business; but, fortunately for the sake of the buildings, it is becoming less so every year. This particularly applies to management.

Must Apply Scientific Principles.

The fact that the real estate market is at present in a depressed condition has brought the subject of management to the fore. Formerly owners were simply anxious to have their buildings filled with desirable tenants and paid but little attention to the operating expenses of the building. Today they are beginning to realize that by applying scientific principles to the operation of their buildings the saving that can be accomplished will more than equal many new leases. The question of contracts, repairs, labor charges, fuel, supplies, etc., is now gone into more thoroughly than ever before, and it is found that possibly a readjustment of the labor, the using of some other grade and quality of coal, or a more efficient purchasing department would save considerable expense. In some cases it is only a little here and a little there, but the sum total is considerable.

Naturally, if a building has its own power plant, the need of expert advice and the opportunity to show economies is greater than if it did not, and owners of such buildings usually realize this and get such advice and supervision. Those that do not will realize their mistake some day. No one, particularly engineers, will dispute this, and it is needless to go into the matter further. But it does not follow that because a building has not its own power plant the opportunities of showing economies in its operation are any less. In most cases, as a matter of fact, the opportunities are far greater. It is this class of building that is usually operated very carelessly.

To do justice to the profession, considerable experience is required. Before one enters the field, he should have a certain amount of building construction experience, covering particularly the installation of power plants, mechanical equipment, etc. If one went into construction work intending later to go into the building management field, and always bearing this fact in mind, he would find that in some of the most finely constructed buildings the general layout of not only the power plant but the arrangement of floor space, location of elevators, system of heating, wiring, etc., will mean a difficult situation from an operating standpoint.

Not Given a Fair Chance.

When such a condition exists, it is not only unfortunate from an owner's standpoint, but it does not give those in charge of the operation of the building a fair chance to show just what could have been accomplished if the conditions were different. In many cases the operating engineer of the building not only has to give his attention to the plant and possible economies there, but he has the operation of the entire building to look after, including all repairs, tenants' charges and the purchasing of all supplies. In exceptional cases he has to investigate tenants' complaints, follow up leads, make leases and make himself generally handy. So, taken all in all, it is a very many sided profession.

Many owners are now beginning to realize that it is money well spent to engage an engineer when the plans and specifications are first drawn, and to have him consult with the architect throughout the construction of the building. He is the man who has to operate the building, and from his experience he knows best just what should be done to meet the special conditions. "Good enough is best" may well be applied in the construction of buildings, and the one who knows just what is good enough is usually the engineer. Why should not a building operation be compared to the construction of an industrial plant? Certainly the capital involved is sufficient. Before the construction of an individual plant is begun the operating department must approve the plans and the choice of equipment. They have to operate the plant after construction and they know from experience just what is required to make the operation a success.

That owners realize the fact that the operation of the mechanical equipment is beyond them is shown by the employment, in many instances, of maintenance companies, which only look after the mechanical operation of the building, including labor. In many cases these owners also employ an agent who makes leases only, and they themselves look after all repairs and the collection of rents. This is at the best an unhealthy condition. It is a case of too many cooks. When more engineers enter the employ of real estate firms, this condition will be rectified, and owners will find that in many cases the cost to them will be no more than if the building was in the hands of some one agent who would take charge of the entire building —leases, repairs and operation. And he would have no tenants' complaints and repairs to bother him.

The foregoing deals in a most general way with the need and opportunity of technical men in the real estate management field. It is a profession—and a worthy one—where the possibilities are unusual, particularly since the profession is not overcrowded. But although it is a specialized profession, a broad knowledge of engineering principles is necessary. This knowledge, combined with the ability to hustle and plenty of common sense, are the requirements.

The principal opening is with real estate firms. The well organized real estate office, with specialists on procuring tenants, supplemented by an operating engineer in charge of the management, comprises an ideal combination from the viewpoint of the owner.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION.

Employers Ask Amendments to the Law—Nine Recommendations.

The Insurance Committee of the Manufacturers and Business Men's Association has submitted a report embodying amendments which, in the opinion of the committee, should be made in the Workmens' Compensation Law of the State. The following recommendations were adopted:

The percentage of wages to be paid injured employees should be reduced from 66 2-3 per cent. to 50 per cent. of the weekly wage, or if the 66 2-3 per cent. is to prevail, the weekly maximum benefit of $15 should be reduced to $10 a week.

Payment to injured employees in case of permanent disability, and to beneficiaries in case of death, should be limited to a given period of weeks or years.

Provide that all payments for compensation be made by the employee or his beneficiaries in case of death, subject, however, to the approval of the Workmen's Compensation Commission.

Provide for the separation of the management of the State Insurance Fund from the commission which administers the law and place the fund under the jurisdiction of the Superintendent of Insurance.

Provision should be made permitting the small employer of labor to come under the act, secure insurance by payment of premium, and be in the same position to get compensation as an injured workman or employee.

Provide that employees be released from all liability when they secure insurance in a stock or mutual company approved by the Superintendent of Insurance, as in the case of employers insuring in the State fund.

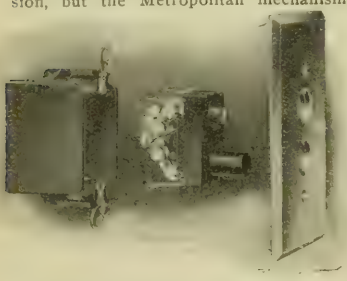
Provide that the law clearly state whether operations of the employer, both within and without the State, come under the act.

Provide that the law clearly state, in the case of partial permanent disability, such as the loss of an arm (where payment runs for 312 weeks at $20 per week), if the injured die from some other cause before the expiration of the period, whether the payment is to continue for the benefit of his estate.

Provide for the cessation of payment to a widow in the event of re-marriage.

About the Income Tax.

The Real Estate Board of New York has issued in pamphlet form "Practical Questions and Answers Covering the Income Tax Law" (revised edition). You will be likely to find here the answers to questions that have puzzled you. The pamphlet was prepared by Breed, Abbott & Morgan, counsel to the Broadway Trust Company.

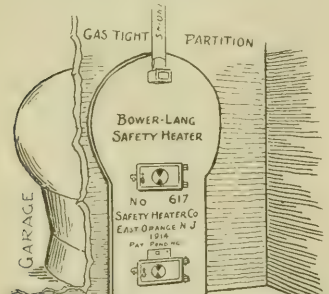


USEFUL APPLIANCES

Novelties, New Applications of Familiar Devices and the Trend of Invention, Designed to Aid the Architect, Builder and Building Manager, Described Without Regard to Advertising Consideration.

Detachable Mechanism Switches and Receptacles.

A CLEVER and highly useful device made by the Metropolitan Electric Manufacturing Company of Long Island City is shown below. The mechanism or moving parts are not inserted in the contact box until the plastering is thoroughly dry and until the painting or papering has been completed. This prevents the switch from being soaked with moisture usually containing acid from the plaster, which occurs in all new buildings and also avoids the daubing of the buttons by the painter or paperhanger. The contact box is universal. The switch mechanism may be removed and be replaced by a receptacle plug in a moment's time, requiring no connecting of wires as is the case with the old type.



Different appliances can be inserted so as to get a switch and plug, two plugs, etc. The mechanism in all types of switches always suffers from corrosion, but the Metropolitan mechanism not being installed until everything is thoroughly dry naturally escapes this deterioration and the full service is obtained. The company guarantees the switches and agrees to replace any, without charge, that do not come up to the guarantee. A very complete catalogue will be sent free on application.

Coal Fires in Garages.

BURNING coal fires in a stove in garages seems to be a most dangerous procedure, but the Safety Heater Company, of 124 Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, is manufacturing such a stove that is proof against explosive gases getting to the fire. It consists of a heater arranged in connection with a gas-tight wall or partition, and burns coal. The heater is so arranged that it stands in the room to be heated, thus heating such room by direct radiation from the heater itself, exactly as would a stove standing in the room, but—all outlets or openings through which gas might enter the heater are located on the other side of the gas-tight partition, thus absolutely excluding the gas from the interior of the heater and absolutely precluding all danger of explosion or consequent fire.

The accompanying sketches describe how this system of heating is operated. The first cut shows a general view of the heater with the gas-tight partition in connection therewith. This partition may be built of terra cotta or plaster blocks plastered over, or of brick or metal, as preferred. The heater is built to suit any form of partition. There are many ways of setting the heater. The second view is a section showing how the outside wall of the garage or a gas-tight partition excludes any gas in the garage from access to the flames of the heater.

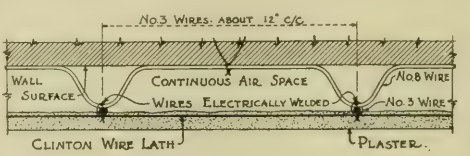
The manufacturers say that it can be installed complete for one-third the cost of a steam or hot-water plant and will consume much less fuel than either steam or hot water to obtain the same amount of heat because the radiation is direct from the heater. Heat can be easily kept up over night, and that, too, with very little fuel or attention. If neglected, no harm results, as there is nothing to freeze, burst or get out of order. It is easily installed by any mechanic and is made with extra strong and heavy castings and joints, specially constructed to be made gas tight. The grate is adapted to burn pea coal as well as larger sizes and is built to be used with any form of construction of building.

Safety Roller.

IN moving machinery fastened to skids workmen are required to step between and over the rollers, and often their feet are caught, because the ends of the rollers project. The need of exercising special care when standing near or in front of a moving roller is recognized by workmen, but a foot is often pinned down, with painful and sometimes serious results, says the American Gas Light Journal.

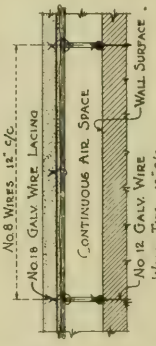
A simple means for preventing workmen having their feet caught by a roller is shown in the accompanying drawing. the guard rail, a, made of ⅝-inch stock, is fastened to arms, b, of steel ⅛-inch thick and about 6 inches long. In the upper end of the arms are short ⅝-inch plugs, c, that fit loosely in holes in the roller.



Wire Wall Furring.

A NEW device which offers a method of furring wall surfaces, which is said to have superior virtues, is being introduced in this market by Albert Oliver, 101 Park avenue, for the Clinton Wire Cloth Company, of Clinton, Mass. A horizontal and vertical view of this system are given in the accompanying illustration.

This furring consists of Clinton Electrically Welded Wire, the transverse wires of which are crimped so as to give the heavier longitudinal wires the required offset from the wall surface. These offset wires run vertically with the wall and serve as the furring ribs to which the lath is attached. The great advantage of this furring lies in the fact that it can be given practically any amount of offset with unobstructed air space, which is especially worthy of consideration, in case it is desired to run pipes or wiring in the space between the plaster and the wall.



When walls are furred vertically or horizontally with channels or angles, the air space behind the plaster is usually broken up or divided by these furring members in such a way that pipes or wires cannot be conveniently run except in definite vertical or horizontal lanes. In this furring, however, a free air space is obtained with no vertical or horizontal obstructions, thus permitting the free extension of pipes or wires in any direction throughout the air space.

Clin-Truss Wall Furring is not only efficient and economical as a furring material, but, owing to its light weight as compared with other types of wall furring, will effect also a marked saving in the columns, footing and other structural elements of a building.

The manufacturers say it has these exceptional virtues: Its direct contact with the exterior wall is reduced to a minimum; it insures damp-proof walls; it prevents uneven temperature of interiors, due to direct conduct from without; its weight after plastering is less than one-half the weight of 2-inch burned clay wall furring and plastering; it provides an ideal pipe and conduit space which permits the unobstructed extension of wires, ducts and pipes in any desired direction; it eliminates entirely the expense of cutting pipe chases; it is the cheapest in initial cost and more easily erected than other types of wall furring; it is ideal for exterior wall furring to support stucco work; it provides a perfect key for the mortar and insures against cracking and separation of the plastering from the background.

This furring has been used in an extension wall at Park avenue and 79th street and in the observatory building in Wesleyan University where it was used in the exterior walls.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

Unique Methods Employed in a Church Edifice—Stability and Massiveness Obtained at a Minimum of Cost

IN church buildings there seems to be the tendency in the present day to erect numerous small structures in place of a few large, handsome ones, as in past years. This tendency has created a large demand for small church edifices; churches seating from 250 to 700 persons, for which the congregations are unable to expend, as a rule, more than $25,000 to $50,000. Furthermore, the service of the modern church, excepting perhaps the Roman Catholic and Episcopalian, has of late years developed in such a way that what was formerly known as a church, a gloomy, cold and forbidding room with a "dim religious light," does not meet the requirements of the present age. The result is that the architect must design a church, with an auditorium and a completely equipped Sunday school room thrown in, for about $6 per square foot. This sounds unreasonable, but on analysis is it? Are architects willing, or able, to give the careful consideration and hard study necessary to accomplish this end for so small a fee as that received as compensation for designing and planning a $30,000 church? It would not be profitable were he to do but one church, but those who have specialized in this work are able to give the thought necessary to develop certain principles, which if followed would no doubt help to solve this problem.

[illegible] SIXTH AVENUE (BROOKLYN) M. E.

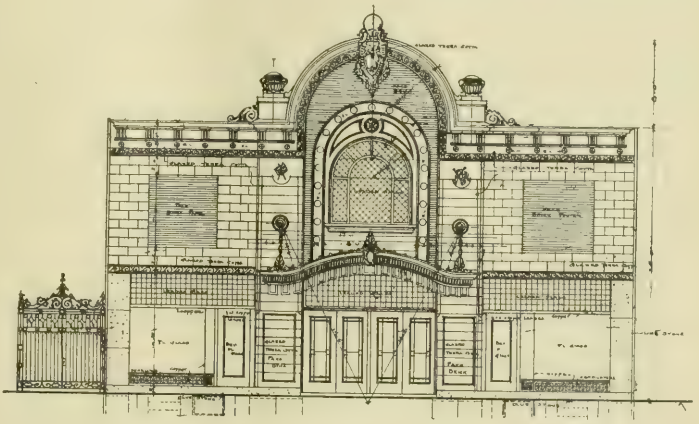
Floyd Y. Parsons, Architect

Floyd Y. Parsons, architect, 1133 Broadway, Manhattan, who has given much careful study to the design and plan of this type of church building, in his most recent plan has incorporated a number of ideas in construction, the details of which we illustrate herewith.

Mr. Parsons, in speaking of the possibility of designing a church within a limited appropriation, said:—"The first thing to be regarded is the matter of external appearance. The available appropriation, all too meagre, excludes the use of spires, pinnacles, elaborate carving, parapets, ornamental bands, etc., which are features dear to the heart of the architect, but very costly to build. The success of the external appearance must depend solely upon its mass for its virtue, its mass and its apparent solidity. The first of these sought-for results can best be reached by designing in perspective. If the building masses well the architect's problem is half solved.

"Above all things keep the mass simple and avoid that restless jumble, so common, that causes many churches to appear almost wooden. The second of these can only be reached by increasing the appearance of weight and this, in turn, can best be obtained by great (apparent) depth of what is called the reveal, i. e., the distance from the face of wall to the solid of door or window which it encloses.

"There are numerous ways of obtaining this appearance of weight due to depth of reveal. Remember, the architect is designing with a thin wall, twelve inches or thereabouts, in thickness. Note particularly the great apparent depth of reveal to the principal entrance door. This is obtained in a twelve-inch wall by building between the buttresses, involving only a nominal increase in cost. In execution, the result, compared with the usual flat entrance, is remarkably good, adding much to the apparent bulk of the building.



"The window reveals are treated in a similar manner, that is, making the reveal the entire thickness of the wall. This, of course, causes the window frame or tracery to project six or eight inches into the room, where it is apparently supported, as upon a pedestal, by a projection of the wainscot. This projection of wainscot would at first appear to decrease the available area of the room, but the projection, in turn, is recessed to receive the large radiators which are best placed here, and the final result is the same. This trick, if you choose to call it so, not only gives the desired depth of reveal without increase in cost or loss in interior space, but also improves the interior appearance by giving heavy, good looking frames to the windows and almost annulling the obtrusiveness of the radiators.

"Similar methods in planning allow a great apparent depth to the tower windows. Note the section of these, also accomplished without increase in cost of construction. There are a number of other methods for obtaining legitimate external effects without added cost, all as simple as these.

"That these abstract desiderata may be concretely obtained at low cost is shown by the facts surrounding the building of the Sixth Avenue M. E. Church. This church, which will be erected on the northeast corner of Sixth avenue and Eighth street, Brooklyn, occupying a plot some 50 by 100 feet in size and seating approximately 450 persons, with completely equipped Sunday school, class rooms and boys' rooms, study, toilets, etc., will cost, including all furnishings, organ, commissions, fees, etc., $30,000, which is at the rate of $6.50 a square foot, or a trifle more than $66 a seating."

Another Brooklyn "Movie."

Another moving picture theatre is projected for Brooklyn, having a seating capacity of about 600 people. The site to be improved is on the west side of Flatbush avenue, 36 feet south of Parkside avenue. The structure will be erected for the G. K. & Z. Amusement Company and Max Hirsch, of 391 Fulton street, Brooklyn, is the architect. The facade will be Moorish in design, the facade being of tapestry brick and terra cotta. Italian marble will be used in the lobby and the auditorium will be of decorative plastering. All improvements, for the safety and convenience of the patrons, will be installed.

Dinner to Building Firm.

To commemorate the sixtieth anniversary of their entry into the building business, the members of the firm of Marc Eidlitz & Son were tendered a complimentary dinner by the architects with and for whom they have erected buildings. The dinner, which was given at the University Club, Monday evening, February 15, was a spontaneous affair arranged by the architects as a mark of appreciation of the firm's integrity and well known interest in the cause of honest building. Subscriptions to the dinner were restricted to those architects, or firms, whose plans have been so faithfully interpreted by this firm of builders during the years past.

Donn Barber was the toastmaster of the evening. J. C. Cady, dean of the architects present, and one of the first patrons of the firm of Marc Eidlitz & Son, made an address, which included many reminiscences of the early history of the firm and memories of the late Marc Eidlitz. Owen Brainard, representing the firm of Carrere & Hastings, spoke at length upon the interest displayed by Otto M. Eidlitz in the cause of labor in all its branches and particularly his good work in connection with the building trades.

The guests of honor were Otto M. Eidlitz, Robert Eidlitz, A. C. Heaphy and P. Vermilye. Other invited guests included Louis F. Butler, Nicholas Biddle, E. G. Chadwick, Mr. Conklin, Frank Damrosch, H. P. Davison, Mr. Foster, Robert B. Hirsch, William H. Porter and Albert H. Swayne.

Architects who attended included Chester H. Aldrich, J. Lawrence Aspinwall, Grosvenor Atterbury, Louis Ayres, Donn Barber, Frederick S. Benedict, W. W. Bosworth, Owen Brainard, J. C. Cady, William A. Delano, I. E. Ditmars, Albert F. D'Oench, Burt L. Fenner, Julius Franke, L. Murray Franklin, Jr., J. H. Freedlander, Charles P. H. Gilbert, Leon N. Gillette, H. J. Hardenbergh, C. A. Jackson, Francis H. Kimball, Robert D. Kohn, Julian C. Levi, Andrew C. McKenzie, Charles A. Platt, William S. Post, Philip Sawyer, J. L. Schroeder, Egerton Swartwout, Evarts Tracy, F. A. Faye Tucker, J. Hollis Wells, John C. Westervelt, Albert Wilson and Edward P. York.

Addition to Lambs Club.

George Albree Freeman, architect, 311 Madison avenue, has prepared plans for a six-story addition to be Lambs Club, to be erected at 132-134 West 44th street on a plot 38.9x100.5 feet, adjoining the present building. The addition will be erected by Brown Bros., Inc., under a general contract and will cost more than $250,000. The new structure will provide for a new kitchen and servants' quarters in the basement, and ground floor will contain an enlarged office, ballroom, reception room and lounge. The second and third floors will contain a miniature theatre and upper floors used as living quarters. The financing of this project was made possible through the efforts of M. Morgenthau, Jr., Company. The Dime Savings Bank of Brooklyn will advance a loan of $300,000 to complete this project. This is one of the first large building and permanent loans made by any of the savings banks of the city since the war started.

Plans for Woolworth Residences.

Plans have been prepared by C. P. H. Gilbert, architect, 1123 Broadway, for two residences to be erected in the south side of East 80th street for Frank W. Woolworth. The houses will have a combined frontage of 60 feet. The plans for the house at 4 East 80th street provide for a building 35 feet wide, six and one-half stories in height. The facade will be of blue limestone, designed in the style of the French Gothic. The house at 6 East 80th street will have a frontage of 25 feet and will be six stories in height. Its facade will be of white marble of severe classic design. Both houses will be strictly fireproof and will have nothing but the most modern equipment.

Rouse & Goldstone Plan Brokaw Project.

Plans are being prepared by Rouse & Goldstone, architects, 40 West 33d street, for the eleven-story store and loft building recently announced and which is to be erected on the site of the old Hotel Saranac, on the west side of Broadway between 41st and 42d streets, and running through to Seventh avenue. The building, which will cost more than $500,000, will be built under a general contract awarded to A. L. Mordecai & Son, 30 East 42d street. The structure will have frontage of 92.1 feet on Broadway, 109 feet on Seventh avenue and is about 100 feet deep. The facades will be designed in the style of the Italian Renaissance, with limestone for the first three stories and brick and terra cotta above. Seven electric elevators will be installed and the structure will include only the most modern fire protective and preventative devices. Entrances will be provided to the subway from the building.

Plans Ready for Long Island Factory.

Walter Haefeli, architect, of No. 245 West 55th street, filed plans yesterday for the twelve-story factory loft building to be erected at Long Island City, fronting in the south side of 10th street, 140 feet east of Van Alst avenue, 175x192 feet in size, which comprises 25,000 square feet. The Everett Realty & Construction Company, with offices in the Candler Building, represents the manufacturing concern which will erect the building. The cost is placed at $500,000. See also issue of January 23, 1915.

New Bronx Market.

Samuel E. Jacobs, builder, 30 East 42d street, has started the construction of a modern market building at the southeast corner of 149th street and Courtland avenue, one of the busiest sections in the Bronx. The structure will be of brick and limestone, semi-fireproof and will cover a plot 87x100 feet. The plans were prepared by Max Heidelberg and E. Levy, architects, 12 West 31st street. The building will have provisions for one hundred stalls or separate shops and the market will be conducted exclusively for the sale of foodstuffs.

New Building for Y. W. C. A.

A new structure to cost about $300,000 is being planned by Louis E. Jallade, architect, 37 Liberty street, for the Young Women's Christian Association, 600 Lexington avenue. The new building will be located at the corner of Lenox avenue and 124th street, and will be seven stories in height on a plot 60x140 feet. The facades will be of brick and limestone and the structure will be strictly fireproof and thoroughly modern in every particular. It will be some time before the plans will be ready for estimates.

Proposed West 42d Street Loft.

Maynicke & Franke, architects, 25 East 26th street, are preparing plans for a high class loft building to be erected in West 42d street between Eighth and Ninth avenues. The structure will be owned by C. H. Darmstadt, and will be twenty-two stories in height on a plot 120x120 feet. The cost is estimated at about $1,500,000. Further particulars of this operation are not available at present and will be announced in a later issue.

E. Brooks & Co. Awarded Contract.

A general contract to erect a thirteen-story apartment house was recently awarded to E. Brooks & Co., 3 West 39th street. This building will be located at 409-13 Park avenue and 108 East 55th street, from plans and specifications prepared by Cross & Cross, architects, 10 East 47th street. The structure will have facades of brick with limestone trimmings and will cover a plot 60x100 feet. The Park Avenue and 55th Street Corporation (the Swan-Brown Co.), 340 Madison avenue, is the owner. The improvement will represent an expenditure of more than $400,000.

He is survived by his widow.

HARVEY WARD LEONARD, of Bronxville, N. Y., an electrical engineer and inventor of prominence, died suddenly while attending the dance of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Astor, Thursday evening, Feb. 18. Apoplexy is given as the cause of his sudden death. Mr. Leonard's life had been devoted to the study of electricity, and his work had formed a substantial part in the development of that force. When twenty-three years of age he became associated with Thomas A. Edison as a member of the latter's personal staff of four engineers selected to introduce the Edison central station system. One year earlier, in 1883, he was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. In 1889 he became general manager of the light and power departments of the combined Edison interests in the United States and Canada, with headquarters in New York. Two years later he resigned to establish his own manufacturing business at Bronxville as the Ward Leonard Electric Company. Mr. Leonard retired from active management of this plant ten years ago and since then has devoted all his time to his duties as a consulting engineer. Among Mr. Leonard's most noted inventions were his device for moving revolving turrets on a battleship and an electrical safety appliance for elevators in mines. The Ward Leonard system for moving turrets was adopted by the United States Navy after the Spanish-American War. He is survived by his widow.

Weeks and Ronald Taylor were elected trustees. Lewis Harding and William Crawford were elected representatives on Board of Examiners, Building Department.

NEW JERSEY ARCHITECTS.—At the February meeting of the New Jersey Chapter, A. I. A., Mr. Robert D. Kohn, of the New York Chapter, was present, and discussed the remarks made at the last institute convention referring to changes in the organization of the various institute chapters. The American Institute of Architects proposes very radical changes affecting the status of non-Institute members, and a plan was presented whereby all chapter members may eventually become Institute members. There is a strong feeling in Institute circles that something should be done very soon to bring chapter members into the Institute, and at the last convention certain amendments to the institute constitution will be considered, for the purpose of accomplishing this result.

AMERICAN GROUP OF THE SOCIÉTÉ DES ARCHITECTES DIPLOMÉS PAR LE GOUVERNMENT has planned a series of four conferences for the benefit of the families of the French architects at the front, to be held at the residence of Lloyd Warren, at 1041 5th av, on the 2d, 5th, 9th and 12th of March, at 11.30 A. M. The subject of the first conference will be upon "Le Drame Moderne," delivered by Eugene Brieux, the French academician and dramatist. Paul Chalfin will deliver the second lecture, the subject of which will be, "The Brenta Revisited." The third conference will be delivered by Ralph Adams Cram, of Boston, on "Mediæval Architecture of France in the Thirteenth Century." Pierre Gonin will address the society at the last lecture on a subject which will be announced later. The committee in charge of the four conferences is composed of: P. Burrall Hoffman, Jr., chairman; Archibald M. Brown, Duncan Candler, William Adams Delano, Joseph H. Freedlander, William M. Taylor, John W. Cross and Lloyd Warren.

RECENT INCORPORATIONS.

827 MELROSE AVENUE REALTY CO. has filed incorporation papers with a capitalization of $10,000, to do a realty and construction business, with offices in Manhattan. The diretcors are Jacob Holzman, 2 West 88th st; Daniel L. Korn, and Joseph Wetherbee, 1451 Broadway. Harry B. Raffel, 74 Broadway, attorney.

P. J. COSGROVE CUT STONE CO. has been chartered, with offices in Queens, to do a general quarrying and construction, deal in marble, granite, stone and building material business, with $10,000 capital stock. The directors are Patrick J. Cosgrove, 1123 Park av.; Thos. Coleman and John Coleman, both of 113 West 62d st. Kellogg & Rose, 115 Broadway, attorneys.

THE REALTY CORPORATION is the name of a $10,000 company, chartered with offices in Manhattan to do a realty and construction business. The directors are Clifton G. Marshall, 155 West 58th st.; Frederick T. Street, 56 Maiden Lane, and Martha E. Thompson, 265 West 36th st. U. S. Corporation, 34 Nassau st., attorney.

FRANKLIN PARK LAND AND CONSTRUCTION CO. has been chartered with $10,000 capital stock to do a realty and construction business with offices in Manhattan. The directors are Oscar H. Cacciola, 261 Broadway, Mary B. Caccia, 473 West 158th st, and Ezio Baccanelli, 577 2d av. Alessandro Caccia, 261 Broadway, attorney.

UTICA AVENUE REALTY CO. is a $320,000 corporation chartered with offices in Manhattan to do a realty, general building and contracting business. The directors are H. A. Fluckiger, 80 Perry st, J. L. Watts, 152 East 43d st, F. M. Van Wagonen, 30 Evergreen pl, East Orange, N. J., and four others. The attorneys are Griggs, Baldwin & Griggs, 27 Pine st.

CULLEN-CHAMBRE CONSTRUCTION CO., builders, contracting, engineering and other technical advice, etc., has been chartered with $50,000 capital stock with offices in Manhattan. The directors are Jas. H. Cullen, Jr., Ferdinand F. Chambre and Etta Maury, all of 1 Broadway. P. F. Lahm, 1 Broadway, attorney.

CATHEDRAL CONSTRUCTION CO. has been chartered with $15,000 capital stock to do a realty and construction business, with offices in Manhattan. The directors are Gerson B. Citron and Sarah Citron, both of 66 East 111th st, and Leo Schafran, 235 West 112th st. The attorney is L. Schafran, 51 Chambers st.

FIFTY-EIGHT PROPERTY, INC., is the name of a company chartered with $10,000 capital stock to do a realty and construction business with offices in Manhattan. The directors are Wm. A. Ellis, Jr., 116 Nassau st; Elizabeth B. Schilling, 19 West 32d st, and Edward Browning, 221 West 83d st. J. Brackett, 3 West 35th st, attorney.

BUILDING MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

COMMODITIES AWAIT LEAD OF STEEL IN GENERAL PRICE ADVANCE—SLATE POSTPONES INCREASE

Glass Unchanged—Jersey Fabricators Note Improvement in Inquiry

BUILDING materials are finding a steadier market throughout the metropolitan district. Prices, while strengthening, are still being shaded on sizeable contracts and time orders. Spot buying is closer to list than it has been since July 1, in all lines except lime, cement and metal ceiling. In those departments competition is forcing quotations to low levels, but mostly on cash or ten-day basis. Plate glass is without change, 90 and 30 per cent. being the prevailing discount.

Prices on this commodity, however, vary according to quality required. There are some low grades that are weak at list, but for the most part quotations are firm. Lumber is without change in prices as far as the general wholesale market is concerned, but the presence of a large quantity of spring orders is strengthening some lines, like spruce, pine and practically all the hardwoods. Supplementals are taking a higher rate, especially if they run into the late summer. Queens borough lumber companies are reporting an increasing demand.

Newark dealers are riding a normal quantity of lumber for this time of the year. Richmond is taking a liberal quantity of cement for highways and municipal construction.

New Jersey steel fabricators report an improvement in orders. Current business on hand is barely 25 per cent. of capacity. The American Sheet & Tin Plate Company has advanced prices of galvanized pipe ranging from 1 to 6 inches, $5 a ton making No. 28 3.25c. f. o. b. mill, Pittsburgh. Several of the independent pipe manufacturers have also advanced prices of galvanized pipe from $3 to $5 a ton to cover the additional cost of spelter used in galvanizing. Copper for flashing is duller and weaker. This is due largely to the break in exchange which has unsettled the plans of some of the copper producers who have been selling metal in Europe without specifying the basis of exchange. It reached this week an equivalent of 12¼ and 12⅜ f. o. b. New York.

Small pig iron sales developed in this district this week. A New Jersey founder was in the market for 400 tons. This was about the only conspicuous feature of the week, barely enough to indicate the state of the market. The New York Municipal railways will take bids on February 25 for third tracking of the Broadway elevated line in Brooklyn calling for about 7,000 tons of structural steel.

The linseed oil market is being watched closely by paint and varnish interests owing to the tightening of the market at Duluth. At present it is being quoted here at 55 and 56 cents a gallon in quantities. The general quotation in moderate lots here is 60 and 61 cents. Roofing and building slate interests decided not to advance prices at this time, preferring to maintain present levels and encourage new building operations.

The entire market seems to be awaiting the movement of steel. In the largest offices this week there was nothing expected in the way of an immediate advance although the February tonnage is showing a better movement than either December or January. It is generally believed that as soon as this commodity advances other lines will follow suit. No change is expected until the mill capacity reaches at least 65 per cent., which is ten points higher than the United States Steel Corporation is now operating. Common brick is without change and Portland cement was quoted at $1.32 for the best makes on general business. Spot business shades this level, however, but there is little of this kind of business moving, not anywhere near enough to make a market.

Builders may expect prices to continue low for some time. An official of the Building Material Exchange this week said he did not expect a change to occur in any important commodity for at least thirty days.

Plan filings for the five boroughs this week follow: In the corresponding week last year there were 165 plans filed with an estimated value of $1,584,270.

PORTLAND CEMENT.

WHAT is generally believed to be the final convulsion of one of the most bitter price wars the Portland cement manufacturers of the Lehigh Valley have ever indulged in developed this week when a sixty-five cent base went into effect. This means that cement is being sold here below cost, especially since the five per cent. additional freight rate is now operative.

Three years ago when the local association of manufacturers' agents was dissolved, cement was sold at the same level as it is being quoted to-day, but freight rates were not as high and the product could still be sold at a meagre profit. To-day, however, this building commodity costs 70 cents a barrel to put it on the cars at the mill.

Those on the inside realize that this is the retaliation of the larger companies against the cutting tactics of the smaller ones. Pending the incorporation and establishment of the 16 company combination the eastern factors in the deal are determined to force the cutting element to even lower levels, and since the new company will not be in shape to begin business before the first of May the building season doubtless will be well under way before an upward turn takes place.

There have been occasions when it has been expedient to force reluctant companies to enter combinations. Nothing of the sort is hinted at in the present price cutting policy of the cement trade supplying this market. One way to accomplish this purpose is to upset the market and compel the retirement of the competing interests or force them to sell at a loss. Price cutting companies usually are not the ones most desired in big undertakings, but they constitute a menace to stable, uniform and safe quotations and the quickest way to force them to their senses is to make the business they take at cut rates so voluminous and costly that they will have enough to take care of for some time, or until the market can be returned to a normal condition.

A consulting engineer of prominence is advising his clients to adhere closely to chemical analyses while the price situation is in the present acute stage and mill stocks are low.

LUMBER.

Over-Production Counteracted by Extra Heavy Spring Orders.

LUMBER, as a commodity, is undergoing rejuvenation both inward and outward. It is generally understood that there has been for the past year and a half an over-production of lumber at a gradually increased rate and the indications are, notwithstanding the ruinously low prices now obtaining, that this overproduction is still going on. A great deal has been said about the cost of producing lumber and it is quite generally realized that lumber is being sold for less than the cost of its production. Those who, for a time, had faith in curtailment now realize that no curtailment will be voluntarily made which will be thoroughgoing and comprehensive enough to bring about a speedy readjustment of supply and demand. An authority this week said:

"From 1905 to 1915 the general price level is a horizontal line while the cost of stumpage is ascending at a faster rate than during the previous decade and a half. Starting in 1890 with $1 per thousand stumpage we reach a cost of $2 in 1899; $4 in 1907; $5 in 1910; and as $5 seems to be about as high as yellow pine stumpage should go, it would look as if the operator had got to the end of his rope so far as hoping to add the carrying charges of his timber to his stumpage price—that is to say he has reached a point where he must earn from his operation sufficient profit from the manufacture of his lumber each year to pay the taxes, supervision and interest on his entire remaining supply of timber.

"Three months ago about eighty operators in Wisconsin and Upper Michigan resolved that lumber prices had reached their level from which further increase in the price would not bring about further increase in sales, and yet the cutting of prices has gone on because lumbermen did not get together enough in the matter of prices.

"Stocks on hand as compared with a year ago show 30 to 50 per cent. more lumber in the hands of manufacturers than last year. With the coming prosperity in our trade there should come an end to price cutting. I do not look for higher prices that bring about unhealthy expansion in overproduction like that in 1907 and 1913. Other building materials are on a horizontal or slowing descending price level. The horizontal price level is going to be the salvation of the lumber business. The diminishing supply of lumber is myth, but what we have to be concerned about is the diminishing demand for lumber."

COMMON BRICK.

Big Gain in Unloading—Hudsons at $6 Firmer—River Open.

WITH the Hudson river open as far north as Poughkeepsie and the demand improving in this market as shown by unloading figures as reported to the Record and Guide this week, there is a firmer tone to the $5 average price for good Hudson brick and the top at $6.25 shows signs of strengthening. More brick has been sold in this market since Jan. 1 than during the corresponding period last year; a significant fact, in view of the general impression, is that building materials have been in a sluggish market.

Official transactions for Hudson River brick covering the week ending Thursday, Feb. 18, in the wholesale market, with comparison for the corresponding period last year and a comparative statement of Hudson brick unloaded from barges for consumption here, follows:

BRICK GRAFTERS GUILTY.

Sentences To Be Imposed Next Week on Harbor Culprits.

DETERMINED to break up the grafting habits of certain barge captains that have been taking an illegitimate profit out of common brick from the Sayre & Fisher, and other brick yards supplying this market, William Walsen, of the North Hudson Supply Company, this week vigorously prosecuted the case against John Annilo, teamster, and John LeMoine, captain of the barge Athens, Matawan, N. J., and secured convictions, one for receiving stolen goods and the other for grand larceny.

Full details of this case were published in the Record and Guide of July 18. Since then the North Hudson Supply Company, working in conjunction with the Sayre & Fisher Company, have had detectives at work developing one of the most intricate cases of brick thievery that has ever been unraveled in this market. The volume of evidence that has been accumulated in the investigation leading up to the conviction of the two Hudson county men is of such a character that other prosecutions are likely to follow.

REAL ESTATE RECORD AND BUILDERS GUIDE.

HARBOR IMPROVEMENTS TO HELP REALTY

The Pending River and Harbor Bill Carries Provisions that, by Widening the Channel, Will Enhance East Side Property Values

NOTHING has been more intimately associated with the healthy development of real estate in the city than the improvements of New York harbor. The industrial and commercial supremacy of the city has been founded upon the peculiar and advantageous location of New York as a trade medium between foreign ports and the entire country. The early development of the city was due primarily to shipping, but of recent years, through a lack of knowledge rather than other reasons, real estate interests have overlooked the importance of proper harbor development.

At the present time the Rivers and Harbors Bill is before Congress for consideration, and the Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests feels that the various associations throughout the city should impress on their Congressmen the importance of having the appropriation for New York harbor increased, and simultaneously requesting that an amendment to the bill to be made so as to secure an increase in the width of the forty-foot channel within the boundaries of the port of New York, with a view also to securing a depth of thirty feet above the boundaries of the port.

Justice Requires It.

Today, through the Customs House and the various federal taxes levied upon its citizens, the city of New York contributes a large annual sum to the national government. In return for the financial benefit accruing to the government, it is but reasonable to expect that instead of developing practically unknown ports throughout the country and rivers scarcely navigable, Congress should contribute to a deepening of both the East and North rivers. Much can be accomplished if the various real estate associations would only display more energy to get things for their community as has been done by many of the small cities and coast towns throughout the country.

Why East Side Real Estate Falters.

A careful examination of the maps of the War Department would show that real estate has depreciated in value along those sections of the river front where the bed has not been deepened for a number of years. In fact, extending along the greater part of the Manhattan side of the East River there are no facilities for accommodating large-draft vessels, simply because the water is less than thirty feet in depth. Extending from Grand street to 33rd street there is a long reef where the rocks are no lower from the water level than sixteen feet.

Along the shore of this extensive reef there is an area of land with many houses that still bear visible evidences of a once prosperous and busy business locality, whose usefulness, however, passed along with the decadence of the sailing craft, and now the houses are chiefly decrepit tenements and junk storages, the business formerly there having gone to congest already crowded areas. With an appropriation of a few million dollars it would be possible for many of the large trans-Atlantic steamers to have their wharves here. Today a vessel drawing more than twenty-five feet cannot navigate successfully in these waters, while it is necessary for many of the vessels to utilize the narrow channel in the center of the river, in order to reach their terminals in lower Queens.

The shifting of commercial houses from the East to the North River and over to New Jersey is due entirely to the insufficient appropriation by Congress to our harbor development. In fact, unless the channels already existing are deepened, further commercial progress will be seriously handicapped. There would be no additional expense to the city or the taxpayers, because this appropriation is rightfully due to the city by Congress, in return for the taxes that go from the city into the national treasury. The Harbor Committee of the Advisory Council, consisting of Messrs. Thomas M. Mulry, Cyrus C. Miller, Alfred E. Marling, Willard V. King and Frederick B. Pratt, would be glad to arrange for a conference with any association particularly interested in this subject.

WEST SIDE WATERFRONT IMPROVEMENTS IN PROGRESS.

Another matter which the Advisory Council considers of vital importance at this time, which all associations should carefully watch, is the question of the abandoned canal lands up-State. When the new barge canals are placed in operation a large part of the land now used by the Erie Canal will be abandoned. This canal passes through very valuable sites in Buffalo, Syracuse and Rochester, and many of the small up-State cities. These canal lands are of considerable value, and the Council feels there should either be a constitutional amendment or adequate legislation providing that, as they are abandoned, they should be completely appraised and a law enacted prohibiting their sale at less than such appraised values.

It has been estimated that these lands are worth anywhere from between ten to two hundred million dollars, and New York City's share would be large.

BROOKLYN NEEDS THREE-FAMILY HOUSES

But the Departmental Requirements Are Not Adapted to Narrow Lots—A Statement of Costs—The Board of Brokers Issues a Report

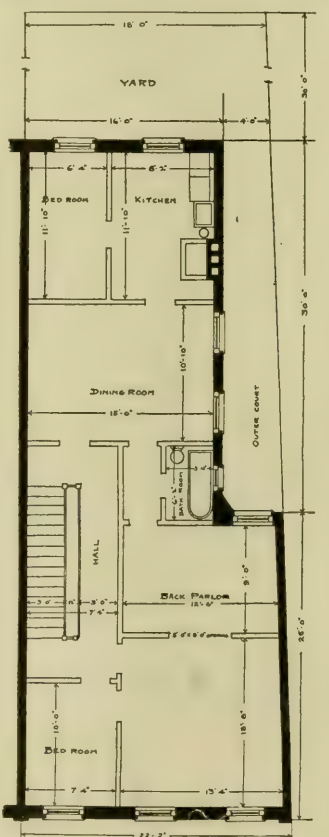
CONFERENCES are being held under the auspices of the Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests with a view to solving the three-family house question by harmonizing the aims of conflicting interests and obtaining remedial legislation. Representatives of the Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers and the Brooklyn builders' association, Superintendents of Buildings and others have met with the committee of the Advisory Council consisting of Messrs. Bailey, Blum, Veiller, Pratt, Calder and Miller, and have discussed the advisability of taking the three-family house out of the Tenement Law altogether, and modifications of that proposition. The committee is now holding executive sessions and will soon make a report.

Difference in Cost.

A report to the committee of the Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers, from Walter B. Wills, a Brooklyn architect, shows that the difference in cost of constructing a three-story three-family brick house under the Tenement Law and a house of the same design and plan under the Building Code would be made up of the following items:

Fire-escapes.	$110.00
Fire passage (material, labor, studs, plaster-boards).	60.00
Cellar steps (extra steps and risers).	10.00
Cellar steps (extra bulkhead in first floor)	30.00
Cellar stairs (inside 8" inclosure of brick)	30.00
Cellar doors (fireproof top and bottom).	25.00
Eight fireproof doors, jambs, and trim in public hall, 1st, 2d and 3d floors.	100.00
Deafening public halls and vestibule.	60.00
Bulkhead leading to roof of studs, sheathing, metal, also roof on same.	55.00
Fireproof door in same.	12.50
Skylight on roof (extra size).	3.00
Dumbwaiter shaft of 3" fireproof blocks.	50.00
Fireproof doors to same no additional cost.
Entrance and stairhall partitions, both sides covered with ½" plaster boards, also ceilings.	50.00
Brick filling between beams in hall partitions.	10.00
Additional 4" on stairs, including rail, etc., 2' 8" to 3'	20.00
Tiling of bathrooms, also slate or marble base.	50.00
Total.	$675.50

Architect Wills further says:



"Under the present tenement laws it is impossible to obtain a layout in a building 20x55 feet, the reason being that a bathroom must receive light and ventilation from a window opening directly on to a yard, court or street. This being required, the minimum dimensions of a building would be 20x60 feet, and below are given the items for the additional 5 feet with costs:

Additional cost of 4" brick added to the side foundation walls and side walls of superstructure, 110 run ft. x 42 ft. high, this being required under Building Code on account of the side walls exceeding 55' in depth.	$510
Additional cost of 12" brick wall 10' x 35' and 16" foundation 10' x 8'.	185
Extra 1-beam under the first floor and also one extra fireproof column.	7
Excavating, 5' x 20' x 8'.	45
Cellar cementing.	12
Timber, labor, nails, etc., complete 5' x 20'	60
Furring extra walls 5" x 10" three floors.	20
Extra studding for partitions dividing dining-room from kitchen, 5" x 10", three floors.	12
Extra base, floor moulding, picture moulds.	5
Metal roofing, 5' x 20'.	8
Lathing, plastering, labor.	75
Painting.	20

"The additional 5 feet in depth requiring 12-inch walls with all the additional expenses, as per this sheet, is not required in the old layout, as good-sized rooms are obtained on the older layout with smaller courts. The principal item is, of course, the one representing the difference in cost between 8-inch walls and 12-inch walls."

The Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers has approved of a report of its Tenement House Committee (A. J. Waldron, chairman,) which states that the members of the committee have worked one year with the tenement house officials and tenement house committee of the Bureau of Charities, trying to get rid of unnecessary requirements of the present tenement house law, as to three-family houses. They conceded practically nothing. The report further says:

"Old residences in the older sections of our city that do not pay to rent as single-family houses are suited for three families.

FLOOR PLAN OF A THREE-FAMILY HOUSE.
Approved by the T. H. Dept., but requires a 22.5 ft. lot. Brooklyn lots are only 20 ft. wide.

"But the requirements for large courts, bulkhead to roof, etc., together with the building code law, restricting 8-inch walls to 55 feet in depth, make t'ie cost prohibitive, layout of rooms small and impractical.

"The question to be answered now is, 'Shall we have a city of twenty to thirty-family tenements or shall we be allowed to use our old houses and build three-family buildings that are safe, sanitary and have good light and air, but are not prohibitive in cost and tied down by unnecessary tenement house regulations and requirements?'

"Owners of property all over the city are disgusted and discouraged at the many aggravating and often trivial annoyances and requirements of the Tenement House Department, which are undoubtedly unneccessary for a three-family house. Every real estate broker and private owners all over the city have heard prospective purchasers say, 'I will not buy a tenement house and submit to the annoyances of the Tenement House Department.'

"This is driving the individual ownership of real estate out of the market.

Plan New Three-Family Houses.

"We claim our plan for the new three-family house, that every apartment shall run through from street to yard, only one apartment on a floor, only three apartments in a building, only bedrooms and baths on courts, all living-rooms to be either front on the street or rear on the yard, to be superior in every way to the present twenty or thirty-family tenement.

"It is better that only three families pass in and out of a common hallway where, in most every case, you know the tenants in the house, or having twenty families pass in and out of a common hallway, where you do not know the families and it is impossible to restrict to the same class tenants in the careful way you would for only three families?

"In this so-called modern tenement, the law allows and the builders are building twenty to thirty-family apartment houses; some of these apartments having all of their rooms on an interior or exterior court, with no rooms either to the front on the street or rear on the yard. Does such an apartment compare with an apartment in the three-family house above described?

"We only want, in each of these three classes of properties, the right to use the old buildings, so as to get fair returns, and in the new buildings, to be able to build and rent without unnecessary requirements and regulations.

"We want and need to maintain the value of our old buildings in the older built-up sections of our city, and we want to build new three-family houses in the suburban sections of our city for our middle class people, and not drive the ownership of our real estate into the hands of large owners and real estate corporations.

"We firmly believe that in most parts of our city the three-family house is far preferable to the city at large, than the large tenements.

"The Tenement House officials and charity organizations of our city say we should only consider the value of our old houses as "so much old material on the property on top of the land value." Average value for second-hand material is $100, while the assessors assess us from $2,000 to $6,000 for these old houses, and the city makes us pay high taxes on the assessors value, not the Tenement House Department's value, and the Tenement House Department officials and charity organizations keep us from using our property so we can pay the taxes on the assessors' valuations. Is this fair?

"We should be allowed to use our old properties for three families or only have to pay taxes on the land value. We believe the law of our State supreme, but we do not believe the State has a right, however, to keep on the statute books a law which confiscates any property which we bought in good faith, in many cases, before the law was enacted.

"This is confiscation without compensation, and is a just cause for rebellion of the property owners of New York City against this law in relation to our old properties, unless we can change the law so we can use them for three families."

BUILDING APARTMENTS IN FLATBUSH

Removal of Restrictions Opens New Field for Multi-Family House Construction—Demand for Suites Exceeds Supply

FOR years property on Ocean avenue in Brooklyn, between Prospect Park and Foster avenue, was so restricted that it permitted only the erection of high-class private dwellings. These restrictions were entailed by individual owners and were for various terms of years. As a consequence the thoroughfare developed rapidly and soon became the heart of one of the most attractive parts of the Flatbush section, and, on account of its many handsome homes, was known as one of the borough's show streets.

During the last five years the majority of these old restrictions have expired, and speculative builders and investors were quick to realize the opportunities afforded to erect high-class apartment houses on available sites. A number of these have been built and they have been so uniformly successful that many others are projected for the coming spring.

Ocean avenue apartments have attracted a desirable class of tenants. The rents obtained for apartments is comparatively high, but, when all things are considered, the prices asked are not exorbitant, especially in view of the fact that the neighborhood is unexcelled, and has numerous natural advantages. The apartments are carefully planned and built by masters of the craft, and managed by experienced superintendents. In point of service rendered, they compare favorably with the best type of multi-family dwellings in Manhattan. Rentals in these buildings range from $10 to $15 a room, with $12 as the average price paid. On the transverse streets, rentals in apartments are somewhat lower and will average about $10 per room.

With the exception of Buckingham Court, at the corner of Beverly road and Ocean avenue, which is an elevator apartment, these buildings are almost without exception four-stories in height and are generally planned with front and rear apartments. The rear apartments are not objectionable in the least, however, as they, with few exceptions, have for an outlook the extensive gardens of private dwellings abutting.

Apartment house construction along this thoroughfare has had a beneficial effect on property values which has extended to adjacent streets. According to prominent real estate men, who have had a long experience in this section of Brooklyn, values have increased at least 200 per cent. during the last five years. Lots which five years ago were sold at $3,000 now are held at from $8,000 to $10,000 each. While the character of the thoroughfare has changed on account of the recent development, its prestige and popularity have not suffered. Ocean avenue is still and probably always will be the main artery of Flatbush for pedestrians and motorists.

Many features of these apartments make them different from those in Manhattan and other sections of Brooklyn, and it is largely due to this condition that their successes as investments can be attributed. Possibly the most distinctive feature of these structures is the large interior court, which is found in a number of the buildings. As a general rule these courts provide the main entrance to the building. Many of them have been designed in a formal fashion somewhat along the lines of an English garden with fountains, statuary, potted shrubs and evergreens. These courts are lighted at night and present an artistic and effective appearance. Another distinctive feature of these apartments, different from those in other localities, is that they are invariably set back from the building line from 14 to 20 feet. This of course detracts from the depth of the building, but provides ample space for ornamental planting.

Owners of the apartments have but little difficulty in obtaining tenants for these buildings, and in some instances there are waiting lists. For example, "Cathedral Arms," a forty-family apartment on Ocean avenue, near Church avenue, was completed by Wolfinger & Lasberg, owners and builders, about November 1, 1914, and by January 1, 1915, every apartment was rented and occupied. The owners have had plans prepared with the view of erecting two other buildings in the vicinity similar in plan to the first one.

IMPORTANT LEGISLATION COMING OUT

A Measure of Home Rule for New York—Adding to Powers of State Labor Department—To License Steam Fitters—Amendments to the Tax Law

A HEARING was held at Albany on Monday on Senate bill No. 136; Assembly bill No. 207, entitled "An act to amend the Tax law, establishing the State Tax Department, defining its powers and duties, and transferring thereto certain powers of the Comptroller." A brief was submitted by the Real Estate Association of the State of New York suggesting amendments.

To conciliate up-State interests, which were hostile, Republican lawmakers have decided to strike out of the tax bill, as favored by the Governor, the clause which gave power to a new commission arbitrarily to revise assessments on real estate in any county. A new paragraph provides that the commission may change or cancel assessments only by permission of a court. This, it is expected, will enable the majority to pass the bill.

Changes in the secured debt tax law which would mean millions of dollars additional revenue to the State on bonds are proposed in a bill introduced by Senator Boylan. The measure would exempt such holdings from taxation for one year on the payment of a tax of one and one-half of one per cent., and after that time tax them as personal property.

A bill making it criminal neglect not to disclose in writing in a contract of sale or deed of sale of real property any mortgage or lien of which the grantor shall have knowledge has been approved by the Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests.

The council has recommended that the bill to amend Section 948 of the Charter be opposed until properly amended. This bill provides that privately laid pavements may be classified according to their character as permanent and temporary pavements and may be accepted by the city according to their class.

With regard to the proposed repeal of Sections 242, A and B, of the Charter, under which the Commission to District the City is now sitting, the council feels that a question of policy is involved in these bills and that for the time being this should receive the serious consideration of all property owners. A hearing will be held on these bills next Wednesday.

The following new measures have been introduced:

Assembly Bills.

A. 831 (Stoddard).—Amending the Greater New York charter (section 56) by giving concurrent jurisdiction to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and the Board of Aldermen to fix and regulate the salaries of all city officers and employees.

A. 836 (Ahern, by Request).—Amending the Tax Law (section 188) by providing for an annual tax equal to three per cent. of its gross earnings on trust companies insuring titles to real property or guaranteeing mortgages on real property. The tax is to be one per cent. on its capital, surplus and undivided profits, in case the gross earnings of the company shall exceed one per cent. of such capital, surplus and undivided profits.

A. 842 (Evans).—Amending the Workmen's Compensation Law generally. Every employer subject to the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Law, at the election of the employe, must deduct from the weekly wages of such employe a pro rata share of the cost of securing compensation, based upon the weekly pay-roll. The rate of insurance paid by employers and deducted from the weekly wages of employees is placed under the supervision of the compensation commission, who may make such orders as justice requires. An employe may have the option of bearing the cost of securing compensation, instead of having compensation paid by his employer. The employe must file a written notice of his election to exercise such option. Where the employe does not exercise his option, the failure of the employer to secure payment of compensation shall have the effect of depriving the employer of the defense of contributory negligence, or that the employe assumed the risk of the employment, or that the injury was caused by the negligence of a fellow servant. It is made larceny for an employer deducting the pro rata cost of compensation from the weekly wages of an employe, not to use such money strictly for the purpose intended.

A. 851 (Gillen).—Empowering the Board of Assessors of New York City to hear and determine claims for damages for change of grade in the construction of the Manhattan Bridge or approaches on Canal street, Chrystie street and Forsyth street, in the Borough of Manhattan, and Flatbush avenue extension, Bridge street, Concord street, Chapel street, Duffield street, Johnston street, Gold street and Prince street.

A. 852 (Green).—Inserting in the Greater New York Charter a new section (1019-b) empowering the Board of Estimate to modify or reduce, or grant other relief, in case of an assessment for public improvement confirmed after January 1, 1908, where the assessment is excessive, or the combined assessments in any two consecutive years exceeds 60 per cent. of the assessed value.

A. 868 (Keeney).—Inserting in the Real Property Law a new section (276) providing that where an action has been brought to enforce the specific performance of a contract in relation to real estate, and the party against whom a judgment is rendered does not comply within the time appointed, the court, upon its own order shall make, execute and deliver the convevance, release or acquittance directed by such judgment.

A. 879 (Evans).—Inserting in the General City Law a new article (4-b) providing for examining boards of steamfitters and general power pipe-fitters in cities. It is unlawful to conduct the business of steam-fitting and general power pipe-fitting unless a certificate of competency has been secured. Provision is made for the registration of steam-fitters and general power pipefitters at the office of the Superintendent of Buildings in the city in which their business is conducted.

West Side Improvements.

A. 930 (Cotter). Providing that the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Company shall, within four months after this act takes effect, prepare and submit to the public service commission of the first district plans, specifications and profiles which shall provide for a tunnel through which shall pass all of its lines of track extending along the westbound of Riverside Park from Spuyten Duyvil creek southward to 72d street, in the borough of Manhattan, New York city; or which shall provide a covering over such tracks; or which shall provide a system of installing necessary conduits, wires, apparatus and equipment for operating trains by electricity. The board of estimate and apportionment of New York City may approve such plans, as approved by the public service commission or may amend them and approve them as amended.

Senate Bills.

S. 630 (Boylan).—Amending the Tax Law (sections 69, 70, 71, 81 and 94) by requiring tax collector to mail tax bills to every taxpayer of record on the assessment roll. The manner in which the property is to be described on the tax bill is given in detail. As soon as such bills are ready for mailing, the collector must publish in a newspaper, to be designated by the town board, and must post in five conspicuous places in the tax district, a notice that he has received the tax rolls and is ready to receive payment of taxes. No penalty shall attach to taxes paid within thirty days from the date of first publication of such notice. Taxes unpaid after thirty days are subject to a penalty of five per cent. To Taxation and Retrenchment Committee.

S. 651 (Hewitt).—Amending the Highway Law (sub-division 6 of section 282 and section 284) by regulating the fees for the registration of motor vehicles as follows: Ten dollars for a motor vehicle, not electric, having a rating of 25-h.p. or less; $20 for a motor vehicle, not electric, having a rating of more than 25-h.p. and less than 4-h.p.; $30 for a motor vehicle, not electric, having a rating of 40 or more horsepower and less than 50-h.p.; $50 for a motor vehicle, not electric, having a rating of 50-h.p. or more. Fees are also specified for the registration of electric vehicles.

S. 698 (Spring). Amending the Tax Law (Subdiv. 7 of Section 4), by changing the total exemption of the real property of religious, charitable, educational, literary, scientific, library and cemetery corporations, to an exemption from taxation to the amount of $100,000. To Taxation Committee.

New Duties for Labor Commissioner.

S. 723 (Spring). Amending the Labor Law (Sections 83-a, 83-b, 83-c, and new sections 79-g and 91), by providing that the Commissioner of Labor shall enforce all the provisions of the Labor Law relating to the prevention of and protection against fire, and all rules and regulations of the Industrial Board. In the case of fire drills, the Fire Commissioner of New York city shall have jurisdiction in New York city. In all other parts of the state the Commissioner of Labor may supervise such fire drills. Automatic sprinkler systems installed in factories hereafter constructed are to be approved by the Fire Commissioner in New York City and elsewhere by the Commissioner of Labor. The Commissioner of Labor is given jurisdiction over the inspection of all boilers, except in cities where boilers are regularly inspected by competent inspectors acting under the authority of local laws or ordinances. To Labor and Ind. Com.

S. 725 (Spring). Inserting in the Labor Law a new article (15-a), regulating the keeping and storage of explosives. The quantity of explosives that may be lawfully stored in any factory building or magazine shall depend upon the distance that such factory building or magazine is situated from buildings, railways or highways, and the protection afforded by artificial barricades. A quantity and distance table is included in the bill. Provision is made for the storage of explosives in tight metal, wooden or fibre containers, which shall be plainly marked with the name of the explosive. Construction of magazines is regulated according to the amount of explosives to be stored. There are other provisions regarding the transportation of explosives and their sale within the state. To Labor and Industries Committee.

EXPEDITION TO THE STATE CAPITAL

Being Organized by Realty Conference Committee to Protest to the Legislature Against the Over Regulation of Buildings.

A LARGE delegation from all boroughs of the city will appear at Albany on Wednesday next to discuss the Lockwood-Ellenbogen bill for simplifying building inspection. A hearing on this bill will be given by the Joint Committee on Affairs of Cities, in the Senate Chamber at two o'clock. Trains carrying the delegates will leave Grand Central at 8:25 a. m. on Wednesday and arrive in Albany in time to allow for luncheon before the hearing takes place. Those who have not already made reservations through the Conference Committee at 115 Broadway, Room 215, are asked to do so at once.

Probably few measures have created such enthusiasm among real estate owners, architects, builders and others who come in contact with the numerous city departments as the Lockwood-Ellenbogen measure, which provides not only for making inspections simpler, but promises also a reasonable amount of economy. "The measure has been carefully amended so as to remove every reasonable objection that could be made to it, and it is now believed to be in such form as will warrant general endorsement," the committee says.

The measure, if enacted, will make it possible for architects and builders to file one set of plans for the construction and alteration of a building instead of being compelled to file, as is now necessary, seven sets of plans with different departments and then await their convenience for approval. It places jurisdiction over construction, alteration and structural changes in the Building Bureaus of the several boroughs, but does not interfere with the "housekeeping" powers of the Tenement House and the Labor Departments; that is to say, these departments still continue to have jurisdiction over maintenance and housekeeping in buildings under their control.

The changes contemplated are to be made gradually between May 1 and September 1, so as to avoid confusion.

The bill provides for a Board of Standards composed of the Building Superintendents of the several Boroughs who shall make rules and regulations covering building matters. These rules and regulations again are to be subject to the approval of the Board of Examiners composed of experts in various building trades.

In support of its argument for the passage of the measure the executive committee of the Conference Commitee of Real Estate and Allied Organizations, through whom the bill was introduced, points to the fact that the present chaotic conditions governing building inspection is not only expensive, cumbersome and annoying, but is seriously hurting values in New York City. As emphasizing this fact it cites the following in the way of multiplicity of inspections:

Factory buildings are inspected by the following departments: Fire, Health, Police, Tenement House, Building Bureau, Labor and Water Supply and Gas and Electricity.

Tenement houses, by Police, Fire, Tenement House, Building Bureau, Health, Water Supply and Gas and Electricity departments.

Tenement houses, with stores or factories, by Police, Tenement House, Fire, Health, Labor, Building Bureau, and Water Supply and Gas and Electricity departments.

Hotels and office buildings, by Police, Fire, Labor, Building Bureau, and Water Supply and Gas and Electricity departments.

Theatres and motion picture houses, by Police, Fire, Building Bureau, License Bureau, Water Supply and Gas and Electricity departments.

Churches and semi-public buildings are inspected by the Police and Fire departments, the Building Bureau, License Bureau and the Department of Water Supply and Gas and Electricity.

Private dwellings are inspected by the Building Bureau and the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity.

Garages, by Police, Fire, Building and Water Supply, Gas and Electricity departments.

The Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests is also urging upon all property owners and real estate associations the necessity of attending the public hearing on the building bureau bill before the joint committee on affairs of cities at Albany, on Wednesday, March 3. The council says the agitation on the part of the real estate interests of the city to solve the perplexing problems of over-inspection has ultimately culminated in a sincere attempt on the part of real estate and allied organizations to propose legislation that, if enacted into law, should accomplish the desired reform and alleviate the repeated annoyance to which all property owners are now subjected.

"The time is now auspicious for everyone interested in this subject to unite with the delegation that will go to Albany on Wednesday. The present Legislature is sympathetic with the just conservation of property. Its members are less sensitive to the socialistic appeals of reformers than has been evident in past years. Consequently, it behooves all taxpayers' organizations, large or small, to become identified with this organized movement, which, on Wednesday, will endeavor to visualize by personal representation and statement the righteous cause for complaint against over-speculation that, in many instances, well nigh approaches confiscation of property values."

THE WORK OF THE "UNITED."

Defending Property Interests at Albany, City Hall and In the Departments.

The past week has been one of great activity for the United Real Estate Owners' Association. The legislative mill is working at full speed and any one who watches closely the process of expressing the vox populi as vox dei, cannot but be reminded of Governor Hill's saying: "Laws are like sausages; the less one knows how they are made, the more respect one has for them."

The halting of the Mills' bill, to create a fifth deputy police commissioner; and of the Lockwood bill, permitting contracts for disposal of city refuse to be made without public advertisement and competition, were largely due to the efforts of President Stewart Browne, of the "United," on the floor of the Senate.

On the same day, the Board of Aldermen voted down an ordinance which would have resulted in speculators on the outskirts of the city having their sidewalks renewed at municipal expense. A vigorous letter from Mr. Browne to the individual members of the board doubtless contributed much to this result.

Anxiety is still felt, however, among the representatives of property owners as to the results of the efforts which many delegations of local real estate associations, affiliated with the "United," are making to-day to help the passage of the bill, securing justice to the city against the exorbitant appraisals of the country tax districts through which the city's water conduits pass. The Mothers' Pension bill is being strongly opposed by the United.

The influence of the association has also made itself felt in the city departments, by securing the reduction of unjust appraisements for purposes of taxation, the suspension of unjust regulations, etc. Among the latter may be mentioned the arbitrary rule that no pool-table or bowling-alley should be operated in a room below the level of the street. This has been modified so as to apply only to disreputable places.

In the reduction of tax appraisals, the "United" has been very successful. The remarkable discovery was made while the Hoffman rule was applied to the depth of lots greater or less than one hundred feet, no rule, such as the Davies rule, was applied to lots of a greater or less width than twenty-five feet. The consequence is, of course, that it is impossible to claim any scientific accuracy for the appraisements, a situation which calls for, and will doubtless receive, careful attention from property owners' organizations so soon as the work of watching the Legislature shall be over.

President Browne says: "Property owners can feel sure that their rights are being defended in Albany, at the City Hall, and in the departments, as never before, and that the idea that the New York City property owner will stand for any imposition of taxes, is rapidly becoming a thing of the past."

The following associate members have recently been elected in the "United": Franklin Pettit, Schulte Realty Company, Col. Jacob Ruppert, Jr., Ottinger & Bro., Elias Kempner, Louis Reichardt.

Tax Conference.

Delegates from the Real Estate Board, the Allied Real Estate Interests, the Chamber of Commerce, Merchants' Association and the Bureau of Municipal Research are holding conferences to consider various plans for lightening the tax burden on real estate. They will present their findings to one or two big meetings and try to get the opinion of the general public in regard to the situation.

Secretary Robert S. Binkerd of the City Club is secretary of the conference.

While the total assessed valuation of real estate on the tax rolls last year was $8,049,359,100, all of the personal property that the tax department could find was $340,000,000, and of this over $140,000,000 belonged to corporations.

In all there is $1,873,895,000 of realty exempted on the tax assessments rolls. Of this, $381,230,000 is held by private or semi-public institutions. The aggregate of their holdings increases each year. In 1911 it was $356,392,000. It is said that $80,000,000 would cover all of the exemptions that such owners could claim with reason on the grounds of public service.

The list includes realty assessed at $188,921,000 held by churches, synagogues, monasteries, convents, mission and parish houses, seminaries and cemeteries on church plots; $33,195,000 by asylums and homes; $34,947,000 by hospitals, infirmaries and dispensaries; $36,053,000 by Christian, social, moral, mental, benevolent associations, societies, nurseries, settlement and lodging houses and the Salvation Army; $45,604,000 by colleges, schools and academies of a private character; $28,000,000 by cemeteries; $3,833,000 by libraries.

Burdened to the Limit.

Mayor Mitchel in a speech advocated abolition of recreation centres and cutting the appropriation for the Board of Education as retrenchment if a direct State tax is imposed. Real estate, he said, was already burdened to its limit.

Building interests never get tired of trying to amend the lien law; but until they first come to some agreement upon the amendments best for all concerned there is not likely to be any change.

The former practice of immortalizing local politicians of passing fame by permitting their names to be bestowed on public streets and parks is a form of advertising at the public expense no longer countenanced in well-governed towns.

It is hoped that the constituted authorities of the city and State will respond to the well-meant efforts of the people who bear the burden of government to co-operate with the lawmakers in bringing that government more into harmony with the spirit and needs of the times.

An application for a railroad franchise on Broadway used to be the signal for a public uprising. The Kingsbridge Railway Company has just asked permission to build a trolley line on Broadway from 169th street south to Manhattan street. A hearing will be held next Friday at City Hall, at the unusual hour of 9:30. If Bronx property owners have any objection to an overhead trolley to make known, they will have to be around early.

Every head of department admits all departments and bureaus which send inspectors around to buildings should be under one head—that is, all except his particular department, which should be left free. The present Commissioner of Labor, Mr. Lynch, says, "By all means let us have under one head all the duties of inspection now performed by all the city departments, but place the entire control of factory buildings with the State Department of Labor." A resolution has this week been introduced in the Legislature to abolish the office of State Labor Commissioner and make his department a bureau of the State Department. Ripper legislation is having its innings.

The Transformation of Middle Broadway.

The purchase of the Albemarle and Hoffman Hotels for improvement with an office building carries one step farther the transformation of Broadway south of 34th street from an amusement into a business district. This progress has been going on for many years. One by one the theatres, hotels and restaurants situated in that vicinity have been changed from profitable into unprofitable properties. A prophecy of the coming change was made when Delmonicos moved up to Fifth avenue and 44th street almost twenty years ago, but Delmonico's moved somewhat ahead of the procession. After Delmonico's left, Martin's restaurant was situated for many prosperous years on the same site. It was not until about ten years ago that the transformation began to appear to be inevitable; and its inevitability was fairly established when a few years later the Fifth Avenue Hotel was abandoned and a sixteen-story office building erected on its site. Since then the Gilsey House has been altered to accommodate wholesale business, a number of loft-buildings have been constructed on different corners, and during the past winter plans have been made for re-employing the present sites of both the Bijou and Wallack Theatres. When these plans are carried out, all but two of the theatres and the hotels between 23rd and 34th streets on Broadway will have disappeared.

Building Activities in Prospect.

A very large proportion of the building activity of the current year will be concentrated on Broadway, Fifth avenue and Park avenue. On Broadway important improvements are likely to be undertaken on the southern half of the old Astor House plot; on the Hoffman House and Bijou sites, on the corner of 36th street; by Brokaw Bros., near 42nd street, and by a number of builders in the apartment house region farther north. Fifth and Park avenues cannot compete with this record, but still they are doing fairly well. If building on the side streets were as active as it is on the most important avenues, there would not be very much ground for complaint. On the whole, however, a fair amount of building activity is assured, provided the United States can keep out of foreign complications. At present the revival, the beginnings of which were plainly apparent some weeks ago, is checked by the uncertainty produced by the latest phase of the European war. A grave danger exists that the exports of this country to Europe may suffer seriously as the result of the British blockade and the German declaration of a war zone. Business may well hesitate until the present very serious complications are straightened out, but once a continuation of the export business is assured, there can be no doubt that a rapid revival of general business will soon follow. In the absence of such a revival, only a moderate amount of real estate and building activity can be expected, but, aided by business recovery, the prospects of a resumption of local business are excellent.

And Now a Direct State Tax.

The message of Governor Whitman reveals the full extent of the charge which the taxpayers of New York will have to pay as a consequence of the improvident methods of financing which have recently prevailed at Albany. There will be a deficit of at least $8,000,000 to be made up by the direct tax, which will mean an additional charge upon New York real estate of about $13,000,000. It is a terrific addition to the burdens of an already over-taxed class of property, and in paying it the residents of New York City will have the gratifying assurance that only a small part of it will be spent for their benefit. But there is nothing to be done about it. The present Republican administration has inherited debts from its predecessor which have to be paid.

Governor Whitman and his associates cannot fairly be held responsible for the increased burden that will as a consequence be fastened on the New York taxpayer. But even though the Republicans are not responsible, they will have to be on their good behavior, in order to avoid suffering from the effects of this unavoidable increase in direct taxation. They will have to indicate unequivocally their own intention to be really and intelligently economical. Up to date they have given no such indication. The object of most of their "reform" bills up to date has been that of legislating Democrats out of office and putting Republicans in their place. There was no proper inquiry into the reasons for the enormous increase of expenses of the last four years, or the extent to which these expenses can be permanently reduced. They have not made the slightest attempt to reform the methods, which have so much to do with the apparently irresistible increase in State expenses.

The helpless and fruitless efforts of American public opinion to deal with municipal, State and national extravagance is an extraordinary and a disconcerting fact. In this State every administration and every Legislature is accused by its opponents of extravagance. Every new administration and Legislature is elected on a platform which promises retrenchment and economy. No administration or Legislature seriously tries to keep its promises, yet the voters continue to substitute one party machine for the other, and then to complain because the tide of extravagance is rising. It will continue to rise until the American voter ceases to play the game of politics according to the rules prepared by professional politicians. In the meantime, something can be done by a revision of the State political system, which will enable the voter to see and understand more clearly who is responsible for extravagance in the expenditure of public funds. The friends of economical and efficient government have a rare opportunity to do effectual work in favor of economy during the constitutional convention, which meets next month.

Developing a Budget Procedure.

The time seems to have come when primitive methods no longer suffice in carrying on the business of this municipality. The business of the City of New York now amounts to $250,000,000 annually. In comparison, the city government spends each year more than the national government, exclusive of its military and post office departments. It employs 90,000 persons. Conceding that this great business is being carried on with intelligence and carefulness at the present time, let us ask if it also is being managed after a good plan? Has the city government such a financial program as would meet with even the moderate approval of the heads of any great private business?

There is very good testimony to the contrary in the first monthly bulletin of the Bureau of Municipal Research. Some of the largest and most eminent business men in America are represented in the bureau. As a citizen organization the trustees of the bureau have employed a staff to discover how the city does business—to find out what are the facts about organization, methods and results, and to make these facts known to the responsible officers. Its method is one of co-operation with the governmental heads, and is not merely a campaign of fault-finding.

The present thought of the Bureau of Municipal Research, as can be learned from its publication, is that the Board of Estimate, if it begins at once, can prepare and submit, (a) a definite "financial program" for 1916; (b) a well considered "work program," with estimates of expenditures for 1916, showing what public services are to be undertaken; (c) a well considered "public improvement program," showing proposed capital outlays; (d) a well considered "revenue program," with estimate of revenue returns for 1916; and also a "borrowing program," with estimates of issues and redemptions; a "balance sheet," to show present and estimated financial conditions; an "operation account," and an "appropriation ordinance" better adapted for the exercise of legislative and administrative control than the present one.

With such data before them both administration officers and citizens would have, when considering the annual budget, a basis for safe and intelligent action. If for the first time in many years, the city now knows that its assets and liabilities are, if there is less waste in expenditures and disorder in administration, if the rights of property owners are respected as never before, it is owing to the more intelligent interest which citizens have shown in municipal affairs, and in no small degree this has followed from the help and co-operation which the city officers have received from the organization which now puts forth these suggestions for a program of budget procedure.

Good Titles and Bad Titles.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

We have no plan in contemplation for turning a bad into a good title. What we propose is, that those who have a good title should be entitled to procure a declaration of it. I believe in point of fact there are few titles which are not good.—Sir Robert Torrens.

The principle embodied in the sentence quoted above, which was stated by Sir Robert Torrens, the originator of the Torrens System, in an essay by him in 1882, has become an axiom in Torrens Law discussions. Considerable misunderstanding, however, has grown up as to what is meant by this statement. The same thought has been restated by various writers, and in a recently contested action one of the judges of the Court of Appeals quoted with approval the statement made by one of the counsel that "the object and purpose of the law are to register good titles, not to cure bad ones." The underlying principle here stated is undoubtedly sound, but to understand exactly what is meant requires a knowledge of what is considered to be the difference between a good title and a bad title in the eyes of the law.

In England, titles are commonly referred to as being divided into three classes: (1) bad titles, (2) blistered or holding titles, (3) marketable or perfect titles. The Torrens system was not at any time considered as a means of giving to a man title to something which he did not really possess. It was devised as a method by which a man holding a certain definite title might apply to the proper public official to have that title determined and confirmed and a certificate thereof issued, which should conclusively and exactly state the rights of all parties in the property affected.

As a rule titles to real property are good. It rarely happens that a dispute arises over property involving a fundamental question of title. This is especially true in New York City, where careful conveyancing coupled with public records has been the rule for many generations. It has been said that all titles are theoretically defective. This is true only in the sense that a man's title is always subject to attack under the present system, and any irregularity, although occurring in transactions long past, may be brought out as an objection to a title. The alleged defect may be so insignificant that it would be impossible to eject an owner from his possession, but at the same time it might raise a doubtful question and in the absence of a judicial decision on the point, render a title unmarketable. Such a title is not necessarily a bad title and to do away with doubts regarding titles is one of the important advantages of the Torrens system, which makes a title conclusive and indefeasible and prevents any question being raised as to any matter which antedates the certificate of title.

For many years a form of action has been provided by the code of civil procedure, whereby title questions may be settled and clouds on titles removed. The present Torrens law contains a similar provision, and under the law the court may find in whom the title to the property is vested and may remove clouds from the title. (Sec. 390.) The Torrens law, therefore, is broad enough to enable the court to judicially determine all questions that arise relating to real property, but there is no law that can give a man something which he does not actually possess. The phrase "bad title" applies to a case where a man claims something to which he has no legal right. For example—a man might die leaving no will and no heirs and a stranger might seize possession of the property, set up a claim of title, and apply to the court to have his title registered. Such a title doubtless would be rejected by the court in its proper exercise of judicial discretion. Under the facts stated, the title to the property would revert by escheat to the State whence it originally came. It will tend to clear the thought if it is remembered that originally and actually all titles to real estate originated from the State and that private titles to property are simply rights granted to individuals with the consent of the community.

It will be seen that in the great majority of cases, a proceeding to register title does not involve a law suit between one individual against another in which opposing rights are contested, but the proceedings simply consist of an application to the court by an owner to have his title, which is stated in the application, examined and approved, and that a certificate thereof issue accordingly. For this reason the amendments now before the Legislature, which were introduced by Senator Bennett and are advocated by me, provide a simple and direct proceeding which any attorney can prosecute with little expense. If a contest should arise, however, the right of trial by jury is reserved so that the rights of all parties may be fully protected.

JNO. J. HOPPER,
(Register, New York County.)

"What Real Estate Needs."

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

I have sent you two letters under the above heading. I now add that real estate needs more co-operation and activity on the part of the owners of large estates.

The late John Jacob Astor, at my request, joined the then Taxpayers' Congress, which lasted about one year, and in doing so he said, "Stop the waste."

I suggested in your edition of February 20 a revival of the Taxpayers' Congress, and now add the mottoes, "Stop the waste," "Stop raising salaries" and "Stop appropriating money for luxuries that can wait a year or two." These three "Stops" make a good nucleus for united action.

I shall attend the hearing before the Joint Committee on Cities at Albany, March 3, concerning the bills to amend the Torrens Law and the bill to simplify building inspection. What a good impression it would make if I should ask, "Mr. Chairman, is there anyone here from the Astor, Goelet, Clark, Eno, etc., etc., estates?" and then have Vincent Astor or Robert Goelet rise and say, "I am here for my family estate!"

The real estate interests approve of the repeal of Chapter 669 of the Laws of 1911, which pensions the City Clerks, stenographers, etc., at a cost of nearly $200,000 a year. Every property owner should at once see or write his Senator or member of Assembly to favor this repeal bill when introduced. No time is to be lost, and the men behind this repeal measure will push it with energy.

ALFRED R. CONKLING.
157 East 70th Street.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

The United Real Estate Owners' Association has a committee in New York that investigates every bill that is introduced in the Legislature; every bill that affects real estate, directly or indirectly, receives an exhaustive examination by a committee of lawyers, real estate and business men; such bills are either approved or disapproved and are discussed by a special committee at legislative hearings specially arranged for.

We also ask all members of local real estate associations in Greater New York to write to their Assemblymen and Senators to oppose or favor, as the case may be, such bills as meet with our approval or disapproval.

We attend all Friday regular meetings of the Board of Estimate, at which matters affecting the expenditure of money in the city must be brought up; this takes up from one-half to three-quarters of the day; and we spend the preceding day in getting from the several departments the full original data that constitute the items that are on the Board of Estimate calendar for the succeeding day.

We attend all the regular weekly meetings of the Board of Aldermen. We also attend all public hearings on all matters affecting real estate and held before the Board of Estimate or before the Board of Aldermen.

With the consent of the Mayor we are making a thorough and searching investigation into the details of each department of the city, borough and county government, for the purpose of ascertaining where economies can be effected. We appear before all municipal departments on behalf of real estate owners who have individual or collective grievances to be remedied. We are instrumental in having introduced at Albany bills that will give relief to realty owners.

STEWART BROWNE,
President.

Bleeding New York City White.

(New York World.)

The efforts of the Mitchel Administration to find new sources of taxation to meet the increased budget and the direct State tax indicate plainly enough that the city is approaching the end of its rope. When a municipal income tax can be submitted seriously to the consideration of the Board of Estimate, and the Mayor frankly declares that real estate is now taxed to the limit, it is time for the people of New York to wake up.

The Legislature imposes what financial charges it pleases upon this community. It multiplies boards and commissions, and compels the New York City taxpayers to foot the bills. It increases salaries and reduces working efficiency, and leaves the city to find the money as best it can.

There will never be a permanent solution of New York City's financial difficulties until we have a system of home rule which gives the city's financial affairs into the hands of the Board of Estimate. So long as the metropolis is ruled from Albany the burden will grow heavier and heavier, until the inevitable collapse comes.

Pensions and Taxes.

"I'm for retrenchment. Think of paying $7,000,000 in police pensions! I've worked for thirty years for one company and I've given as good service to it as any policeman has to the city, yet I get no pension. The city pays more and higher salaries than ever before in the history of the world. Either it's got to be stopped or taxes have to go up, and if they go up business will go down."

"As for a salary tax I'm for it. I'm for any income tax. It's the fairest tax ever devised, as it makes every man pay his fair share for the privilege of living in this city."—Frank Bailey.

Alien Prohibition Upheld.

Albany, Feb. 25.—The Court of Appeals upholds the constitutionality of the law prohibiting employment of aliens on public works. The case will be appealed by the contractors to the Supreme Court of the United States.

Secretary Crane, of the Contractors' Association, states that Governor Whitman will be asked to send a special message to the Legislature urging the passage of a pending bill to repeal the alien clause of the labor law.

TAX RATE FOR 1915.

Highest Rate Since 1902—All Boroughs Suffer.

LAST Thursday the official tax rates, by boroughs, was announced, and, it ratified by the Board of Aldermen on Monday and approved by the Mayor, will mean that property owners will be taxed at a higher rate than at any time during the last thirteen years, or since 1902. The average rate, based on the individual rates for the five boroughs, is $1.984 on each $100. The rates, by boroughs, for the last three years is as follows:

Bronx	1.94	1.77	1.81
Kings	1.92	1.84	1.85
Queens	1.95	1.80	1.85

The following are the increases, as compared with last year: Manhattan, .09; Bronx, .17; Kings, .08; Queens, .15; and Richmond, .34.

Announcement was also made last Wednesday that Governor Whitman, in his message to both houses of the Legislature, gave, as his estimate, $18,813,303 as the amount which must be raised by the direct State tax to cover the necessary current expenditures. The estimate does not include anything beyond what is necessary to meet the deficiencies in the general fund, an amount for the barge canal construction and $8,000,000 for the Sinking Fund, which is a fixed charge.

Some of those in touch with the situation claim that, in all probability, $5,000,000 more would be required to create a surplus, without which the State cannot be regarded as being on a sound financial basis.

Governor Whitman gives an itemized summary of the State's finances, showing that the total estimated resources to meet budget requirements for the year ending September 30 next are $52,881,224.38. The administration of 1914, Governor Whitman says, made these appropriations:

For general purpose of government	$40,222,388.75
For sinking fund contributions	7,671,138.89

Other estimated expenses of the State Government, as given by Governor Whitman, are:

Special deficiency appropriation	$5,000,000
Workingmen's Compensation Commission	425,000
State aid for town highways	1,880,000
Indian reservation roads	40,000
State highway maintenance	2,000,000
Construction work at institutions	950,000
Grade crossing elimination	1,500,000

Then summarizing, the Governor says:

"The total adjusted appropriations chargeable against the present fiscal year, if the above appropriations are made, will amount to $63,694,527.74, instead of $47,899,527.74, a difference of $15,795,000. The total estimated resources to meet that budget for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1915, are $52,881,224.38, leaving a balance for which no money is available of $10,813,303.36.

"This balance of appropriations over resources, if approved by you, will have to be met by the levy of a direct tax in that amount, which will be substantially the eleven millions which it was claimed had been saved by the preceding administration. Moreover, a direct tax in such amount will not leave a dollar of surplus in the treasury on October 1, 1915, and will not provide the necessary funds to meet the State's sinking fund contributions, for which you will have to levy a still further direct tax amounting to about $8,000,000, making a direct tax in all, without providing a dollar of surplus or to meet any likely deficit of indirect revenue for the next fiscal year, of $18,813,303.36."

TAX BILL OPPOSED.

Objections of the State Realty Association to Administration Bill.

The Real Estate Association of the State of New York has taken definite action to oppose the passage of the Administration tax bill now before the Legislature. At a fully attended meeting at Syracuse last week this committee went on record in opposition to the bill.

This has been followed up by the submission of a carefully prepared brief which has been drawn by Jesse W. Ehrich, special counsel to the association. Points of this brief are as follows:

1. Objections made to the lack of provision as to the character and requirements of the new tax commissioners. The association insists that they should be made to devote their entire time to the work; that they should be appointed for a long enough term to insure their going into the work with the proper spirit, and should receive adequate compensation, sufficient to insure obtaining the right sort of men. The commission should be non-partisan rather than bipartisan. The association has recommended that one commissioner should be a lawyer and one a real estate man of at least ten years' standing. The third they believe should be a business executive.

In the second place they suggest that re-assessment should be made on application by any taxpayer, provided that the Tax Commission finds that the assessments have not been made in substantial conformity with the laws. They also suggest that in case of re-assessment the same should be made by a special board of three persons, the chairman to be chosen by the commission directly, and the other two members out of a list of six men submitted by the board of supervisors of the county.

In the third place, they have suggested that the equalization of assessments should be provided for New York City, as well as the rest of the State, and that some provision be made so that there may be equalization between the five counties constituting the City of New York.

The association feels that a mistake has been made in bringing up the matter of the transfer of the assessing of corporations from the State Comptroller's office to the new tax commission at this time. While the association believes that all powers of taxation should ultimately be centralized in this commission, provided that it has demonstrated its ability to handle the job, they feel that a political element has been needlessly injected into the situation. They believe that this matter can well wait until the Tax Commission has taken hold of the real estate assessing throughout the State and placed in on a businesslike and fairly just basis. This will require the entire time of the commissioners for many months.

The representatives of the association have been in conference with the leaders of the Senate and the Assembly, with the chairman of the Conference Committee which has this bill in charge, and with representatives of the Governor, and they have been assured that their recommendations will receive favorable consideration.

LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS.

Washington Heights District.

At the meeting of the Local Boards the following resolutions were approved:

Laying out a widening of Dyckman street on the southerly side, from a point about 300 feet west of D street to the Hudson River. The purpose of this proceeding is to include within the lines of Dyckman street the land necessary for the extension of the sewer. On December 8, 1914, the matter of extending the sewer at the foot of Dyckman sition of the necessary land.

Corlears Hook District.

Alteration and improvement to receiving basins at the northeast and northwest corners of South and Jefferson streets originated in complaint received from the Fidelity Warehouse Company, 140 Pearl street, and from the Merchants' Association. The cost is estimated at $720, and the assessed valuation at $678,500.

Alteration and improvement to receiving basin at the southwest corner of Beekman and Front streets, and construction of a new sluice basin. The cost is estimated at $420, and the assessed valuation of the property affected at $519,800.

Murray Hill Restriction Case.

A decision of the Court of Appeals handed down this week sustained the opinion of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in the Murray Hill restriction case, which held that the term "dwelling house" in the restriction includes an apartment house.

The Old South Church property at the southeast corner of Madison avenue and 38th street was sold some time ago to Bing & Bing and Harris & Maurice Mandelbaum, who announced their intention of building an apartment house. A movement was immediately started in the neighborhood by residents of the exclusive private residence colony to prevent this improvement, by invoking the restrictive covenant of 1847, which permitted only dwelling houses to be erected within a certain prescribed area in Murray Hill. The case was submitted to the courts on an agreed statement of the facts.

Height Limit in Albany.

Albany is about to limit the height of buildings in the neighborhood of the Capitol to eighty feet, so as not to dwarf or hide the beautiful edifice. Bills in the Legislature establish a Capitol District for the purpose.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

Although from the point of view of the number of sales reported, last week's total appears on the surface to make a better showing; yet this week's business may be considered better, more significant and more encouraging. While it is true that individual transactions rarely indicate a trend, yet several of the deals closed exemplify the assertions made in the Record and Guide last week and this week that the market is showing a distinct broadening tendency.

Business cannot be considered dull when it offers a $2,600,000 transaction which marks the passing of an old hotel landmark to be replaced with a commercial structure; a $1,200,000 apartment house investment purchase; several deals involving considerations around the half million dollar mark, and a goodly array of minor deals which show that the small dealer is taking advantage of his opportunity to acquire bargains.

There are always two ways of regarding a given situation. The pessimist will review the week's activity and say that one swallow does not make a summer and that two large deals do not mean the restoration of the market; the optimist will remember that a $1,900,000 building loan by an insurance company on a midtown building operation is not an everyday occurrence and that there is something in the increased number of small sales to newcomers in the real estate field in spite of all the talk of depression.

The initiative and daring of the New York speculative builder was never more strikingly illustrated than in the Hoffman House and Albemarle Hotel deals. The present Hoffman House was built only seven years ago at an estimated cost of $1,300,000. The other hotel was said to have cost Mr. Kinney $1,250,000 when he bought it ten years ago. These two structures which represent, with the land, between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 in values are to be torn down and replaced with an entirely new class of building, namely a commercial structure. And yet there may be people who will say that even this week the real estate market was dull.

The total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 21, as against 30 last week and 17 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 7, as compared with 9 last week and 3 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregated 14, as compared with 21 last week and 14 a year ago.

The total number of conveyances in Manhattan was 92, as against 133 last week, 12, having stated considerations totaling $716,600. Mortgages recorded this week number 52, involving $1,162,650, as against 61 last week, totaling $2,050,654.

From the Bronx 20 sales at private contract were recorded, as against 33 last week and 15 a year ago.

The amount involved in Manhattan and Bronx auction sales this week was $856,559, compared with $1,461,995 last week, making a total for the year of $7,046,566. The figures for the corresponding week last year were $568,349 and the total from January 1, 1914, to February 28, 1914, was $6,785,763.

Hoffman House to Go.

Trade has claimed the Hoffman House and its old neighbor, the Albemarle Hotel. The two famous hostelries are to be replaced with a sixteen-story commercial building from plans by H. Craig Severance and William H. Van Alen, to cost about $900,000. The heirs of the estate of Francis S. Kinney sold to Louis J. Horowitz, president of the Thompson-Starrett Construction Company, representing a new corporation, the two properties, comprising a plot 159 feet on Broadway and 192 feet in 24th street, at the northwest corner of the thoroughfares. The sale also included the four-story dwelling, at 5 West 24th street. The reported price was $1,700,000. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has agreed to finance the project with a building and permanent loan of $1,900,000. The brokers were Marston & Company and the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company.

Cash Buyer in $1,200,000 Deal.

The Fullerton-Weaver Realty Company, S. Fullerton Weaver, president, sold to a client of the law firm of Gerard & Smith the twelve-story apartment house, 640 Park avenue, on plot 80x100, at the northwest corner of 66th street. The building was completed last August and is arranged for one tenant to a floor, the suites comprising eighteen rooms and six baths, at rentals ranging from $9,500 to $12,000 per annum. The building is fully tenanted on long term leases made through Douglas L. Elliman & Company as agents. Among the tenants are Mrs. Benjamin Thaw, Dock Commissioner R. A. C. Smith, A. C. Spreckels, Stephen C. Millett, Herbert L. and George O. Pratt and Mrs. Henry S. Redmond. The asking price for the property was $1,200,000. It is reported that the buyer paid all cash above a mortgage of $750,000. The sale ranks as one of the most important of the year.

Metropolitan Life Sells Corner.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has sold the nine-story store, office and loft building at 434-438 Broadway, northeast corner of Howard street, on plot 60.10x97.8. The seller bought it at foreclosure for $430,000 in April, 1913. The name of the buyer could not be learned.

Mr. Hammerstein Sells Opera House.

For a reported price of $820,000, Oscar Hammerstein has sold his Lexington Avenue Opera House property to the Gersten-Cramer Amusement Company, Frank Gersten, president. The property is known as 567 and 569 Lexington avenue. It forms an "L" around the corner of 51st street with a frontage of 50 feet on the avenue and 200 feet in the street. The land and buildings are said to represent an investment of about $1,000,000. Mr. Hammerstein acquired the property about two years ago from Harris & Maurice Mandelbaum and Bing & Bing. He originally intended it for the presentation of grand opera in English but he was subsequently prevented in carrying out this idea by a court order, interpreting the agreement which he had made with the Metropolitan Opera Company. The theatre has been used for moving picture and vaudeville purposes, and this policy will probably be continued, at least temporarily, by the new management.

New Federal League Ballgrounds.

Patrick T. Powers, who recently obtained the franchise of the Kansas City Federal League, has acquired at Harrison, N. J., a tract of land to be used as a baseball field for the Newark Federal League Club this season. The property contains about 110 lots in the west side of 3d street, extending from the north line of Burlington street to the center of the block between Somerset and Middlesex streets and west to 2d street, a total plottage of 620x550 feet.

Mrs. Beinecke Sells Estate.

Mrs. Bernard Beinecke has sold her sixty-five-acre estate at Oscawanna, just south of Peekskill, on the Hudson, to the 59th Street Realty Company, Albert I. Sire, president. It has been held at $100,000 and was given in part payment for the six-story building, 22 West 59th street, adjoining the Plaza Hotel, reported sold last week. The brokers were William A. White & Sons.

Apartment House Re-Sale.

Harold C. Mathews, who last week bought the six-story elevator apartment house at 5 to 7 West 91st street from the Bloomingdale Estate, has resold it through William B. May & Company to Percival Kuhne, banker, who gave in part payment the five-story dwelling at the northwest corner of Madison avenue and 63d street, on lot 20x70.

Taxpayer for Bronx Corner.

The Gaines-Roberts Company, builders, bought from Henry S. Keil, through H. L. Phelps, the plot at the southwest corner of Fordham road and the Grand Boulevard and Concourse, fronting 111 feet on the road and 190 feet on the concourse. The plot will be improved with a one-story business building.

Staten Island Waterfront Deal.

James S. Graham has purchased, through J. A. Mathews, the large tract of waterfront land at Woodland Beach, adjoining his Woodland Terrace property. The property is also adjacent to Midland Beach and was the last of the holdings of the Barnes family, having been in their possession for more than two hundred years.

Lower Broadway Sale.

Charles F. Noyes Company sold to a client of George C. Austin the five-story building, 450 Broadway, covering about 3,130 square feet. The building is under lease to Campbell, Metzger & Jacobson and was held at $125,000. The buyer is reported to be interested in other Broadway property.

Manhattan—South of 59th St.

BROOME ST.—Charles Buermann & Co. sold for the Bond & Mortgage Guarantee Co. the 4-sty building 141 Broome st, on lot 20x60.

WILLETT ST.—Rachel Seiden has contracted with Henry W. Siegel to exchange 58 Willett st, a 2 and 4-sty tenement and hall on lot 25x100 for a 164-acre farm and the New Washington Hotel at Ferndale, Sullivan Co., N. Y.

27TH ST.—Rose Hill Methodist Episcopal Church has received permission from the Supreme Court to sell its church property at 221 East 27th st for $50,000, and to apply the proceeds to paying off a mortgage on the Derbyshire apartment house, at 217-219 East 27th st, which it owns.

BROOKLYN APPRAISALS
Some experts claim that long practical experience is the most essential thing in appraising real estate, while others say statistics are. Be on the safe side, and demand both. We have dealt in Brooklyn real estate for forty-four years, during which time we have recorded data on nearly every property in the central residential sections.

LEON S. ALTMAYER has been appointed rental agent for the apartment houses 1126 Park av and 62-64 East 90th st.

ROBERT E. FARLEY tendered a dinner at the New York Athletic Club to the real estate salesman on the various estates of the Robert E. Farley Organization.

SOL LOWENFELD has moved his real estate and insurance office from 19 East 116th st to 102 East 97th st. He has been appointed agent for 187 St. Nicholas av and 219-221 East 97th st.

CROSS & BROWN CO. has been appointed managing agent for the 9-sty building 11 West 20th st and for the 7-sty building at the northeast corner of Broadway and 39th st.

HOUGHTON CO. has been appointed agent for 107 West 76th st, 126 West 97th st; 62 West 95th; 525 West 113th st; 435 West 117th st; 83 West 118th st, and 251 West End av.

CHARLES F. NOYES CO. has been appointed agent for the 10-sty office building, 25 Pine st, owned by the Royal Insurance Co.; also for 20 Fulton st, sold last week by John Munro.

WEST END ASSOCIATION will hold its regular monthly meeting on Monday evening, March 1, at 8.30 p. m., in the Hotel Ansonia, Broadway and 73d st. Hon. Lawson Purdy will make an address.

HARRY BIERHOFF was the broker in the recent sale of the apartment house, 897 East 169th st, by the Machenley Realty Co. to the Naroxany Realty, which gave in part payment the plot 75x100 on the east side of Woodycrest av, 25 ft north of 165th st.

SMITH & PHELPS have placed a first mortgage loan of $7,500 on the plot of six lots at the junction of Tremont, Pugsley and Newbold avs and $5,000 on the plot, 75x100, on the east side of Jerome av, 150 ft. north of Bedford Park Boulevard.

ELLEN STEWART, as plaintiff, became the owner of the Anderson property at White Plains, N. Y., which was sold at public auction on Wednesday. It consists of about 14½ acres on the Post rd. Her bid was $75,000. Liens against the property aggregated about $91,000.

AUCTION SALES OF WEEK.

Except where otherwise stated, the properties offered were in foreclosure. Adjournments of legal sales to next week are noted under Advertised Legal Sales.

* Indicates that the property described was bid in for the plaintiff's account.

The Auction Market.

Interest next week will center on the offerings of another special sales day, on Tuesday, and the adjourned Supreme Court partition sale of the Yung estate on Wednesday. Holdings of the estates of Nicholas Schultz, Christiana Hills and John R. Costen will be offered at the former sale. Among the other properties which are scheduled to be put up at auction are the seven-story office building at the southeast corner of DePeyster and Front streets, being foreclosed by the Manhattan Life Insurance Company, and the four-story store and loft building at 206 Fifth avenue, through to 1126 Broadway, against which the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank has a claim of $262,000.

Lending institutions figure prominently among the plaintiffs in the various foreclosure sales of the coming week, the list including the Lincoln Trust Company, the Manhattan Life Insurance Company, Public Bank, City Real Estate Company, the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank, the Mutual Life Insurance Company, Corn Exchange Bank, the First National Bank of Amsterdam, N. Y., and the Seamen's Bank for Savings.

New Families
A Day

Official figures state that every day in the year 47 new families locate in Brooklyn.

It is natural that these new residents demand living accommodations that shall be up-to-date and complete.

They are educated to the comforts and conveniences of modern life and they move to where they may obtain them.

Progressive Brooklyn builders and architects are aware of this fact and that's the reason why Electric Light is installed in 95 out of every 100 buildings erected; even to the low priced tenement.

WIRING THE HOUSE FOR ELECTRICITY

By THEODORE DWIGHT, of the Society of Electrical Development, Inc.

Conducted by Raymond P. Roberts, Building Manager for The American Real Estate Co.

ARCHITECTS and Building Managers, as a rule, do not and cannot be expected to keep up with the rapid development in the varied uses of electricity in the modern edifice, whether home, apartment, hotel or other type of building. Progress in efficient illumination has been so rapid and the use of electricity for power and heat is increasing to such an extent that the rules of yesterday do not apply to today. This rapid growth makes it important that in planning the electric wiring of a building, the architect should not only provide for the requirements of today, but for the needs of tomorrow.

The "National Electrical Code" of the National Board of Fire Underwriters prescribes the minimum gauge of wire, and the class of fittings that may be used. Some city ordinances go somewhat further, but none emphasize strongly enough the desirability of liberal provision for the future.

Science of Illumination.

The science of illumination has attracted able men to make it their profession, but a study of their writings shows that they generally have specialized in this branch so closely that they confine their specifications to strictly lighting requirements and ignore the electrical utensils and apparatus with their larger consumption of current and consequent need for adequate wiring. The scope of this article will be limited to the presentation of a few tables and to suggestions for the adequate wiring of the home. It should be borne in mind, that: Inadequate size of wire means loss to consumer of current; inadequate wiring means risk of fire; inadequate wiring means inefficient operation of lamps and apparatus; central stations bear the loss of current to meter, but consumers pay for loss beyond; a three-volt drop in a 110-volt circuit means over 15 per cent. loss in illuminating power of a 110-volt lamp, and a three-volt drop in a 110-volt circuit means at least 10 per cent. loss in efficiency of heating and cooking devices. Surely this is a big price to pay as perpetual interest on the saving of a few dollars in initial cost of wire.

The following table is from the "National Code," 1913, edition, with added column of watts at 110 volts.

Capacity of Rubber-Covered Wire.

B & S Gauge.	Circular Mils.	Amperes.	Watts (at 110 volts).
18	1,624	3	330
10	10,380	25	2,750

"The National Code" requires for branch or tap circuits not less than 14 gauge wire, but 12 or 10 gauge at an added cost of a couple of dollars per room will permit the future use of electrical utensils without costly rewiring. The electrical installation means much in the comfort and efficiency of the home today, and should no longer be classed as a luxury, but rather as a necessity.

Architects frequently allow for electric wiring an amount equal to only a little over 1 per cent. of the cost of the building. Is this important part of the equipment not entitled to more consideration? Three or even four per cent. would be a fair rate to charge to security, comfort and efficiency. As indicating the wide and growing demand for electrical appliances in the household, it is interesting to state that there are about one hundred different appliances in use, and an aggregate of over 6,000,000 devices have been sold to date.

Function of the Engineer.

Is it not fair to ask that the architect, for the sake of "safety first," eyesight and "economy and efficiency" in the operation of the household and for the beauty of the interior of the home, should write the specifications for the wiring of his building only after the most careful study of the subject, and not leave the matter to a generally uninformed client, or to the contractor making the lowest bid? Let him, however, consult with the illuminating engineer, the central station management and with reliable contractors, who must all of them keep up with the latest developments. Co-operation will pay. Before planning the electrical installation it is essential to consult the central station management to learn the character of service obtainable and local regulations for securing current.

While the rules of the "National Electrical Code" generally govern, there are sometimes additional local rules or ordinances which must be observed. To save misunderstanding, the standard wiring symbols as adopted by the American Institute of Architects and the National Electrical Contractors' Association should be used on the plans.

Important Factors.

The following are important factors in specifications: 1—Liberal size of wires, 2—Ample number of lighting outlets, 3—Good switch control, and 4—Appliance outlets (heating, cooking, power).

1—For lighting circuits with occasional use of small appliance, use not less than No. 12 B & S, preferably No. 10 gauge wire. To kitchen, laundry and also to dining-room separate circuits should be run, to be used for current for cooking and power purposes. This will permit of connection to a separate meter where special rates are made by central stations for such uses. Specify that if radiator is to be used (unless a small one), not less than No. 10 wire should be installed.

In the dining-room the following devices, two or more of which might be operated simultaneously, will require liberal wiring and special outlets and plugs. A toaster uses 400 to 500 watts, an egg boiler uses 400 to 500 watts, a percolator uses 400 to 500 watts and a chafing dish uses 400 to 500 watts, making a total of from 1,600 to 2,000 watts, 15 to 18 amperes. A 10-gauge wire has a permissible capacity of 25 amperes.

2—Too few outlets are a constant source of regret to owners and tenants and the addition of new outlets in completed buildings is expensive and troublesome. Different grouping of furniture may require change of fixtures. Change in decoration and color of wall paper may require rearrangement of fixtures and call for twice the number of lamps for the same effective illumination.

Importance of Color Scheme.

The color of walls and ceilings has very much to do with the quantity of electric light needed to properly illuminate any given room, but not only do the table surfaces and other objects in the room receive the rays of light directly from the electric lamp, but they also receive additional reflected light from the walls and ceilings. This reflected light varies greatly in quantity, depending on the wall coverings used.

In indirect lighting all of the light is reflected from ceiling and side walls and a knowledge of what color and finish such ceiling and walls will have is imperative. Semi-indirect lighting depends on having this same information, only in a lesser degree. Generally speaking, the lighter the surface, the less amount of light required.

The following list of wall colors are given in their descending reflecting values: White cartridge, about 80 per cent.; cream, about 74 per cent.; chrome yellow, about 62 per cent.; orange, about 50 per cent.; clean plain deal, about 45 per cent.; yellow painted wall, about 40 per cent.; light pink, about 36 per cent.; emerald green, about 18 per cent.; dark brown, about 13 per cent.; cobalt blue, about 12 per cent.; deep chocolate, about 4 per cent., and black cloth, about 1¼ per cent.

Switch Control.

3—Switch control. Both convenience and economy are served by installing a liberal number of switches. Lights will be promptly turned out when not needed, if a switch is handy. The following are recommended: Entrance door light-control from both outside and inside of doorway; veranda lights controlled by inside and outside switch; hall, one switch for single lamp, another for full lighting; living room, switch for single lamp, one or more switches for general ceiling illumination; dining room, one switch for partial illumination, one for full illumination, and one switch for control of butler's pantry light; butler's pantry, one switch; also one switch for single dining-room light; cellar stairs, one switch at top of stairs in combination with one below; upper floor halls, combination switch at each end; bed rooms, dependent on class of illumination, and master bed room, special switch controlling general illumination of first floor, as protection against burglars.

4—Outlets for electrical appliances; special plugs and receptacles for heating and cooking and other appliances using large amount of current should be placed in base board or wall of kitchen, laundry and cellar at convenient points, and wherever radiators are to be used. For table utensils in dining room and living room special types of floor plugs are advisable, but for limited use special types of lamp sockets may be sufficient.

There is at present a very lively discussion as to the relative merits and efficiency of "direct," so-called "semi-indirect," and "indirect" methods of illumination, so that as the doctors disagree,

USEFUL APPLIANCES

Novelties, New Applications of Familiar Devices and the Trend of Invention, Designed to Aid the Architect, Builder and Building Manager, Described Without Regard to Advertising Consideration

Mineral Wool.

MUCH speculation is rife concerning the character of mineral wool, and there is considerable doubt as to where and how this should be applied. It is essentially a vitreous substance, converted to a fibrous conditions. In appearance it consists of a mass of very fine fibres interlacing each other in every direction, thus forming an innumerable number of minute air cells. The resemblance of these fibres to those of wool or cotton has given to the material the name of mineral wool in this country, and of Silicate Cotton elsewhere; but it is only in appearance and softness that any similarity exists between the mineral and organic fibres.

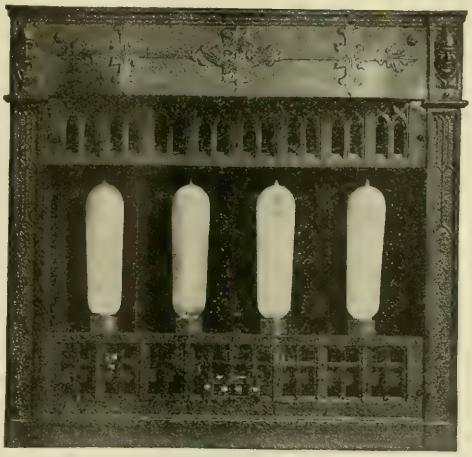
Mineral wool partakes of the nature of glass without its brittleness, the fibres being soft, pliant and inelastic. It is made by converting scoria and certain rocks, while in a melted condition, to a fibrous state.

By improved processes of manufacture lately invented and perfected, the quality of the wool produced is much improved in strength of texture, lightness and freedom from dross over that hitherto made.

One of the most important qualities of mineral wool is its power to resist the transmission of heat and cold. No other material, either natural or manufactured, which can be used practically in the arts approaches this as a non-conductor of heat. This can readily be accounted for in the fact that mineral wool holds in confinement a greater proportion of air than any other material.

Air is so subtle and rapid in movement when unconfined and slow to carry heat, except by its own motion, that it is at once the best distributor of heat and also the greatest barrier to its transmission, according as it has or has not freedom to circulate.

So long as air may circulate at all, it is conveying heat from one place to another.



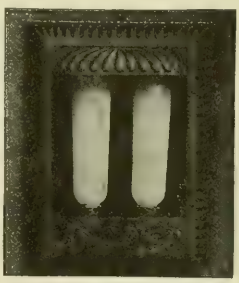
Mineral wool possesses especial value as a non-conductor of sound. Its elasticity and want of solidity prevents the transmission of sound through it, and the material is coming more and more into use as a "deadener" or "deafener" of the floors and walls of buildings. As sound is communicated by the actual contact of beams, and especially by the vibrations of the air between them, it can be well understood how a porous material like mineral wool will have a muffling influence on the solid parts of the building and so occupy the space that wave motion will not be possible. No other material in general use for heat-proofing and fireproofing possesses also the property of sound-proofing. The cut shows the application of mineral wool under a flat roof, thereby insuring comfortable rooms all year round.

Boric Acid in Paint.

A COMMON difficulty experienced in painting glass is to get a uniform surface, and to prevent the oil from separating out from the color, especially when using reds, says the Painters' Magazine. Not long ago this was brought to the attention of a chemist, who made some experiments and found that the use of five per cent. of boric acid in the thinners gave a beautiful, smooth and even color and one that appeared brighter than when linseed oil alone was used. While we cannot guarantee the results that will be obtained by the use of boric acid, it suggests a line of experimenting for painters and paint manufacturers that might be worth while to follow up. There may be other uses in paint mixing for which this material might be adapted. Remember that boric acid should be used, and not borax, for while the latter is a derivative of the former, the effect of the two is very often quite different. Boric acid, for example, will soften leather, while borax has a tendency to render it hard and brittle. Those who wish to experiment along these lines will be able to obtain boric acid at any drug store.

The Fuel Value of Wood.

TWO pounds of wood have a fuel value equivalent to that of one pound of coal. This is given as the result of certain calculations now being made in the Forest Service Laboratory, which show also about how many cords of certain kinds of wood are required to obtain an amount of heat equal to that in a ton of coal.



Certain kinds of wood, such as hickory, oak, beech, birch, hard maple, ash, elm, locust, longleaf pine and cherry, have fairly high heat values, and only one cord of seasoned wood of these species is required to equal one ton of good coal. It takes a cord and a half of shortleaf pine, hemlock, red gum, Douglas fir, svcamore and soft maple to equal a ton of coal, and two cords of cedar, redwood, poplar, catalpa, Norway pine, cypress, basswood, spruce and white pine.

Equal weights of dry, non-resinous woods, however, are said to have practically the same heat value regardless of species, and as a consequence it can be stated as a general proposition that the heavier the wood the more heat to the cord. Weight for weight, however, there is little difference between various species; the average heat for all that have been calculated is 4,600 calories, or heat units per kilogram. A kilogram of resin will develop 9,400 heat units, or about twice the average for wood. As a consequence, resinous woods have a greater heat value per pound than non-resinous woods, and this increased value varies, of course, with the resin content.

Electric Grate Heaters.

ARCHITECTS looking for a novelty to show their customers in the form of blind mantels may find ready purchasers in a device that is now being introduced. It is in the form of an electric fireplace, giving all the comfort of the old burning log without the danger of flying sparks, and the draught that sometimes makes fireplace rooms uncomfortable.

A complete line of luminous radiators for use in the mantel place is being marketed, ranging in size from fifteen and a half inches square to thirty by thirty inches, several artistic designs being available in each size. The radiators use from two to four luminous heating units each, the individual heating units requiring about 250 Watts.

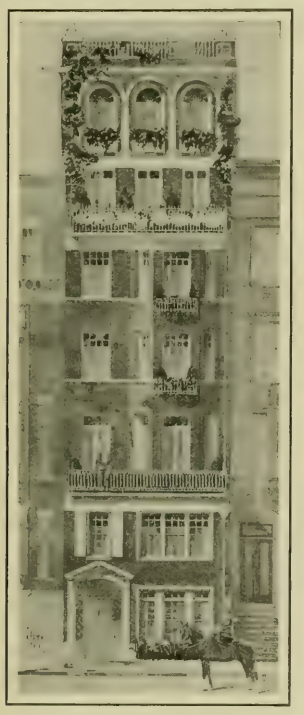
The radiators are adapted for intermittent service, particularly for use in removing the chill before or after the regular heating system is in use. Their safety from danger of fire or fumes makes them ideal for nurseries, bathrooms, reception halls and similar enclosures.



Each radiator consists of a handsomely finished ornamental front with polished copper reflector and two, three or four heating units which are readily removable. The fireplace radiators are furnished in polished brass, antique brass, oxidized copper, or practically any electroplating finish desired. Bath-room radiators are finished only in polished nickel. This plating is of double thickness, laid on brass, insuring long wear.

In manufacture these radiators have been equipped with the best of material. The lights are remarkably long lived, being made so they cannot be damaged by rough handling. Any number of units can be employed so as to give exactly the degree of warmth desired. The cost of operation is not as much as that for coal, including time and labor consumed in handling fuel and ashes, cleaning up debris and maintenance of andirons and other fixtures necessary to a coal or wood fire.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

Interesting Operation in East Sixty-second Street, Involving Alteration of Old Dwelling into Small Apartments

AN interesting building operation, calling for the remodeling of an old fashioned brownstone front residence into a modern, high class, bachelor apartment building, has been planned by Samuel R. T. Very, architect, 2623 Grand Central Terminal. Mr. Very has made a special study of problems of this type and his past efforts have been uniformly successful. His present problem called for the reconstruction of the four-story and basement residence, at 22 East 62nd street, by the addition of two extra stories and the construction of a new front of brick and limestone, with extensive interior alterations and improvements. The remodeled structure will be known as the "Knickerbocker Chambers" and has been designed to provide high class accommodations for bachelors exclusively. E. De Forest Simmons, 2 East 58th street, is the sole agent and representative of the owners.

Sam'l R. T. Very, Architect

By judicious planning all the available floor space has been utilized to yield an income, without destroying the possibility of comfort and luxury to the future tenants. As designed, the individual suites consist of one and two bedrooms, with bath; also three rooms, with two baths. Three duplex suites, consisting of a large living room, two bedrooms and baths, are to be included in the building. The living rooms in these suites are designed for dancing and as an additional attraction include an open, wood-burning fireplace. These suites have excellent built-in closets, valets' service rooms, and all equipment and appointments of the most modern character. The first floor has been designed as an office and apartment for a doctor and including a reception room, office, operating room, foyer, bedroom, bath and separate lavatory.

When desired, the management of "Knickerbocker Chambers" will provide hotel and valet service. The building is located in close proximity to the principal clubs and is central to all of the city's attractions.

There has been a consistently growing demand for small suites in this section of the city. Several plottages have been assembled in the various side streets adjacent to Madison and Park avenues and new structures erected on the site, or the old buildings remodelled. At the present time there is a decided shortage of three and four-room suites, with kitchen, or kitchenette, and the prices obtained are high enough to insure a good return to the owner on his investment.

In Madison avenue, north and south of Fifty-ninth street, there are numerous examples of where old four-story dwellings have been converted into store and apartment properties, and a vacancy is a rare thing. Good rentals are obtained for the stores, usually from those classes of tenants who cater to the wants of the immediate neighborhood.

One of the principal problems that the owners have to face is the elimination of the Tenement House Department, and, in order to avoid violations, many have adopted the plan of making two of the suites with kitchens, while the others are of the non-housekeeping variety.

Even in the newer houses it is rare to find more than one vacancy in a building, and in many instances the entire structures are leased to small families.

It is only a question of time before the private residence will be a thing of the past in this section, with the exception of that zone immediately adjacent to Fifth avenue.

WEST SIDE STORAGE HOUSE PROJECT

Wortmann & Braun, Architects.

THE Chelsea Storage Warehouse Company, Louis Schramm, president, is erecting a new nine-story warehouse and garage, in the south side of 107th street, 225 feet west of Columbus avenue, on a plot 100x100.11, which, when completed, will be one of the most modern structures of its type in the city. D. Wortmann and H. H. Braun are the architects. The floors are designed for heavy storage and will carry 150 lbs. load per square foot. Two freight and one passenger elevators will be installed. The floors are waterproofed and pitched to front and rear. The second story, of one side of the building, is to be used for piano storage and is so arranged that two pianos can be stored, one over the other. There will be a mezzanine floor over the office, for show room purposes, and two large silver vaults will be provided. Roofs will be concreted and arranged for open storage. The first two stories, of half the building, will be used for the storage of automobiles and heavy trucks. The facade will be of a light colored brick, dark brick for panels and blue stone for trimmings.

BUILDING CODE REVISION.

A New Chairman for the Building Committee—Ordinances in Preparation.

For several weeks the office of chairman of the Building Committee of the Board of Aldermen has been vacant, since Alderman Hamilton resigned to accept the office of Deputy State Treasurer. The vacancy was filled this week by the appointment of Alderman J. McNally, of 603 Beach Terrace in the 34th Aldermanic district, as a member of the committee and his subsequent election as chairman. The committee is charged with the duty of revising the Building Code, with Rudolph P. Miller, C. E., formerly Superintendent of Buildings, appointed by the Board of Aldermen, to assist the committee as editor.

A preliminary draft of an ordinance relative to iron and steel construction is now in course of preparation, and Mr. Miller will arrange personal interviews to discuss any of the provisions, if desired. Since the existing code was promulgated, in December, 1899, the city has had a wonderful era of steel construction. Most of the skyscrapers have been erected within that period.

This proposed ordinance makes little change in the present practice regarding iron and steel construction. Mr. Miller said this week:

"Reference to wrought iron columns is omitted, as these columns are no longer used.

"On cast iron columns more specific provision is made as to the flanges at top and bottom.

"In steel column construction provision is added to the present requirements that columns spliced must be riveted.

"The thickness of outstanding angles on steel columns is also limited.

"A little more detailed requirements are provided for column bases of cast iron or steel.

"The provisions of the present law as to cast iron lintels are continued. It might be questioned whether their limited use now justifies any provision in the Building Code.

"In regard to steel beams and girders there is some question as to the proper ratio of length of the compression flange to the width of such flange. The preliminary draft fixes the ratio at 20, whereas there have been suggestions to allow as much as 40.

"While wrought iron has gone generally out of use for structural work, there is some question as to whether there is still any chance of its being used for bolts. If it is, should not possibly some provision be made for working stresses on wrought iron?

"Section 110 of the present Building Code provides for the enclosing of wall columns in a specified amount of brick work or masonry. In actual practice this applies really to fireproof construction. The question is raised whether it should possibly not also apply to buildings generally in which steel frame construction is used."

An ordinance in relation to working stresses and loads is also in preparation.

Madison Square Improvement.

During the last few months interest has been centered largely in the new building projects of size, which have been started, the last and one of the most important of which being the improvement of the old Hoffman House site, in the west side of Broadway, between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth streets, owned by the Francis S. Kinney estate.

The property, together with the old Albemarle Hotel adjoining, at the northwest corner of Broadway and Twenty-fourth street, will be improved with a sixteen-story office and store building, plans for which have been prepared by H. Craig Severance and William Van Alen, architects, 4 West Thirty-seventh street. The Thompson-Starrett Co., 51 Wall street, has been awarded the general contract. The hotel will close its doors on March 15, and one month later possession will be given to the wreckers and the active work started on the operation. The Albemarle hotel discontinued a couple of months ago, on account of the construction of the new subway.

It has been estimated that the new building will cost about $900,000 and will cover a ground area of about 22,000 square feet, the combined properties having a Broadway frontage of 159 feet and measuring 191 feet in Twenty-fourth street, the other dimensions being irregular. The new structure is designed to be ready for occupancy in the spring of 1916.

No attempt has been made to follow any particular style of architecture, but the facade will be plain and severe in appearance, in direct contrast to the Hoffman House, which was considered one of the most over-decorated buildings of its time, thousands of dollars having been spent for stone carving.

One of the features of the building is that the fronts of the first four floors will be almost entirely of glass, only enough steel sash being used to insure safety. This is the first time that glass has been brought to this height, there being instances where two and three stories have been treated in this way, but never four stories. The principal idea of the architects is to provide the maximum amount of light and air.

Plan for "All Americas" Building.

At the dinner of the Pan American States Association in the Hotel McAlpin Wednesday evening, February 24, it was announced that plans were well advanced for the erection of a fifty-five story structure at Broadway and 55th street. A committee was named and included the following, to appoint the permanent officers and to direct the erection of the building: George Foster Peabody, Alton B. Parker, Ogden Mills Reid, John D. Crimmins, Dr. E. R. L. Gould, John Hays Hammond, Amos Pinchot, Henry Ford, Joseph Emery, Charles Ferguson, R. P. V. Ritter, Pahnor J. Eder, Manuel Gonzales, C. R. Macauley, Carl Laemle, Henry White and John Barrett. Plans were prepared some time ago by Francis H. Kimball, architect, 71 Broadway, and full particulars of the building were announced in the Record & Guide October 4, 1913, but the project was postponed.

Plans Completed for Broadway Loft.

Maynicke & Franke, architects, 25 East 26th street, have completed plans and will be ready for bids about March 1 for the erection of a store and loft building at the northeast corner of Broadway and 26th street, for the Estate of Frederick Ayer, Boston, Mass. Pattison Bros., 1182 Broadway, are the steam and electric engineers. The structure will be of brick, limestone and terra cotta, on a plot 105x51 feet, and will be sixteen stories in height. The cost is estimated at about $800,000.

Contract Awarded for Woolworth Residences.

John I. Downey, Inc., 410 West 34th street, has received the general contract to erect the two residences at 4 and 8 East 80th street for Frank W. Woolworth, from plans by C. P. H. Gilbert, architect, 1123 Broadway. Full particulars of the operation were announced in a recent issue of the Record and Guide.

L. A. Sheinart Plans Annex to Home.

Louis A. Sheinart, architect, 194 Bowery, is preparing plans for a five-story annex to the Home of the Sons and Daughters of Israel to be erected at 230-232 East 10th street, and adding an additional story to the present building. The new building and the additional story to present building to be of fireproof construction. A new passenger elevator will be installed. The front to be of lime stone and front brick. Cost of construction is $40.000.

Narrowest Broadway Office Building.

J. C. Green, architect, 2 Columbus Circle, has prepared plans for the construction of a 12-story office building at 1562 Broadway, adjoining the Palace theatre. It will have a frontage of 20 feet in Broadway and a depth of 80 feet. It will be one of the smallest office buildings in the city. The facade is to be limestone and terra cotta, in French Renaissance style of architecture. The L. F. H. & M. Company is the owner. It will cost $65,000.

NEW POST OFFICE TO MEET DEMAND

Shampan & Shampan, Architects.

IN order to meet the growing demands in the Ridgewood section of Brooklyn, a new post office, known as Station J, was recently opened. The building was designed by Shampan & Shampan, of 772 Broadway, architects, and is one story high, on a plot 66x126.6x irregular, covering an area of about 6,600 square feet. It is located in the south side of Myrtle avenue, 96 feet west of Madison street. The facade is in Roman classic style of architecture, of red textile brick, laid up in Flemish bond, with white pebble dash joints and Indiana limestone trimmings. The lighting system is the semi-indirect type. The building is owned by Welz & Zerweck, brewers, and is leased by the United States Government. Louis Kalischer, contracting engineer, installed the lighting system.

PERSONAL AND TRADE NOTES.

AUDLEY CLARKE, building materials, is spending a few weeks in the South.

ROBERT W. DE FOREST, former Tenement House Commissioner, is touring the West Indies.

WALTER S. SCHNEIDER, architect, has moved his offices to 12 West 31st st. Telephone 8690 Madison Square.

F. H. FAYE TUCKER, of the firm of Renwick, Aspinwall & Tucker, 320 Fifth av, has sailed for Bermuda, W. I., to be gone until April 1.

ALBERT STURR, architect, formerly connected with Esenwein & Johnson, Buffalo, N. Y., is practicing his profession at 63 East 179th st, N. Y. City.

SAMUEL SASS AND GEORGE W. SPRINGSTEEN, JR., have formed a partnership for the practice of architecture under the firm name of Sass & Springsteen, architects, 32 Union sq.

SENATOR HENRY M. SAGE, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, has named Senators Lockwood, of Brooklyn, and Bennett, of Manhattan, to investigate the State Architect's office.

A. LOWENBEIN'S SONS, interior decorators and furniture dealers, now at 588 5th av, will move to more spacious quarters at 13 East 47th st, as soon as extensive alterations are completed.

G. LESLIE RYDER, architect, has opened offices at 42 Market st, Poughkeepsie, where he will resume the practice of his profession. Mr. Ryder was until recently the acting secretary and general manager of the Ryder Motor Co.

TREDWELL & KRAFT, architects, 3407 Michigan av, Indiana Harbor, Ind., whose offices and contents were entirely destroyed by fire recently, desire catalogues, samples and price lists from manufacturers interested in the building trades.

WIRING THE HOUSE.

it is perhaps wise for the architect and builder to give the owner, at a trifling additional cost, the choice of using either system by providing auxiliary outlets.

The idea seems to prevail that electrical household appliances are expensive to operate. As a matter of fact many of them consume very little current, though of necessity a few are high in first cost.

Cost of Operation.

Note the following examples of what ten cents' worth of electric current (at 10c per Kw.Hr.) will do: It will operate 16 candle-power light (Mazda) 50 hours; an 8-inch fan for 50 to 75 hours; toaster, for 12 minutes each day, 10 days; coffee percolator, 15 minutes each day, for 10 days; water sterilizer, to produce 10 gallons; vacuum cleaner (portable), ½ hour daily, for 25 days; flat-iron (6 lbs.), 3 to 4 hours, with great saving of laundress' time; washing-machine with wringer, 8 hours for say 3 or 4 wash days; chafing dish, 2 to 4 hours, equivalent to 4 to 8 times; vibrator, 10 minutes daily for 240 days; heating pad, about 30 to 60 hours; sewing machine, 12½ hours' continuous running; curling iron, 16 hours, and luminous radiator, 2 to 4 hours.

As a matter of fact, many of these appliances would generally be used on special circuits with a rate of possibly 5 or 6 cents for current and run about twice as long for 10 cents.

With the current at 5 cents per unit (kilowatt hours) electric ranges for six persons will cost to operate: Breakfast—cereal, boiled ham, saute potatoes and muffins, 9 cents; dinner—soup, roast, 2 vegetables and pudding, 20 cents; or, for a simple meal—lamb chops, string beans, potatoes and pudding, 10 cents.

Explanations of Electrical Terms.

The ampere (a) designates the rate of flow of a certain unit of electricity.

Volts (v) designates electrical pressure or potential, as one would use the term pounds per square inch pressure in water service. Lighting circuits in buildings are commonly of 110 volts.

Watts (w) designates electrical energy as "horsepower" (H.P.) expresses energy in mechanics. Watt is the product of volts (pressure) times amperes (rate of flow). 1,000 watts equal 1 kilowatt (K.W.). 746 watts are equal to 33,000 foot pounds or 1 H.P. 1 kilowatt (K.W.) is equal to 1 1/3 H.P. Reduced to incandescent electric lighting usage 1 carbon lamp of 16 candlepower consumes about ½ ampere at 110 volts (3.1 watts per candlepower) or about 50 watts, or approximately 20 lamps to the kilowatt, or 15 lamps to the horsepower.

Tungsten (Mazda) lamps give an average of nearly 1 candlepower per watt, or three times as much illumination for the same expenditure of current as the carbon filament lamp.

Electrical energy is generally charged for at a given rate per kilowatt-hour—1 kilowatt for period of 1 hour. Example: 100 volts—10 ampere—1 hour equals 1 Kw. Hr.

Architects are often called upon to plan buildings in localities remote from their own, with consequent difficulty in obtaining information on local ordinances affecting electrical installations.

The Society for Electrical Development, 29 West 39th street, Manhattan, has, in its library, ordinances of the majority of cities in the United States, and its files may be freely consulted by architects.

BUILDING MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

BIGGER VALUE FOR 1915 BUILDING PLANS THAN IN CORRESPONDING PERIOD LAST YEAR—CEMENT WAR NEAR END

For Price Adjustments—Steadier Tone

FEBRUARY doubtless will go down into building material history as an epoch-making month. First, there was a general reaction in the price of Portland cement. Glass dropped ten points in discounts on certain kinds of business. Hydrated lime was variously quoted early in the month. Some grades of lumber weakened perceptibly from official lists and steel remained at low levels. Pig iron has hardly been a factor and flashing and tin have been too stiff to encourage much business.

Portland cement for a week has been quoted by certain companies at the basis of 55 and 60 cents, mill. But prospects are good for an early termination of the war that has lost sight of selling profits entirely and has done more damage to the trade commercially than years of creative work have accomplished, save to those concerns that have held aloof from the whirlpool that personal jealousies and highly competitive business policies have created. Negotiations are under way for a speedy adjustment of differences, which probably will mean a complete capitulation by the companies originally causing the trouble.

The demand for window and plate glass is bringing about a firmer discount list although some companies have persisted in quoting lower than 90-30 for the latter. Specifiers can still make advantageous glass purchases if they can move it direct to jobs and discount their bills. Lime is steadier. The supply is somewhat diminished which has brought prices to a firmer tone. Kilns are beginning to reopen for the spring. Brick is steadier at $5.75 to $6.00 wholesale, dock, New York. There is more moving out now at $6 than there were two weeks ago at $5.75.

Lumber, as a whole is a little firmer than it was at the first of the month. Lath, shingling, siding and shingle lath are featureless. There is some speculation in one or two lines, but plenty of full plaster lath can be bought here for $3.75. Hardwoods are beginning to show a tendency to get back to list. Structural steel is without change in quotation although there are some who believe that in the February unbilled tonnage shows a gain over the 4,248,371 reported on the last day of January, prices of structural steel in this market may be expected to move up. Just as soon as that occurs architects may expect a similar movement in other lines. If February with only twenty-two business days can show a better tonnage than January, a full month, one of the great props of the chronic pessimist will be knocked from under him. There are some big railroad orders pending that are expected to bring the February tonnage up to, if not in excess of, the January total.

The American Steel & Wire Company is having no trouble in getting the extra dollar recently levied for its products, probably because no differential on galvanized was made, as previous prices had been based upon eight-cent spelter. If this commodity advances in price another increase in the price of wire goods may be looked for. The week closed with spelter stiffening. This will effect fence wire especially and the demand for fencing material probably will increase immediately. Jobbers already are laying in extra supplies. Any advance by jobbers will be immediately reflected by hardware merchants to consumers.

Plan filings in the five boroughs follow. In the corresponding week last year 141 new building plans were filed. Their estimated value was $782,015. From January 1 to February 27, last year there were 1,267 new building plans filed with an estimated value of $15,383,172. In the same period this year there were 1,290 new building plans filed valued at $23,100,000.

PORTLAND CEMENT.

A Word to the Consuming Trade About Price Cutting.

PORTLAND cement is passing throug hthe most acute stage in its history. There is a death grapple on between certain recalcitrant manufacturers and the so-called big companies, designed to effect retaliation upon the one hand for certain alleged agreement violations made by the other side. The larger manufacturers, however, claim they have not violated any obligations and that the price cutting was started by the smaller companies to embarrass those who have heavy overhead and selling costs to carry at a time when they were at a disadvantage, especially following a depression and in some cases prolonged curtailment of output.

The specifying architect and owner should not be disturbed by the prices being promiscuously quoted. Practically every manufacturer stands ready to take business in the same grade of cement as his competitor but these prices are only for immediate delivery and are subject to change without notice. Here and there quotations have been made at prices far below the cost of manufacture, but these quotations do not make a market any more than do those brands of Portland cement which sell for $2 a barrel and over. If a dealer can be found who has not stacked his stores with cement and is ready to take two or three car loads, do his own trucking and pay cash for what he buys he can, undoubtedly, make a very advantageous deal at a price far below the nominal quotation of $1.42, but such a case is extremely rare.

The fact is that practically every dealer in cement in the metropolitan district has long since filled his store houses and, save for small quantities that he can move out from car to job, he cannot take advantage of the prices now ruling and make a profit, after paying storage and counting off depreciation.

There is always a come-back to the company that forces a cutting. Consumers are human and if a company once sells cement at a price far below normal, it is expected, after other companies have moved back to sane levels, to continue to dispose of the product at the same figure. If not the customer is likely to shift his patronage to the concern which has followed a safer and saner business policy. The quotations made at extreme low prices cover only immediate riding and discounted bills, and in large quantities.

GLASS.

Export Business Improving—Domestic Demand Better.

FEBRUARY glass business is reported to be improving, both on domestic and export trade. The quotations placed on a new level in January is said to have developed considerable speculative buying, especially since some of the larger companies have been guaranteeing orders against decline up to the first of April. Not all interests are willing to take business on this basis, but there is enough of it moving to bring out new specifications, principally from jobbers, however.

Distributors in Newark, Brooklyn and Manhattan say that if the volume of business that is developing is any sign of the tendency in building construction spring requirements will be strong. Most of the bookings call for qualities of glass which usually go into industrial and inexpensive speculative operations.

Plate glass approaches March with a distinct tendency toward a former base. There is less shading on current lists.

TILE.

Domestic Manufacturers Planning to Absorb European Trade.

ART tile manufacturers of the Perth Amboy Trenton and East Liverpool sections are making preparations for handling a volume of domestic business this year that promises to break all records. Practically all foreign tile has been shut out of this market by the war. The result is that American producers are reporting an increasing volume of business, not only for home, but for foreign consumption. Some South American business has developed in some of the Perth Amboy and Trenton plants, but as most of this business involves long term credits with a part of the world whose financial credits have not been entirely satisfactorily arranged, preference is being given to domestic business.

Some plants which have been working at from 40 to 65 per cent of capacity for a year or more are now running at 75 per cent of capacity. East Liverpool, Ohio, tile plants are reporting increased activities. In the mean time prices have been quoted low. In this line contracts have been taken at prices which indicate keen competition, but the trade has expectations that as the specifying architects come to a fuller realization of what American manufacturers can produce in comparison with the English and Flemish tiles they have been using, that quotations will not be crowded so close to the profit margin line as the demand for better grades of tile develops. Many plants are putting in new machinery and enlarging their equipment in anticipation of a period of big tile business.

COMMON BRICK.

Holiday Cuts Into Unloading Movement—Dealers Ride From Stacks.

DEALERS in building materials are riding brick from stack so as to make room for cement at the low levels now prevailing. With the Hudson River practically open to Poughkeepsie and a fair supply assured from barge to job many supply men are taking a chance on a spell of real winter level when the market temporarily may be caught short of brick. In consequence the movement of brick from barge to job and from barge to stack this week was light. The brick now moving was bought when the price was $5.50, and dealers are obliged to move it out early to save the overhead that begins to sap profits on bargain purchases when it is held too long.

Official transactions for Hudson River brick covering the week ending Thursday, Feb. 25, in the wholesale market, with comparison for the corresponding period last year and a comparative statement of Hudson brick unloaded from barges for consumption here, follows:

LUMBER.

New York and New Jersey Manufacturers Expect Good Spring.

SPRING orders in paints and varnishes give encouragement to manufacturers. Distributors in this city say they are finding a good outlet for alteration and some interior renovation work in varnishes and allied commodities. Ready mixed paints have not developed particular strength at this time, but those expecting to use paints in any quantity will do well to get into the market early. Waterproofing paints are weak on demand, partly because structural steel work is still below normal. Some interests in this department look for conditions similar to those now prevailing in the cement market.

The present state of the linseed market is not conducing to early advancement of prices in paints and varnishes, but pigments are hard to obtain owing to the war and this is said to be keeping this commodity in a fairly balanced price level. Paint prices are not expected to shift materially at present.

Varnish is approaching its best season. Manufacturers say it is hard to obtain gum for good varnishes and some threaten to shift prices upward toward the latter part of next month. Favorable datings are being given by both paint and varnish manufacturers to induce dealers to place orders early.

REAL ESTATE RECORD AND BUILDERS GUIDE.

WHERE THE NEXT LAND BOOM WILL START

The Fourth Avenue and Sea Beach Divisions of the Dual Subway System to be in Operation July First—A Big Building Movement to Follow

THE city is on the edge of another speculative movement in real estate, one which will have a definite point of origin and will receive fresh acceleration from time to time from other quarters during a period of years.

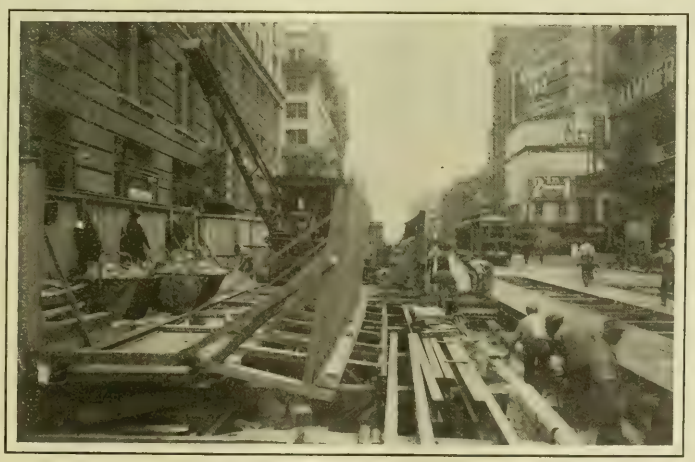
The movement will follow from the opening of a new subway traffic system, just as the previous movement resulted from the operation of the first subway lines. Within a few months, probably some time during the month of July, trains will be running from City Hall to Coney Island through the Fourth avenue tube and over the new Sea Beach division.

For a number of years the real estate market has been waiting for a fresh impulse. Here is one coming. The prediction is made on the basis of a market's past experience. Every forward leap it has taken in the last half century has resulted from the opening up of fresh territory to development by new lines of transit. The original subway lines gave us a new East Bronx, a new Morningside Heights and a new Washington Heights. The first results from the new Dual System will be a new Bay Ridge and a greatly improved Fourth avenue section in Brooklyn.

The Sea Beach division is ninety-nine per cent. completed. A splendid four-track high-speed electric railroad, depressed below the surface on a stone-balasted roadbed between retaining walls of concrete masonry. It intercepts both the Fourth avenue subway and the Fifth avenue elevated, and is being built by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company. Station platforms are at Eighth avenue, Fort Hamilton avenue, New Utrecht avenue, Eighteenth avenue, Twentieth avenue, Twenty-second avenue, Kings Highway, Avenue U and 86th street. Last week the Public Service Commission approved of the proposed award of the construction of nine station buildings to Post & McCord (Inc.) for $331,163.

The Fourth avenue division has been seven years under construction, and from Manhattan Bridge to 43d street, it is 100 per cent. completed. The extension from 43d street to 61st street, which has been under construction since October, 1912, is officially 84 per cent. completed.

At the office of the Public Service Commission this week it was said that the expectation is that trains from the Sea Beach division will be running through the Fourth avenue tunnel to Manhattan Bridge and City Hall on or about July 1. This is the first time that the officials have been willing to set a date for this event. As soon as Spring opens the first signs of the big speculation should be discerned—auction sales of lots and purchases of large blocks of lots by builders.



Owing to atrocious traffic accommodations in the section to be served by the Sea Beach division, there has been, in anticipation of the opening of the road, less immigration than there otherwise would have been, and not a few tenants have left the district. Tracts along the line are still being farmed, and for all practical purposes it is still in part an undeveloped territory from the point of view of the city builder.

"A year ago there was scarcely a high-class real estate broker in Manhattan who could be induced to even give consideration to any part of Brooklyn as a field for operations," says William E. Harmon. "Within the past month, not less than three or four have asked us for advice concerning the Sea Beach line, values, etc., and now, to my mind, all these things point to one clear conclusion, and that is either before, or immediately following the opening of the Sea Beach subway, all the cheap land along this subway will be picked, and picked up by men who understand how to create a big public interest in things in which they have secured a prior interest.

"The significance of this little center of activity to the whole Borough of Brooklyn is very clear, when we appreciate that, step by step, new lines of transportation will be completed. Each to be accompanied by a like upward movement, and renewed real estate activity. Like a snow ball, this will gain size, so that at the time of the completion of the subway programme, the whole Borough of Brooklyn (except probably that section lying north of Atlantic avenue and west of Clinton avenue), will enjoy a period of real estate prosperity such as we have never before witnessed."

Local brokers and operators say that the Sea Beach section would have been in a more advanced state but for the poor transit facilities. With high-speed express trains running from Kings Highway to City Hall in twenty-five minutes, there is bound to be a great accession of population as soon as homes are provided. Disappointment over the long delay in furnishing the Fourth avenue line has also had a discouraging effect on builders.

The new development will consist mainly of private dwellings at first, it is said, but with stores and tenements near the stations. Lots for improvement with dwellings are quoted at $1,200 on the average at present, which is a price that offers a very fair opportunity for homeseekers.

SUBWAY CONSTRUCTION—THE "BOARD WALK" IN TIMES SQUARE.

The participation of the Fourth avenue section in the expected building movement will be of a different nature. The section is for the most part improved, and during all the years since the construction of the underground road was legally authorized, the benefits to be derived have been to some degree anticipated. It will be a varied development, with larger units than the Sea Beach operators will deal with, and it will be a slower movement.

The most uncertain element in the case comes from the fact that there will be other rapid transit lines opened later on and that other new sections of the city will then share in the development. For that reason no one should expect to see repeated in the Bay Ridge, Sea Beach and Fourth avenue sections of Brooklyn the same amount of speculation and as rapid construction as followed the opening of the first Manhattan and Bronx subway divisions.

While it will be, at the start, a more moderate movement, it will be one which will be lasting, and as new rapid transit lines are opened next year in Queens and the year after in Manhattan and the Bronx and other parts of Brooklyn it will spread all over the city in time. The Sea Beach movement will therefore simply be the beginning of greater things.

The alien labor troubles were suddenly terminated this week by the injunction granted by the U. S. Supreme Court.

STATE HAS PLANS FOR MARKETS HERE

Four Already Arranged For—Railroads Will Build Three—Co-Operative Companies to Lease and Manage Under State Supervision

THE State of New York, doubtful of the readiness of the City of New York to undertake the permanent solution of the food distributing problem here, has organized the Department of Foods and Markets, which is now working out plans for a dozen or more terminal wholesale markets to be built with private capital under the supervision of the State.

The Department has opened an office at 71 West 23d street. John J. Dillon of Orange county, editor of the Rural New Yorker, is Commissioner, and Ezra A. Tuthill is Deputy Commissioner. Both have the fullest knowledge of conditions on the farm and in the city concerning food production and distribution. Mr. Tuthill was three years ago a member of the State Food Investigating Commission, serving without pay, and, although a retired Brooklyn lawyer of means, has been a practical and scientific grower of farm crops on Long Island for twenty-five years.

Primarily in the Farmers' Interests.

Speaking of the proposed terminals, Mr. Tuthill said:

"These receiving terminals for foodstuffs were organized primarily for the benefit of New York State farm crop producers, but it was soon recognized that, in order to make the terminals a success, that a much wider range of merchandise must be dealt in; that there must be assembled under one roof nearly everything the retailer needs to make up or replenish his stock. It has been the failure to follow this plan that has caused the failure of a large number of wholesale co-operative or corporation markets. Products will be brought to these terminals from all parts of the world."

The markets will be built at points where they will have both rail and water communication whenever possible. The sites selected in Manhattan so far are: (1) at Manhattanville; (2) at Twelfth avenue, 34th and 35th streets; (3) near 14th street and North River, or near the present Gansevoort Market; and three others on the East Side waterfront.

Of the four or more markets which the Bronx will need, one will have to be situated on a railroad line near the geographical center; one will be at Mott Haven on the Harlem and one at Dyckman street and North River.

The sites of the proposed terminals for Brooklyn and Queens will be at Long Island City, near Newtown Creek, at Bush Terminal, Wallabout Basin, over the Carlton avenue yard of the Long Island Railroad, and still another at East New York. Staten Island will also need one.

A Co-operative Company.

Regarding the financing and administration of the markets Deputy Commissioner Tuthill said:

"We are organizing a co-operative operating company, under the supervision of the State Department of Foods and Markets, to lease the terminal buildings and to finance the entire work of the operation of the merchandising. It is not proposed that the State shall go into the business. Under the provisions of the co-operative corporation law, passed in 1913, as an additional article to the business corporation law, which was one of the results of our work, these companies are permitted to become the lessees of the receiving terminals and warehouses, and they will be in active charge of the distribution.

"They will not only have charge of the immediate distribution of fresh, perishable goods direct to the retailer, but will run a cold storage and a dry storage plant, and they will manufacture such perishable fruits and vegetables as would otherwise be lost into canned goods and preserves, marmalades, pickles, dried and evaporated fruits.

"In the organization of this co-operative operating corporation we propose to enlist the producing men, capitalists and the retail dealers and consumers, including the large hotel proprietors, as investors. The proposed capitalization is $500,000. The preliminary organization has been effected.

Four Terminals Assured.

"We now have the positive assurance of the establishment of four large terminals each 100 feet in depth and 400 feet and upward in width and eight or nine stories in height. One of these will be built by the New York Central Railroad at its 34th street and Twelfth avenue property on the North River front, another by the Bush Terminal Company on its South Brooklyn property; one by the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad in the Bronx, and another by the Long Island Railroad at Dutch Kills Creek near Newtown Creek, Long Island City.

"The beginning of the construction of the New York Central terminal, at 34th street and Twelfth avenue, in Manhattan, is awaiting the consent of the Board of Estimate for the laying of the rails. The long and much vexing question of the future location of the railroad tracks on Eleventh avenue is involved, and it is not known whether the tracks will be laid on the surface, overhead or beneath the surface. Their location will affect the plans of the terminal, and we await a general settlement of the whole question.

"The market at Mott Haven will be built in connection with the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad. We will enlarge the present market building at that point and put up the extra stories for cold and dry storage and manufacturing. The work will be done by the railroad under our supervision. They will have facilities for lightering cars from the Pennsylvania Railroad and for the receipt of stuff from New England and the Pennsylvania Railroad by way of the New York Connecting Railroad. They will make charges for transportation moderate."

The department is also working out plans for several of the up-State cities, but it is realized that the first and most important undertaking to be carried out is in New York City.

THE WEST AND SOUTHERN ELEVATION OF THE PROPOSED NEW TERMINAL MARKET AT 34TH STREET AND NORTH RIVER.

The solid walls indicate the cold storage space. The windows light up the dry storage lofts. Beyond this is a one-story shed. Loaded cars enter from the west end by four tracks. The market will have a capacity of 80 cars and will load over 300 wagons or trucks at one time. Elevators will carry the goods to storage lofts. The top story will be fitted up for a manufacturing plant to take care of tender and surplus products.

A Market Hearing At Albany.

Two events at Albany this week had a bearing on the subject of markets. Mayor Mitchel's bill to authorize the city to construct a terminal railroad along the Brooklyn waterfront was passed by the Senate. The enactment of the bill, which is now assured, will mean greatly enlarged facilities for the contemplated public markets.

The second event was the hearing granted by the Joint Committee on Affairs of Cities on the Market Department bill, introduced by Senator Mills at the request of the Mayor's Committee on Food Supply. The bill sets up a Department of Markets in this city to be headed by a Commissioner. All rules and regulations adopted by the Commissioner must be approved by the Board of Estimate. Open retail markets are not contemplated by the bill.

Victor K. McElheny, Jr., led the opposition to the bill, on the ground of added cost to the city. He said he spoke for twenty-seven organizations of real estate men.

THE VARIED TENANCY OF 116TH STREET

All Classes of Construction Represented in Crosstown Artery—Increasing Population Has Encouraged Places of Amusement

IN the 1914 report of the Commissioner of Taxes and Assessments, buildings are classified into ten divisions: The one-family dwelling; the two-family dwelling; tenements without elevators; hotels and elevator apartment houses, warehouses, loft buildings and department stores; office buildings; factories; stables and garages; theatres and special structures. In connection with 116th street it is interesting to note that each class has its representation, which is the more unusual when it is considered that the thoroughfare is one of the shortest of the important crosstown streets, practically ending at Morningside Park, and extending only thirteen blocks.

LOOKING EAST IN 116TH STREET.

VIEW OF KILPATRICK SQUARE.

The one and two-family dwellings are to be found in great numbers, east of Third avenue; tenements without elevators are located in all parts of the thoroughfare. The elevator apartment houses are mainly in the vicinity of Morningside avenue, although there are several further east, notably Graham Court, an eight-story structure owned by William Waldorf Astor, and occupying the block front on the east side of Seventh avenue, from 116th to 117th street.

At the extreme easterly end of 116th street, near the ferry that connects with the Manhattan State Hospital, at Ward's Island, are the warehouses and loft buildings, which include among others the big plant of the Standard Gas Light Company. At No. 179 to 185 East 116th street, the Harlem Branch of the Metropolitan Tobacco Company is established in a three-story, up-to-date loft building, the top floor being occupied by a skirt manufacturer. Office buildings are represented by the Bernheimer Building at the northwest corner of Lenox avenue and 116th street and by the four-story building at the southeast corner of Eighth avenue and 116th street. The factories are to be found east of Pleasant avenue. Between Lenox and Fifth avenues the Columbia Typewriter Company occupies a three-story structure with a frontage of 100 feet.

Division eight of the classification of buildings is represented by the stables of the Department of Street Cleaning, which occupies a large plot in the west side of the street near Pleasant avenue. The Borden Condensed Milk Company has its stables near Third avenue.

The theatres include the Regent, at the southwest corner of Seventh avenue and 116th street, on a plot 100.11x144 feet, built two years ago, by Robert S. Marvin, at an estimated cost of $150,000. The 116th Street Theatre is on the next block to the east and was erected two years ago, by the Ormond Realty Company, at an estimated cost of $140,000.

Altogether there are twelve moving picture theatres in 116th street. Between Eighth and Third avenues in the north side there are located the Crown, at No. 115 West; another at No. 11 West; the Mt. Morris theatre, and the Bunny. In the south side are the Regina theatre, the Princess, the Empress, the Atlantis and the Mecca, and, near First avenue, another which caters to the Italian colony in the neighborhood. At 2133 Eighth avenue, just south of 116th street, Hyman Sonn is building another motion picture theatre, at a cost of about $45,000.

The special structures not included in the above which are worthy of mention are the Sydenham Hospital with its affiliated institutions between First and Second avenues; two churches, the East Harlem Presbyterian Church and the Grace Emmanuel P. E. Church, both between Second and Third avenues, and one Temple, Ohab Zedek, just west of Fifth avenue, well known among Harlem Jewish religious institutions. Station I of the Post Office is located at No. 232 West.

The street has a supply of educational institutions, including Public School No. 184, one of the largest in the city; there is also an annex to Public School No. 57; the St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Settlement and the Sisterhood of the Temple of Israel.

A good deal of the political activity of the 28th Assembly District is centered in 116th street in the club houses of the regular Democratic and National Progressive District Organizations and the headquarters of the Austro-Hungarian Progressive Club. The Harlem Economic League also maintains headquarters in this street. The City of New York has further representation at No. 219 East, where the third branch of the Detective Bureau of the Police Department is stationed, and at No. 420 East, where there is a tuberculosis clinic of the Board of Health. Among the prominent firms established in the street are the Riker and Hegeman Corporation, druggists, Friedman & Ebstein, furniture, and Simon Strauss, wholesale wines and liquors.

Six banks are located in 116th street and include the Colonial Bank, the Mutual Alliance Trust Company, Public Bank, Lionello Perera & Company, the Harlem Branch of the New York Produce Exchange Bank and Joseph S. Marcus & Sons.

Alfred V. Amy in discussing the situation said this week: "The large number of moving picture theatres established in 116th street, within recent years, reflects the increase of the population in the streets in the immediate vicinity, which seems interested in this form of amusement. The attraction of these crowds nightly, to the various theatres, has resulted in a traffic beneficial to the retail keepers in the neighborhood and incidentally strengthened both the property values and renting conditions. There is an excellent store demand, particularly in locations east and west of Lenox avenue, which may be called the hub of the street."

The principal activity is centered around Kilpatrick square, formed by the junction of St. Nicholas and Seventh avenues and 116th street. The name was derived from extensive holdings of the Kilpatrick family, many years ago, when the section was composed of farms. Splendid transit facilities have been provided for the section, for not only is the district fed by the subway, but also by the elevated system and several surface car lines, which issue transfers.

The thoroughfare does not end at Morningside Park, but continues westward on the Heights to the Hudson River, where are grouped a number of high-class elevator apartment houses, and the many beautiful structures associated with the various departments of Columbia University. The buildings in this section of 116th street furnish further interesting data in an examination of the street's developments.

In the west side of the street, east of Broadway, is the Columbia College Library, noted the world over for the beauty of its architecture.

REALTY'S DEMONSTRATION AT ALBANY

Important Hearings Draw Hundreds of Representatives of the City's Official and Business Life—Ripper Bills Coming Out Fast

THREE scheduled hearings drew a large company of men, and some ladies, representing New York City real estate, building and related interests to the State capital on Wednesday, several hundred persons in all. No less than one hundred and sixty-five composed the party under the guidance of the Conference Committee of Real Estate and Allied Organizations, to support the Lockwood bill.

Others were interested in the Markets Department bill, and still others in the bill repealing the powers of the Board of Estimate to limit the height of buildings. The hearing on the height limitation bill was deferred until next Wednesday, and the time of the Joint Cities Committee until nearly seven o'clock in the evening was devoted to the arguments for and against the other two measures.

Made a Good Impression.

The impression which the New York real estate men made and the influence they exerted were marked. "Whenever the real estate interests of the City of New York decide to stand as one for any single measure," it was remarked, "they will carry everything before them here." At the hearings under consideration real estate interests were divided on both bills. The Markets Department bill occupied the time until four o'clock, and then came the argument over the Lockwood bill to simplify and co-ordinate the inspection of buildings in this city. The Assembly Chamber was packed to the doors.

As all phases of the subject have been discussed in the Record and Guide, it is sufficient to say in respect to the arguments presented that there was no dissent from the proposition that property owners here are being imposed upon by over-regulation and also by its attendant expense, and the difference of opinion related to whether the various inspection departments and bureaus should be centralized in one city department, as provided for by the Citizens Union and other bills before the committee, or whether they should be reorganized after the plan proposed in the Lockwood bill, with one department in each borough and a central board of standards and a central board of examiners over all.

The Speakers.

The question being on the Lockwood bill, Secretary Binkerd, of the City Club; Commissioner Murphy, of the Tenement House Department; Commissioner Adamson, of the Fire Department; Alfred Marling, of the Allied Interests, and William M. Ivins, spoke in opposition; also, A. R. Watson, former Corporation Counsel; E. R. L. Gould; Francis Perkins, of the Committee of Safety; Joseph Hammitt, head of the Fire Prevention Bureau; Darwin R. James, Jr., of the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities; James Lynch, State Labor Commissioner; Dr. Haven Emerson, Deputy Health Commissioner; Mrs. Rosalie Loew Whitney, of the Women's Municipal League; William Williams, Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity; E. J. McGoldrick, Assistant Corporation Counsel, and George H. Bell, Commissioner of Licenses, and a letter was read from ex-Mayor Low.

Speakers in favor of the bill were Robert E. Simon, chairman of the Conference Committee on Real Estate and Allied Organizations, forty-eight in number, which had signified their adherence to this bill and including associations of owners, architects, builders and real estate operators and managers from every borough; President Walter Stabler, of the Metropolitan Life; Julius Franke, of the American Institute of Architects; Borough Presidents Marks, Pounds and Connelly; President McGuire, of the Real Estate Board, and Stewart Browne, president of the United Real Estate Owners.

ROBERT E. SIMON.
Chairman Conference Committee of Real Estate and Allied Organizations.

What the outcome of the hearing will be is problematical. If it should become apparent that the committee is unable to decide between the two methods of consolidation, a compromise bill is likely to be proposed, rather than permit present conditions to continue.

The following new bills have been introduced:

Assembly Bills.

A. 991. (Goldberg.) Amending the Greater New York Charter (Section 837), by directing the commissioner of docks to set aside a recreation pier at the foot of East 70th street on the East River. (Same as Assembly Int. 491, Pr. 496, of 1914, by Goldberg.)

A. 1042. (Callahan.) Authorizing the Board of Assessors of the city of New York to estimate and allow damages sustained by owners of real property fronting upon streets or roads running transversely underneath the Grand Boulevard and Concourse, caused by the erection of approaches from such streets or roads to such Grand Boulevard and Concourse.

A. 1081. (Smith.) Authorizing the Board of Estimate of New York City to consolidate, readjust, reorganize and reconsttiute the various departments, boards and bureaus insofar as their jurisdiction relates to the inspection, construction, alteration, conversion, equipment, occupancy or use of buildings. (Same as Senate bill introduced last week.)

A. 1088 (Simpson.) Amending the Tenement House Law (Sections 18, 22a, 23 and 66a), by permitting the construction of stairs and stairhall partitions of hollow cement blocks not less than four inches thick, which shall have successfully withstood a three-hour standard fire test. The same material may be used in the construction of tower fire-escapes or stairways, and for the enclosure of entrance halls and elevator shafts.

A. 1092. (Kelly.) Amending the Workmen's Compensation Law (Subdiv. 6 of Section 15), by providing that an employee who is suffering from a previous disability may enter into an agreement with his employer, subject to the approval of the Workmen's Compensation Commission, waving any claim for compensation for a later injury in excess of the compensation allowed for such injury when considered by itself and not in conjunction with the previous disability.

West Side Track Improvements.

A. 1106. (Ellenbogen.) Making the operation of trains at grade on the tracks of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Company in the streets of the Borough of Manhattan, New York City, a public nuisance. No action may be maintained, however, to abate the nuisance or enjoin the operation of trains within nine months after this act takes effect. The railroad company is authorized to prepare plans and profiles, in accordance with which the use of streets for railroad tracks at grade may be discontinued. In case the railroad company shall not desire to make an agreement under the provisions of this act, and shall submit to the Public Service Commission of the first district suitable plans and profiles within three months after this act shall have taken effect, then the public service commission shall cause plans and profiles to be prepared for the removal of railroad tracks at grade. Such plans and profiles must be approved by the board of estimate and apportionment.

Building Inspection.

A. 1107. (Flamman.) Inserting in the Greater New York Charter a new Chapter (IX-b), creating a Board of Building Standards to consist of the Fire Commissioner, Health Commissioner, Tenement House Commissioner, Commissioner of Buildings, and Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, the members of the board to serve without compensation. The Board of building standards is empowered to make investigations of the enforcement and effect of all laws, ordinances or departmental regulations relating to the construction, alteration, equipment, conversion, occupancy or use of buildings. It may make, amend or repeal rules and regulations, which shall take precedence over the rules and regulations of the fire, health, tenement house, buildings, and water supply, gas and electricity departments. The Board of Estimate and Apportionment is authorized, in its discretion, to change the membership in the board of building standards.

Another Tax On Real Estate.

A. 1110. (Green.) Amending the Greater New York Charter (Section 900 and new section 892-b), by imposing a tax upon the unearned increment, in addition to the general tax upon real estate. Two additional columns are provided in the books for the annual record of the assessed valuation of real estate, in the first of which shall be entered the basic value of each separately assessed parcel of real estate except special franchises; and in the second column there shall be set down the amount by which the assessed value of such real estate for the current year, assessed as if wholly unimproved, exceeds such basic value. This excess shall be deemed the unearned increment. The bill provides for a tax of one per cent. per annum upon all future unearned increments of land values. (Same as Senate Int. 824, Pr. 896, of 1914, by Simpson.)

A. 1120. (Thorn.) Amending the Labor Law (Subdiv. 2 of Section 52 and new subdiv. 5 of Section 51), by authorizing the Industrial Board to suspend the enforcement of mandatory requirements of the Labor Law, when upon investigation after written application, such requirements are deemed unnecessary, until the next regular session of the Legislature. At least three affirmative votes are necessary to the adoption of any order of suspension of any such mandatory requirements. There are other provisions requiring publication of such notice of suspension.

A. 1121. (Thorn.) Amending the Workmen's Compensation Law (Section 23) by permitting appeals from awards of the commission to the appellate division of the supreme court in any department. At present, such appeals must be taken to the appellate division of the third department.

A. 1122. (Thorn.) Amending the Workmen's Compensation Law (Section 28), by reducing from one year to six months the time after injury within which claims for compensation must be filed. The bill also reduces from one year to three months after death within which claims for compensation must be filed.

A. 1123. (Thorn.) Amending the Labor Law (Subdiv. 2 of Section 79-b), by making applicable to six-story buildings, the provisions of this section requiring all interior stairways serving as means of exit in buildings more than five stories high, and the landings, platforms and passageways, shall be enclosed on all sides by partitions of fire resisting material extending continuously from the basement.

A. 1126. (Thorn.) Amending the Workmen's Compensation Law (Section 17), by providing that compensation shall not be paid to dependents of aliens not residents of the United States at the time of the accident.

A. 1127. (Thorn.) Inserting in the Workmen's Compensation Law a new section (20-a), providing that any employer may advance to any injured employee, or the principal dependent of a deceased employee, on account of an award to be made by the commission. Money so advanced is advanced at the employer's risk.

Teachers Want More.

A. 1134. (Fertig.) Amending the Greater New York Charter (Section 1092), by providing for a tax of one-tenth of one mill shall be levied on each dollar of assessed valuation of real and personal property, for the public school teachers retirement fund.

A. 1140. (Oliver.) Amending the Greater New York Charter (Section 411), by including one member of the American Society of Engineers, Architects and Constructors among those who compose the board of examiners for the hearing of appeals from decisions of the superintendents of the buildings of the several boroughs.

FOR NEW SOURCES OF STATE REVENUE

State R. E. Association Has a Bill in Preparation to Derive an Income for Both State and City and Relieve Real Estate

A committee of the Real Estate Association of the State of New York is preparing a bill to uncover new sources of public revenue. Edwin R. Finch is chairman of the committee. The bill frankly grapples with the problem of personal property taxation, a "source" which has been heretofore little developed in this State as a subject of direct taxation. The position is taken that there is an almost universal sentiment among fair-minded persons that this class of property owes a tax-paying duty to the community equally with real estate. No fine spun theory is permitted to becloud this plain obvious fact. The effort has been made to find a way to place a tax upon the persons who have a tax-paying ability, arising from their ownership of property, whether tangible or intangible.

"Here in New York State, as in other States," says President M. Morgenthau, Jr., "where the old general property tax at full local rate has been imposed upon securities and personalty, the result has caused universal evasion. Because the efforts which have been made in other states to strengthen the administration of this unjust law with a view to compelling disclosures has universally failed, the recourse to the classification of personal property and the subjection of it to taxation at a lower rate than is imposed upon real estate, has been neglected.

"This plan, which is now proposed, contains nothing revolutionary or even novel. It has been introduced in one form or another in nearly all of the Eastern States where there are large holdings of personal property. Maryland, for instance, passed such an Act in January, 1896. The Law went into effect the following year. The rate, including both State and local taxes, amounted to .57¾, against a rate in Baltimore, which had previously prevailed, of about 2.00. The assessment at the new rate increased on this class of securities alone from six million dollars to $58,703,795. So that while the rate was reduced one-quarter, the amount of taxes realized was increased three-fold. This amount has steadily increased until for the year 1915, the total assessment is $208,431,712. Compared with the assessment of $6,000,000 in 1896 the increase is over 33 per cent. As Allan C. Girdwood, secretary of the Maryland Tax Commission says: "The result demonstrates conclusively that this class of property can be taxed."

"Similar results have been obtained in other States, such as Minnesota, where with a rate of 3 mills introduced in 1911 the assessment has jumped from about $14,000,000 in 1910 to nearly $200,000,000 in 1914. It is interesting to note what the Minnesota Tax Commission says regarding this tax after it has been in operation only two years: 'We believe it is a decided improvement over the old method of taxing money and credits, because it is more equitable and will eventually produce more revenue than the old system did. Above all, it makes for good citizenship, because it reduces the premium on dishonesty, and permits men to be truthful in the tax statements without the fear of having their property confiscated in excessive tax rates.'

"In Pennsylvania a flat rate of 4 mills on each dollar of value of intangible property uniform for the whole State is imposed. Three-fourths of this tax has of recent years been returned to the several counties, the remainder going into the State treasury; but, beginning with 1914, all of the tax from this source is to go into the local treasuries. The amount of property assessed shows the same remarkable growth from year to year as in other states. From about $160,000,000 in 1885, we find over $600,000,000 in 1894, about $900,000,000 in 1904, and about one and one-half billion in 1914.

"The proposed bill will follow very closely the precedents established by Pennsylvania and Maryland. All intangible personal property which is income producing will be placed in one class and assessed by State authorities at a rate which will probably be established at between 2½ and 4 mills. The proceeds from this tax will probably be divided, 70 per cent. going to the locality and 30 per cent. to the State. Experts have figured that the holdings of this class of personal property, which should be assessable with an efficient administration of the law, at four thousand million dollars in this city alone. A 4 mill tax should therefore yield $16,000,000, which would be a very substantial new source of revenue. If the experience of other States is duplicated here in New York, this income wil increase by leaps."

MURRAY HILL RESTRICTIONS.

No New Doctrine Expounded in the Latest Court Decision.

No question as to the binding character of the Murray Hill restrictions was raised in the test case between the trustees of South Church and the Madison Avenue Building Company just decided by the Court of Appeals. The sole question determined was whether the restriction established by the covenant permits the erection upon the premises of modern apartment houses, and the decision is in the affirmative.

The restriction, known as the Murray Hill Restriction, is contained in an agreement made and recorded in 1847, wherein the parties covenanted that "neither they nor their heirs or assigns would erect or cause to be erected any building or erection other than brick or stone dwelling houses of at least two stories in height and with the ordinary yard appurtenances, and except churches and stables of brick or stone for private dwellings."

The effect of the decision is to open up the exclusive Murray Hill quarter to improvement with dwellings of a type unknown at the time the covenant was made. Judging from the history of other exclusive sections, it is now only a question of time when there will be a very general architectural transformation. As the decision in favor of apartment houses was anticipated years ago, no very considerable readjustment of values is expected to follow now. The restriction still holds against all kinds of buildings except those named. Jabish Holmes was counsel for the church trustees.

The opinion handed down by the Court of Appeals says: "It seems very clear that the simple term dwelling house used in this covenant is broad enough to include and permit an apartment house. We require little aid from dictionaries or decisions to enable us to see that within the ordinary meaning of language a dwelling house is a house or structure in which people dwell, and such concededly is the character and purpose of an apartment house."

Hearing on the Torrens Bill.

The Assembly Committee on Judiciary will hold a hearing on Tuesday next in the Assembly Chamber, Albany, on the Ahern bill (Assembly Int. 613), "amending the Real Property Law in relation to registering of titles to real property." The companion bill in the Senate is Boylan Int. 339.

This is the bill introduced at the request of the Real Estate Board of New York, after a thorough investigation of the Torrens system of title registration in this and other States and abroad by a committee of which Professor Alfred G. Reeves is chairman. The Boylan-Ahern bill is designed to so amend the existing Torrens act as to make it cheaply workable and to simplify the registration of titles.

The Real Estate Board will be represented by its committee, which includes the following: Professor Alfred G. Reeves, chairman; Henry R. Chittick, Walter Lindner, Cyril H. Burdett, George W. Olvany, Charles H. Ayres, Edward A. Alexander, David A. Clarkson, Irving Ruland, Harry Percy David, A. N. Gitterman and Laurence M. D. McGuire.

There will be heard at the same time the advocates of the Bennett-Bourke bill, which also provides amendments to the existing act but which the board's committee believes will not secure the desired object. This bill is Senate Int. 555 and Assembly Int. 784.

The Real Estate Board is urging its members and lawyers and property owners, who have not already done so, to write their Senator and Assemblyman in support of the Boylan-Ahern bill.

Unlimited construction is malconstruction. Two many skyscrapers will spoil even the best sections.

The farmers up-State are getting impatient for better markets here to distribute their products and are saying that if the city doesn't do something about it they will see that the State does. Why not?

Cheer up! Congress has adjourned, the alien labor troubles has been settled, the Legislature is going to stop the over-regulation of buildings, the Governor is not going to permit as heavy a direct tax as at first intended—and spring will soon be here.

Lawson Purdy says no single cause has done more to reduce the value of buildings on Fifth avenue south of 33rd street than the erection of lofts of excessive height and now used as factories. What has happened to the lower Fifth avenue section is just as likely to happen to the financial district, if it doesn't watch out.

Are you sure that every site south of Fulton street is suitable for a skyscraper, and therefore worth a skyscraper price? Suppose every site should be covered with a tall building. Most of the owners would go broke for lack of paying tenants, even if they took in manufacturing firms, instead of the bankers and brokers they expect. Most of the low buildings down there are bigger interest earners than tall ones would be on the same site.

The old Western Union Building was an architectural marvel in its day, and in some respects the new one will be, too. The scheme of constructing the new skyscraper in three parts has permitted the telegraphic work of the great corporation to be carried on without interruption, which is a great accomplishment in itself, and of the highest importance to the business interests of the city and country.

The Evils of Over-regulation.

On Wednesday of the past week the real estate interests of New York made a most impressive demonstration at Albany in opposition to the expensive and burdensome method of building regulation which now prevails in this city. The existing system is expensive in two ways. It increases the cost to the city by multiplying the number of inspectors. It increases the cost to the property owners and occupiers by encouraging an unnecessary amount of inspectors and by resulting in the issuance of many conflicting orders. The evil gradually became more acute until it was literally intolerable. A more gross and inexcusable case of administrative mal-organization could not be conceived.

The representations made by the real estate interests at Albany are likely to have important results. The defects of the existing method of building inspection are too flagrant either to be overlooked or misunderstood. The system has been built up piecemeal under the influence of agitators in favor of the remedying of particular abuses, and it plainly needs to be reorganized in the interest of simplified operation and concentrated responsibility. Considerations of this kind were urged by the New York representatives on the legislative committeemen with great effect.

It was all the more necessary to put the general cost of the simplification of building inspection strongly before the Legislature, because opinion among real estate men is not agreed as to the particular kind of remedial legislation which ought to be passed. The majority are in favor of the Lockwood bill, which provides for the organization of the inspection service under borough control; but a strong minority prefers that the system of inspection should be centralized as well as consolidated, and that the Tenement House Department should remain an independent administrative organization. The opinions of the majority are sustained by the Merchants' Association and other important commercial organizations. The preferences of the minority have been supported by most of the daily papers. The Lockwood bill also has the disadvantage of not receiving the cordial approval of the city administration.

The friends of the Lockwood bill should be able to judge soon whether that measure has a sufficiently good chance of being passed by the Legislature and of being signed both by the Mayor and the Governor. If they can get it through, so much the better. But what if they fail to overcome the very formidable opposition which has been stirred up against the bill? And what if the great necessity of a simplified method of inspection fails to receive adequate recognition, merely because of a minor difference of opinion as to the details of remedial legislation? Under such circumstances all real estate men should unite in urging the pasage of any legislation which promises to ameliorate the evils of the existing system and which has a fair chance of being adopted. What the real estate and building interest needs above all is a simplified inspection system. How that system is organized is a minor matter, and the advocates of different methods of organization should, if necessary, be willing to compromise their differences in the interest of the all-important end of actually getting adopted some effective remedial legislation.

More Building Operations.

In three boroughs out of five building during the first two months of 1915 has been more active than it was during the first two months of 1914. These three boroughs are Manhattan, Bronx and Richmond, and of the three the increasing activity in the Bronx possesses greater significance and interest. The plans for new buildings filed in Manhattan during these two months were augmented considerably by at least two instances of a manifest intention of avoiding the inconvenience of a possible future restriction in the height of buildings. But the larger number of buildings that are being planned for the Bronx are the result of a real improvement in conditions. For several years the amount of new construction planned for sites in the Bronx has been very much below normal.

The Bronx suffered particularly from a deficiency in means of communication which enabled its residents to reach the Financial District quickly, pleasantly and cheaply. Only those parts of the borough which were served by the subway were even tolerably well off. This condition still continues, but its importance has diminished. Residents of the Bronx do not to the same extent as formerly find their means of subsistence in the lower end of Manhattan. The amount of business transacted in middle and upper Manhattan and in the Bronx itself has very much increased, and this fact is and will continue to be of great assistance to the borough during the years when it is deprived of adequate transit connections with the rest of the city. Fortunately, those years are now drawing to an end. It will be some time before the new subway system gets into operation; but the improved service on the elevated roads will be running very much sooner. A more adequate elevated express service on the East Side, while it will not promote building by opening up much, if any, new territory, will so improve existing means of communication as to bring a considerably increased population to the more settled parts of the Bronx.

The "Grand Central" Problem.

The present appearance of the area to the north of the Grand Central Station makes justified an extraordinary comment on New York real estate. For years the New York Central has been trying to lease for improvement this wonderfully situated property, but nearly all its attempts have failed. The erection of both a new Opera House and a Fine Arts building has been more or less discussed, but the projects fell through. New York is not building art museums and opera houses at present and is not likely to do so for many years to come. It looks as if the plan of the New York Central R. R. Co. of filling the space on Park avenue with semi-public buildings would have to be abandoned.

It is difficult to imagine what kind of a public or semi-public organization would want to erect on any of the Park avenue frontages a low and architecturally impressive building. In all probability the railroad company will have to alter its policy, and permit the erection of other kinds of structures on these block fronts. It cannot afford to keep this property idle, and no money is available for the carrying out of this original plan.

The only alternative seems to be the leasing of this space for ordinary business purposes and the abandonment of the proposed restriction to low and formal buildings. Unless the company succeeds soon in getting rid of some of its burden according to its adopted plan, it seems manifest that the plan itself will have to be changed. Real estate interests will cordially welcome the substitution of any new policy, which will result in the improvement of the large holdings of the railroad company in this peculiarly important neighborhood.

The Time to Act.

New York is not the only city in this State where the taxes on houses and lands have become too heavy to bear. In most of the old towns the rate of growth is slow, but the cost of government keeps increasing. Progressive elements demand asphalted and bricked streets, paid firemen and motor apparatus, more public parks, finer schools, and generally a more extended and higher salaried civil service. The simple and inexpensive ways of the fathers won't do for the sons.

The consequence has been that taxes have about doubled, while rents and incomes have contracted. Old people who had just enough to live on from the rents of a few apartments, are economically pinched and greatly worried by the yearly increase in taxes and the long-continued business depression.

There has been little, if any, enlargement of the assessed valuation of many towns by reason of new buildings erected; in some years there has been no new construction whatever, but values have been steadily "jacked" up, until assessments are being levied not on a basis of thirty-three and one-third per cent. of market value, as they once were, but on a basis of supposed value which the property would not bring if put up at auction.

Public meetings to protest against the wrong being done to property owners have been held, and a great deal of consideration is being given to the advisability of changing the form of local government to one under which the resources of the city will be conserved and the cost of administration more equally distributed. It follows that this is the time, when public opinion all over the State is strong for retrenchment, for New York City taxpayers to strike for their rights and liberties, and be assured that they will have the sympathy and support of taxpayers in the rest of the State.

The Direct State Tax.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

The State of New York proposes to include in this year's budget an item of about $11,000,000 necessary to complete the Barge Canal. The reason for including this amount in the Budget and not financing it, as was done for the rest of the cost of the canal, by the issuance of bonds, is that contracts in excess of the authorized amount of the bond issue have been let, and the contractors will be demanding payment for their work before the people can have an opportunity to vote upon the question whether they are willing to authorize the additional bond issue. Over 70 per cent. of this amount will have to be paid by the City of New York.

This is a most favorable time for disposing of short term paper. Why should not the State Controller be authorized to issue certificates payable within one year? Then at the next election a referendum could be submitted to the people. There is no doubt that it would be voted upon favorably authorizing the issuance of additional bonds for the amount necessary to complete the work, similar to the bonds previously authorized for the same purpose, and these notes could be paid from the proceeds of the sale of the bonds. Should the referendum fail the amount could be included in next year's budget and the notes redeemed at that time.

The burden of taxation upon real estate in the city is so heavy that this matter is of vital importance, and I would be obliged to you if you would bring this suggestion to the attention of your readers in order that this matter may be discussed.

Large Owners Coming to the Front.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

In your issues of the 20th and 27th ult., appear letters by Hon Alfred R. Conkling, entitled, "What Real Estate Needs," and advocating, the one, the revival of the town meeting in the City Hall, and the other, the presence of representatives of large estates at the Legislative hearings at Albany.

May I suggest that Mr. Conkling has left—"Das veilchen unbemerkt, das dort am wege blüchT"? If he had, on the hearing of March 3rd, asked (as he expressed the wish to do) if there were representatives of large estates present, he could have received answers from among the delegates of the "United," that men owning individually hundreds of pieces of real estate, or single buildings, valued above the million-dollar mark, were present, and, what was of much greater importance from the legislator-politician point of view, that thousands of smaller property owners were represented, by these delegates of the "United" who would be heard from on Election Day.

As to Mr. Conkling's other suggestion, of a mass meeting of property owners at the City Hall and local organizations in the several wards, he can find the latter in working order in our several "locals," covering a large part of Manhattan Island, and the former in operation in our meetings of delegates at the Hotel Astor, on the second and fourth Tuesday evening of each month.

As for the legislation required by the city, if Mr. Conkling would attend one of the Saturday afternoon meetings of our Law and Legislation Committee, he would, I venture to think, find an aggregate of practical knowledge on the subject, which could not be duplicated in this city.

Our "locals," our "Law and Legislation Committee" meetings, our delegates' meetings, are well worth the attention and support of public spirited, energetic gentlemen like Mr. Conkling; they are the natural results of years of struggle against over-taxation and official extortion, and, in this work of the "United," I believe lies the one hope of our City for real permanent, better government.

J. BLEECKER MILLER,
Executive Secretary,
United Real Estate Owners' Association.

The Strength of Organized Real Estate.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

The possibility of accomplishing effective remedies to relieve real estate of the burdens which today weigh upon it was no better evidenced than by the large and enthusiastic delegation of real estate owners and brokers which appeared in Albany before the Joint Committee on Affairs of Cities, to present its arguments for the consolidation of the various building inspection departments of the city.

The intrinsic strength of organized real estate movements lies entirely in the activity of the individual real estate owner to correct many of the abuses which have heretofore confronted him. By a united effort on the part of the 125,000 property owners of the city, both the Legislature and the city administration would come to realize that real estate is entitled to consideration equal to the tax burden it bears, rather than commensurate with the political proportion of the population it represents.

The time is now opportune for real estate owners, both large and small, to unite with their various neighborhood associations or large real estate organizations in order to make a sincere and honest effort to present to the public the true facts surrounding the depressed conditions of real estate for the last few years. If this were to be done in a proper and sensible manner, there is no doubt whatsoever that other owners of property outside of real estate, and the vast majority of our citizens will be willing to assume their share of the obligations to properly finance and administer our municipal government.

The encouraging feature of the meeting in Albany was the widespread and intelligent knowledge of their affairs shown by the large assemblage of real estate men, drawn from the various organizations throughout the city. It is evident that property owners are coming more and more to a realization of the necessity of paying close attention to governmental actions which affect their property. A few years ago it would have been impossible to gather a company from all walks of life possessing so good an understanding of the complicated difficulties confronting it. It is evident that property owners have been able to gather many able men to represent them.

CYRUS C. MILLER,
Chairman Executive Committee,
Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests.

"What Real Estate Needs."

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

For the fourth time I send you a letter under the above heading. The hearing at Albany before the Joint Committee on Affairs of Cities shows what real estate needs. A special train of seven cars took a good bunch of earnest real estate operators, agents and owners to the capital last Wednesday, to attend the hearings on the bill to establish municipal markets and the Lockwood-Ellenbogen Real Estate Interests bill, to unify or to simplify the system of inspection of real estate in this city. The hearings lasted about four hours, and I guess the Markets bill is dead, but the one-inspection system bill will be favorably reported, perhaps with a few amendments.

There was "ginger" at both hearings. It was the dawn of a brighter and better day for real estate after years of depression. As an owner and manager of buildings of less than seven stories, I say real estate needs more "ginger" at hearings before the Board of Estimate and at Albany. The city officials need some prodding, but let us proceed by evolution, not revolution, and not raise either the red flag or the white flag.

It is rumored that the Board of Estimate will investigate and revise the pension system, especially the term of retirement for the police. I am told about $6,000,000 are paid yearly for all the city pensioners and the Assembly has just passed a good law to prevent such pensioners from holding clerical positions under the city. Think of the "modesty" of a municipal employee drawing a pension on half pay for life, say from the age of 45 or 50 years, then holding a $2,000 or even a $1,000 job under your overburdened Father Knickerbocker! The poor old gentleman. This pension business must be revised and settled "right now."

ALFRED R. CONKLING.

Safe and Sanitary Construction.

In reference to the advisability of taking the three-family house out of the control of the Tenement House Department, the Superintendent of Buildings in Brooklyn, in a letter to the Tenement House Committee of the Brooklyn Board of Brokers, says:

"So far as safe and sanitary building construction is concerned, all requirements can be enforced by the Building Bureaus of the Department of Health, which is clothed with ample power to enforce the laws with regard to cleanliness. Far better for the health and morals of the community would three-family houses be than the sixteen to twenty-family houses now being erected for the crowded occupancy of human beings in an attempt to realize profitable investments—projects in which real estate speculators are seemingly more earnestly concerned with their possible incomes than with the welfare of their tenants.

"In Brooklyn there is a large number of three-story and basement houses which with but little or no alteration, can be used for the housing of three families, and which will give better and safer accommodation to small families than most buildings now arranged for that purpose, and which, under existing laws cannot be used in that way."

Will They Get It?

When George W. Pople, president of the Flushing Business Men's Association, and representatives of other civic associations of Queens Borough, appeared before the Public Service Commission to urge the extension of the Corona rapid transit line in Queens from Main street, Flushing to Bayside, the delegation was informed that the commission is willing to order the construction of the extension if the route can be legalized and the Board of Estimate and Apportionment will provide the money.

Thirty Thousand Food Retailers.

About thirty thousand firms are engaged in the business of wholesaling and retailing foodstuffs in the City of New York. A very large part of their expenses are represented by trucking, delivery and telephoning. Investigators have estimated that these items add twenty per cent. to the cost of the merchandise. In the city of Cleveland there is a general market co-operatively managed by retailers which serves forty thousand persons on Saturdays, but it contains no telephone and delivers no goods.

CITY'S VALUATION.

Shifting Values in Manhattan—The Tax Rate Fixed.

The Board of Aldermen officially fixed the tax rates for 1915 and made public the revised assessment figures. As printed last week, the tax rates for this year are: Manhattan, 1.87; Brooklyn, 1.92; Bronx, 1.94; Queens, 1.95, and Richmond, 2.24.

In the revised assessment figures the assessment of franchises shows a marked falling off in each county.

The increases in real estate assessments are: Manhattan, $6,248,275; Bronx, $17,828,501; Brooklyn, $24,570,835; Queens, $18,199,767; Richmond, $2,262,504. The recapitulation for all counties shows the following totals compared with last year:

	1914.	1915.	Increase.
Real est.	$7,458,784,625	$7,527,894,077	$69,109,452
R.R. Corp	186,654,976	200,897,090	14,142,114
Fran's. ..	404,420,311	379,973,070	*24,447,241
Totals ...	$8,649,859,912	$8,108,764,237	$38,904,325

*Decrease.

The total assessments for all counties for 1915 of real estate and personal property are given as follows:

	Real Estate.	Personal.	Total.
Man. ...	$5,145,802,495	$292,349,590	$5,438,152,085
Bronx ..	677,126,664	6,804,800	683,931,464
Bklyn. ..	1,691,912,426	43,606,010	1,735,518,436
Queens .	509,519,423	7,635,650	517,155,078
Total..	$8,108,764,237	$352,051,755	$8,460,815,992

Tax Commissioner Purdy says that more than any other borough Manhattan has suffered from changes in centres of trade and from failure to regulate the erection of buildings. No single cause has done more to reduce the values of buildings and land on Fifth avenue and south of 33rd street than the erection of lofts of excessive height used for factories. South of 40th street there was a great reduction in the assessed valuation of land. If it hadn't been for the increase from 40th street to 96th street, Manhattan this year would have shown a decrease.

BRONX CHAMBER MEETS.

Public Affairs Under Discussion—Support for the Lockwood Bill.

The Bronx Chamber of Commerce met at 550 Bergen avenue on Saturday evening, Albert E. Davis presiding. The Secretary, Joseph M. Taylor, reported a conference with the Vice-President of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, who stated that the traffic agreement with the New York Central would prevent stopping main line New Haven trains in The Bronx.

John C. Walworth said he never could see the wisdom of having five separate county governments in one city. Charles L. Ullman was of the opinion that the duplication of offices created complexity and extravagance. Henry S. Gamp viewed the subject with an open mind but would like to be shown how county government could be successfully administered without separate establishments in each borough. George Simpson asked how there would be any economy effected if deputies of a central government were substituted for local officials. H. Gerald Chapin asked if the administration of justice would not be clogged if county courts were abolished.

Mr. Simpson moved that the Bronx senators and assemblymen be urged to support the Lockwood Senate Bill and the Ellenbogen Assembly Bill for simplicity in building inspection by vesting in the Bureau of Buildings as now constituted, all power and authority over the erection and alteration of buildings now exercised by many different city and state departments. The resolution was adopted.

Mr. Chapin moved and Mr. Leavin seconded a resolution, which was adopted, that Governor Whitman be requested in the event of a reorganization in the Public Service Commission, to appoint a Bronx member, as the interests of the Bronx in transit facilities demanded such representaton.

A letter was read from Mayor Mitchel to the effect that the New York City Railways Co. would not apply for a franchise for the Madison avenue bridge so as to run their cars into The Bronx and could not be compelled to, and that a franchise had been granted to the Union Railway Co. to operate over the Willis avenue bridge, but that the city was not in a position to spend money for the necessary changes in the bridge, so the matter was in abeyance.

Public Service Commissioner Woods wrote that within two months plans for the Westchester avenue elevated extension to Pelham Bay Park would be advertised and let.

A lengthy communiction was presented from Borough President Mathewson in defense of expenditures for repaving.

Orders $15,000,000 Sale.

Stanley W. Dexter, referee in bankruptcy of the New York Real Estate Security Company, has granted an order for the sale of the holdings of the company, upon application of Weschler & Kohn, counsel for James N. Rosenberg, trustee. The properties include 42 Broadway, a number of apartment houses in Manhattan and acreage in Westchester county. Allen Wardwell, of Stetson, Jennings & Russell, counsel for the bondholders' committee, consented to the sale.

Old Nassau Street.

At the opening of the nineteenth century Nassau street was a fashionable center, the home of the Brinckerhoffs, Jays, Radcliffes, Waddingtons and others claiming social supremacy. At the southeast corner of Nassau and Spruce streets was Martling's, famous after 1798 as the home of Tammany Hall. Abraham M. Martling was the host, and for twenty years members of Tammany were known as "Martling's men." The long room, parallel with Nassau street, had been previously the resort of the "Sons of Liberty" and the "Sons of 1776."—Wall Street Journal.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

Considerable variety marked the business of the week. There were purchases of property of practically every description by builders, operators and investors. There was a demand, not a remarkable one, but nevertheless a demand, for apartment houses, loft buildings, dwellings and building sites, and nearly every section of the city contributed in the form of one or more transactions. Buyers appeared from Ohio, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts. A number of the deals involved exchanges; there were important cash sales.

Of interest is the consummation of the recently announced deal, which means the passing of Wallack's Theatre; the next of the historic playhouses to fall before the advance of trade northward on Broadway. In the Bronx the sale of three unimproved city blocks may foreshadow the opening of a large vacant area for improvement. There was considerable activity in the West Bronx.

No greater testimonial to the stability and fundamental soundness of well-located Manhattan real estate could possibly have been tendered than the recording of the $1,200,000 building loan by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company to cover the cost of the new building to be erected on the vacant plot at the northeast corner of Fifth avenue and 37th street, a week after the same company had agreed to finance for $1,900,000 a new Madison Square mercantile building. The significance of the release of millions of dollars into new building operations from this source alone, should not be overlooked or regarded other than in a most encouraging light.

The total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 26 as against 21 last week and 25 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 13, as compared with 7 last week and 8 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregated 13, as compared with 14 last week and 17 a year ago.

The total number of conveyances in Manhattan was 182, as against 92 last week, 26 having stated considerations totaling $3,024,200. Mortgages recorded this week number 106, involving $4,264,538, as against 52 last week, totaling $1,162,650.

From the Bronx 23 sales at private contract were recorded as against 20 last week and 9 a year ago.

The amount involved in Manhattan and Bronx auction sales this week was $1,525,037, compared with $856,559 last week, making a total for the year of $8,573,603. The figures for the corresponding week last year were $525,175 and the total from January 1, 1914, to March 7, 1914, was $7,879,287.

End of Wallack's Theatre.

The Gresham Realty Company, Bing & Bing, has concluded negotiations for the sale, to the Fabian Construction Company, Moses Crystal, president, of the plot 70 x 98.9, at 29-33 West 31st street, the easterly portion of the site now occupied by Wallack's Theatre, and occupied with part of the stage and the dressing rooms. It is reported that a twelve-story store and loft building is contemplated. In exchange, the buyer gave the twelve-story loft building 122-126 West 26th street, on plot 67 x 98.9. Bing & Bing acquire the theatre property in an exchange for a West Side apartment house. The present deal, with the proposed building operation, involves about $1,000,000. The brokers were Heil & Stern.

Three Bronx Blocks Sold.

A syndicate consisting of the Alliance Realty Company, William H. Chesebrough and Daniel B. Freedman, has purchased from the trustees of Henry Maillard, of Paris, about ninety-five lots on Grand Boulevard and Concourse, McClellan street, Gerard and Walton avenues, and East 166th street, comprising practically three entire blocks between 165th and 167th streets. The property has been in the family of the seller since 1864. The tract is along the line of the proposed Jerome avenue subway and is in a district which has experienced considerable recent building activity.

"Chatsworth" in $2,000,000 Trade.

John S. Melcher sold the twelve-story "Chatsworth" apartment house, in West 72d street, facing the plaza at the southerly entrance to Riverside Park, to the 59th Street Realty Company, Albert I. Sire, president, and William F. Donnelly, treasurer, which gave in part payment the twelve-story mercantile building, 153-159 West 27th street, on plot 100 x 100, now rented at $50,000 per annum. The brokers were John H. Berry & Co., and De Selding Brothers; they have also negotiated a net lease of the 27th street building for ten years. The considerations involved, including the lease, aggregate about $2,000,000. Titles passed to the new owners on Monday.

Lower Fifth Avenue Sale.

A new corporation, the Merchants' Central Building Company, capitalized at $250,000, and with a directorate of Eugene E. Adams, James A. Corcoran and John A. Clarke, has acquired from the 400 West 31st Street Company, 141-147 Fifth avenue, two eleven and twelve-story mercantile buildings, on plot 94 x 90, at the southeast corner of 21st street. The sellers acquired the property about a year ago in an exchange with the McCready estate and have held it at $1,000,000.

New Owners for "El Dorado."

Marking the fourth conveyance in two years, title to the eight-story apartment house, "El Dorado," on Central Park West, from 90th to 91st streets, passed this week from the Secured Holding Company to the El Dorado Holding Company, said to represent Pennsylvania capital. The property was transferred subject to a mortgage of $910,000. Max Raymond holds the building under lease for five years at an annual rental of about $51,000.

Banker to Build Home.

Harris Fahnestock, of the banking firm of Fahnestock & Company, has bought from the United States Trust Company, trustees of the Costello estate, 13-15 East 66th street, two four-story dwellings, on plot 41 x 105. Plans are being prepared by Frank V. Hoppin for a new residence to be occupied by Mr. Fahnestock. The property is assessed at $167,000.

Loft Building for Westerners.

The Cleveland Holding Company, Maurice M. Robinson, president, said to represent a syndicate of Cleveland, Ohio, investors, bought from Frederick Brown the twelve-story loft building, 40-42 West 27th street, on plot 45.9 x 100. In part payment, the seller took a tract of 6,000 lots known as the Shanmont estate, adjoining Belle Terre, Long Island. The deal invoved about $500,000.

Builder Sells Loft Building.

The George Backer Construction Company has sold the new twelve-story mercantile building, 31-37 East 31st street, on plot 85.8 x 98.9. It is tenanted by manufacturers of women's wearing apparel. The transaction is reported to be a cash deal involving about $700,000.

Buying on Jerome Avenue.

William H. Chesebrough purchased from the estate of William F. Havemeyer its interest in the property of the Jerome Barnard Associates, consisting of twenty-seven unimproved lots facing St. James Park, with frontages on Jerome avenue of 268 feet north of 192d street and 386 feet south of that street.

Three-States Exchange.

Nathan Greene, of Massachusetts, has purchased from the Rossmore Holding Company, "Watts Court," a seven-story elevator apartment house, at 161-169 West 140th street, on plot 126 x 99.11. In part payment he gave the Breezy Point Hotel, in Woodsville, New Hampshire, and a summer home at Hancock Point, Maine.

Builders in Bronx Trade.

William Goldstone sold the block front on the west side of Leggett avenue, between Beck and Fox streets, 250 x 110, to Silverberg and Shiran, builders, who gave in exchange, the two five-story apartment houses at the southeast corner of Tinton avenue and 150th street, on plot 75 x 100, recently built by them.

REAL ESTATE NOTES.

A. FRANK SHAW has been appointed receiver for 2193 7th av.

DUFF & CONGER have been appointed agents for 120-122 East 85th st and 1911 2d av.

RICE & HILL have been appointed agents for 88 Broad st and 17 Stone st.

RICHARD H. SCOBIE has placed a first mortgage of $10,000 at 5 per cent. on 130 East 38th st.

COLONIAL PARK LAND CO. has moved its offices from 80 Maiden la, Manhattan, to 941 Intervale av, Bronx.

NEW YORK TITLE INSURANCE CO. made a loan of $100,000 to the Rocky Mountain Club on 114-16-18 West 44th st.

S. L. RICHTMYER is now connected with the office of Henry Brady, in charge of the appraisal department.

EDLIN REALTY CO., Edwin C. Gibbs and Jacob Karlin, has opened offices at 938 East 163d st for the transaction of a general real estate and insurance business.

DOUGLAS L. ELLIMAN & CO. have been appointed managing agents for 640 Park av, title of which passed on Feb. 26 from the Fullerton Weaver Realty Co. to the Shafpa Realty Corporation.

JOHN A. STEINMETZ was the broker in the recently recorded sale of the plot 67x147 on the west side of Southern Boulevard, 100 ft. north of 181st st, for C. Gomprecht to Charles A. Schrag and Henry Boschen.

CHARLES F. NOYES CO. has arranged a five-year extension of the mortgage 72-76 Walker st, corner of Cortlandt alley, for $100,000 at 4 per cent. The same firm also obtained a replacement of the $90,000 mortgage on 597 Broadway at 5 per cent. interest.

RICHARD H. SCOBIE was the broker in the recently recorded sale of the plot 50x100 on the south side of Tremont av, 50 ft. west of Southern Boulevard for Annie Matthies and Jerome Eisner to the Wicklow Building Co. He also negotiated the sale of the 2-fam. house 736 Kelly st for Joseph Kelly to the P. J. Building Co.

WILLIAMSON & BRYAN were the brokers in the recently recorded sale for the P. J. Dwyer Building Co. to Angela G. V. Ulrich, of the two 5-sty 50-ft. front apartments, including 19-ft. front 1-sty taxpayer, on the west side of Southern Boulevard, commencing 57 ft. north of 176th st. The owner has been holding the property at $150,000. The brokers report that it was a cash deal.

MURRAY HILL INVESTING CO. took title on Monday, from Catherine T. Moulton and others, executors of Mary Lewis, to the plot 74.1x125 at the northwest corner of 5th av and 57th st for a stated consideration of $1,800,000, subject to a mortgage of $1,000,000. There were also recorded a $1,200,000 loan made by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. to cover the cost of the contemplated structure, and a $300,000 mortgage to the Lawyers Title Insurance & Trust Co.

AUCTION SALES OF WEEK.

Except where otherwise stated, the properties offered were in foreclosure. Adjournments of legal sales to next week are noted under Advertised Legal Sales.

• Indicates that the property described was bid in for the plaintiff's account.

The Auction Market.

Properties of the Yung estate, thirteen tenement houses, brought a total of $355,700 at auction on Wednesday in the partition sale conducted by Joseph P. Day. All but one parcel went to parties in interest. Stephen J. Duffy, an outsider, paid $50,050 for the northeast corner of West End avenue and 68th street. On the previous day, five holdings of the Nicholas Schultz estate brought $158,000. A large number of operators were present on both days and figured in the bidding. Leonard Weill bought the dwelling, 243 East 19th street, for $10,250.

DEPARTMENTAL RULINGS.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.

Commencing with the issue of March 13, the Record and Guide will print the addresses of those against whom orders have been issued, by the Bureau of Fire Prevention, in each of the five boroughs of Greater New York. These orders frequently call for new equipment, as well as structural work, and the list should be of great value to those seeking leads for construction prospects.

BUREAU OF FIRE PREVENTION.

ILLUMINATION OF FACTORIES

By R. E. HARRINGTON, Illuminating Engineer*

Conducted by Raymond P. Roberts, Building Manager for The American Real Estate Co.

NIGHT VIEW OF CLOTHING FACTORY, SHOWING APPLICATION OF LOCALIZED SYSTEM OF ILLUMINATION.

ALTHOUGH the problem of adequate lighting in factories is receiving more attention at the present time than formerly, yet one may note many instances of poorly lighted shops. This applies equally as well to natural as to artificial lighting.

From the standpoint of safety it is necessary that the factory receive adequate light. Proper light greatly decreases the liability of accident, in that the operators may more easily avoid obstructions in passageways, moving vehicles, fellow operators and the dangerous parts of machines. This point is of considerable importance, as an accident to an operator tends to destroy the morale of the men in that section of the building.

Proper lighting increases production, at the same time reducing its cost. Under correct lighting it is possible for the men to work on as good an efficiency basis during the hours of decreasing daylight as during the hours when the shop is illuminated by natural light. As a result of this condition the total output per man is greatly increased. In addition the number of seconds are materially reduced, resulting in a higher grade of product with its corresponding increase in sales value. Seconds must either be sold at reduced prices or else thrown away.

Another point to be considered is the physical condition of the employees. It is recognized that certain ailments may be directly traced to defective eyesight. It is also admitted that the improper use of light may have very serious effects on the eyes. Doubtless the question at once arises as to what is the proper use of light.

In the first place it must be so employed that the workmen may easily see the work at hand without straining their eyes, and, secondly, there should be no glare. By glare is meant light out of place. An example of this is the use of a clear, bare lamp directly in front of the operator. From the foregoing it may be seen that light may radically affect the physical condition of the workman, and as their physical condition materially affects their working efficiency it is evident that too much stress cannot be laid on the point of adequate lighting.

Having treated on some of the effects of correct illumination, we will turn our attention to the methods of obtaining the results desired.

The first point to be considered is the illuminant. In general, lamps above 20 watts in size are used for factory lighting. The smaller wattage lamps are often used for the lighting of benches, stockracks, local lighting of machines and the like. The medium sized lamps are used for the lighting of factories where the ceiling height is from 10 to 15 feet. The larger sizes are used for the lighting of higher ceiling buildings, where they may be hung from 20 to 40 feet. An example of the latter case is a typical crane bay where the units may be located above the crane or at the sides on columns below the crane. The various methods of lighting will be treated later.

In order that proper illumination results may be obtained, it is essential that the lamps be equipped with correct reflectors. There are many makes and types of reflectors that are available for factory lighting.

Of the various types of direct lighting reflectors available for factory lighting the steel type is doubtless to be preferred. These steel reflectors may be divided into four general groups:

(1) Large bowl type reflectors for general illumination over large areas.

(2) Small bowl type reflectors (symmetrical or angle), for localized lighting.

(3) Dome type reflectors for very wide distribution.

(4) Large angle reflectors for general illumination where light must come from the side.

These reflectors are made in two finishes: alluminum and porcelain enamel. For most instances the porcelain enamel reflectors will give the greatest satisfaction, as they are not readily soiled, do not deteriorate with age, are not easily scratched and are quickly cleaned.

As is doubtless known, the distribution of light from a clear, bare incandescent lamp is such that the maximum candlepower is at the horizontal. Although this distribution lends itself most excellently to redirection by means of suitable reflectors, it is not particularly efficient in itself, due to the fact that a majority of the light is required downward on the working plane. It is seen from this that a primary function of a reflector is to redirect the light in a useful direction.

Reflectors are also necessary to cover the lamp in such a manner that the bright filament of the lamp is not in the direct line of vision. As a result the use of lamps without reflectors, or lamps with shallow type of reflectors, so located that the lamps are in the direct line of vision, are to be avoided. The glare occasioned in these instances is not only injurious to the eyes of the workmen, but it has an effect on the work accomplished.

Of the three methods of lighting, direct, semi-indirect and totally indirect, as outlined in Mr. Powell's article, the direct system of lighting is the one most applicable to factory lighting. This is due to the fact that efficiency is the determining factor and, considered from the standpoint of light utilization, the direct system is more efficient than either the semi-indirect or totally indirect. There are four methods of direct lighting commonly employed for the lighting of factories: Localized lighting, general illumination, combined general and localized lighting, and localized general illumination.

Local lighting consists of the use of low candlepower lamps located close to the workman and under his control. Although this system is applicable in certain processes, such as in the boring out of castings and the making of fine parts, it should be avoided as much as possible. Its use is liable to result in undue eye strain. When used, a certain amount of general lighting should be provided for the rest of the room, in order that there may not be too great a contrast between the brightly lighted work and the dimly lighted room. This low value of general illumination is also necessary in order that the operators may easily see objects while moving about the room. Figure No. 1 is a night photograph of a manufacturing plant and shows the use of this system. As the units are under the control of the workmen, time is lost in adjusting the light. Renewals and maintenance are high.

General Illumination.

The general illuminating system, or a modification thereof is used quite extensively for all classes of factory lighting. General illumination is radically different from local lighting in that large units are used hung high and out of the reach of the workmen. As a result no time is lost in adjusting the lamps. Renewals and maintenance are at a minimum. The object in this method of lighting is to obtain, as nearly as possible, even illumination over the entire area. The units should be correctly spaced and hung at the proper height in order to obtain the results desired. Most reflector manufacturers have determined ratios between spacing and hanging height for reflectors that give certain distributions. These ratios, when adhered to, will result in approximately even illumination.

In certain processes where a high intensity of illumination is required at certain points, as in a machine shop, it is often inadvisable to provide general illumination. The reason for this is that the entire room would have to be lighted to a high intensity in order to provide sufficient light and to have it come from the proper direction.

General illumination is particularly adapted to large, high, open workrooms where the manufacturing processes are fairly close together and a good percentage of the floor area is in such use as to require illumination.

As large units are usually used for this system, it is essential that they be provided with suitable reflectors, in order to protect the eyes of the workmen and to produce satisfactory illumination. Where the ceilings are medium in height, say 9 to 12 feet, it is generally advisable to provide a bowl shaped reflector. For higher ceilings the dome type will be found to be very satisfactory.

Application of System.

Figure No. 2 is a night view of an erecting bay showing the application of this method of lighting, using 400 watt Mazda lamps spaced on about 16 ft. centers and hung 20 feet above the floor. Dome type reflectors are used, the units being located above the crane travel.

The combined general and localized lighting system consists of the use of a relatively low value of general illumination supplied by ceiling units, supplemented by local lights, where more light is required. One application of this method is where one part of a room is used for storage and the remainder used for machine work. Another application is in the sewing room of a clothing factory. In this case a high intensity is required at the needle point. This may be supplied by low wattage lamps in small reflector, one lamp being used for each machine, close to the work. Light for movement about the room is supplied by larger units located in the ceiling. Other uses for this method of lighting may readily be brought to mind.

As stated previously, localized general illumination is a modification of general illumination. In this method no attempt is made to provide even illumination, the object being to provide a high intensity where needed, that is at important points, and a lower intensity at intermediate points. It is seen from this that it has as a limit on one side localized lighting and on the other side general illumination.

BUILDING LOANS.

Various Methods of Financing Operations for Large Structures.

By T. E. Flanegin.

FEW large business structures are built without loans. For one man who can erect his building without a mortgage a hundred must obtain assistance in financing the erection of the structure.

In general, there are four sources to which the prospective builder may apply in securing his desired loan: (a) Insurance companies, (b) bond and mortgage houses, (c) local banks and trust companies, and (d) individuals.

There are about sixty life insurance companies in the United States that have gross incomes of a million dollars a year or more. Some of the largest have weekly incomes exceeding a million dollars. A large portion of this tremendous income goes to the policy-holders and for expenses, but the balance is added to the reserve and becomes available for investment. These investments are closely supervised by the various state insurance departments, and this supervision has resulted in more and more of these reserves being invested in real estate mortgages.

Division of Business.

A letter of inquiry addressed to all the large life insurance companies brought the information that of the sixty companies addressed, forty of them confined most of their real estate loans to farm mortgages, while the remaining twenty looked with favor upon high class building loans. Again, several of the companies loaning upon buildings confine their loans to store and office buildings in the centers of our large cities. Some will loan upon wholesale houses and apartment houses, a few will include hotels, but hardly any of them will favor theaters or hospitals.

The insurance companies are usually prohibited by law from loaning more than 50 per cent. of the appraised value of the property, and many companies reduce this limit to 35 or 40 per cent. of the appraised value of the property. Some companies will not advance any money on a building until it is completed, and nearly all of them demand large yearly payments that reduce the mortgage and increase the security.

Many insurance companies will make their loans at a low rate of interest, without any expense to the borrower except the cost of examining title, preparing papers, etc. Other insurance companies allow their local agents to collect a fee for arranging the loans and also make a charge for expenses in connection with the loan. The rate of interest, methods of payment and other details vary, naturally, among the various companies.

Companies Restricted.

The many restrictions thrown about insurance companies, together with the fact that insurance companies will not loan at all upon various classes of buildings, has resulted in the rapid growth of the bond and mortgage houses throughout the United States.

These houses are essentially wholesalers of real estate securities. They buy the bonds and mortgages at the lowest price possible and then in turn retail them to their customers at such a profit as they can secure. The bond houses are usually more liberal than the insurance companies in the percentage they will loan and the buildings they will accept as security, but they, in turn, charge more for their money.

The methods of these houses in handling loans are similar, and one house operates much the same as another. Having arranged to make a loan, the bond house will usually issue bonds for the amount of the loans secured by a mortgage on the ground and building. These bonds usually draw 6 per cent., although the rate varies and may be more or less than the 6 per cent. mentioned. The bond house then takes the entire issue of bonds at a discount on the face value.

Discount Varies Greatly.

The amount of this discount varies greatly, depending upon the money market, class of building, local conditions and other causes. On well located stores and office buildings the bonds will usually bring 95 cents on the dollar. Many building bonds have been sold at less than 90 cents on the dollar. If the bond houses can retail these bonds at par they make a gross profit equal to the amount of the discount. Some times they can do this, but many times they must also sell at a discount, in which case their gross profit is correspondingly reduced. Out of their gross profit they must, of course, pay the expenses of doing business, advertising the bonds and commissions to salesmen.

Bond houses usually demand yearly payments on the principal, the same as the insurance companies, but bond houses are, as rule, more liberal than insurance companies in advancing money during the construction of the building. In addition to the other expenses mentioned, both insurance companies and bond houses will often require the borrower to pay the expenses of the appraisement of the property and to also provide a surety bond securing them against liens and attachments. All these expenses are a tax on the use of the money and materially increase the rate the borrower must pay. In other words, a so-called 6 per cent. loan may cost the borrower 7 per cent. or even more in yearly rate when all the various charges are included.

In recent years many large and costly buildings have been financed in our business centers, on what is known as leasehold property. In these cases the owner of the building does not own the land the building stands upon at all, but merely leases it for a long period at an agreed rental. As most insurance companies are prohibited by law from loaning on any real estate security that does not include the fee to the ground, these leasehold buildings are financed almost entirely by bond houses.

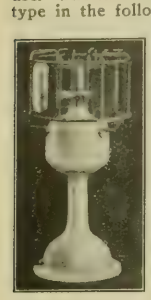
Local Customs Govern.

Loans made by local banks and trust companies are governed by local customs and conditions, and very little can be said about them in this article. In general, however, it can be remembered that savings banks are subjected to supervision similar to the insurance companies, and hence their loans will be of like nature. Trust companies, however, often operate similar to what has been described for the bond houses.

Large loans on buildings by individuals are not common and when made are a matter of personal contract between the borrower and the lender. The rate may be high or low, yearly payments may be large or small, it all depends upon the agreement between the parties concerned. Owing to the limited number of such loans, they cannot be given extended discussion in an article of this kind. Loans on large business buildings involve many legal and business details, so many that most loaning companies specialize in one certain kind of loans and refuse to entertain others. They build up a body of customers that have a preference for a certain class of bonds. For instance, some companies prefer apartment house loans, others will not consider them; some will specialize in loans on factories and industrial plants. They are equipped to judge the merits of the security offered and have customers that desire such securities. Many houses look upon hotel loans as good loans; others view these with distrust.

Method of Procedure.

To the borrower seeking a large building loan the first consideration is to locate the individuals or companies that are equipped to handle the securities he has to offer. Once this is done, the amount of loan, the rate of interest and the time of payment become a matter of negotiation.



Credit or the use of money is a commodity like food or clothing and is worth what the lender can get for it. If the margin of security is large and the proposition safe the rates should be low, but if the proposition contains an element of speculation the cost of the loan increases accordingly. There are as many different classes of financial institutions making loans as there are merchants selling goods.

USEFUL APPLIANCES

Novelties, New Applications of Familiar Devices and the Trend of Invention, Designed to Aid the Architect, Builder and Building Manager, Described Without Regard to Advertising Consideration

A New Type of Table Fan.

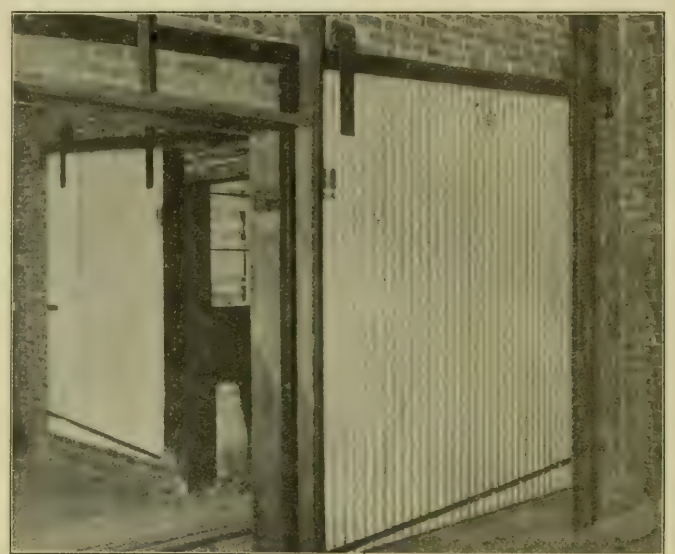
ILLUSTRATED herewith is a new type of horizontal table fan with three speeds and an 8- or 12-inch sweep, suitable for table, desk and restaurant use. The fan differs from the oscillating type in the following particulars:

Instead of its breeze being projected in a certain prescribed arc it diffuses air in a complete circle about the room. Instead of the blades being set in propeller form they are in the form of paddles on a revolving axis and in operation suck the air down through the middle and project it from the blades outward. In this way the air in an entire room is kept in motion. Papers cannot be blown about, because the air motion is away from rather than directed toward table contents. The body is made entirely in white enamel with fan and guard nickel plated and polished. Current is supplied by ordinary lighting socket and cord.

An Easier Way to Clean Tile.

IMPROPER cleaning and the use of improper compounds in the care of tile floors is the answer nine times out of ten for the discoloration and damage to tile floors, and especially to tile bonds that hold the units in place. The same is equally true of marble, terra cotta and mosaic.

The difficulty has been to obtain a correct abrasive cleaner so proportioned in the composition of its ingredients that positive cleansing are obtained without destroying the surface, texture or coloring of the tile.



Acid has ruined many costly floors. This agency should never be applied except by skilled artisans proficient in the tile business. Beyond first cleaning, when it is necessary to remove the soluble salts of cement, glue and other ingredients employed in laying the floors, acid should not be used on tile floors and neither should compounds that contain a dangerous amount of this component. Scouring materials often discolor tile and permanently ruin floors. Grease, lye and sand clean quickly, but they do much injury. Soap powders are also responsible for much damage to floors. Any grease applied to a tile floor will ultimately ruin it.

In response to a demand from associated manufacturers of tile an investigation was started with the view of perfecting a compound that will clean tile without damaging it. The result was the perfection of a mild, special processed alkali content, free from caustic or corrosive properties, that cleans sanitarily and is not offensive to the nostrils when being applied. A fine, flaky mineral grit has been perfected that has the distinctive feature of being ground to a powder when pressure enough to otherwise damage the tile surface is applied so that while the dirt is removed, the tile itself is not damaged. The bond of cement or plastic is not damaged in any way. It is light in weight and is easily kept in suspension in water allowing it to cling to the mop instead of to the bottom or sides of the pail. This insures more rapid work, hence cheaper cleaning costs besides the elimination of discoloration and other depreciation of the floor.

Safety Fire Doors.

FIRE doors may hang in their position for years without being used. It is essential, however, that in the emergency the doors should be positively protective and in order to be so it should be free from rust. Rust spots develop immediately upon the application of intense heat and for that reason an iron fire-door that has rusted is as useless as though the door were made of wood.

Fire doors today are frequently installed in pockets and in that position the owner or tenant has little opportunity to know whether the door is in good condition or not. It has seemed wise to a prominent manufacturer to perfect a metal that will be positively rust-proof. Such a metal is now being marketed here. The door itself is of metal, and has been tested to 500 degrees above conflagration point. It is made of two walls of cross laid 22-gauge galvanized steel with air chambers and sheet asbestos between. It has patented telescopic channels and joints provide for expansion and contraction along straight lines. Its weight is only five pounds per square foot, which is considerably below that of the ordinary fire door. All the structural parts are visible and the fire retardant qualities of the door are not materially affected by sudden cooling and impact due to the application of a fire stream while under intense heat. They can be installed as sliding, swinging or vertical doors. By reason of the rust-proof character of the material used the cost of maintenance is said to be entirely done away with.

Heat Value of Cord Wood.

THE available heat value of a cord of wood depends on many different factors. It has a relation not only to the amount of resin it contains, but to the amount of solid wood composing it even when they are of the standard dimensions and occupy 128 cubic feet of space. A certain proportion of this space is made up of air spaces between the sticks, and this air space may be considerable in a cord made of twisted, crooked and knotty sticks. Out of the 128 cubic feet, a fair average of solid wood is about 80 cubic feet.

It is pointed out, however, that heat value is not the only test of usefulness in fuel wood, and since 95 per cent of all wood used for fuel is consumed for domestic purposes, largely in farm houses, such factors as rapidity of burning and ease of lighting are important. Each section of the country has its favored woods and these are said to be, in general, the right ones to use. Hickory, of the non-resinous woods, has the highest fuel value per unit volume of wood, and has other advantages. It burns evenly and holds the heat. The oak comes next, followed by beech, birch and maple. Pine has a relatively low heat value per unit volume, but has other advantages. It ignites readily and gives out a quick, hot flame, but one that soon dies down. This makes it a favorite with rural housekeepers as a summer wood, because it is particularly adapted for hot days in the kitchen.

The fuel qualities of chestnut adapt it particularly to work in brass foundries, where it gives just the required amount of heat and it is, therefore, in favor. The principal disadvantage of the resinous pines is their black smoke.

Fan Hangs from Lighting Cord.

SPACE on a business man's desk usually is at a premium. Because of the presence of papers of value lying about loosely waiting action, it usually has been found necessary to place the executive's desk out of the way of the direct circulation of air. In summer he swelters, thus making it more uncomfortable for laboring indoors when the temperature is high without.

In order to effect more comfort and to save desk space there is being introduced in the market this year a power fan that has many unusual characteristics. Among them is a weight of only 2¾ pounds which permits the fan to be suspended from any lighting cord hanging from a ceiling socket, the same being suspended without injury to the cord or the socket. The fan has an eighth-inch wing spread, will operate under 110 volts, 60 cycles alternating or 110 volt direct current. The range of speed or frequency is five per cent. either above or below normal rating. It has a laminated field and armature of special sheet. The bronze bearings are generous with a self-oiling lubricating process. The body is polished aluminum with nickel-plated fan. It has only one speed and throws a downward air current covering a large area. It is out of the way, convenient, quiet running and especially suited for use over a desk. The price is low and the current consumption is meagre.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

Volunteer Hospital, at Water and Beekman Streets, Opened on Lincoln's Birthday, to Care for Cases South of Chambers Street

A NEW and modern building for the Volunteer Hospital was formally opened by Governor Whitman on Lincoln's Birthday, February 12. This hospital is conducted under the jurisdiction of the Volunteers of America and serves the congested district east of Broadway and south of Brooklyn Bridge. The institution is supported by voluntary contributions and receives only a nominal aid from the city for ambulance service and the care of such patients.

The Volunteer Hospital's new building is located at the northwest corner of Water and Beekman streets, Manhattan, and cost about $100,000 to erect. Planned by Adolph Mertin, 34 West 28th street the structure was erected under the personal supervision of the architect. On account of the fact that every phase of illness or accident had to be provided for much thought and careful planning was necessary to accommodate all departments in a building of comparatively small dimensions.

Foundations, mason and stone work waterproofing, fireproofing and roofing was done by James F. Eagan, 162 West 20th street, under a general contract The structural steel was erected by Geo. A. Just, 239 Vernon avenue, Long Island City; the kalamein and carpenter work by Andrew Galbraith, 407 West 35th street, the heating installed by Michael Callahan Co., 354 West 50th st., and the plumbing by Arthur A. McLean, Jr., 17 Battery Place. The hospital supplies and equipment were furnished by the Hospital Supply Co., 53 Fifth avenue.

The structure, which, at present, is three stories and basement in height, has been pronounced by medical and surgical authorities as being the last word in hospital construction and equipment. Three additional stories will simply mean larger departments and greater sphere of influence.

The large and rapidly growing dispensary service of Volunteer Hospital had to be accommodated in the first story of the building. This arrangement necessitated the occupancy of the cellar for many important permanent and temporary uses, so an entirely finished and high cellar became necessary with resultant waterproofing problems, as tidewater was encountered only a few feet below grade. This building has been especially commended by authorities for the compactness of its plan and high efficiency afforded by the general arrangement of the miscellaneous departments.

Construction throughout is absolutely fireproof and designed to be sanitary to the smallest detail. There is not a square corner in the building, where dust can collect or bacteria lodge. The door and window trim has been omitted through the use of heavy wrought iron jambs, with returns, which act as trim, and finish flush with the plaster wall. This method of construction is new and on account of the many favorable comments upon it will, no doubt, be extensively used in future hospital construction, as well as in other structures where particular stress is to be placed on sanitation.

Adolph Martin, Architect.

NEW VOLUNTEER HOSPITAL IN WATER STREET.

The district assigned by the city to the Volunteer Hospital, for ambulance service, covers a dense manufacturing section and a large part of the financial and office building districts of the borough. All ambulance calls, within this section, are to be made to this hospital and the reception and rapid treatment of these patients is one of the requirements imposed by the city authorities. An operating room has been located on the first floor so that surgical cases brought in by ambulance, may receive prompt treatment without moving the patients to operating rooms in distant parts of the building.

This three story and basement building now includes in its equipment for service a laundry, steam heating, refrigeration and filter plants, and a mortuary room. There are four clinic rooms for dispensary service; waiting rooms for male and female patients; doctor's meeting room, general and private office of the superintendent, drug store, emergency operating room, adjoining ambulance room, large operating room, with doctors' shower, and dressing and sterilizing rooms. Female and children's wards, also the medical male ward, large surgical male ward and male ward for septic cases has been provided. The private rooms for special patients with telephones and bath, doctors' and nurses' sleeping quarters, with separate bathrooms, sleeping quarters for internes and ambulance chauffeurs, separate dining rooms for doctors, nurses and superintendent, and separate dining room for internes and common help, bathrooms and toilet facilities, including plumbing fixtures of every description, have been provided in abundance.

While this building is as nearly fireproof as human ingenuity is possible to make it, for the further protection of life and property, a fire alarm system, and standpipes with hose racks on each floor have been installed. A complete telephone system and an emergency gas lighting service has been included, in addition to gas for cooking and fixtures for sterilizing, etc.

The Volunteer Hospital has been located for several years at 93 Gold street, but the quarters were considered very inadequate for the handling of the many cases that daily come under its jurisdiction. The necessity for a hospital of increased capacity was so apparent that it was decided to move the existing institution, rather than create a new one and let the Volunteer operate on restricted lines.

There is practically no unimproved property in the section where the building is located and hundreds of accident cases are yearly cared for, people employed along the water front forming a considerable percentage of the patients treated. There are 102 hospitals now open in Manhattan and the Bronx, but the Volunteer Hospital is the only one provided for those cases, south of Chambers street.

The Fish Market occupies the block front in Beekman street, from Water to Front streets, and one block further away is the old Fulton Market, which takes in the block square bounded by Front, Beekman, South and Fulton streets.

NEW CLASSIFICATION OF BUILDINGS

To be Provided for in a Building Ordinance—An Investigation of Elevator Safety Devices to be Made at Merchants' Request

EX-SUPT. MILLER, editor of the Building Code, has prepared a tentative draft of an ordinance in relation to the Classification of Buildings. The proposed article is practically new. It is proposed to group together such buildings to which the main requirements of the Building Law will generally apply. The main reasons for grouping buildings would be, first, with regard to their strength. Residence buildings on this account naturally fall together, as there is no reason why floors in one type of residence buildings need be any stronger than in another. So, any space occupied as a place of assembly should be as strong at one point as at another. So, too, the wall thicknesses would not vary for different types of buildings in the three classes indicated.

Requirements.

Another main group of requirements is the safeguards against fire. This group divides itself again into three, the requirements for the kind of construction, whether fireproof, non-fireproof or frame, the allowable areas to be covered by the buildings, and the equipment of buildings with fire appliances. It is probable that in the case of some buildings of this larger class there would be exceptions. Thus, for instance, in the class of residence buildings there seems to be a feeling generally that the hotel buildings should be fireproof when over 36 feet 6 inches in height, whereas apartment houses are permitted to go up to 70 or 75 feet before they are required to be fireproof. But, generally speaking, one residence building should be as safe as another so far as fireproof construction is concerned. This applies similarly to the matter of undivided areas and the use of fire appliances.

Again, as to exit facilities, the grouping would seem to be as satisfactory as any. Other considerations that would enter would be the limiting heights of buildings and the lighting and ventilation of the same. In considering the light and ventilation of buildings, any building, no matter what it is called, in which there are living and sleeping rooms it would seem should have the same amount of light and air.

Some suggestions have been made that there should be more than three general classes with reference to construction, some proposing four classes and some five. Those who advocate five wish to make a class of mill construction. It is questionable whether there is any need for it in the city of New York.

The tentative classification is, with respect to occupancy, Public Buildings, Residence Buildings and Business Buildings; with respect to construction, fireproof, non-fireproof and frame.

Elevator Safety Devices.

The approval which the Merchants' Association gave to the ordinance providing for the installation of safety devices on elevators, now pending before the Board of Aldermen, has been withdrawn tentatively upon the recommendation of the Committee on Building Code, of which William Crawford is chairman.

In the report of the committee it is said that there is opposition to the ordinance on the part of owners of real estate, the ground of such opposition being that to comply with the terms of the ordinance as to the provision requiring safety devices to be installed upon all passenger elevators would require an outlay of several million dollars, while it is contended that none of the several safety devices now available are of proved reliability.

The Merchants' Association has requested the Board of Aldermen to defer action for sixty days and cause to be made a thorough and complete investigation by a qualified engineer of the dependability of the various safety devices and, particularly, of the experiences of building owners in many cities with respect to them.

The Association also asks for the restoration of the section which permitted the acceptance by the Superintendent of Buildings of elevator inspections made by properly accredited insurance or casualty companies, be advocated.

Ex-Supt. Miller, editor of the Building Code, was present at the meeting of the association at which the foregoing action was taken. He expressed his desire that real estate interests should be fully satisfied as to the dependability of the safety devices on the market.

The elevators in the Municipal Building will be used for the purpose of trying out some of the devices in the interim.

NEW STREET SIGNS.

Have Been Placed Along Madison Avenue—How Do You Like Them?

After months of study and experimentation the borough administration has succeeded in placing along Madison avenue street signs which combine the names of the avenue and the street on a single surface. Both by day and by night the signs can be easily read from any direction, and especially from a passing car.

President Marks has ordered enough signs of the same style for three other avenues, but before having them placed he is awaiting the opinion of the public. That cannot but be favorable. The lettering is white on a blue background, with a glistening enameled surface, and is very distinguishable. Being attached to posts which carry no street lamps or anything to hinder a clear view of the names and letters or to cast a shadow, the signs are considered the best mounted and most distinguishable for daylight reading that New York City has ever had, and they are also easily readable at night from the light of adjacent street lamps.

President Marks is having a special study made for lighted street signs on Park avenue and will soon have a sample sign placed at the corner of 86th street. The old street sign system has always been the subject of a great deal of complaint and he wishes, by inviting public attention to the new signs at this time, to make sure that the new system will be completely successful.

To Centralize Municipal Engineering.

A central municipal engineering department is proposed by City Chamberlain Bruere. Although Mr. Bruere has none of the details of the plan ready to announce, he has given a rough idea of what is contemplated and what he has been advised by engineers would be entirely practical. The striking features of the scheme are as follows:

1. To definitely organize a central engineering department in which would be placed all the mechanical engineers and others who do work of a general type. From this staff the needs of the various departments would be supplied on requisition. The engineers who have a definite specialty and would be fitted for nothing but that, as the strictly bridge engineers in the Bridge Department would, however, be kept where they are.

2. To have common draughting rooms and also a central plant for the making of blue prints and photos for the engineering work.

3. To centralize the staffs which have charge of the mechanical equipment of the various city buildings scattered throughout the Greater City.

"I feel that the city can save a large sum of money every year," said Mr. Bruere, "by eliminating the duplications in engineering work. Just how much can be saved and how many positions done away with, I cannot yet state, as I am still working on this plan."

Women Favor Bungalows.

The influence of women in suburban realty operations is being felt more every day, and is receiving wider recognition in building circles. The bungalow as adopted in some sections of the country makes a direct appeal to the housewife. It saves steps because of compact arrangement of all rooms on one floor.

The building of bungalows has moved on rapidly since the women realized the advantages and created a demand for them. In nearby suburban communities whole sections have been improved with the bungalow type of dwelling. Prices are suited to the average income, and the bungalow plan has made rapid strides for summer residence purposes.

Among the operators who have developed the bungalow as a useful adjunct to real estate sales is T. B. Ackerson, of Brightwaters, Long Island. Mr. Ackerson said in a recent interview, "It is being brought home to us more forcibly each day that the bungalow has come to stay, due to its immediate favor with the women. It is cozy, compact yet spacious enough for comfort. We have constructed numbers of these all-on-one-floor houses at Brightwaters, principally in the Pines section. Many of them are used all year round."

New Post Office Sub-Station for Brooklyn.

P. Tillion & Son, architects, 381 Fulton street, Brooklyn, are preparing plans for the construction of a two-story post office building 50 by 100 feet, to be known as the "New Lots" station. It will be located on the south side of Glenmore avenue, 50 feet east of Crystal street. The facade is to be limestone in Colonial style of architecture. The furnishings and equipment will be modern throughtout. The building is to be leased to the United States Government and is to be built by Henry Kappes, 108 Van Siclen avenue, Brooklyn, who will take all figures on the sub-contracts and post office equipment. It will cost $25,000.

New Queens Development Project.

A building project involving the construction of about 100 residences will follow the sale of a tract fronting in Farmers Mills and Murray avenues at Jamaica Junction, near New York avenue, in Queens. The property was purchased recently by the Rockaway Construction Company from G. P. Butterly in conjunction with J. V. Graham. The purchaser proposes to improve the land with moderate cost dwellings. Ten of the houses have already been sold from the plans.

R. F. Stevens Co. to Erect Plant.

Albert Ullrich, architect and engineer, 367 Fulton street, Brooklyn, is preparing the plans for an office building and pasteurizing plant, to be erected for the R. F. Stevens Co., milk dealers, at the corner of Dean street and Third avenue, Brooklyn. The structure will be built of brick, steels and reinforced concrete and will be fireproof. It will cover a plot 80x120 feet and cost about $120,000. Bids for construction under a general contract will soon be asked.

Hoppin & Koen Plan Residence.

Hoppin & Koen, architects, 224 Fifth avenue, have been retained to prepare the plans and specifications for a fine residence to be erected at 13-15 East 66th street for Harris Fahnestock, of the firm of Fahnestock & Company, bankers and brokers. Plans for the structure have not been started and definite details of construction have not been decided upon. The residence will probably cost more than $100,000.

Alien Labor Troubles.

The labor troubles on the subway works will be solved by the repeal of the law which prohibited the employment of alien labor on public works and eliminating from existing contracts provisions which prevent the employment of aliens. Full steam ahead will then be the order. Albany advices says the repeal bill will be passed and will be signed by the Governor.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.

Commencing with the issue of March 13, the Record and Guide will print the addresses of those against whom orders have been issued, by the Bureau of Fire Prevention, in each of the five boroughs of Greater New York. These orders frequently call for new equipment, as well as structural work, and the list should be of great value to those seeking leads for construction prospects.

Reinforced Concrete
Industrial Buildings

Reinforced concrete costs less than steel, and, in most cases, no more than first-class mill construction.

It is more fireproof, better for light and sanitation, is more durable and requires no repairs. It carries the lowest insurance rates, but more important, it is itself the best insurance against interruption of business by fire.

We have prepared plans and furnished the reinforcement for over $100,000,000 worth of reinforced concrete buildings in the past 24 years.

Corrugated Bars

have double the bonding efficiency and twice the elastic limit of plain or twisted bars. They are the standard reinforcement for concrete and are used by engineers and architects all over the world. If you contemplate building, let us send you the facts.

PERSONAL AND TRADE NOTES.

JAMES W. COLE, architect, has moved his offices from 403 West 51st st to 515 West 50th st.

ABRAHAM BERRES, architect, is practicing his profession at 1484 St. Marks av, Brooklyn.

WALTER SCHUMM, architect, formerly with H. Craig Severance, is practicing at 225 Fifth av.

LOUIS G. MILLER, plumbing contractor, has moved his office and shop from Broadway and 74th st, to 378 East 4th st.

CHARLES M. HART, architect, has recently become associated with Mott B. Schmidt, at 15 East 40th st., for the joint practice of architecture.

ANDREWS BUILDING COMPANY, general contractor, formerly at 170 Broadway, is now located in the Times Building, Broadway and 42d st, room 1011.

FLOYD A. WALTER has been appointed to represent the firm of Harrison & Schaffer, engineers and chemists, of Easton, Pa., with headquarters at its recently opened office at 28 East 14th st.

I. O. SHUMWAY & CO., plumbing contractors, whose office was formerly at 1123 Broadway, and shop at 422 Fourth av, have moved both office and shop to new quarters at 93 Lexington av.

JOSEPH RAHM, plumbing and heating contractor, has recently established himself at 887 Southern boulevard, Bronx, and desires catalogues and price lists from manufacturers and jobbers.

HARRIE T. LINDEBERG, architect, 2 West 47th st, is preparing plans for a residence to be erected at Santa Barbara, Cal., for Henry S. Pritchard; one at Knoxville, Tenn., for Mrs. George W. Baxter, and one at Concord, N. C., for Martin L. Cannon.

J. GREENLEAF THORPE, architect, has discontinued his office and practice at East Hampton, L. I., and sailed Saturday for an extended trip to Europe. Mr. Thorpe will probably make his home in Florence, Italy, where his mother and sister have been residents for some years.

CLARENCE K. WOOLEY, president of the American Radiator Co., reports for the year ending Jan. 31 a balance for dividends was $2,079,075, which was equal to 25.39 per cent. earned on the $8,185,600 common stock, as compared with 25.19 per cent. earned on $7,441,500 the year before. While the greater part of the demand for boilers and radiators comes from the construction of new buildings, their introduction in old buildings has become a very important part of the total demand. The business from this source is gradually increasing.

MATHEW J. HARRINGTON, assistant secretary of the Public Service Commission, has charge of the preparation of the commission's exhibit at the Panama-Pacific Exposition. The exhibit is housed in the building erected by the City of New York, which will be officially opened on the 15th of this month. This edifice, of Travertine marble, is 150 feet wide, 100 feet deep, and has a height of 45 feet. Bertram G. Goodhue was the architect. The Public Service Commission's booth has dimensions of 14x24 feet.

FEBRUARY RECORD CEMENT SHIPMENT MONTH—DOLLAR MILL CEMENT PREDICTED—ALSO SHORTAGE—EDISON CO.'S STATEMENT

Price Changes for Current Month
Indicate Stability—Steel Up

DEVELOPMENTS in the building material market this week came thick and fast. The announcement was made that February shipments from the Lehigh Portland cement district were 40 per cent. in excess of those for February of last year and 20 per cent. in excess of those for February, 1913, which was an open month like that of this year. The Lehigh Portland Cement Company was said to have thrown into service twenty additional kilns on Wednesday and are getting ready to operate eighteen more,

Making 66 Per Cent. of Capacity.

The Edison Portland Cement Company announced that it would suspend manufacturing until the cement price situation in this city improved. The dealers had a meeting to induce manufacturers to make what they believed to be a more equitable arrangement with regard to compensation for handling their product here. A change upward in the price of Portland cement was denied by the Atlas Company. There was also a general denial of any lowering of prices below sixty-eight cent mill base now ruling, which is equivalent to $1.23 per barrel here. President Mallory of the Edison officially announced that the company was entirely solvent and issued a statement to the trade through the Record and Guide explaining its position.

It was stated that the price war had reached its lowest level and a rebound might be expected. A leader in the trade expressed the opinion that Portland cement would run to a dollar, mill, before August first and that an actual shortage of supply would be the cause of it.

In the brick department all the open cargoes were sold and only nine covered barges remained in the wholesale market. Prices were steady at $5.50 and $6 for good Hudsons. Announcement was made of the incorporation of the Jova Brick Works, makers of the famous "Three J" common brick, with Rufus Darrow's Son, Inc.

Tabulated plan filings in the five boroughs for the current week follow. In the corresponding week last year there were 126 new building plans filed with an estimated value of $2,710,125.

COMMON BRICK.

Manufacturers Holding 20 Bargeloads at Haverstraw.

OPEN cargoes of brick were completely sold last week. There are only 9 bargeloads under cover in this market with prices still down and no sign of an upward movement. Manufacturers, however, are holding in readiness for immediate shipment twenty barges at Haverstraw pending orders, the idea being merely to save watchage and wharfage here.

EDISON MILLS MAY RESUME.

Cement Company Entirely Solvent, Says President Mallory.

AMONG the week's developments in the Portland cement price war in this market is the decision of the Edison Portland Cement Company not to resume manufacture of cement at its plant at New Village, N. J., until it is possible to manufacture this commodity at a profit. The week closes with cement quoted at $1.23 a barrel, which is equivalent to fifty-eight cents at Lehigh Valley mills. When asked for a statement regarding the action of the company, President W. S. Mallory said:

"The action of this company in deciding not to resume the manufacture of cement at this time is in line with our usual conservative policy. Our mill at New Village, N. J., has been closed since the fifth of December. During that time we have been making the customary repairs. It has come to a period when resumption usually takes place, and in view of the unsettled condition of the cement market as a whole, and the low price now prevailing, which is considerably below cost of manufacture, we have decided to defer resumption until we can make cement at a profit.

"I want to say that the Edison Portland Cement Company is entirely solvent in every particular. We intend to take care of our trade and all outstanding contracts and, while we have called out salesmen in, it has been merely for the purpose of acquainting them with the plan of the company in the present circumstances.

"There is a possibility that our mill will again be in operation within a short time."

There was evidence aplenty in the market this week to the effect that the bottom of the price cutting has been reached. At a price of $1.23, which was bottom in this market up to yesterday noon, the mill price was fifty-eight cents. Since it costs between sixty-five and seventy cents a barrel to make cement, practically every cement company doing business today in this market at present prices is taking orders at a flat loss.

The Edison company has a capacity of 2,000,000 barrels a year, all in one plant, and when it is operating full it can produce cement at a minimum cost. When, however, production is curtailed the cost of manufacture is considerably greater than when running full, and it is not in such advantageous position to meet competition of the sort that has featured the New York market for the last two weeks.

JOVA AND DARROW ASSOCIATED.

Old Brickmaking Firm and Local Distributors Join Forces.

ANNOUNCEMENT will be made next week by Rufus Darrow's Son, Inc., of 618, 620 and 622 West 49th st, that a coalition has been formed between that firm and H. J. and E. A. Jova, and the Jova Brick Works of Roseton, N. Y., same to be known hereafter as Rufus Darrow's Son, Inc.

The Jova Brick Works has built a reputation of several generations' standing for making the famous J. J. J. brick. Rufus Darrow's Son, Inc., is one of the oldest in New York, having been established in 1858 by Rufus Darrow.

CONCESSIONS FOR SAKE OF UNITED ACTION

Important Modifications in the Lockwood Bill Agreed to—Tenement, Fire and Labor Laws Not to be Subject to Variation, and Mayor to Appoint Chief Board

THE Conference Committee of Real Estate and Allied Organizations, which recently presented to the Legislature the Lockwood-Ellenbogen bill for simplifying building inspection in New York City, is prepared to defend the measure against criticisms which have during the past few days been aimed at it. The following statement, concerning the bill, is made by Richard O. Chittick, secretary of the conference:

"Considerable opposition has developed during the past few days to the Lockwood-Ellenbogen bill for simplifying building inspection in New York City. It is significant that this opposition has been most marked since the hearing at Albany on March 3. This is perhaps accounted for by the fact that on that occasion it was plain to all observers, and doubtless was not lost upon the Joint Committee on City Affairs, that the advocates of the bill had all the best of the argument. The opposition to the bill was led actively by the Secretary of the City Club, and reinforced by charity organization interests. With this in mind the recent evidences of a widespread propaganda against the bill is easy to understand.

An Open Discussion.

"Before taking up specific criticisms of the bill, it is only fair to those who have devoted months of time in the effort to remedy a condition of which the whole city may well be ashamed, to say that all presumed to be interested, including the City Club, were invited to discuss the bill in the making.

"It is also necessary to contradict a statement which has been given publicity, to the effect that the Lockwood-Ellenbogen bill has been 'deserted' by many of its original advocates. While the advertising value of this to the opponents of the bill is quite obvious, the facts do not warrant the statement. The number of organizations favoring the bill has actually been increased.

"It would, of course, be absurd and unfair to assume that all criticisms of the Lockwood-Ellenbogen measure are made in bad faith. Probably most critics of the bill are sincere, though some of them are badly informed; and while this may be a sign of the times it is not necessarily evidence of bad faith.

"Neither would it be the part of wisdom to assume that the bill is perfect, or that it offers a panacea for all the ills of over inspection and waste.

"The bill may have its faults; but if it had no other merits, those responsible for it can at least pride themselves on having forced upon public and official notice a condition which ought to have been remedied long ago, but for which no remedy would have been provided if the so-called real estate interests had not, nearly a year ago, started a movement to correct an intolerable situation.

Sifting the Criticisms.

"Sifting the criticisms of the Lockwood-Ellenbogen bill quite carefully, those which deserve serious attention seem to be:

1. That decentralization is threatened.
2. That the functions of the Tenement House Department, Fire Department and the Labor Department will be interfered with, the safeguards to life growing out of the present equipment and administration of these departments endangered and the laws rendered inoperative.
3. That the Superintendents of Buildings will be given dangerous authority and placed under pressure of local sentiment.
4. That the Board of Standards will have too great authority.
5. That the Board of Examiners will be a law unto itself; that it will be recruited from organizations that will act in self-interest; that this bill's existence is a legalized looting of the City Treasury.

Borough Responsibility.

"To take these up in their order:

"First, as to the cry of decentralization. This is a fetich that seems to have obsessed quite a number of very amiable and well-intentioned persons. Theoretically the Lockwood-Ellenbogen bill does mean a certain amount of decentralization, but in spite of affirmative academic opinion on this subject is there any particular virtue in retaining a centralized administrative function—that of building inspection and supervision—which has steadily been breaking down for seven or eight years until at the present time it has collapsed hopelessly? That it has broken down no well-informed person will deny.

"Is not the present system of borough jurisdiction, as it applies to building inspection the direct result of the failure of a central building inspection system such as the opponents of the Lockwood-Ellenbogen bill are now advocating?

"Second, the so-called raid upon the Tenement House Department, the Fire Department and the Labor Department.

"Most of the critics of the Lockwood-Ellenbogen bill seem to have assumed that all the virtue in this controversy is on their side. What are the facts about that loudly decried stripping of these departments?

Inflexible Laws.

"The Lockwood-Ellenbogen bill says in effect: The Tenement House Act is a fixed and inflexible law. The Labor Law is in the same case. The authority of the Fire Commissioner is exceedingly wide, both under the Charter and under specific enactments of the Board of Aldermen; also under the police power of the State. But in the matter of construction, alteration and structural changes, there is no reason whatever why, with such fixed laws applicable in each case, a tenement house or factory cannot be built as well under the direction of a Superintendent of Buildings as under a functionary called by some other name; and so in the case of fire prevention requirements. To each of these departments is left the jurisdiction over maintenance and housekeeping.

"Finally there is the Board of Examiners.

"Mr. Binkerd characterizes this as an irresponsible body, apparently because it is not appointed by the Mayor. It is recruited (in the bill) practically from the same sources as at present. The language of the bill does not depart widely from that of the Charter. (See section 409 of the Lockwood-Ellenbogen bill and section 411 of the Charter). But as proof that the bill is intended neither to contain jokers nor to be a 'ripper' measure, the Executive Committee is willing to amend this section so as to vest with the Mayor absolute power to appoint the Board of Examiners. The Conference will probably recommend this change to the Legislature.

"Decisions of the Board of Examiners are given much wider publicity than at present. They are final. But so they are now under the Charter. The framers of the present charter did not seem to share Mr. Binkerd's opinion that the persons who have spent millions to make New York City what it is, and will spend millions more, should have no voice at all in how this great building industry should be conducted. They seem to have had some faith in human nature.

"The provision for 'variations' by the Board of Examiners in the Lockwood-Ellenbogen bill, coincides with the present charter provisions.

Another Modification.

"It is fair both to the critics of the bill and to the Conference Committee to state here another important modification which it is proposed to make.

"The transferring of jurisdiction of the Tenement House Department over construction, structural changes, etc., to the Superintendent of Buildings, Section 406, and the provision for variations from law or ordinance, etc., Section 410, does give power to modify the Tenement House Act. While here again the language of the existing Charter is used, it was not the intention to 'tamper' with the Tenement House Law as has been charged. This is recognized as a fair point for criticism. The Executive Committee is perfectly willing to recommend an amendment that will prevent the application of the variation clause to the Tenement House Act.

"If the Lockwood-Ellenbogen bill does not provide any way for getting rid of the Board of Examiners, as Mr. Binkerd complains, this is plainly because it here again adopts the plan of the existing Charter (Section 411).

"In many respects those who have labored to discover in the Lockwood-Ellenbogen bill a vicious measure are visiting upon it alleged viciousness in the present Charter, under which building construction has been carried on in this city for many years. The bill is not a perfect measure. Where it reflects wide divergence of honest opinion, these differences must be fought out in the usual way. But it does represent hard work, honest effort, months of going over and many revisions. It deserves helpful and not destructive criticism.

"The alleged 'jokers' will be elimimated, if they can be pointed out."

GOOD AND BAD BILLS IN THE LEGISLATURE

A Bill that Abolishes the Industrial Board—A New Measure of Personal Taxation for the Relief of Realty—Governor Signs Bronx Bills

SOMETHING beneficial to the business community is expected from the several measures now in the Legislature intended to put a limit upon the powers of the State Department of Labor and the Industrial Board. The latest bill (by Senator Spring) abolishes both the Industrial Board and the Workmen's Compensation Commission, and puts the Labor Department under the control of an Industrial Commission, which is erected by the bill. The new commission is to appoint the Commissioner of Labor and his deputies. An earlier bill makes the Labor Department a bureau in the office of the Secretary of State.

A hearing was held at Albany on Wednesday on the bill which repeals that section of the New York City charter which gives the Board of Estimate power to limit the height of buildings. Assemblymen Albert E. Smith, Michael J. Horan, Stewart Browne and Joseph S. Schwab were among those who spoke in favor.

A bill is being prepared by a committee of the Real Estate Association of the State of New York which provides for the taxation of both tangible and untangible personal property. The rate is four mills, with no exception for debt, but with an exemption of $2,500 for household effects, etc. A private hearing on this matter of a personal property tax was held before the Mayor's Taxation Commission, Friday, March 12. Charles J. Bullock, of Harvard, and Allan C. Girdwood, of Maryland, came to New York for this hearing.

Affects Registration of Titles.

Governor Whitman has signed the bills introduced by Senator Hamilton and Assemblyman Fertig amending section 63 of the Personal Property law and section 232 of the Lien law. These amendments were prepared by Register Polak to relieve the double filing in Bronx and Manhattan, and also to save the taxpayer the additional cost entailed by the duplicate filing.

Section 232 of the Lien law provides, that where the mortgagor of a chattel mortgage resides in the Borough of the Bronx at the time of the execution of the mortgage or the mortgaged property is situated in such borough, the mortgage shall be filed in the office of the Register of the county of Bronx; and where the vendee of a contract for the conditional sale of goods and chattels not attached or to be attached to a building is a resident of the borough of the Bronx, in such case the contract shall be filed in the office of the Register of the county of Bronx. Register Polak has also drawn up a bill to amend the present statutes with reference to renewals of papers filed in the office of the Register of New York County and affecting interests now in the County of the Bronx.

The Assembly Committee on the Judiciary held a hearing on Tuesday on the bill amending the Torrens act. A committee from the Real Estate Board attended.

These Bills Are Challenged.

The Advisory Council is opposed to the passage of the following bills:

The bill to amend the Lien law. The main amendment seems to be intended to make the liens of mechanics and material men attach to property, without the necessity of filing a notice and to make other burdensome requirements upon contracts and sub-contractors. If this bill were passed, it would make it impossible for lenders to make building loans with safety, and it would therefore circumscribe and possibly stop building improvements.

The bill to require the filing of affidavits of actual consideration to be used as a basis of assessment. Bills of this type have been introduced from year to year. They are objectionable in that they require the disclosure of the personal business of individuals, which is against the spirit of our institutions, without real advantage to the public. Occasional prices paid for property are not a true index of permanent values on which a tax should be based. Expert studies made by the assessing authorities are the proper basis of assessment.

Hearings Announced.

To-morrow (Saturday) morning at 10.30 at City Hall there will be a supplementary hearing on the Lockwood bill, providing for the consolidation of building inspection departments, before a sub-committee of the Joint Committee of the State Legislature on the Affairs of Cities.

Next Tuesday at the State Capital there will be a hearing on the Labor bills now pending, especially the Wagner bill (Int. 572), which contains a recodification of the Labor Law, against which the Real Estate Board of New York has protested. A delegation from this city will attend. At the same place and on the same day there will be a hearing on the Torrens bill which Register Hopper has caused to be introduced.

Assembly Bills.

A. 1207 (Powers). Inserting in the General City Law a new article (IV-b), providing for the registration of master electricians. A State board of examiners of master electricians is created, to be appointed by the Governor. One member must be an inspector of a fire underwriters' association, two members must be master electricians of not less than seven years of actual experience, and two members must be journeymen electricians with a like experience. The State board may establish city boards of examiners in such cities as it deems necessary.

Bowery Tracks.

A. 1329. (Marasco).—Authorizing the Public Service Commission of the first district, within three months after this act takes effect, to prepare a plan providing for but two railroad tracks on the street known as the Bowery. Such plan may provide for a change of route by one or more of the corporations now operating railroad tracks on such street.

A. 1367 (Tudor).—Requiring the Pennsylvania Tunnel and Terminal Railroad Company to construct and maintain a passenger station at or near East 34th street and Second avenue in New York City. The exact location is to be determined by the Public Service Commission of the first district.

Senate Bills.

S. 933 (Sage). Repealing Chapter 214 of the Laws of 1914, which made an appropriation for the establishment of a brick-making plant at the New York State Reformatory at Elmira. To Finance Committee.

S. 934 (Sage). Repealing Chapter 625 of the Laws of 1913, which established a commission on sites, grounds and buildings. The effect of this bill is to abolish that commission. To Finance Committee.

S. 982 (Cromwell). Amending the Greater New York Charter (Section 56), by authorizing the Board of Aldermen, upon recommendation of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, to fix the salaries of city and county employees.

S. 975 (Gilchrist). Inserting in the Greater New York Charter a new section (247-a), authorizing the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, in its discretion, to include in its annual budget such sums as may be necessary for the aid and support of the poor. It is given power to create and establish regulations for the conduct of a department to administer such funds, either under the commissioner of public charities or as a separate department under a commissioner to be appointed by the Mayor.

S. 921 (Patten). Requiring the interchange of transfers between the car lines operated over the Queensboro Bridge, and the Second avenue and Third avenue elevated railroad lines in the Borough of Manhattan. (Same as Assembly bill introduced this session.) To Public Service Committee.

New Compensation Law.

S. 1013 (Lawson).—Amending the Workmen's Compensation Law generally. Among the changes made are the following: Compensation may be paid to employees in all employments, whether hazardous or not; every employer who refuses or fails to provide the measures and means for the prevention of accident required by law must pay compensation; the provision that compensation shall be paid without regard to fault as a cause of the injury, is stricken out; medical and hospital service must be furnished during the 14 days, instead of 60 days, following the injury; a fund is created to be known as "The State Accident Compensation Fund," to secure the payment of compensation; the present provision regarding security for compensation in one of three ways, is stricken out; and employers in any group established by the commission shall be formed into an association for accident prevention. This act is to take the place of the present Workmen's Compensation Law, which is repealed. It must first be submitted to the voters at the next general election before it becomes effective. To Labor and Industries Committee.

S. 1030 (Carswell) (By request).—Amending the Greater New York Charter (Sections 630 and 631), by providing that each Commissioner of Parks, in his respective borough, shall have jurisdiction over all playgrounds and recreational property.

A New Industrial Commission.

S. 1024 (Spring).—Creating an Industrial Commission of three commissioners, to be appointed by the Governor with the consent of the Senate. The terms of office of the commissioners are fixed at six years, except in the case of the first appointees. The Industrial Commission shall have charge of the Department of Labor and shall constitute the State Workmen's Compensation Commission. The commission may appoint a Commissioner of Labor, a Deputy Industrial Commissioner in charge of Workmen's Compensation, and a Secretary. It may designate one of its members as such Commissioner of Labor, and one of its members as the administrative head of the Compensation Commission.

S. 1027 (Sage).—Amending the Labor Law (New article XIII.), authorizing the Common Council or other governing body of every city in the State to fix the hour (not earlier than six o'clock in the afternoon), at which all mercantile establishments must close. It is made unlawful to do business after the closing hour so fixed. Violation is made a misdemeanor.

THE ECONOMY OF "BUILDING NOW"

Movement Has, As Its Basis, Economy, and Is Founded On Sound Business Principles—Prices Cheaper Than Four Years Ago

By NOBLE FOSTER HOGGSON

A GREAT movement has swept over this country in the last three months. "Build now," it is called. It has, as its basis, economy, and a strong element of civic benefit which might be termed practical philanthropy.

The movement is succeeding because it is founded on sound business principles. One may build now at a much reduced cost compared with the expense incidental to carrying out the same operation a year ago. Contrasting the costs of construction at the present time with those of four years ago the saving is even greater.

Economy of building, however, does not lie altogether in the cheapness of construction. That is only one important element. Under certain conditions it would be expensive and ill advised to build, no matter how cheaply the work might be done.

A building operation is primarily an investment. To regard it in any other light is unsafe.

If capital is invested, the investor is entitled to earnings from it. Capital invested in a building should earn a satisfactory rate of interest, plus carrying charges, plus enough to offset loss through depreciation and plus the reward for enterprise.

Adequate Returns.

Capital may be put into a building intended for tenants, or into building which the owner's business or family will occupy. In either case, it must be regarded as an investment which calls for adequate return. Rent tells the earning power of capital invested in real estate, whether it be rent that is received, or rent that is paid.

The obligation of capital to earn income does not vary, even when one owns the building which his business or family occupies.

What is the building owned and occupied actually worth? It is worth relatively the capitalization of the annual rent which would have to be paid for equal accommodation elsewhere? If it has cost more than this, or if it would bring less than this, it is a poor investment.

That the same economic principles govern every building enterprise is the point to be borne in mind.

This country has passed through a period of wasteful extravagance. There has been a spirit of restlessness. In the prosperity that came so bountifully, costs were not counted and profits flowed unrestrainedly.

With little thought of the principles imposed by the law of supply and demand, buildings of all kinds were erected; the whole country seemed to be one vast factory of shrieking engines of construction. Everything was rushed. Haste was the watchword. Enthusiasm blinded the senses. In calmer moments the activities in progress would be regarded as reckless speculation.

No Overbuilt Conditions.

There was hardly a city in America that was not over-built, or was not in imminent danger of becoming in this condition. That condition has passed or is passing. The business depression of the last few years has had a peculiarly beneficial, chastening effect. The overbuilt cities have had a chance to "catch up" with themselves and the existing buildings as well as new structures will have an opportunity to return a fair profit on the investment.

"Now," therefore, is the time to build; not merely for sentimental reasons or for speculative purposes, but for sound economic ones. This applies with equal force to the erection of a residence as well as to the building of a bank or skyscraper.

Cost of Materials Low.

The cost of materials entering into the construction of all classes of buildings is at a low ebb. It is unlikely that the advantages afforded by present conditions in this respect will be met in some time to come. Indications of increased prices are already to be seen, and when business awakens, as it is destined to do very soon, the cost of construction will rise to a higher level. Just now the market is flooded with skilled labor and a choice of the best workmen may be had. This affords an element of saving that is no inconsiderable factor. For one thing it means a speedier operation and a consequent earlier completion of the building.

Herein, too, lies the factor of practical philanthropy mentioned in the first paragraph. Prosperity comes from within and not from without. It must have its beginning in individual communities. From this will develop a revival of business country-wide. One who undertakes a building operation now not only will help to improve local conditions, but will be a factor in bringing about the larger good that must follow in the form of renewed activities. Construction work in the United States suffered a severe decline in 1914.

Owners 'Take a Chance."

Building by the usual method is a more or less hazardous undertaking. Owners were beginning to be cautious and were coming to regard a building operation in the same light that they would any other matter of business. There is no reason why a building should cost more than the reasonable amount of money set aside for its erection. Yet in an investigation conducted by a leading insurance company a few years ago it was disclosed that 96 per cent. of the commercial buildings erected throughout the country exceeded the original estimate in final cost. The average excess in cost was thirty-three per cent.

It is obvious, therefore, that in order to regard and handle a contemplated building operation as an investment, one must know with certainty its limit of cost and its earning power based on the market prices.

If an owner proceeds to build without absolute assurance as to the limit of cost, the operation partakes more of the nature of a speculation than of safe investment.

Usually the owner does go ahead without adequate guarantee of the limit of cost—he does not protect himself against errors in plans, specifications and estimates. If the discovery of errors necessitates extra charges later, he must pay them; if they go undetected, his building may be defective and he may suffer from its diminished equity and earning power; if plans and specifications are slighted in execution—if mismangement occurs—if the building is not ready to earn income when expected, he must suffer loss.

Only when he has provided a financial safeguard against all contingencies, of which the above are but a few, is he making a sound investment.

Successful Operations.

A building operation may be considered successful when the owner is fully satisfied regarding all of the following seven essentials:

1—Cost. The building to be worth all that it cost, and, if a renting building, to produce a satisfactory yield on the total investment.

2—Appearance. The building to possess architectural character suitable to its location and purposes, and to deserve admiration as long as it stands.

3—Arrangement. The building to afford maximum facilities to its occupants.

4—Decoration and Furnishing. The interior of the building to possess artistic unity, appropriateness and to afford comfort and convenience.

5—Stability. The building to withstand properly the wear and tear of time and use.

6—Speed. The building operation to have occupied the shortest time consistent with the quality and extent of the work.

7—Service. The building operation to have been conducted in such a manner as to leave the owner free from every care and responsibility, excepting the approval of plans and materials, and the meeting of payments.

Adjusting Financial Relationship.

Any building may measure up to one, or perhaps several, of these essentials. Few buildings measure up to all of them.

Nothing concerning a contemplated building should be definitely decided until all things concerning it are ready to decide. To prevent excessive expenditure on one part, and inadequate expenditure upon another, work is not begun until all features have been brought to proper financial relationship.

Under a building method which guarantees a limit of cost, no work can proceed until the wishes of the owner and his appropriation reach a well-balanced meeting point.

If this meeting point is not reached, the owner should not be obliged to proceed. He should not be committed to spend a dollar on his building until he is fully satisfied as to plans, specifications and cost.

Township Regains Riparian Rights.

Recent decisions of the New York Supreme Court have deprived some of the wealthy owners of waterfront property on the north shore of Nassau County of their title to it on the ground that the fee rests in the township in which the property is situated. Counsel for the towns has asserted ownership on the strength of colonial patents. Although some of the cases decided against private owners have been appealed, the higher courts have in nearly every instance upheld the decisions of the courts below.

As a result of these decisions hundreds of thousands of feet of riparian rights have reverted to the township, most of it being in the town of North Hempstead. Some fine country estates at Roslyn, Great Neck and Port Washington have been impaired in value as a result.

Riparian rights on the north shore of Queens borough are not involved in this Long Island shore front litigation. From Little Neck Bay westerly to Beechhurst the shore front is a part of the city's boundary. All claims of riparian rights by townships in that section were invalidated when the westerly half of Queens County was merged into the greater city in 1898 and became the Borough of Queens.

Beechhurst forms the westerly part of the borough fronting on Long Island Sound. Possessing more than 1,500 feet of shore front, the fee to this part of Beechhurst rests in the owners of the upland adjoining and affords the residents of that north shore home colony perpetual water front rights and unobstructed outlook.

NEW ORDINANCE FOR BUILDING MATERIALS

Regulating Their Quality, Weight and Strength—To Form Part of the New Building Code—Expressed in Simple and Concise Terms

ANOTHER section of the new Building Code made its appearance in the Board of Aldermen this week, being introduced by Chairman McNally, of the Building Committee. It governs the quality, strength and weight of materials used in the construction and alteration of buildings, and is considered one of the most important parts of the local building law. The date for the hearing has not yet been fixed.

This ordinance will constitute Article 2 of Chapter 5 of the Code of Ordinances and it repeals Sections 13 to 21 inclusive of the present Building Code.

When read in connection with the present code it will be recognized as a thoroughly well considered document expressed in simple terms, and in accordance with current practice. The specifications for brick, sand, lime and, in fact, all the staple materials, are brief and easy to understand. The specification for brick, as an instance, simply says that it shall be "sound, hard-burnt brick," and that when old bricks are used in any wall, they shall first be thoroughly cleaned.

There is no reference to the use of wrought iron, but ex-Supt. Miller says that Supt. Moorehead and Supt. Ludwig have recommended that when in good condition the use of second-hand I-beams, girders, angles and tees, as a concession to small builders be permitted, and an amendment is likely to be made in this respect.

The new ordinance begins with section 20 of the new code and is substantially as follows:

Quality of Materials.

Section 20. All building materials shall be of a quality to meet the intent of this chapter, and shall conform to such specifications not inconsistent with any requirements of this chapter as may be promulgated by the Superintendents of Buildings under the provisions of this chapter.

Section 21. Weights of Materials. In pounds, per cubic foot shall be assured as follows: Brickwork, 120; Concrete, cinder used for floor arches or slabs, 108; Concrete, cinder used for filling over fireproof floors, 60; Concrete, stone, 144; Granite, bluestone and marble, 168; Limestone, 156; Sandstone, 44; Oak and long leaf yellow pine, 48; Spruce, fir, hemlock, white pine and short leaf yellow pine, 30.

Tests of Materials.

Section 22. Tests.—1. When required. New structural material, or structural material not otherwise provided for in this chapter, shall be subjected to such tests to determine its character and quality, as the Superintendent of Buildings shall direct. Appliances and devices required by any of the provisions of this chapter and new methods of construction shall be subjected to such tests to determine their efficiency, as the Superintendent of Buildings may direct. Such tests as may be required under this section shall be described in rules promulgated by the Superintendent of Buildings.

2. All tests shall be conducted under the supervision of the Superintendent of Buildings, or his authorized representative. Laboratory tests shall be conducted at a testing laboratory of recognized standing. A Superintendent of Buildings conducting a test under the provisions of this section shall notify the Superintendents of Buildings of the other boroughs at least three days in advance of such test.

3. Approval.—Any material, appliance, or method of construction meeting the requirements of this chapter or the specifications authorized thereunder shall be approved within a reasonable time after the completion of the tests.

All such approvals and the conditions under which they are issued shall be published in the City Record within a month after issuance, and a complete list of all such approvals issued during the year shall be included in the annual report of the Superintendent of Buildings.

Conditions for Approvals.

4. Materials, appliances, or methods of construction which have been tested and approved shall be used and installed in accordance with the terms of the approval. So far as practicable all materials and appliances for which approvals have been issued shall have a distinctive brand mark for identification impressed on or otherwise attached to them. It shall be unlawful to use any such brand mark on any other material or appliance than those for which the approval was issued.

5. Additional Tests.—The Superintendent of Buildings may require any test to be repeated if there is any reason to believe that the material or appliance is no longer up to the specifications on which the approval was based.

Section 23. The brick used in the construction of buildings shall be sound, hard-burnt brick. When old brick are used in any wall they shall be thoroughly cleaned before being used.

Section 24. The sand used for building construction shall be clean, sharp, coarse and silicious.

Section 25. Quick lime and hydrated lime shall conform to such specifications as may be promulgated by the Superintendent of Buildings, or, in the absence of such specifications with the tentative specifications of the American Society for Testing Materials.

Section 26. Portland and natural cements shall conform to such specifications as may be promulgated by the Superintendents of Buildings in accordance with the provisions of this chapter, or, in the absence of such specifications, with the standard specifications of the American Society for Testing Materials.

Section 27. Mortar.

1. Cement.—Cement mortar shall be made of cement and sand in the proportion of 1 part of cement and not more than 3 parts of sand by volume, or, in the case of bag mortars prepared under rules promulgated by the Superintendent of Buildings, in such proportions that the tensile strength per square inch at the age of 28 days shall be not less than 250 pounds when Portland cement is used, and 125 pounds when natural cement is used. Cement mortar shall be thoroughly mixed and shall be used immediately after the addition of water. Not more than 15 per cent. of the cement by volume may be replaced by an equal volume of dry, hydrated lime, but the lime and cement must be thoroughly mixed before the addition of water.

2. Cement-lime mortar shall be made of 1 part of slaked or dry hydrated lime, 1 part of cement and not more than 3 parts of sand to each by volume.

3. Lime.—Except as may be otherwise provided lime mortar shall be made of 1 part of slaked lime, lime putty or dry hydrated lime and not more than 4 parts of sand by volume.

Section 28. Concrete.

1. Mixture.—Except as may be otherwise provided in this chapter, concrete shall be made of at least 1 part of cement, and not more than 2½ parts of sand and 5 parts of coarse aggregate.

2. Aggregate.—The coarse aggregate shall be granite, trap rock, gravel or other hard durable material that may be approved by a rule of the Superintendent of Buildings. When gravel is used it shall be thoroughly washed.

Where mass concrete is used, the coarse aggregate shall be of such size as will pass through a 2-inch ring. All aggregates shall be free from dust or other deleterious material.

3. Consistency.—All concrete shall be a wet mixture and shall be placed in forms immediately after mixing, and well tamped. No concrete shall be used after initial set has begun.

4. Forms.—All forms and centering shall be built in a substantial manner, and with joints sufficiently tight to prevent leakage of the cement. They shall be properly supported and braced as to safely sustain all the load that may be placed upon them during construction.

5. Joints in Concrete.—Joints formed between portions of concrete placed at different times shall be made in a manner not to injure the completed structure. Before fresh concrete is joined to concrete which has set or partially set, the surface of the old concrete shall be roughened, cleaned and thoroughly wet.

Section 29. Hollow Building Blocks.

1. Concrete.—Blocks of moulded concrete for building construction shall be made of 1 part of Portland cement to not more than 5 parts of sand or other suitable aggregate and shall develop at the age of 28 days an ultimate crushing strength per square inch of gross area of not less than 750 pounds when tested with the cells placed vertically or 300 pounds when tested with the cells placed horizontally. The shells and webs shall not be less than 1½ inches thick.

Terra Cotta.—Hollow blocks of terra cotta shall be sound, hard and well burnt and shall develop an ultimate crushing strength per square inch of gross area of not less than 1,200 pounds when tested with the cells placed vertically or 300 pounds with the cells placed horizontally. Shells and webs not less than 1½ inches thick.

Section 30. Iron and Steel.

1. Cast Iron.—Cast iron for building construction shall be of good foundry mixtures, producing a clean, tough, gray iron. Sample bars, 5 feet long, 1 inch square, cast in sand molds, placed on supports 4 feet 6 inches apart, shall bear a central load of 450 pounds before breaking. Castings shall be free of serious blow holes, cinder spots and cold shuts.

2. Cast Steel.—Steel castings for building construction shall be made of open hearth steel, and shall be practically free from blow-holes. Except as may be otherwise prescribed by rules of the Superintendent of Buildings, they shall conform to the standard specifications of the American Society for Testing Materials for soft or medium steel castings.

3. Structural Steel.—All structural steel for buildings shall have an ultimate tensile strength of from 55,000 pounds to 65,000 pounds per square inch. Rivet steel shall have an ultimate strength of from 46,000 to 56,000 pounds per square inch. Except as may be otherwise prescribed by rules of the Superintendent of Buildings, structural steel shall conform to the standard specifications of the American Society for Testing Materials for structural steel for buildings.

OPTIMISM IN REAL ESTATE MARKET

The Great Fight for Economy and Against Over-Regulation Is Resulting in Improved Conditions for Investors and Builders

By HENRY BLOCH

IT is popular now-a-days to speak contemptuously about the ownership of real estate. Without fear of contradiction, and with a sincere conviction, owners yell from the housetops of the evils of over-regulation, confiscatory taxation and the unmarketability of their property; while he who has a snug sum laid away, holds grimly to his money and when a piece of property is offered to him far below its value, promptly says, "Not for me!"

There is, of course, no gainsaying the fact that there is considerable justification for just such a feeling. Until recently our city and State officials—very few of whom own real estate and some of whom have not even a faint idea of the burden such ownership entails—have shown a supreme indifference toward the realty interests of the city. The result has been that for years real estate has been annoyed, molested and harassed at every turn.

However, has not the pendulum of discontent swung too far? Have not owners made their own lot infinitely worse by belittling their own investment? Have they not made their holdings distinctly unattractive to others, and is not this among the chief causes for the unmarketability of real estate today?

The greatest asset the city possesses is the ten billions of dollars of real estate which it owns. To take away its good will, i. e., its marketability, is to deprive it of much of its value. Each time an owner decries the ownership of realty, he is injuring its market value. Of course, it would be neither proper nor wise, to try to cajole ourselves or others into the much-desired belief that real estate has taken an upward turn, if that is not the fact. I firmly believe it to be exactly the fact.

New Laws Will Bring Relief.

Realty conditions are not getting worse; they have been as bad as they will be; they will improve steadily from now on. Our city officials have been made to see the light; they now realize that to burden real estate to death is to kill the goose which lays the golden egg. New laws are being enacted to do away with the oppressive over-regulation and duplication of inspection by city departments. The fallacies of the Single Tax propaganda have been exposed. The tenant realizes that he, too, is a taxpayer and that his interests are identical with the landlord's; that his own earnings invested in a savings bank or a life insurance company are in turn invested in real estate.

All legislation affecting taxpayers is being watched zealously at Albany and City Hall. An honest effort is being made to obtain new sources of revenue. The great newspapers have taken up the fight for economy and against extravagance. The Governor and the Mayor have promised retrenchment effusively, and I believe sincerely. No glaring extravagance or waste will longer be tolerated. The public has been aroused!

And it is just at this point that the tide is sure to turn. For years leaders of real estate movements, often alone, and always unpopularly, have worked hard to bring about just this state of affairs. Things now will probably rapidly get better. The seven years of depression will vanish when a few rays of optimism and returning confidence are shown. The diagnosis has been safe, and the cure will quickly follow.

Renting conditions, at least in apartments, are today better than they have been at any time since 1907. The erection of new buildings during the past few years has fallen off considerably. The result is that the over-production of buildings, which was one of the primary causes for the real estate depression, has been lessened, until now the supply of apartments about equals the demand therefor. A steady reasonable yearly income makes an investment a desirable one.

HENRY BLOCH.

What forms of investment will be sought for the many millions of dollars which today lie practically uninvested? Stocks and bonds have proven themselves undesirable to the conservative investor; they are distinctly a gambling proposition; they rise and fall in value according to the manipulations of the few who control a majority of the votes. Few men will, nor should they, invest their money in an industrial enterprise unless they are active or have a control in its management. What other form of investment remains? These uninvested fortunes will gradually, but surely, find their way back to real estate which has always been and will continue to be regarded as the safest and the most conservative of all investments.

Let the everlasting "kicking" about real estate stop. Let the slogan, "Don't knock," be applied to real estate for a change. "Knocking" has done all the good it can, to do more is to harm. Owners may now, with reason, take a more cheerful attitude and have renewed confidence in their investment, which in many cases is the result of years of frugality, work and thrift. Let us face the situation squarely and understand it throughly. Let us strive with helpful suggestions to at least give real estate a chance to work out its own salvation.

WESTCHESTER AVE. SUBWAY.

Public Service Commission Being Urged to Let Contracts.

The Traffic and Waterways Bureau of the reorganized Bronx Board of Trade, of which Olin J. Stephens is chairman, is showing great activity in pushing the proper authorities to action in the needs of the borough, insofar as they come under the scope of activities of the bureau.

This branch of the Board of Trade has been urging for some time that work begin on the new Westchester avenue branch of the Broadway Lexington avenue subway and the connecting of the old and new lines at Southern Boulevard. The Bureau officials have requested the Public Service Commission to grant them a hearing on the matter immediately.

Not only does the holding up of this work greatly inconvenience the Bronx traveling public, but it delays the expected building activity in that section. The immediate start of work on this line would mean therefore that not only the employment of many hundreds of unemployed workmen, but would also give work to probably several thousand men now idle in the building trades.

The Bronx Board of Trade realizing the great benefit the people of the East Side will receive have resolved to ask the civic organizations of that section of the city to co-operate in the appeal to the Public Service Commission for action, by sending delegations to the hearing. At the recent joint meeting of the local Boards of Morrisania, Crotona and Chester, the plans for the bridge to span the Bronx river at Westchester avenue, were approved, thus putting the matter up to the Public Service Commission, as the United States Engineer Office in charge of the improvements to the Bronx River had already designed the type of bridge which they would be satisfied with. The letting of the necessary contracts for the construction of this branch of the Lexington avenue subway has been held up until the Federal Government decided on the width of the river at this point. Now that all obstacles to the letting of the contracts and the pushing of the work are practically removed, the Bronx Board of Trade is on the "firing line" to see that the work begins at an early date.

SEE HOW QUEENS IS GROWING.

Statistics of New Buildings and Factories as Shown by Mortgage Records.

The March issue of the monthly Bulletin published by the Chamber of Commerce of the Borough of Queens gives some very interesting data showing the growth of the Borough in new buildings and new factories. According to the Bulletin there were $63,938,550 in mortgages recorded in Queens Borough for the year ending July 1, 1914. Of this amount, however, $45,000,000 was represented in trust mortgages, leaving a balance of nearly $19,000,000 loaned for buildings. The following is a statement of mortgages recorded and the amounts loaned by the different companies:

Company.	July 1, 1913 to July 1, 1914.
Title Guarantee and Trust Co.	$2,769,050.00
Home Title Ins. and Mortgage Co.	582,600.00
First Mortgage Guarantee Co.	582,500.00
U. S. Title Guaranty Co.	546,300.00
The Thrift	305,650.00
Nassau-Suffolk Bond and Mortgage Co.	260,650.00
Queens County Mortgage Co.	240,240.00
Realty Construction and Investment Companies	347,996.91
Bond, Mortgage and Surety Companies	100,407.00
Title Insurance Company of New York	85,100.00
Lawyers Title Insurance and Trust Co.	72,500.00
Long Island Bond and Mortgage Co.	105,850.00
Life Insurance Companies.	9,700.00
All Banks, Trust Companies and Building Loan Associations (Except Title Companies)	3,970,216.91
Miscellaneous Companies	443,494.47
Trust Mortgages	45,068,457.50
All Others	8,447,837.54
Total	$63,938,550.22

Occupation Statistics.

The American standard of living is one house for one family, but one-fourth of the people of this city now live in "multi-family dwellings." In Philadelphia, according to Baedeker, the average number of persons to a dwelling is only five, while here it is sixteen, taking all kinds of dwellings into account. The average number for multi-family houses in Greater New York is something over thirty to a house.

Bronx and Brooklyn are doing well in the construction line. Hope they will do well also in marketing the product.

Congestion on the transit lines in the downtown skyscraper district has reached an intolerable stage. This is one of the unhappy features of metropolitan life, and unlimited skyscraper construction would make it worse.

Judging from the sudden outpouring of letters to the press against the inclusion of a certain department among those to be consolidated with the Building Department, there is a fine Spencerian hand at work, whose skill in secret diplomacy and matters of legislation is both famous and marvelous.

It was the State Labor Department at Albany which year after year heaped upon Realty the burdens which finally broke its patience. This department has been the special protege of the uplifters, and has provided many of them with good jobs. If it should through technicalities of the law slip out of the consolidation legislation, Realty will feel that its fight against over-regulation has been almost in vain.

The Board of Estimate, which had previously voted not to undertake the business of consolidating the inspection departments, has since reversed itself. The Board by a vote of 9 to 7 declared the need for relief and approved of the Wagner-Smith bill which empowers the Board of Estimate to unite the departments in an entirely new system. The Mayor, the Comptroller and the President of the Board of Aldermen, with nine votes, joined in defeating the Borough Presidents, with seven votes. The latter expressed preference for the Lockwood-Ellenbogen bill which provides for separate building departments in each borough, and insisted that it was the rightful duty of a Borough President to supervise building construction and inspection in his borough

No Department Should Be Left Out.

So far as can be judged from New York, the chances for the Lockwood bill have not improved during the week, and its enactment in its present form is wholly improbable. Even if it passes the Legislature it would certainly be vetoed by the Mayor and probably by the Governor. The arrangement of some substitute for it, or a revision of its provisions, has consequently become imperative. The real estate interests of New York prefer the Lockwood bill on the whole, but they want above all some legislation which will simplify building inspection. They should agree consequently on some alternative legislation which will accomplish the same result without incurring the same opposition. The alternative legislation should, if possible, be approved by the city administration, but whether approved by the administration or not, it should assure a really simplified system of inspections.

It should not consent to the omission from the new department of any of the existing agencies of inspection. The Record and Guide can understand the force of certain of the objections made to the Lockwood bill. To lodge such large powers in the hands of officials responsible only to local public opinion might result in an excessively easy and liberal administration of the laws. But if the Mayor appoints the head of the inspection department, why should tenement house inspection be kept separate from the general inspection service? If a Mayor can be trusted to appoint a Tenement House Commissioner who is sincere in his intention to enforce a special law, he can be trusted to appoint an equally sincere Inspector-General. The inclusion of the powers now exercised by the Tenement House Department and the State Labor Department in the powers bestowed upon the proposed new department is essential, and it is essential not merely because the authority cannot be efficiently exercised unless it is centralized, but also because responsibility cannot be fixed with any certainty unless it is centralized. The property-owner needs one department, so as to avoid conflicting and unnecessary orders. The latest information is that the authors of the Lockwood bill are willing to modify it in important particulars.

Cheaper Electricity Will Mean Its Larger Use.

At the time when the Governor of the State of New York is contemplating the discharge of the local Public Service Commission, and when all over the country public opinion is showing discontent with the inefficacy of the regulation of public utilities, it is encouraging that the immediate effects of regulation in this city should have something to recommend them. The investigations into the New York Telephone and Edison companies have disclosed the existence in both cases of a margin of profit over a fair return to the stockholders, which will permit a reduction of rates to consumers. Moreover, the reduction in both cases will be substantial. The proposed new tariff will save for them approximately $25,000,000 in the case of the telephone company and $2,000,000 in the case of the Edison company. Thus the saving will be sufficiently large to make a real difference to the people of the city. The use of electricity has become indispensable to many forms of business and to a comfortable contemporary home. Any diminution in the cost will be immediately reflected in a very considerable increase in consumption. Builders of a still cheaper class of flats will be able to install it, elevators will become possible in apartment houses which formerly would have been obliged to dispense with them; the use of electric advertising signs will still further increase. More than ever before New York will be a city made by electricity.

The reduction in telephone rates will, however, have even more important effects. It is generally admitted that New York has enjoyed probably a better telephone service than any other city in the world. The company's subscribers realized that the rates were high, but they have not objected, because they realized that they were getting a good deal for their money. But if the rates can be reduced without affecting the service, so much the better. The five-cent call for individual domestic subscribers will be a great boon; and the reduction in the interborough rates will make the whole city more of a business and economic unit. But most important of all, if it can be obtained, will be a rate which will permit the smaller apartment houses to furnish calls to their tenants for five cents each. That will do more than anything else to increase the use of the telephone and make it available for people of moderate incomes.

The increased use both of telephones and electricity will probably compensate the two companies for their loss of income within a few years. In that case demands for further reductions in rates will doubtless be heard. But it is very much to be hoped that such demands will not be so insistent as to deprive the company of any motive for efficiency. Some arrangement should be made which would permit both the telephone and the Edison companies to increase their dividends just in proportion as they reduce their rates. If their dividends are restricted to a fixed percentage, and if any increase in profits, no matter how much it may be due to unusually able management, is immediately appropriated for the benefit of the consumer, the company obviously has no inducement to furnish able management. It is bound in the long run to drift into routine and inefficient motives. But if every reduction in rates amounting to a certain sum will entitle it to distribute a corresponding sum in dividends in addition to its fixed percentage, then the management of the company will have every motive to introduce economical improvements and cut expenses. Such an expedient is already being tried in Boston, and it should be introduced here in New York.

The State Tax.

Governor Whitman is accused by the counsel of ex-Governor Glynn of having made a slight mistake of some $18,000,000 in his estimate of the imperative financial requirements of the State for the coming year. The Governor denies it, and the bookkeping of the State is so far from being satisfactory that no one can be absolutely certain which is right. But this much we know. The experts of the Finance Department of New York agree rather with Mr. Saxe than with Governor Whitman. They do not put the Governor's error as high as $18,000,000, but they do estimate it at about $12,000,000, and the estimate is rendered the more plausible, because before Mr. Saxe's statement, the Republicans had apparently become aware of the error and were talking about "economies" which would save to the taxpayers a nucleus, which the Governor in his message had declared must be spent on necessary public service.

In either event the outlook for the taxpayer of New York City is vastly improved. The State direct tax may not be entirely done away with, but it can hardly be as burdensome as it threatened to be a week ago. The most honest and intelligent efforts of the administration to keep the tax rate down will not be rendered abortive by an increase in State taxation. The New York property-owner, at a time when the real estate market is in a peculiarly sensitive condition, will not have his calculations disturbed and the value of his property diminished by a considerable increase in his tax bills; and if the Constitutional Convention does its work well, the financial system of the State may be very much improved as the result of its work this spring.

—Real Estate and building interests should carefully examine and weigh the proposed new Labor Law of the State of New York. It purports to be merely a "recodification," but it contains many new provisions, the general effect of which is to add greatly to the powers of the Industrial Board, whose inclinations thus far in its brief career have been to impose new and sometimes drastic regulations upon the owners of New York City real estate already over-regulated by local laws. Property owners have set hopes on this revision and will be greatly disappointed if they find that, instead of getting the relief that was promised, they have been still further brought into subjection to the social uplifters and their upstate allies.

Would Stop the Calling of Mortgages.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

What has ailed the Real Estate Market for the last seven years? What has destroyed the credit of real estate as an asset? More than anything else, the uncertainty of the mortgage situation.

Up to twenty-five or thirty years ago, most mortgages were held by savings banks, or institutions that made these loans for investments, and were practically never called, nor any reductions asked for at their due date. The owner of real estate felt that his investment was permanent and secure; the banker and the credit man smiled upon the real estate owner, for its ownership was a sign of thrift.

Now, Dun and Bradstreet, in making up their commercial ratings of business men, count the amount invested in real estate not as an asset, but as a definite liability, for they argue that when the mortgage comes due the property owner must take from his commercial business a large amount to pay off and to protect the equity.

How did this change come about? The multitudinous laws, excellent as some of them no doubt are, the many inspections, the criminal proceedings which were sometimes the outgrowth, played their part in making the real estate owner regret his investment, but the final straw was the introduction of the merry game of "call the mortgage."

Egged on by the mortage broker who wanted to earn a fee, the mortgage lawyer was nothing loath to call the loan so that he, too, could bleed the sucker, and get a fee; usually too polite and high-class to extort the money openly by charging a full fee for the extension, he would insist upon calling this loan and placing it elsewhere, thus ensuring himself the coveted full fee.

There is only one basic cure for the whole situation; that is the development of the amortization mortgage idea, and its wider use. In thirty-one years, 6 per cent. figured, at 4½ per cent interest, and starting at 1½ per cent. reduction, will pay off the mortgage in full. It could be done in three jumps of ten years each. Or, in thirty-six years, a mortgage would amortize itself at 6 per cent. at the rate of 5 per cent. interest, and starting with 1 per cent. payment. That could be done in three jumps of twelve years each.

If the market went up very much, the mortgages might be paid off at periodical intervals, or otherwise adjusted.

Let us see who could make these loans? The life insurance companies hold over two billion dollars of the people's money. The savings banks hold a like amount, so that if these agencies co-operated, and made such loans only to the extent of 20 per cent. of their assets, eight hundred million dollars would be available. The assessed value of New York real estate is over eight billion dollars, the mortgages aggregate about three billion five hundred million dollars, so that this sum would be more than sufficient to keep the market steady at all times.

Nor need this money go out at once. Of course, it would not be possible for it to happen that way. It could be fed out for loans on new bulidings which would be more carefully inspected, by the lender, when built, than is now the custom, except with one or two of the large life insurance companies which maintain their own staff; a healthier tone would exist, the feeling of confidence would be restored.

The mortgage broker would not need to die of starvation if all this comes about. The sense of security would cause a flow of new money to the real estate field. Many owners, now leaving the property unmortgaged out of fear, might be willing to take a long-term mortgage, and increase their rate of income, and the field of these men and their activities would be broadened.

The years from 1907 to 1915 have thinned the ranks of the brokers, and only the staunchest and stoutest hearted and best equipped have held out. This is the time while the power to organize the real estate situation lies in comparatively few hands, to make the necessary changes that will lay the foundation for a broader and saner structure than that reared haphazard in the last thirty years; it is time for a new set of ethics and with the co-operation of all the now well-organized real estate organizations, State, City and Ward, the aid of the newspapers, the real estate publications, the investors, and the owners, a new day will dawn for us all.

An Architect's Answer.

Since giving out a statement containing his criticisms of the Lockwood bill, Secretary Binkerd, of the City Club, has received a letter from a practicing architect, who was a member of the commission which framed the existing building code, saying:

"As a former president of the North Side Board of Trade and of the Civic League of the Bronx and a former chairman of the Bronx District Committee of the Charity Organization Society, no less than as an architect and a citizen, I have supported the Tenement House Act since its enactment for the good that it contains, but the weak point of the Tenement House Act is that it is too rigid and exacting in non-essential details, leaving no discretion to meet the unusual problems arising in building operations.

"This (the Lockwood) bill proposes to remedy by provisions for varying and modifying the law where a strict compliance is unreasonable, oppressive and in some cases, as I know from my own experience, prohibitive. And it proposes to place this power in a board of appeal consisting of an architect, a mason, a carpenter, an iron-worker, a real estate expert, etc.

"Is there anything unreasonable or inimical to the public interests in this? Do you know that there is and has been for years, such a board attached to the Bureau of Buildings? Have you ever heard of any scandal connected with it?

"If you are going to build, you would employ an architect to plan and supervise your building, would you not? You believe, as a layman, that his technical training and knowledge of planning is superior to your own, do you not? Why then do you object to safeguarding the public interests to the same extent that as a prudent man you would safeguard your own? How, as a reasonable man, can you oppose placing the administration of laws relating to buildings in the hands of men trained in planning and erecting buildings?"

"You believe that judges should be men trained in the law, do you not? Would the City Club advocate architects and builders for judges? Do you think that because a judge is a lawyer, he will be prejudiced in favor of lawyers to the detriment of the public in his decisions on the law? Why, then, do you assume that the administration of the laws relating to buildings in the hands of an architect or builder would result in their being administered in the interests, as you put it, of architects, builders, etc.? Do you deem architecture a less honorable profession than the law?

"When you advocate a single Building Superintendent for the entire city, do you realize what that would mean to citizens of the remote sections of the Bronx, Queens, Brooklyn and Richmond? Do you think it resonable and just to require them to spend a half a day or more in traveling to the Municipal Building at City Hall? Is such inconvenience and loss of time necessary? Would it benefit the city at large? On the contrary, will it not clog the wheels of administration and swamp the one Building Superintendent with work now distributed over five boroughs?

"You know, of course, that such was the case years ago, and you know that in response to public demand a branch office with a separate Superintendent was located in each borough. Is not this working satisfactorily so far as the Bureau of Buildings is concerned? You realize, I know, the intolerable condition of affairs resulting from piece-meal legislation relating to buildings which has burdened building operations in this city with the conflicting orders of eight different departments, city and State, and you would like to see this remedied. What better remedy is there in sight than that proposed in the Lockwood bill, brought about by the deliberations in conference of delegates from 60 civic commercial, architectural, building and taxpayers' associations representing every section of the city and including a majority of those which are usually recognized in New York City as leaders of progressive thought and exponents of public opinion?

"Why not help us secure the enactment of the Lockwood-Ellenbogen bill and feel the joy of doing something worth while for the City of New York?"

ALBERT E. DAVIS.

Present Condition of Realty.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

For the first time in many years this is a tenants' market and a lenders' market, and not a landlords' or borrowers' market. The supply of space exceeds the demand; the supply of mortgage money for renewals, let alone for new loans, falls short of the demand. With their income cut from one-third to one-half the people cannot afford to pay the rents they have heretofore been paying; we find reduced rents, increased taxes, increased interest rates, and calling of loans; these are facts, apart from the reasons.

It is immaterial what the investor owner pays in the way of taxes, interest rates, etc., so long as his rentals offset these charges; the trouble is that the increased taxes and the increased interest rates the landlord has been and still is unable to shift to the tenant, and in consequence thereof he is in hard luck, and with the calling of his mortgage loans he is gradually being wiped out.

The owner for investment doesn't want to see any loans made for new development; he is not interested in further building construction; he would like to see no new buildings built in New York until the demand exceeds the supply; he is primarily interested in the renewal of his mortgage at the old interest rates, and without the calling of his loan, and is also interested in getting the old or increased rents.

The speculative owner is not always and primarily interested in the renewal of old loans at their original amounts and at lower rates of interest, or in the question of rentals; he is primarily interested in getting new and big loans at low rates of interest, and in getting others to purchase his properties at a profit to himself.

What the realty broker wants is an active market; it is secondary to him what the rents, interest rates, or mortgage loans are so long as he can buy or sell property so that he can make commissions; of course he would prefer large selling values.

The owner for investment should not care how much the truth of existing conditions are preached because his condition may be thereby improved; the owner for speculation and the realty broker prefer that the truth of existing conditions should not be preached as it may prevent the former from selling at a profit, and may prevent the latter from making commissions, upon which his livelihood depends.

EVICTION RECORD.

Proofs That East Side Landlords Have Not Been Harsh With Delinquent Tenants.

DURING the severe period of unemployment and business depression throughout the city there have been occasional attempts on the part of well-meaning individuals to charge the real estate interests with lack of sympathy and appreciation of the situation in instituting dispossess proceedings to evict tenants. From the statements which have been circulated the ordinary citizen would infer that property owners have commenced these proceedings immediately upon the non-payment of rent. The conclusions which could be deduced were such as might seriously reflect upon the public sprit and civic integrity of anyone interested in property.

In fact, it was stated that there has been a disproportionate increase in the number of eviction cases in New York during this period of commercial stagnation. In many newspapers throughout the country these assertions have been repeated to the disparagement and detriment of the property owners of New York City. When these reports were being disseminated, the Advisory Council of Real Estate Interest, desiring to endeavor to alleviate the distress that prevailed, investigated this question very thoroughly and publicly stated that it would be willing to take up any individual case of hardship and make every effort to do all that it possibly could to relieve the suffering in such instances. After a thorough study of the situation, the council found that the number of evictions had not increased during this period of unemployment, as the following statistics will demonstrate:

1914.	Cases Received	Cases Evicted	Per Cent.
January	3,449	113	3.3
February	3,243	88	2.7
March	4,693	171	3.6
April	3,853	152	4.0
May	3,523	158	4.5
June	3,690	189	5.1
July	3,724	170	4.6
August	3,767	153	4.1
September	3,983	161	4.0
October	3,740	153	4.1
Totals	40,887	1,617	4.0

These statistics are up to November, 1914, but it has since been learned that there has been a tendency towards a gradual decrease in the number of actual evictions. When evictions from dwellings or tenements are considered, it is necessary to reduce the number stated above, because this includes evictions from commercial houses and office premises.

In investigating these cases where actual evictions of individual families had occurred, it was found that the various charitable associations had intervened, and every possible effort had been made to assist the unfortunate families. As a matter of fact, a number of these cases show that some of these families were inclined to not pay rent in any tenements they occupied. Some were hold-overs, and others permitted the City Marshal to evict them merely to save the expense of moving themselves. In the large proportion of cases the landlord was not at fault. In fact, most of the property owners on the East Side, where most of these evictions take place, were honest, energetic and thrifty.

Large Mass Meeting Called.

What is planned to be one of the largest and most impressive protests ever made in New York City by taxpayers and rentpayers, against the increase in taxation and the cost of administering the city government, is being arranged for the evening of Sunday, March 21, at the 44th Street Theatre, by the United Real Estate Owners' Association.

The meeting is called in the belief that every man and woman in New York City is vitally affected by the recently announced increase in the tax rate and the steadily mounting expenses of the city government. It is to be as much a protest by rent payers as by taxpayers. It is to be the start of a series of educational meetings in which popular speakers will show all classes how they are affected by increases in the rate of taxation and the city's expenditures, irrespective of whether they are taxpayers or otherwise.

Seats will be reserved without charge on application by person or by mail at 170 Broadway, the office of the United Real Estate Owners' Association.

—The Bronx has the lowest percentage of foreign-born population of any of the boroughs, and next to Boston the lowest of any city of like population in the land.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

It is generally conceded that one of the principal deterrents to a revival of real estate activity, at least in its important branches of selling and building, has been "tight money."

If it can be shown that money is no longer tight or at least that it is not so tight as it was on January 1, then the proposition that there is an improvement in the market will be satisfactorily proven. A great many people do not accept statistics. It is claimed that compilations of figures are not as reliable as they might be and while, on the surface, they do occasionally furnish the correct analysis of conditions, this is the exception rather than the rule.

The Record and Guide weekly real estate statistical table, particularly with regard to the comparative records for the first week of January, February and March of this year, shows a marked improvement. For the week ending January 9, there were 105 mortgages involving $2,003,761 recorded in Manhattan, in which only ten banks or insurance companies were interested. Sixty of these mortgages were on a 6 per cent. basis; six at 5½ per cent. and fourteen at 5 per cent. One month later, for the week ending Feb. 6, there were 102 mortgages involving $2,684,425 recorded in the same borough; in which eighteen banks or insurance companies were interested. Forty-nine mortgages brought 6 per cent. and thirty 5 per cent. During the first week in March there were 106 mortgages recorded involving $4,264,538, in which twenty-three banks or insurance companies figured as mortgagees. Only thirty-five mortgages brought 6 per cent. and thirty 5 per cent.

In comparing the figures for the first week in March with the first week in January we find that during the interval of two months the number of banks and insurance companies who were lending on real estate was doubled; that there were twice as many loans made at 6 per cent. in January than there were in March, and twice as many at 5 per cent. made during the first week of March than during the corresponding period in January. Granted that these are statistics, do they not indicate, nevertheless, that more money is actually being released and at a lower rate? And does not a development such as this mean an improvement? If more money is being loaned and the rate of interest is becoming lower, then money is not as tight now as it was two months ago, no matter what definition of the term "money is tight" is advanced.

The total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 26 as against 26 last week and 34 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 10, as compared with 13 last week and 13 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregated 16, as compared with 13 last week and 21 a year ago.

The total number of conveyances in Manhattan was 131, as against 182 last week, 7 having stated considerations totaling $511,600. Mortgages recorded this week number 75, involving $831,574, as against 106 last week, totaling $4,264,538.

From the Bronx 20 sales at private contract were recorded as against 23 last week and 14 a year ago.

The amount involved in Manhattan and Bronx auction sales this week was $435,250, compared with $1,525,037 last week, making a total for the year of $9,008,853. The figures for the corresponding week last year were $475,050, and the total from Jan. 1, 1914, to Mar. 14, 1914, was $8,454,337.

$3,000,000 Acreage Deal.

A syndicate of New York capitalists has been formed for the purpose of acquiring and developing 1,500 acres at Lloyds Neck, near Huntington, L. I., comprising the Stevens and Lloyd estates and extending from Lloyd's Harbor to the Sound. The project represents an investment of about $3,000,000. The land is to be sub-divided into homestead plots and developed for residential purposes. It is planned to build a causeway and bridge over Lloyd's Harbor at a narrow strait, thereby affording a direct route to Huntington and to the Long Island Railroad station.

Leasehold in Trade.

The estates of James and William Lyall sold the Moore estate leasehold, at 534-546 West 23d street, a four-story loft building on plot 150x98.9, to the Standard Owners' Realty Company, which gave in exchange the six-story apartment house, 51-53 East 98th street, on plot 50x100; the five-story flat, 180 East 117th street, on lot 25x100, and 176 Chelsea avenue, Long Island City, a three-story flat, on plot 100x170. The deal involved about $400,000. The broker was the Duross Co.

Loyal L. Smith Estate Selling.

Harris & Maurice Mandelbaum bought from the Loyal L. Smith estate, through the J. Romaine Brown Company, the plot at the northeast corner of Riverside Drive and 161st street, 125x100. Messrs. Mandelbaum have been buying considerable realty from the Smith estate during the last few years and have been reselling to builders for apartment house improvement. As a result a great part of the lower Fort Washington section has been converted into a high-class residential district.

Bronx Builders Buying.

The Podgur Realty Company, Robert Podgur, president, bought from the American Real Estate Company the plot 126x100 on the west side of Bryant avenue, 184 feet north of Aldus street. The Mack Construction Company, Harris W. Falk, treasurer, bought from the same company the plot adjoining, with a frontage of 240 feet on Bryant avenue, beginning 100 feet south of 165th street. The sites will be improved with five-story apartment houses, according to report.

Finch School to Be Enlarged.

The Finch School for Girls has purchased from Guerdon C. Brinckerhoff, through John J. Kavanagh, the four-story dwelling, 54 East 78th street, on lot 18.9x102.2. The same buyer recently acquired through the same broker, the adjoining house at 52, and now controls a plot 37.9x102.2, which will be improved with an addition to the school now abutting at 61 East 77th street.

Sale in Court House Site.

Harry C. Hallenbeck has purchased from the Frank M. Lupton estate, the twelve-story Lupton Building, at 23 City Hall place, on plot 59.10x99.10. The property is in the area which will be taken by the city as part of the proposed court house site.

LEASES.

$800,000 In Leases.

Charles F. Noyes Company and M. & L. Hess, Inc., have leased the 11th, 12th and 14th floors of the Hallenbeck-Hungerford Building, in Lafayette, White and Franklin streets at an aggregate rental of approximately $500,000 to the Lupton Publishing Co., Moody B. Gates, president, publishers of the Woman's World and similar publications; also space in the building to Poor's Manual, and additional space to Isaac Goldman & Company. The three leases aggregate about $800,000 in rentals. The rental value of the building, including power contracts, is about $240,000, and the total leases made to date are reported to exceed $2,000,000 in the aggregate.

Tenant for Van Beuren Building.

H. E. Verran Company, dealers in wholesale art needlework now at 853 Broadway, leased through Pease & Elliman, from the Van Beuren estate, the new twelve-story building at the northwest corner of Union Square and 15th street, on plot 52x141. The building has been untenanted since its completion in 1912. Union Square has shown considerable activity recently and it is becoming a new center for toy manufacturers. The removal of this new class of business into the district may attract others in the same line.

Permanent West Side Market.

Marketmen affected by the closing of the public market at Fort Lee Ferry, have organized the Fort Lee Ferry Public Market Company, and leased from the Pinkney Estate, through the law firm of Elkus, Gleason & Proskauer, the block bounded by Broadway, Manhattan street and 129th street, at the foot of the Manhattan street subway station, on which will be established a permanent public market.

Lease from Plans.

The Murray Hill Investing Company has leased from the plans the eighth floor of the building to be erected at the northeast corner of Fifth avenue and 37th street to the R. Wallace & Sons Manufacturing Company, silversmiths, now in West 32d street. Geo. R. Read & Company and E. A. Manning represented the lessees and Frederick Southback and Alwyn Ball, Jr., acted as agents for the building.

Waterfront Lease.

William A. White & Sons rented for Mrs. Elizabeth R. Delafield and Mrs. Amelia A. Stuyvesant to Samuel Brody, bags, the six-story building at 286 South street, northwest corner of Clinton street, through to 567 Water street and the adjoining building to the north at 287 South street, through to 569 Water street. These buildings have been occupied for a number of years by the Silas W. Driggs Warehouse Company. A new pier for the use of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad is now being constructed in front of the premises.

New Tenant for Berkeley.

The Twenty-Fifth Avenue Company, David Knott, president, has leased from the Rhinelander Estate, through E. P. Gaillard and Mrs. Lillian G. Johnson, the Hotel Berkeley, the six-story hostelry at the southwest corner of Fifth avenue and 9th street, for ten years at an aggregate rental of about $350,000. Mr. Knott is connected with five other hotels in the immediate neighborhood, the Earle, Holly, Van Rensselaer, Judson and Arlington. It is announced that the Berkeley will be renovated within a few months at an estimated cost of about $50,000.

Cincinnati Firm in Queens.

The Ficks Reed Company of Cincinnati, O., manufacturers of reed and rattan furniture, baby carriages, etc., leased from Frederick Russell, through G. P. Butterly, large space in the new building occupying the block in 6th street, from Vernon avenue and West street, Long Island City, opposite the Long Island Railroad station. The lessee retains the privilege of buying the property within the first year of the lease.

Enlarges Holdings.

Edward Margolies leased from William Waldorf Astor the four-story house at 200 Madison avenue, northwest corner of 35th street, on lot 24.9x95. The house will be altered for business purposes as was done with the four adjoining dwelling at 11 to 17 East 35th street, which Mr. Margolies also leased from the same owner. His leasehold properties at that point now comprise a frontage of 220 feet.

Branch Moves Further North.

The Madison Square branch of the New York Life Insurance Company, J. C. James, manager, now in the Metropolitan Building, has leased the entire 42d street frontage on the fifth story of the new Rogers Peet Company Building at Fifth avenue, 41st and 42d streets. BROOKLYN APPRAISALS
Some experts claim that long practical experience is the most essential thing in appraising real estate, while others say statistics are. Be on the safe side, and demand both. We have dealt in Brooklyn real estate for forty-four years, during which time we have recorded data on nearly every property in the central residential sections.

SAMUEL H. MARTIN has been appointed agent for 426-432 West 125th st.

CROSS & BROWN CO. has been appointed agent for 13-15 West 20th st.

ACHILLES R. SCHARSMITH & CO. were the brokers in the sale reported last week of the 5-sty flat, 180 West End av.

MOORE & WYCKOFF announce that their country department is being reorganized under the management of Eddy Whitby.

McDOWELL & McMAHON have been appointed agents for 72-78 Pinehurst av and the southeast corner of Audubon av and 182d st.

NEW YORK TITLE INSURANCE CO. has placed a mortgage of $80,000 on 206 West 95th st, a 6-sty elevator apartment house.

ERIC W. HUNT, who has been associated with E. S. Willard & Co. for nearly eight years, is now with the Brett & Goode Co., in its sales department.

MOORE, SCHUTTE & CO. were the brokers in the sale recorded Thursday of the dwelling, 458 West 142d st, for Charles Shlivek to Louis J. Adrian.

THORN & CO. were the brokers in the recently recorded sale of the gore plot 37.4x33.11x irreg, on the south side of Fordham rd, 99.2 ft. east of Tiebout av, for George Shepperd to Mary Annan.

SMITH & PHELPS placed for the Joseph Sonsin Co. a building loan of $45,000 to cover the cost of erecting a 5-sty apartment house on plot 52x108 at the northeast corner of Crotona av and 170th st.

REAL ESTATE OWNERS' PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION will meet on Monday evening, March 15, at 8 p. m., in the Hotel Majestic. Miss Sophie Irene Loeb, a member of the New York State Commission for the Relief of Widowed Mothers, will address the members.

HALL-BERWIN CORPORATION has moved to its new offices in the Commercial Engineers' Building, at 35-7 West 39th st. It will occupy the entire first floor. The corporation is a consolidation of the G. F. Hall Co. and N. A. Berwin & Co.

COURTLANDT F. BISHOP has added to his holdings in the old Greenwich Village section by the purchase of 1 Horatio st from Herman Hanauer. The property consists of a 4-sty building, on lot 16.8 by 65.3, and together with 3 and 5 Horatio st, owned by him, gives Mr. Bishop a plot 50x63.5.

PEASE & ELLIMAN were the brokers in the sale last week of the two dwellings 13-15 East 66th st, on plot 41x105, to Harris Fahnestock, the broker, for the United States Trust Co., trustee of the Costello estate. Mr. Fahnestock is having plans prepared, by Frank V. Hoppin, for a new residence on the site. The property is assessed at $167,000.

APPLICATION has been made by the administrator of the estate of John G. Wendel for the appointment of a transfer tax appraiser, another step in the settlement of the big estate. Holdings in New York County estimated to be worth between $80,000,000 and $100,000,000 are to be appraised.

JOHN FINCK reports that he has placed the following loans: $100,000 on 114-118 West 44th st; $70,000 on 692 8th av; $9,000 on 164 East 87th st; $16,000 on 447 Lexington av; $6,000 on 511 West 27th st; $16,000 on 133 Mott st; $24,000 on 211 West 80th st; $40,000 on the northwest corner of Amsterdam av and 76th st, and $40,000 on the southeast corner of Columbus av and 68th st.

LEWIS PHILLIPS of L. J. Phillips & Co. has written to M. Morgenthau, Jr., of the Real Estate Association of the State of New York deprecating controversy which exaggerates adverse conditions in the real estate market. In the course of his letter Mr. Phillips said as to real estate assessment: "Unfortunately the Tax Department is under oath to find 10 per cent and does find it, but not beyond (not certainly in the sum total). As to the proportion of vacancies in buildings, while the totals are not so large as some think, the number, whatever it is, is being lessened daily, because new construction is substantially at a standstill owing to the lack of building loans, and this allows the supply to be properly assimilated. Rentals will be influenced accordingly.

AUCTION SALES OF WEEK.

Except where otherwise stated, the properties offered were in foreclosure. Adjournments of legal sales to next week are noted under Advertised Legal Sales.

* Indicates that the property described was bid in for the plaintiff's account.

Auction Market.

Louis Leavitt acquired the leasehold on the Hotel Albany covering the block front on the west side of Broadway, between 51st and 52nd streets, on a bid of $100 over ground rent amounting to $41,000. The property was sold as a result of an action brought by Mr. Leavitt against the Waldmar Company to protect a judgment of $110,527. The auction sale of the realty holdings of the H. B. Claflin Company, scheduled for the County Courthouse yesterday, at noon, was adjourned for two weeks by Joseph P. Day.

Among properties which will be offered as the result of foreclosure suits next week are the twelve-story office building at 120 Liberty street on which the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company seeks to recover $442,192 and the eleven-story loft building at 85 Fifth avenue on which the Greenwich Savings Bank has a claim of $610,337.

"Castles of Comfort"

The wise builder knows that the more comforts and conveniences he places in his new buildings the quicker they will be rented or sold.

That's why the up-to-date apartment house is a veritable "Castle of Comfort."

Not the least of the many comforts installed is electric lighting service. It places at the fingers' tips of the tenants wonderful opportunities to lessen household cooking and cleaning labors.

BUILDING MANAGEMENT

ELECTRIC POWER IN FACTORIES

By J. P. MALLETT, Society for Electrical Development

Conducted by Raymond P. Roberts, Building Manager for The American Real Estate Co.

THE builder of to-day usually designs and constructs a factory for the manufacture of some particular product. This is the age of specialization and all factories entering into the efficient production of the manufactured article should be carefully considered.

An important factor is the kind of power to be used. This will play a large part in the successful operation of the factory. Power will be required whenever anything is being manufactured, whether it be now, or in years to come. Therefore it is necessary to locate a factory where the best power can be obtained when wanted and at a reasonable cost.

In order to determine the best kind of power, we must consider its use—what do we want power for? Practically every factory will require power for, at least, the following purposes: light, driving machine tools, cranes, elevators, industrial trucks, pumps, air compressors, heating and ventilating blowers, fans, telephones, annunciators, etc. I know of just one kind of power that can be used for all of the above purposes and used efficiently, that is electricity. Furthermore, it can be used with the greatest safety—safety as to accidents to the operating force, safety as to the fire risk to the buildings, which means low insurance rates. It is evident that we should choose electricity as the power to be used and to locate our factory where such power can be readily obtained.

Alternating or Direct Current.

It first will be necessary to determine whether alternating current or direct current is best adapted, as the requirements for installation will be quite different. If the factory is to be used for the manufacture of textile goods, or for any other purpose, where constant speed and quite constant service without frequent stopping and starting are required, alternating current is more frequently employed, and may be either single, two or three phase, depending largely upon the power available and the amount of power and sized motors to be used. It will be necessary to know the phase, as two conductors will be required for single-phase, four conductors for two-phase and three conductors for three-phase installations. The voltage must also be known as it may not only affect the insulation of the various parts throughout the entire installation, but will also be a factor in determining the current capacity of the various lines, as volts times amperes determines the number of watts, or the power used. It will also be necessary to determine the cycles as this feature will have to be known in purchasing the motors, but will not materially affect the line construction.

In factories where stopping and starting of the various machines will be frequent and where adjustable speed motors for individual tool drive will be desired, direct current is best adapted, and it will simply be necessary to know the voltage and total watts, as phase and cycle are a constant factor.

The distance of transmission of the power throughout the plant may also be a determining factor as to whether alternating or direct current be used, especially if large quantities of power should be required at a considerable distance from the distributing switchboard. There are comparatively few factories where the distance of transmission within the factory is sufficient to demand the use of alternating current, but the distance of transmission of the power from the power plant to the factory distributing switchboard may determine this question, in which case the comparative cost of installing the two systems should be carefully calculated and all other things being equal, the cheaper system installed.

MACHINES OPERATED BY BELT SYSTEM.

INDIVIDUAL DRIVE MACHINES.

Distribution Circuits.

In order to determine the exact size of cable to be used and location of the distribution circuits, it will be necessary to analyze the complete installation of all parts requiring electric power, as to its capacity and location. The product to be manufactured is known, therefore the material in general to be used is known. It must then be determined at what point in the factory the raw material will be received and from what point the product will be shipped.

These are the two extreme points in the line of production that should first be established, then fill in the different points of manufacture. This will determine the exact location of each motor to be used, the power required to drive it and the size of conductors and location of outlets, so that the necessary provisions may be made when designing the building for these various electrical circuits, then no expensive alterations will be required during installation. The National Electrical Code of Fire Underwriters should be thoroughly understood and all rules and regulations complied with, as well as any State laws or city ordinances which may govern such installations. The City Engineer or local central station should be able to assist you in securing this information if you do not have it at hand.

There are three well-known methods of electric drive:

First, the single motor drive, where a single motor is connected to the line shaft in a similar manner as an engine might be used for doing the same work. The advantages of this system are simplicity and the minimum cost of line construction and motor.

The second is known as the group-drive, where a motor is attached to a short line shaft in a given department from which tools of a similar class, for similar work, are driven. This has the advantage of certain independent control of the various groups as any one group may be started or shut down without in any way affecting any other groups and less power will be used on account of less friction of belts, bearings and pulleys.

Third is known as the individual motor drive, where each tool is driven by its own motor. The advantages of this method over either the first or second methods are that any tool can be operated at any time and at such speed as may be advantageous without respect to any other tool.

It is frequently found that it is desired to operate some particular tool or a few tools overtime, either for making repairs or for performing certain classes of work which may at that period be in excess of what is required under normal conditions of manufacture. It can also be seen that all unnecessary friction from line shafts and belting is eliminated.

Conserves Power.

When a certain kind of work is to be done a particular machine for doing it can be started and when the work has been completed the machine is stopped and the consumption of power starts and stops with the machine to be operated and does not continue for the mere driving of idle shafting, pulley and belts. Therefore, the amount of power used is usually less for this method than any other; in some cases very much less, but the main advantages are in the general flexibility of the whole system and the greater amount of finished material that can be produced on account of the greater conveniences, together with the fact that there is no slippage of belts to stop the work or limit the size of cut that can be taken, at any time. The question of cost, however, of installing the different methods cannot be determined without careful consideration of all points involved as the proportional cost will vary quite materially according to the class of work and consequently the type of machines to be installed.

It may be found that no one method is best adapted to all conditions involved, therefore it is advisable to consider a combination of the different methods of drive. There is, however, a growing tendency towards the individual motor drive, not only in connection with the larger machines, but even to the very smallest, as it affords greater flexibility in the locating and using of the machine. A machine may be required in a given department for a certain time and then as the amount of work might shift, becoming less in that department and greater in another, instead of bringing the material out of its regular course of manufacture to the machine, the machine with motor attached, is transferred to the department which will place it properly in line with the course of manufacture.

Overhead Belts Eliminated.

When the machines are individually motor driven, the pulleys, belt-shifting devices and overhead belts are eliminated. This elimination of driving mechanism is most important, as it allows less obstruction to illumination, whether it be from sunlight or artificial light; it is much more cleanly and does not obstruct the overhead space which might be required for handling material. It further allows quite different overhead construction of the building and in many cases a material saving can thus be obtained. There are factories where much expensive overhead construction has been required to allow the use of overhead line shafting and for nothing else. It is essential that this point be given due consideration when determining which method of electric drive shall be installed. It can be readily seen that the construction of the distribution power line will depend very largely upon the method of drive used.

If the first method as outlined above is adopted, but one large motor will be required. The necessary power line construction for this motor will be of the simplest kind. The power would be received at a single panel board on which would be the main connecting switch, starting device and overload and underload protecting devices, together with such meters as might be desired.

Location of Motors.

If the second method be adopted, it will be necessary to locate the position of the different motors for driving the various groups. It is important that these motors be located as near together as practicable, so that the power line construction from the distributing board to each motor be short and as simply constructed as practicable. The motors used for any group-drive method are best placed on the ceiling, wall or some overhead platform so as not to take up unnecessary floor space, and may be connected to line shaft by belt, silent chain or direct coupled as found most convenient. In such case the starting controllers for the different motors should be grouped together, if possible, on the distributing switchboard, or at some more convenient place where the different groups can be shut down or started quickly if desired. It is very essential that the starting device for any motor be placed in such a position that the person operating the starter can see the motor to be started so that he may know at once whether the motor is starting properly with respect to the operation of the starting device.

Distribution of Power Line.

If the third method be adopted, it will be necessary to locate the various machines used, so that the distribution power line may be installed in the most convenient place for supplying current to the various individual motors. It is often found convenient where two rows of machines may be placed in parallel lines down through the factory, that the distributing line may run between these rows placed in a proper conduit in the floor with outlets at such points as may be necessary for tapping off the lines to the individual motors. The controller for each motor should be placed at the most convenient place on or near the motor and tool to be operated.

Many factories have compressed air equipments for driving hammers, chisels and for supplying air at various points throughout the factory for blowing out the dust and dirt from the material during different operations of manufacture, also for blowing out the machine tools. Such compressors would doubtless be individually motor driven and should be so located that the supply circuit could be readily connected to the distributing switchboard. It is also desirable that motor driven pumps, elevators and other auxiliaries be so located and provision made for necessary power circuits.

After once determining the method of drive which will be used and the location of the various circuits, it will be necessary to determine the horsepower capacity required for each distributing circuit. If more than one motor will be supplied from any one circuit, the point of change in horsepower capacity should be determined so that in laying out the size of conductor the correct capacity should be allowed for all sections.

In determining the actual amperes required for each circuit, after the total horsepower to be supplied is known, it is necessary to know the voltage of the distributing circuit used. One horsepower equals 746 watts, and in delivering the actual brake horsepower the motor must necessarily consume within itself a certain number of additional watts which determine the efficiency of the motor. The approximate efficiency of a one horsepower motor to-day is 78%. Therefore, the watts required to be supplied to a motor which may be delivering one horsepower would necessarily be 746 divided by 78% or 956 plus. If the voltage of the supply line is 220, which is the voltage most commonly used today for power duty in factories, divide 956 watts by 220 volts which gives us 4 1-3 amperes. This would be the capacity for normal rating conditions only. The capacity circuit must be ample for momentary overloads of 100% and 50% overload for not less than two hours duration without injury or abnormal loss.

The above is for normal conditions. There are special kinds of manufacture where much more severe overloads may be applied for short periods depending upon the type of product being manufactured and the method applied for producing same. These points should be always carefully considered and provided for.

BUILDING MANAGER A HELP TO OWNER

THE investor in improved real estate has reached the point where he realizes that his business is capable of being conducted along lines just as scientific and exact as those of any other productive industry.

There is no doubt that facts and ideas brought to the attention of the owner by many qualified experts, who have devoted so much of their time to this educational campaign, have had a very beneficial effect. That this is so must be apparent to any one familiar with building management, as it was carried on up to within the last ten years. The improvement has been marked and far reaching, but a vast amount of work remains to be done.

Practically everything so far published on this subject has been written with one of two main objects in view, that is, either to point out the value (now becoming generally recognized) of the building manager as an adviser during planning and construction, or to lay down the general principles of and in some cases particular rules for scientific, and, therefore, truly economical management of existing buildings.

There is another service the building manager can render the prospective investor in improved property, the value of which it is hard to overestimate. This service is the physical examination of buildings to determine actual structural conditions of the building and its mechanical and electrical equipment, so that a report can be made to the buyer, setting forth the value of the building under consideration as an operating proposition.

The building manager is qualified to act for a prospective buyer in such a way that the proper ethical relation can be maintained between him and the client, and any transaction undertaken may be carried through with the reasonable assurance that all essential details of outgo as well as of income are in the possession of the buyer.

Such a man must be well equipped, having ability (by reason of technical training, combined with wide experience), not only of examining with authority, on projected buildings or those about to change hands, but also of operating buildings as going concerns.

Just as mortgage conditions, taxes and rents are carefully looked into by a prospective buyer, or his representative skilled in such matters, so should upkeep and operating costs be computed, analyzed and thoroughly understood before purchase.

It is a matter of common and regretable knowledge that many sales of improved property have been consummated by furnishing to the buyer a fictitious rent roll. A rent roll, or gross income statement, is, generally speaking, merely the addition of sums taken from leases and agreements, and can be fairly easily checked. Moreover, if the buyer so desires, he can make the certification of the rent roll part of his contract.

On the other hand, a building structure with its more or less elaborate equipment of elevators, plumbing and heating system, etc., is a complex organism; the structure and all its parts being subject to different degrees of depreciation. The same class of building equipment will have a different factor of depreciation in different structures, depending on local conditions of installation, the comparative excellence of the original design, and last, but perhaps most important, on the treatment the apparatus has received since its installation.

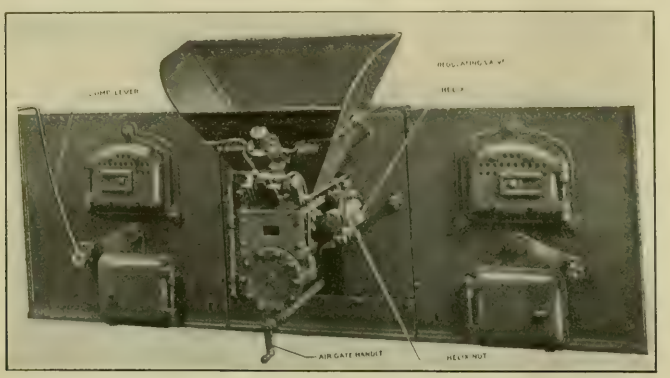
Generalizations regarding depreciation and upkeep costs are very misleading, as they are seldom or never even reasonably accurate. Therefore, not only should the depreciation, which has taken place, be determined, but also the future cost of upkeep and replacement should be estimated.

It would seem that a question of such obvious complexity as the present condition and future operating cost of a modern building would receive more than casual attention in every case.

Experience shows, however, that this extremely important side of the buying of buildings has been very generally either altogether neglected or given so little attention that the real state of affairs is not discovered until too late to be a factor in determining the purchase price of the property.

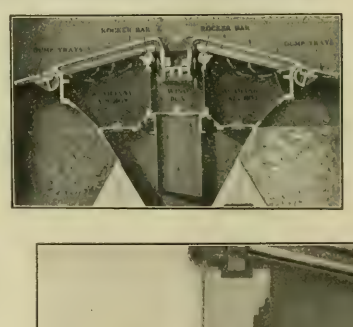
The average buyer cannot be expected to know much about matters such as this. They require expert knowledge for their proper understanding. Yet in the majority of cases property changes hands where the purchaser has only the haziest idea of the past operating cost, and no reliable data whatever on which to base his calculations as to the future. There could be no valid objection on the part of the seller to such an examination and report as is here described, unless the proposed transaction contained an element which it would be to the disadvantage of the seller to have revealed.

When investors can be induced to have an examination along the above lines, as a necessary precedent to any transaction involving improved real estate, the effect of such a policy will certainly be very beneficial to all the interests concerned, or to put it more broadly, to the real estate market.



USEFUL APPLIANCES

Novelties, New Applications of Familiar Devices and the Trend of Invention, Designed to Aid the Architect, Builder and Building Manager, Described Without Regard to Advertising Consideration.



An Improved Automatic Stoker.

BUILDING managers say that one of their biggest overhead charges is in the firing room. Great waste occurs in the careless handling of fuel. There is one way to remedy this and that is by using automatic feed, but these devices, while good, have not been as generally adopted by managers as they should be, doubtless because they do not understand the principle involved in their operation. Certain improvements have recently been made to automatic stoker systems, and conspicuous among these is the type described herewith.

In this stoker the coal is fed by hand labor or coal conveying machinery into a large hopper placed in front of the fire doors. The coal is then conveyed under the fire by means of the reciprocating sliding bottom of the feed trough or retort which runs the full length of the stoker. The coal is divided uniformly from front or rear by the auxiliary pushers, and as it rises in the trough is distributed to the sides of the furnace by means of moving bars which are shown in the second cut. The burning fuel is constantly carried by the action of the bars to the dumping trays along each side wall where the resulting ash or clinker is deposited. These trays are dumped by a single motion of the dump lever on the outside of the furnace.

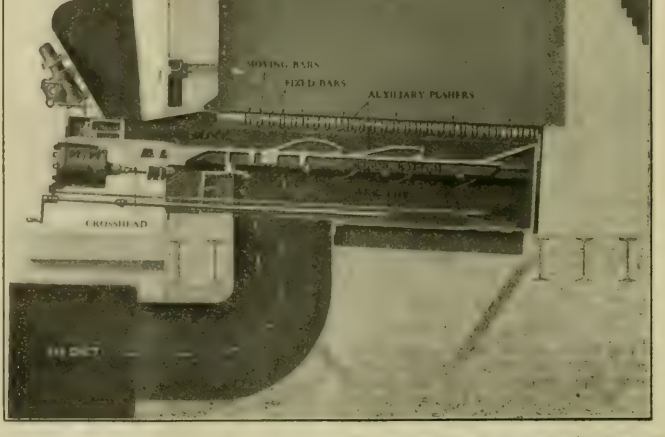
The stoker automatically clears the active part of the fire of ash and clinker, thus keeping a uniform temperature in the boiler and eliminating waste from this source alone.

The sliding bottom is driven by a steam piston, the cylinder of which is bolted to the stoker frame under the hopper. The movement of this piston is transmitted to the sliding bottom through the crosshead, which is rigidly bolted to the sliding bottom, the piston driving the crosshead through a sleeve on the piston rod, fitting loosely in a yoke on the underside of the crosshead. The feeder block is fastened to the sliding bottom and forces the coal onto it, not only carrying the coal into the furnace, but forcing it to rise the full length of the retort.

As the coal rises in the retort it is flooded onto the fire bars which are arranged in pairs alternately moving and fixed. The moving bars work transversely to the retort, the motion being horizontal at the inner or retort end and slightly inclined at the outer end, the extent of motion being about one inch.



The movement of the bars is obtained through the agency of two helices and nuts located outside of the furnace. The helix nuts are bolted to the crosshead and reciprocate with it, causing the helices to rock to and fro, and with them rocking the bars.

On the upper side of the rocking bars is a rib which engages between two lugs cast on the underside of the moving fire bars; the movement of the rocking bars, therefore, causes the moving bars to move outward and inward with each stroke of the piston. The movement of the fire bars, in addition to carrying the burning fuel to the sides of the furnace, also convey the clinker and ash down and onto the dump trays. As the motion of the fire bars at the outward end is slightly up and down, any clinker present is kept from forming in large pieces.

The advantage of this type lies in the fact that there is no trouble experienced in dumping, as it is not necessary to remove large masses of clinker with slice bars.

Scientific Window Ventilation.

SCIENTISTS have proved that "cooked" air is of no use for ventilating purposes; that cold, fresh air must be used without first being heated. By a new process, ventilation is effected with cold air and without draughts, no matter how cold it is out of doors. The manufacturers turn out several sizes, the smallest board having a height of about 10 inches. A combined duct and mixing chamber brings outdoor air or indoor air to the blower, or, proportionately, as much of either as is required to maintain a comfortable temperature in the room. When the slide is brought forward and the duct closed to the room, the blower draws only cold air; when it is pushed back, the cold air is cut off and air from the room is being circulated; when it partly opens the duct to the room, it closes the opening to outdoors by the same amount and streams of cold air and room air mix in the blower. By this means any temperature can be had at the nozzle between the indoors and out. The cool mixture, being blown to the ceiling, spreads out against it, gradually sinks through the room air and is breathed before it passes to the radiators.

The motor base contains a speed-controller, giving three speeds and having an open-circuit point. Current from the lighting circuit is used so that no wiring need be installed; the amount used by the smaller set is about that used by the ordinary incandescent bulb. The finish of the metal parts is similar to that of the black telephone instruments.

The placing of the window-board in the window-frame causes no damage to the woodwork; four small brass dowel-sockets are sunk in the frame, and dowels in the window-board fit into these and hold the board firmly but so that it can be easily removed by a simple lifting movement.

A metal rain shield protects the board from the weather; it has openings protected by hoods, and filters the air passing through it of dust by gravity and also, if necessary, by cloth screens. The window-board is so weather-stripped as to prevent leakage of cold air.

Under usual conditions the smaller set will maintain a good atmosphere in a room having five occupants—the larger about twenty.

New Type Mazda Lamps.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made that owing to the popularity of the distinctive features of the concentrated filament lamps of high wattages, there is being developed vacuum lamps of similar appearance in the 25, 40 and 60 watt sizes.

This concentrated filament construction gives greater vertical distribution of light than the regular lamps of corresponding wattages. The new lamps will, therefore, be employed where natural distribution of light downward is required. They can be used in existing sockets and fixtures.

These lamps will be made in the same sized bulbs as the corresponding regular lamps, will have the same spherical watts per candlepower efficiency and will have an average life of 600 hours.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

Many New Church Edifices, for All Denominations, Being Erected or Projected for Brooklyn

STRUCTURES of a religious or a religious and educational character constitute a surprisingly large percentage of the building operations contemplated in the borough of Brooklyn for 1915. Brooklyn has for many years been known as the "City of Churches" and the work now under way and in prospect will do much to add to the borough's reputation as a church city.

St. Luke's Episcopal Church and Sunday School on Clinton avenue, near Fulton street, which was almost totally destroyed by fire last year, is being reconstructed from plans and specifications prepared by Dodge & Morrison, architects, 82 Wall street. The work in this instance calls for practically an entirely new structure, as only parts of the old building are in a usable condition.

A modern church edifice is soon to replace the old frame structure, now occupied by the parish of St. Thomas's Episcopal Church, on Bushwick avenue, between Cooper and Moffat streets, adjoining the modern parish house and Sunday school, which was erected a few years ago. Plans for this structure have been completed by Hopkins & McEntee, architects, 37 East 28th street, Manhattan. The facades have been designed in the Gothic style and will harmonize with the present parish house. The building will have a frontage, on Bushwick avenue, of 62 feet and from the entrance to the end of the chancel the depth will be 115 feet. The square tower, which will have an open belfry, will rise to a height of 65 feet. Three large doors on the Bushwick avenue side will provide adequate facilities for entrance to and egress from the building. The nave will be 30 feet in width and the height, from floor to roof, will be about 40 feet. The chancel will be 30 feet wide and 36 feet deep, with choir accommodations for forty people. The auditorium will seat about 500 people. This building will cost in the neighborhood of $40,000 to erect, exclusive of organ, lighting fixtures, furnishings, carpets, etc., which will bring the total cost up to nearly $70,000.

Floyd Y. Parsons, architect, 1133 Broadway, Manhattan, has been retained to prepare plans for a new building for the Sixth Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church. This structure will be erected at the northeast corner of Sixth avenue and Eighth street, Brooklyn, operations to be started early during the coming Spring. The plans will provide for a commodious church auditorium with Sunday School rooms, parlors and rooms for the meetings of the various societies. This structure will be of brick and limestone, one and one-half stories in height, with square tower, and will cover a plot approximately 42x90 feet. The building will cost about $35,000, exclusive of land.

Hopkins & McEntee, Architects.
PROJECTED ST. THOMAS'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

E. M. Adelsohn, Architect.
SYNAGOGUE FOR CONGREGATION PETACH TIKAVH.

Operations were recently started on the construction of a synagogue, at the northeast corner of Lincoln place and Rochester avenue, Brooklyn, for the Congregation Petach Tikavh. Edward M. Adelsohn, 1776 Pitkin avenue, Brooklyn, is the architect, and the work is proceeding under his direct supervision. The actual construction is under the direction of I. Levingson, chairman of the Building Committee. This structure, the ground size of which is approximately 85x85 feet, is being erected on a plot 120x100 feet.

The cost of this building is placed at approximately $100,000. A plot with a frontage of 25 feet in Lincoln place has been reserved as the site for the Rabbi's residence.

BRONX BUILDING BOOM PROPHESIED

In Anticipation of the Opening of New Rapid Transit Lines—Plans Filed Far Ahead of Last Year's Record to Date.

BASING their prophesy of a building boom, the magnitude of which will be unparalleled in the history of the Bronx, on the great increase of population which took place subsequent to the opening for traffic of the Third Avenue Elevated Railroad across the Harlem, the officials of the Bronx Board of Trade are confident that the year 1915 will be the banner year for building operations in the borough. This in anticipation of the rush of population into the borough at the opening of the new rapid transit lines.

The Realty Bureau of the Board of Trade is co-operating with the various realty interests in the borough to aid in a healthy and permanent growth to the borough. The records of the Bureau of Buildings of the borough for the first two months of 1915 are significant in that they have practically doubled the record operations for the same period of 1914.

The total of plans filed for new operations and alterations for the first two months of 1914 was $2,696,563, while the record for the first two months of 1915 was a total of $4,766,602. Truly a vindication of the contention of The Bronx Board of Trade that "The Bronx is the brightest spot on the realty map of the Greater City to-day."

One of the most significant features of these figures is in the fact that the number of buildings was more in 1914 than 1915, although the amount to be expended in their construction was doubled, showing conclusively that from now on the type of apartments that will be erected in the Bronx, will be of the modern elevator building and not, as is acknowledged freely, the cheap flat of the past.

While these new operations are more costly than formerly, the experts of the Realty Bureau of the Bronx Board of Trade do not believe that the rentals will be increased greatly over those now prevailing, as the apartments will be erected for the greater part in newly developing sections where land values are not nearly as high as those in the older sections of the borough.

The erection of these superior apartments will do an almost incalculable amount of good in clarifying the industrial situation in the borough, as workers will be available for the Bronx factories who live nearby in modern, healthy, cheerful apartments, where the stifling congestion of the East Side and lower West Side of Manhattan is unknown.

Looking back to the year preceding the opening of the Bronx extension of the Third Avenue Elevated which witnessed an almost magical building development, in preparation for the inflow of population which came to the Borough immediately after the completion of the elevated line, this great awakening of activity presages such another "boom."

The difference being that, where at that time only one line was opened then, the early part of 1916 will witness the operation of four new subway and elevated lines. A population of 51,000 in 1880 has increased to over 700,000, making the Bronx (if it were a separate city) the fourth in size in the United States.

In real estate, land and buildings are assessed at about $650,000,000. In one year $50,000,000 has been spent in construction. In 1905, when the present subway had been opened for one full year, the total number of passengers carried by the elevated and subways was 37,124,990; for the year 1913 the total of the same roads was 81,990,792.

Between 1880 and 1890 the increase in the cost of building operations was $27,500,000; between 1890 and 1900, $93,000,000; and between 1900 and 1910, $240,000,000, a percentage increase of nearly 900 per cent. The assessed valuation of Bronx realty has grown from $23,000,000, in 1880, to $616,521,378 in 1913.

All these facts have deep significance and "he who runs ray read."

Important Fifth Avenue Project.

Duncan Candler, architect, 105 West 40th street, has filed plans for remodeling five houses, on the east side of Fifth avenue between 57th and 58th streets, into stores and bachelor apartments. The property is owned by the Mary Mason Jones estate and includes the old Plaza Bank building, at the corner of 58th street. As at present planned the buildings will be altered to contain street level and first floor stores, with bachelor apartments above. The cost of the improvement is placed at about $70,000. The project is opposite the Cornelius Vanderbilt and Collis P. Huntington residences. It would seem, however, as though this project might point to the ultimate improvement of this site with a much more imposing and important structure, rumors of several projects being in the air.

New Fulton Street Elevated.

The Public Service Commission has approved the recommendation of the New York Municipal Railway Corporation, that the contract for constructing seven stations on the Fulton street elevated railroad in Brooklyn be awarded to John Thatcher & Son, the lowest bidders, for $258,664. The company submitted this contract to competitive bidding at the direction of the commission. The contractor is to build the stations in connection with the third tracking of the Fulton street line between Nostrand avenue and Sackman street.

Reconstructing a Subway Station.

Samuel Beskin began work on February 19, under his contract, for the reconstruction of the DeKalb avenue station on the Fourth avenue subway in Brooklyn. The work consists principally of putting in additional cross-overs so that express trains may be able to make stops at this station, which was originally designed as a local station.

Plans for Y. W. C. A.

Donn Barber, architect, 101 Park avenue, is preparing plans for the new structure which will be the home of the Central Branch, Young Women's Christian Association. This building will be erected at the southwest corner of Lexington avenue and East 53d street, on a plot 100x100 feet. F. A. Burdett & Co., 16 East 33d street, are the steel engineers for this building, which will rise to a height of ten stories with facades of brick and limestone. The cost is estimated at about $600,000. This project will complete the improvement of the block front on the west side of Lexington avenue between 52d and 53d streets, as the National Headquarters of the Y. W. C. A. occupies the 52d street corner. This building was also designed by Mr. Barber and it is proposed to have the new structure harmonize in design with the National Headquarters building.

Vanderbilt to Enlarge Residence.

Horace Trumbauer, architect, 200 Fifth avenue, Manhattan, and Philadelphia, Pa., has prepared plans for an extensive addition to Cornelius Vanderbilt's residence at the corner of Fifth avenue and 51st street. The structure will be four stories and basement in height, 60x100 feet and in design will conform to the main building. The present structure will also be altered and remodeled and the principal rooms redecorated.

Steel for Third-Tracking.

Pursuant to the direction of the Public Service Commission, the New York Municipal Railway Corporation has obtained bids for supplying the steel for Section No. 2 of the third-tracking of the Broadway Elevated Railroad in Brooklyn, namely, from Myrtle avenue to Aberdeen street. These bids were submitted to the commission by the company, with the recommendation that the contract be awarded to Lewis F. Shoemaker & Company, the lowest bidders, whose price is $37.20 per ton. The total amount of the contract will be approximately $279,000. The commission, upon the advice of its chief engineer, has approved the award of the contract to Shoemaker & Company.

Bing & Bing Awarded Contract.

A general contract was awarded to Bing & Bing, 119 West 40th street, to erect an apartment at 149 East 40th street, from plans and specifications prepared by Robert T. Lyons, Inc., architect, 110 West 40th street. The plans call for a structure nine stories in height, on a plot 50x98 feet, of fireproof construction, with facade of brick, limestone and terra cotta. The 149 East 40th Street Corporation, Myra W. T. Kerr, president, is the owner of this project, with offices on the premises. Robert E. Moss, 126 Liberty street, is the structural engineer. The apartment will have accommodations for thirty-six families and will be high class in every particular. The estimated cost is about $150,000.

Apartments to Replace Church.

Plans are being prepared by Shampan & Shampan 772 Broadway, Brooklyn, for a 5-story high class apartment house to be erected in the north side of Ross street, 275 feet east of Bedford avenue, Brooklyn. The apartment is for I. Haft, owner, and will be erected on a plot 87 x100 feet at a cost of $85.000. This building will be modern in every respect and equipped with the most up-to-date housekeeping appliances. Improvements will include steam heat, electricity for lighting, parquet floors, etc. The new apartment will occupy the site of the Ross Street Presbyterian Church, one of the oldest landmarks in the section, and will be in a neighborhood which formerly was the home of many prominent Brooklyn people.

Important Newark Project.

Plans are being prepared in the office of the Moyer Engineering & Construction Co., 375 Fulton street, Brooklyn, for a modern printing and loft building to be erected at the southwest corner of Halsey street and Maiden lane, Newark, N. J., for William E. Gilmore, president of the Essex Press. The proposed building will be of reinforced concrete, eight stories in height, erected on a plot 95x123 feet. The lower part of the structure will be designed to accommodate a printing concern and the upper will be utilized as lofts. The cost of construction is estimated to be about $150,000. Further details of this project will be announced in a later issue.

Awards Under Compensation Act.

About $83 was the average award paid injured workmen who benefited under the new Workmen's Compensation law during the calendar year ending January 1, 1915. The exact figures are: Claims allowed, 18,930, and amounts paid, $1,576,801.

The annual report of the commission further shows that while over 130,000 workmen were injured during the six months from July 1, 1914, to January 1, 1915, only 22,221 claims for compensation were made. The principal reason for this is that the law allows compensation only for such injuries as result in disability for more than fourteen days, and that many of the notices of injury were from persons who were not in employments covered by the act, and some reported injuries received prior to July 1, 1914.

Avenue A Block Not to Be Improved.

The American Malting Company, 63d street and East River, owner of the block fronting on Avenue A, between 71st and 72d streets, 204.4 feet fronting on the avenue and 198 ft. in both streets, comprising in all sixteen city lots, is busy demolishing all the old structures occupying the site. America's Finest Playhouse

Since it opened in November, 1909, the Century Opera House—Central Park West and 62d Street—has used Edison Service continually for light and power. Few other playhouses are so well equipped mechanically

Theatres require a never-failing supply of current; and for that reason Edison Service was specified here. The executives knew that Central Station Service is far more economical and reliable than a private plant

ARTHUR G. STONE, general contractor, architect and engineer, died suddenly, while riding in his automobile in the Eastern District of Brooklyn, Monday evening, March 8. His death was due to heart disease, for which he had been undergoing medical treatment during the last six months. Mr. Stone was born in New York City, December 8, 1866, and came to Brooklyn as a boy. His home was at 1370 Dean st. Mr. Stone was recognized as one of the leading authorities on building construction in Brooklyn, and as a contractor erected a number of important structures. His offices were in the Temple Bar building, 44 Court st. Mr. Stone confined his recent activities in the building line to factory and warehouse construction. He was probably best known in this class of building, although other types of structures have been erected, by him. Among the representative factories and warehouses built by Mr. Stone are the buildings for the Grand Union Tea Company, Kirkman & Son, soap manufacturers, and the bakeries for the J. H. Schultz Company. As an architect he designed a number of bank buildings, among them the Jenkins Trust Company in East New York. The Liberty Theatre, also in East New York, a $100,000 playhouse, was also designed and erected by him. Mr. Stone was a member of many clubs and associations and was an active church worker. He was one of the oldest members and at one time president of the Mechanics' and Traders' Exchange of Brooklyn, treasurer of the Master Builders' Association and for four years chairman of the Arbitration Board, member of the Manufactures' Association, Brooklyn and Apollo clubs, and a trustee of Leland College. He is survived by his widow, two sons and a daughter.

BUILDING MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

FEBRUARY CONSTRUCTION IN MANHATTAN INCREASED 50 PER CENT
HAGER-BROWN CONFERENCE STARTS RUMORS of CEMENT WAR TRUCE

National Construction Shows Improvement
Suburban Speculative Work Increasing

GENERAL improvement in building construction is reported for the Metropolitan district as the middle of March approaches. Building activity is more apparent both in the city and suburbs. Building material prices from dealer to job are not stiffening, indicating prospects of continued ease on the wholesale market.

It is evident, however, that dealers are holding themselves in readiness for a general change in quotations, because they are making their bids to builders subject to not longer than sixty-day acceptance. Leading commodities like brick, Portland cement, fireproofing, lime, plaster and other staples have shown no change.

On the other hand, building construction in New York City showed an aggregate gain of $4,000,000 or 50.8 per cent. over February of a year ago. Newark, however, showed a decrease of 22 per cent. A great proportion of the new building construction in New York is of a commercial character in Manhattan. Industrial expansion is especially noticeable in the Bronx, Queens and Newark. In the development sections of Newark speculative building is going ahead fast, indicating that money is more readily available. Most of these operations were projected about nine months ago.

That the improved conditions are not entirely local is shown by the detailed report for February made by Bradstreets covering 137 cities out of 152 usually reporting. The total number of new building projects in the United States for February was 14,733 with an estimated value of $42,993,455, as against 16,123 valued at $48,785,876 in February a year ago. The decrease is only 8.6 per cent. in permits and 11.8 per cent. in estimated value from a year ago. Practically all of this decrease in value is attributed to the present low prices of materials permitting architects to make low cost estimates than usual.

The end of the cement price war in New York and vicinity seemed nearer at hand this week when it was learned that important conferences had been held between President Brown of the Alpha Cement Company and Edward M. Hager, formerly of the Universal, but now believed to be the guiding genius shaping the sixteen-company combination. Other conferences regarding cement matters in general were held on Thursday afternoon and on Friday. In the latter case the conference was between the manufacturers and dealers with especial reference to trucking and the distributor problem. The conference yesterday was followed by a dinner last night. Matters relating to the cement situation in this city will be found elsewhere on this page.

Plan filings in the city for the week follow. Those filed in the corresponding week last year totaled 173 with an estimated value of $2,543,420.

JERSEY DEALERS DINE.

Manufacturers Fraternize with Metropolitan District Trade.

JUDGING from surface conditions one would never think there was any ripple on the pool of harmony in the cement business to see the manufacturers and dealers from New Jersey hob-nobbing with each other at the Hotel Manhattan Thursday night. It was a splendid opportunity for the men who hold the construction business of the tight little piece of geography west of the Hudson in their hands, to find out just why the price of Portland cement has been cut so ferociously and when it is going to be put back upon the shelves of conservatism. But about all they learned was a verification of the knowledge they had previously attained, through experience, that the price of this commodity was down, down unbelievably far, and that the exact day and hour when it would move back was as uncertain as the crack o' doom.

Everybody glued their eyes on the door, because they said they would not have been surprised to see Edward M. Hager loom up, especially since President Brown of the Alpha was in their midst. But they looked in vain. Berry Swett of the Lehigh was there and so was Ernest R. Ackerman of the Lawrence. And right there in the enemy's camp was William K. Hammond, dean of the Hudson River brick makers, absolutely unafraid, probably because he could commiserate with the Portland cement people upon the extreme low prices that are prevailing in both brick and cement at the present time.

The air at the dinner was full of gossip and oratory by Representative Charles N. Fowler and Representative William E. Tuttle, Jr., both of New Jersey. Mr. Fowler's speech on finance, as applied to trade, was well received, but practically everybody wanted to know what reliance could be placed in the reports that Mr. Hager's presence was to be the prelude to a new harmony in C composed by the erstwhile president of the Universal, in which the plants of the Alpha company, at Manheim, West Virginia, Martins' Creek, Pa., Alpha, N. J., and Catskill, N. Y., might be components of a company that sooner or later is expected to reach from the Atlantic to the Pacific oceans.

The dinner followed a conference between dealers and manufacturers in the afternoon when the subject of trucking and distribution was considered. Many of the dealers expressed themselves as sorry that the prices had been forced so low because they realized that sooner or later a rebound must take place. That there was a better tone to the situation was evidenced by apparently authenticated reports that the Atlas company was throwing into service fourteen more kilns and that the Lehigh Company was operating, or was about to operate 100 per cent. of its capacity, or forty-eight kilns. One thing was certain, that there was not a single dealer present who had been able to buy standard cement less than $1.23, New York base, or sixty cents, mill, and there were not many who expected to be able to buy the product at that price for any extended period.

There were 100 more dealers present than had been expected, when Frank H. Genung introduced Rabbi Kasche of Brooklyn, the speaker of the evening. "As You Like It" was the vehicle he used to show what the true relation was between business, civic righteousness and cooperation between employers and employees. It was the most successful dinner the New Jersey Mason Material Dealers' Association ever held.

HARDWOODS.

Greater Activity Reported by Local Distributors.

PRACTICALLY all the hardwood interests of the metropolitan district are reporting more activity in the form of season contracts with the factories. There is practically no item in the list that is quotably higher, for the reason that manufacturers and distributors alike are inclined to give the current consumer all the leeway possible in order to induce him to come out with his specifications.

It is significant, however, that practically all quotations are being made subject to change without notice, indicating that should the present tenseness of foreign hardwood supply become more acute domestic quotations may have to be moved up. Poplar is subject to considerable pressure here in order to find a market for it. Red gum is being largely specified as a substitute for mahogany finish. Gum interests meeting in convention at Memphis reported that there was a bigger field for this material than ever before in the history of the trade, and backed it up with figures.

COMMON BRICK.

Tow Goes Up River Tomorrow—General Improvement Reported.

BRICK is in better demand. Prices, however, continue low but strengthening. Riding to job has been sluggish this week, but the unloading record is comparable with that of a week ago. The first tow of empty barges will move up the river on Saturday. The week closes with only thirteen bargeloads in the wholesale market.

Official transactions for Hudson River brick covering the week ending Thursday, Mar. 11, in the wholesale market, with comparison for the corresponding period last year and a comparative statement of Hudson brick unloaded from barges for consumption here, follows:

NEW BOILER STANDARDS.

Range Heater Manufacturers Announce Uniformity Code.

MANUFACTURERS of household range boilers have fixed upon a new standard for galvanized heaters. The schedule of sizes approved by the committee and adopted by the National Association follow. The diameters are the inside measurements of the ends. Dimensions will be considered hereafter instead of capacity in gallons as heretofore. The Record and Guide presents the new code in its entirety for the benefit of architects and owners making specifications as of March 1.

REAL ESTATE RECORD AND BUILDERS GUIDE.

DOING AWAY WITH OVER-REGULATION

The Lockwood-Ellenbogen Bill the Basis of Compromising Negotiations—As Amended It Has the Support of Seventy Allied Organizations

SINCE the Lockwood bill, to simplify building inspection in New York City, was introduced in the State Senate it has been considerably amended, and has been the subject of hearings and conferences, both in New York and at Albany. A supplementary hearing by the Joint Committee on the Affairs of Cities occurred at City Hall last Saturday morning, and was followed by executive conferences in the afternoon and on Sunday. The bill is receiving the most careful attention in committee, and the present understanding is that it will be the basis of whatever legislation is enacted, rather than the Wagner-Smith bills and others which have also been introduced.

With general agreement that relief should be granted, the controversy which sprang up turned upon the nature of the plans for reorganization. Should there be just one central department, or one for each borough? The Mayor's party desired but one, and the Borough Presidents' party want the five. Realty interests said they would accept the plan which promised the larger measure of relief.

Just in what shape the bill is in at this hour is of course known only to the members of the committee, but as the result of conferences between the representatives of the Mayor, the Borough Presidents and heads of Departments, the Executive Committee of the Allied Real Estate Organizations, the Tenement House Committee of the Charity Organization, the City Club and others, certain changes in the bill have been agreed to.

Board of Examiners Eliminated.

When the committee from the Legislature returned to Albany it had been agreed that instead of a Board of Standards and a Board of Examiners there should be a "Board of Standards and Appeal," to consist of nine members, to be appointed by the Mayor and accountable to him. It would comprise the heads of six existing departments, besides an architect, a builder, and a real estate man.

Whether the Tenement House Department should be included in the consolidation had not been settled. The chairman of the committee stated that this question would be decided later. The controversy has become very earnest on this point. The Tenement House Committee of the Charity Organization has won the support of the City Club, of which Mr. Binkerd, the secretary, is the representative in the negotiations. The Tenement House champions are exerting themselves in every diplomatic way to avoid being drawn into the consolidation or prevent the enactment of the bill.

For the sake of harmony the Conference Committee of Real Estate and Allied Organizations have assented to various modifications of the Lockwood-Ellenbogen bill, but they adhere to the underlying principle of consolidation by boroughs, instead of putting everything into the hands of the Board of Estimate, which they say would mean simply that the three superior members would be dictators over the "construction, alteration and use" of all buildings, including school buildings and courthouses.

Behind the Conference Committee of Real Estate and Allied Organizations are no less than seventy pledged bodies, including the American Institute of Architects, the Society of Architects, the Building Trades Employers' Association, the Real Estate Board, the Merchants' Association, the Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests, the Federation of Women's Clubs, the Joint Committee on City Departments, the Brooklyn, Bronx, Queens and Richmond architects, builders and real estate men acting through their different organizations, the Fifth Avenue Association, the Broadway Association, the United Real Estate Owners—but they are too numerous for all to be named again.

On the opposite side are the City Club, the Tenement House Committee, the Mayor and presumably the heads of the municipal departments. The Mayor has been widely quoted as saying there were sinister influences behind the bill, an allegation very much resented by the seventy organizations.

The Purpose of the Bill.

In a statement given out yesterday by the Conference Committee it is said:

"It was not and is not the purpose of the Conference Committee to remove any of the safeguards which the Tenement House Law places about tenement dwellers, but simply to give to the Building Bureaus, which now pass upon all tenement house plans, exclusive jurisdiction over the construction, alteration and structural changes in buildings; so as to save needless inspection, duplication and expense. The committee has at all times been willing and anxious to have the bill amended, if there was any question in this respect. And the good faith of the committee has been known to the Mayor and to persons interested in tenement house work.

"More than that, the proposed amendments make it plain that the mandatory provisions of the Tenement House Law remain absolutely intact, and those who represented the Mayor at a conference held last Sunday were aware of this. Should not the Mayor have been aware of it when he made his statement last Monday about the 'sinister' attack upon the Tenement House Department and other departments?

"The only opposition to this bill has emanated from the Mayor's office, two or three of his department heads, private charity interests and the City Club, which the Mayor now says is the 'unofficial arm of the City Government.'

"The matter of consolidation of building inspection functions in New York City has been publicly discussed many times during the past six months, and on each occasion it has been the consensus of opinion that it should be along borough lines; that is to say, that the jurisdiction now exercised by the various departments over building construction should be transferred to the existing Building Bureaus and that they should have sole control of building construction. Could jurisdiction over building construction in New York City be more logically placed? A transfer of all building functions to the existing Building Bureaus would result in an enormous saving to the city.

A New Building Department Proposed.

"At a conference held on Monday last those who claimed to represent the Mayor were willing to compromise if the Tenement House Department were excluded and a clause inserted in the bill giving that department entire jurisdiction over tenements, including that now exercised by the Bureau of Buildings. That was, in effect, to establish an additional Building Bureau in each borough. The representatives of the Conference Committee declined to make any such compromise at the expense of the taxpayers.

"The provision of the bill in reference to the Board of Examiners has been severely criticised. This body was created by Charter provision in 1871. Many of the critics seem to have discovered it for the first time in the Lockwood-Ellenbogen Bill. In the bill the Board of Examiners was retained and the same bodies were mentioned, with one exception; that is to say, the Real Estate Board of New York and the United Real Estate Owners' Association were substituted for the Real Estate Owners and Builders' Association. In other respects Charter language was closely followed, with one or two exceptions. But in this case, too, the Conference Committee has been perfectly willing to show its good faith by accepting suggestions.

"One of the changes discussed is a Board of Standards and Appeals, which will include several of the Mayor's Commissioners and three civilian members, to be appointed by the Board of Estimate.

"The Conference Committee welcomes fair and honest criticisms and suggestions. It desires that the best possible bill may be presented to the Legislature to secure relief. But it has no intention of abandoning its bill merely because the measure has been misrepresented. The bill is now in the hands of a committee of the Legislature, and it rests with this committee as to just what changes will finally be made in the interest of the citizens of New York.

"The opponents of the bill are trying to block any legislation which will secure consolidation."

The Flamman Bill.

The Cities Committee has also under consideration the Flamman bill (Int. 1107), to amend the Greater New York Charter, creating a Board of Building Standards and defining its duties. This bill proposed to make a board consisting of the Fire Commissioner, Health Commissioner, Tenement House Commissioner, Commissioner of Buildings and Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity. This board is to have power to make rules taking precedence over the departmental rules with regard to the construction, alteration, equipment, conversion, occupancy or use of buildings.

Rudolph P. Miller, ex-Superintendent of Buildings in Manhattan, has pointed out in a letter to the committee, that under the Charter as it stands there is no such officer as Commissioner of Buildings. He adds:

"I would like to further point out that the other commissioners constituting this board are none of them required to be conversant with several important matters regarding which they are to make rules, namely, the construction and alteration of buildings. The bill does not provide for any authority to delegate their powers to any subordinate officer who might be qualified. Even if it did it seems to me of doubtful expediency. The present Superintendents of Buildings, each in his own borough, are fully as equal to the task of preparing the necessary rules regarding the matters covered in the bill as this proposed Board of Standards would be, especially in view of the fact that the Charter requires that they shall be men of at least ten years' experience in matters relating to building construction, equipment, etc.

"The bill further provides that any rule adopted by three affirmative votes becomes effective twenty days after its publication in the City Record. This would make it possible for any three men who may not have a fair knowledge of the matters they have to deal with to put into effect without restraint provisions which may occur to them as desirable. A provision should at least be made that before any rule adopted by such a board, if such a board is really considered necessary or desirable, becomes effective, it should be published for a specified time, say six or eight weeks, and a public hearing accorded if such is requested within the period of publication. This suggestion is in accordance with the practice now followed under the Building Code of this city in the promulgation of rules by the Superintendents of Buildings.

"I submit that this bill should not be recommended for passage."

THE WEEK IN THE STATE LEGISLATURE

Hearings on the New Labor Code and the Torrens Law Amendments—Bankers Opposing Revision of the Secured Debt Law—Important New Bills

THE legislative week was distinguished by important conferences and hearings on bills affecting New York City real estate—conferences here in the city over the bills to simplify building inspection, and hearings at Albany on the new code of labor laws and the Torrens registration bills. The hearing on the new labor code, on Tuesday, attracted delegations from the Real Estate Board, the Labor Department and other interests. The criticisms of the Real Estate Board upon the recodification measure were very severe. They will be found epitomized in the Record and Guide of February 6.

Among those who spoke in opposition to the bill were President McGuire, of the Real Estate Board, Alfred R. Kirkus, W. D. Kilpatrick, of St. John's Realty Co., Alfred R. Conkling, I. L. Ettinger for the Harlem Property Owners, and others. Abram I. Elkus and Labor Commissioner Lynch were the principal defenders of the measure, which adds greatly to the powers of the Industrial Board. Strange to say, no representative of labor other than Commissioner Lynch himself appeared for the bill.

Torrens Legislation.

A hearing was held on Tuesday before the Committee on Judiciary of the Senate on a bill amending the Torrens registration law prepared by Register John J. Hopper, and introduced by Senator Bennett. There is a second bill pending, which was introduced by Senator Boylan and was prepared by a special committee of the Real Estate Board with the approval of some of the title insurance companies.

Both bills are intended to strengthen the Torrens law and make it more easy of operation and less expensive. To further clear away uncertainty and doubt, as is claimed, Gilbert Ray Hawes has prepared and submitted to the Committee on Judiciary three amendments. Mr. Hawes says these three amendments would give the court the power which the Legislature intended it should have, to clear all clouds and remove all defects, and then register the title as a good and marketable title.

One amendment inserts in section 390, referring to the powers of the court, the words—"and may cure defects in the title, by proof of adverse possession or otherwise as may be satisfactory to the court."

A second amendment reads: "Any person or corporation who is made a party defendant because of some supposed or claimed right or interest adverse to that of the plaintiff-appellant, and who is served either personally or by publication, and makes default in pleading, shall be deemed to have waived such right or interest in favor of the plaintiff-appellant."

Secured Debt Tax.

Wall Street is confident that if the Boylan bill, revising the secured debt tax bill, is passed by the Legislature that the implied contract made by the State with those who have already paid the tax will hold before the courts, and that they will have no further tax payments to make on such securities in this State. Bankers are taking steps to oppose the bill at Albany. The present law provides for the permanent exemption from tax of bonds upon the payment of ½ of 1 per cent., or $5 per $1,000 bond, so as to require the payment of that amount of tax annually.

Offering prizes in connection with real estate advertisements, as well as circulating any untrue, deceptive or misleading information in any advertisement to induce the public to buy commodities of any kind, is made a misdemeanor in a bill which Senator Mills has introduced.

The Governor's tax bill, which creates a State Tax Department, and takes from the Comptroller the duty of levying corporation taxes, has been reported out of the Assembly Judiciary Committee. The Senate bill is still in the Taxation Committee, where it has received a number of important amendments, some of which were requested by the Real Estate Association of the State of New York.

The Assembly bill (Int. No. 419) to amend the New York Charter in relation to paving streets has passed both houses. The Markets bill has been withdrawn by Senator Mills for amendment.

The Workmen's Compensation bill, with the direct settlement clause, was passed in the Assembly on Thursday by a vote of 82 to 54, on an emergency message from Governor Whitman.

The following new bills have been introduced:

Assembly Bills.

A. 1471 (Conkling). Inserting in the State Charities Law a new article (8-a), establishing State clearing houses for the mentally deficient.

A. 1384 (Cotillo). Amending the Tenement House Law (Subdiv. 1 of Section 2), by defining as a tenement house any building occupied as the home or residence of four families or more living independently of each other, and doing their cooking upon the premises. At present such houses of three stories or more are designated as tenement houses.

A. 1387 (Machold). Amending the Labor Law (Section 85), by providing that work rooms in factories shall be properly and adequately lighted. The provision in the present law requires such rooms to be lighted by electricity.

Senate Bills.

S. 1131 (Simpson). Amending the Greater New York Charter (Section 397) in relation to the collection of taxes and assessments and the refunding of taxes paid on erroneous assessments. This bill does not show the changes made in the present charter. To Cities Committee.

S. 1133 (Simpson). Amending the Lien Law (Subdiv. 2 of Section 235), by providing that when mortgaged chattels were located within the present boundaries of Bronx county at the time of the execution of such mortgage, a copy of such mortgage and its endorsements shall be filed in the office of the county clerk of Bronx county. To Judy. Com.

S. 1146 (Horton). Amending the Labor Law (New Subdiv. 5 of Section 51), in relation to the powers of the Industrial Board. Same as Assemblyman Thorn's bill introduced March 2d (Assembly Int. 1120, Pr. 1226). To Labor and Industries Committee.

S. 1147 (Horton). Amending the Workmen's Compensation Law (New Section 20-a), in relation to allowing an employer to advance moneys to injured employees at his own risk. Same as Assemblyman Thorn's bill introduced March 2d (Assembly Int. 1127, Pr. 1223). To Judiciary Committee.

S. 1150 (Horton). Amending the Labor Law (Sections 20-a and 87), in relation to reporting accidents. Same as Assemblyman Thorn's bill introduced March 2d (Assembly Int. 1124, Pr. 1230). To Labor and Industries Committee.

S. 1052 (Sanders). (By request) Amending the Labor Law (Section 3), in relation to the application of the hours of labor provisions of the labor law in the construction or repair of structures involving the use of mixtures of lime, cement or hot asphalt. (Same as Assembly bill introduced this session). To Labor and Industries Committee.

S. 1066 (Mills). Amending the New York City Rapid Transit Act (Repeal of Sections 43 to 59 inclusive, and adding New Sections 43 to 56 inclusive), by prescribing a method for the condemnation of property needed for rapid transit purposes. Such proceedings are to be held in the Supreme Court without a jury. As the sections repealed are not set out in the bill, it is impossible to determine the changes made in the existing law.

S. 1071 (Mills). Amending the Greater New York Charter (Section 822), by providing that the Commissioner of Docks shall not institute any proceedings for the acquisition of wharf property except upon approval of such proceedings by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, and upon the board furnishing a statement of the valuation of the real property to be acquired as assessed for purposes of taxation. On approving the institution of any such proceedings prior to January 1st, 1917, the Board of Estimate shall determine whether the compensation to be made to the owners of the real property to be acquired shall be ascertained by the Supreme court without a jury or by three commissioners of estimate to be appointed by the court. On and after January 1st, 1917, such compensation shall be ascertained by the supreme court without a jury. To Cities Committee.

S. 1083 (Burlingame). Amending the Greater New York Charter generally by establishing a department of purchase, the head of which shall be a board of purchase composed of the Mayor, the Comptroller and the President of the Board of Aldermen. The board of purchase shall appoint a general purchasing agent and a general store keeper, and a deputy general purchasing agent and a deputy general store keeper, and such other subordinates and employees as may be necessary.

APARTMENTS FOR VOCATIONAL PEOPLE

Structures Designed With Central Dining Hall, Kitchenettes and Hall Attendant Service Important Factors—Reduces Cost of Living

By LEWIS L. YOUNG, of Washington, D. C.

HOUSE-PLANNERS have devoted much time and thought in the preparation of plans for multi-family structures, designed for the accommodation of small families, and one of the principal problems to be faced is that of the kitchen, or kitchenette, as the case may be, but under the latter caption many crimes have been committed. Kitchenettes, as they exist to-day, range from a good sized closet, or alcove, to a space which would compare most unfavorably with a galley on a yawl. How food, other than the simplest kind of breakfast, can be prepared in accommodations of this size, is one of the things that will have to go down among many of the other kitchen mysteries.

There is a striking demand in Manhattan for suites of three and four rooms, with kitchenette, but rentals are, in most instances, very much higher, as compared with regular housekeeping apartments.

While many vocational people seek the privilege of light housekeeping, preparing breakfast and putting their homes in order, prior to leaving for the day, few have the time and inclination after a day's work to prepare dinner. For this reason the central dining-room has been devised and tried out in several instances.

Competition Eliminated.

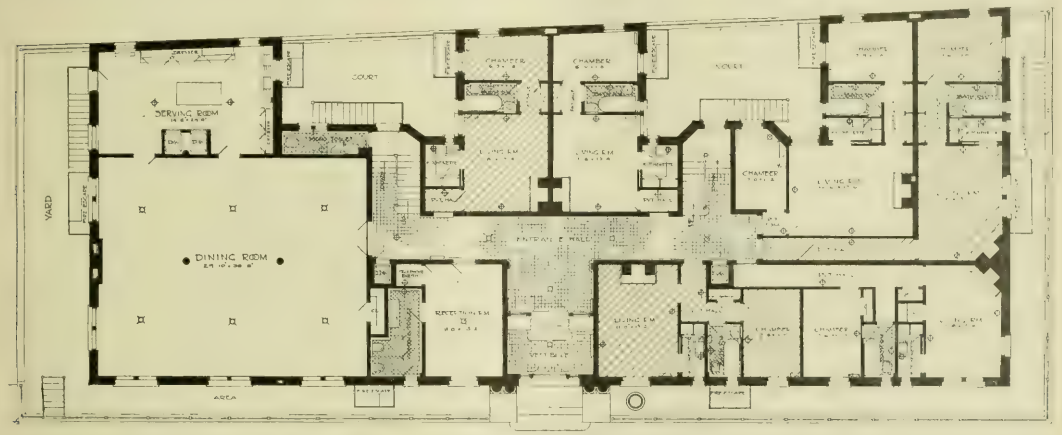
By stipulating in the leases that occupants are required to patronize the central dining room, at least to the extent of taking dinners there, the owner of the apartment house eliminates the competition of the kitchenettes and the neighborhood boarding houses, and places the dining-room on a paying basis. For reasons of economy many people who invariably take dinner, or all their meals out, patronize boarding houses in preference to public restaurants, and realizing this fact, some caterers rent apartments solely for the purpose of preparing and serving meals in them.

In the central dining-hall, shown in the accompanying floor plan, prepared by James E. Ware & Sons, 1170 Broadway, Manhattan, twenty-five tables, seating four persons each can be placed, affording accommodations for all the occupants of the building, besides a number of outsiders or guests of tenants at one time. The dining-room is managed by a domestic scientist. With the exception of one or two courses, there is no choice of dishes, as in a hotel or restaurant. A fixed price is charged by the week for all or any combination of meals.

Arrangements of Kitchenettes.

The kitchenettes, shown in the illustration, are in reality plaster-partitioned nooks or recesses of the living rooms with which they communicate by means of a sliding door. They are arranged something like a kitchen cabinet, having facilities for preparing light meals and storing food supplies, besides having hot and cold running water and ample ventilation and light, provided by a small window in the outer wall of the building.

With compact kitchenettes like these it is possible to plan an apartment having a very small-sized bedroom, in addition to a living-room, without taking up any more space than the apartment having only one room and kitchen requires. The hallroom size chamber is not objectionable where there is another room which, in addition to serving as a sitting or living room, can be used to serve breakfast or entertain the occasional overnight guests. Larger bed rooms are desirable, but in localities where the cost of the plottage precludes moderate rentals if space was used indiscriminately, the compact suite is preferable to the furnished room.



Such suites, while cozy and comfortable in winter, are well-nigh uninhabitable in summer where they open only on one side of the building. If the exposure is eastern or northern the rooms receive practically no sunlight and are cheerless in winter and deprived of the prevailing breezes in summer. An outdoor room, sleeping porch or small awning covered balcony is almost as essential to the comfort of the occupants in summer as is a heating system in winter and would be a protection against vacancies in summer.

Demand for Small Suites.

The high-priced small apartment is beyond the means of office workers, teachers and other small salaried people because the average income does not exceed $60, $75 or $84 a month. As experts have figured, and as home makers have learned from experience, that no more than one-quarter of an income of this size can be expended for rent, $15, $18 and $21 are the highest rentals that can be afforded. One would have to hunt far and wide, and perhaps without result, to find a suitable light housekeeping bachelor apartment for less than $25 or $30. Apartments of one, two and three rooms and kitchenettes, at rentals ranging from $15 to $30, the prices paid for furnished rooms occupied by one and two persons, would fill a large demand.

The light housekeeper, like the home-buyer of moderate means, could undoubtedly be attracted to the suburbs and outlying sections where sites, cheap enough to warrant moderate-priced suites having all outside rooms, are available. The fact that some conveniently located suburbs have a considerable year round boarding and rooming house patronage, would seem to indicate that the less congested localities have their attraction as well as those nearer the business, shopping and amusement centers.

Renting a two-room suite in the house shown in the accompanying diagram one can live for $9.50, or a couple sharing a three-room suite for $7.50 each per week, which includes breakfast and dinner served in the central dining-hall. The apartments are rented unfurnished and without service. The cost of upkeep to the occupants, cleaning, lighting and laundering, is comparatively insignificant, varying from 35 cents to $1.50 a week extra, according to the service required. The building occupies a plot about 50x140 feet, is four stories in height and contains thirty-six suites of rooms. The income from rentals alone approximates $12,000 a year, which includes $1,200 rent received for the central dining hall. With the exception of the salary paid the hall attendant, the owner has no other charges for maintenance than that of a housekeeping apartment.

Architects and the Three-Family House.

At a numerously attended monthly meeting of the New York Society of Architects, held at the United Engineering Society's Building on Tuesday evening last, the following resolution was adopted:

"That the special committee, having the matter of exclusion of three-family houses from the Tenement House Law in charge, be instructed to co-operate with the Advisory Council of the Real Estate Interests with a view to obtaining reasonable legislation with reference to three-family houses."

WHAT THE DUAL SYSTEM WILL DO FOR QUEENS

A New City in the Making—A Tabulation of All the Rapid Transit Extensions Into the Borough—Steinway Tunnel Nearly Ready

By WALTER I. WILLIS, Secretary Queens Chamber of Commerce

THE most important eventuality that the business interests of the Borough of Queens are looking forward to is the early completion and operation of rapid transit extensions into the borough.

When all of the rapid transit extensions are completed and in operation a majority of the residents of the borough will be able to travel from their homes to not only the business districts in Manhattan, but to all sections of New York City, conveniently, rapidly, and for a five-cent fare. While it is expected that the whole system will be in operation in the year 1917, it is also intended that parts of the system will be put in operation from time to time as fast as completed, so that long before the time set for complete operation Queens will secure immediate use of a large part of the Dual Subway System.

The Steinway tunnel, extending from 42d street, Manhattan, under the East River to Davis street, Long Island City, will be ready for operation, according to the contractors, in a few weeks. The power cables are now being installed. Just when the line will be actually in operation, and to what extent, is another question, depending upon the status of terminal facilities and connecting lines.

The construction of the Woodside, Astoria and Corona elevated line is well advanced, the Astoria branch being 100 per cent. finished, so far as the original contracts are concerned, and the Corona branch 86 per cent. done. But the Queens Bridge Plaza section has been delayed and is only about half completed.

The annexed tabulation gives a complete list of the extensions from Manhattan and Brooklyn into various sections of the Borough of Queens which are included in the Dual Subway System. For the purpose of clearness these lines are divided into two groups.

While only a mile or two from the heart of the business section of Manhattan, Queens was without adequate transit facilities, and had no connection whatever with the rapid transit lines of the city. Its only rail connection was by trolley cars, requiring in most cases an additional fare to reach the desired destinations in the business or shopping sections, or by the trains of the Long Island Railroad, which was still more expensive. The progress of the borough, despite this lack of cheaper transit facilities, has been remarkable. What it will be in the next ten years, with transit facilities equal, and in many cases superior, to every other section of New York City, will surprise even the most confident. Today Queens is on the threshold of the most wonderful development that has ever occurred in any part of New York City, or, for that matter, in any city of the world.

These rapid transit extensions into Queens will serve as an outlet for the expansion of the congested population of Manhattan into the thousands of acres of undeveloped land in all parts of the borough and will make cheaper homes with plenty of light and air more accessible for those who are employed in Manhattan and Brooklyn.

Transit Centers.

With the present and proposed rapid transit facilities, there will be three important transit centers in the borough, as follows:

From Queensboro Bridge Plaza, Long Island City, which will be a very important transit center and transfer point, rapid transit lines will radiate in all directions.

The station on the Bridge Plaza will be 480 feet long, with two levels, each having four tracks, or eight tracks in all. The lower level of the station will be for trains to Manhattan, while the upper level will be for trains to Astoria, Corona and to Brooklyn. The north platforms on both decks will be for Brooklyn Rapid Transit trains, while the south platforms on both decks will be for the Steinway tunnel and Second avenue trains of the Interborough.

Jamaica's Growing Importance.

While the entire Fourth ward will receive great benefit from the rapid transit extensions through Woodhaven, Ozone Park, Morris Park and Richmond Hill, Jamaica will become a greater transit center than ever. With the completion of the third-tracking of the Broadway and Fulton street elevated lines in Brooklyn, and the construction of the extensions from the City Line (Brooklyn) over Liberty avenue to Lefferts avenue, Richmond Hill, and from Cypress Hills (Brooklyn) over Jamaica avenue to Grand street, Jamaica, this entire section will be brought from fifteen to thirty minutes nearer Manhattan for a five-cent fare than is possible at present.

Woodside, L. I.

At the intersection of Roosevelt avenue and the six tracks of the Long Island Railroad there will be a joint transfer station that will be of the utmost importance to all Long Island. Passengers coming from any division of the Long Island Railroad, whether the North Shore, the Main Line, the Montauk Division or the Rockaway Division, will be able to transfer directly at this point to the elevated lines of both the Interborough and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit, connecting with the Queensboro Plaza and the Steinway tunnel.

Building the Piers—February, 1914. The line is 86 per cent. completed.

WHITE PLAINS ROAD RIPE FOR BUILDING

Williamsbridge and Wakefield Sections, Now Largely Unimproved, Ready for Advent of Builder—New Subway Influencing Factor

STEEL pillars, erected in a long line, on White Plains road, just below the city line, and extending southward more and more each day; a similar line of columns running north from Birchall street and hundreds of massive girders, bolted and riveted, on the highway, mark the successful culmination of the long fight waged by Williamsbridge and Wakefield for transit.

The superstructures are slowly but surely advancing to meet each other. When the men of Alfred P. Roth, who are building the north division, and those employed by Oscar Daniels, who are constructing the southern section, meet at Burke street, and the two huge masses of steel work will be linked together, the long dream of the upper East Bronx residents will have become a reality. There will be a celebration in the district marked by speech making, bands of music and a general jollification all along the line. A committee of local business men has long been at work planning for a fitting ceremony to suitably commemorate an achievement, which has meant so many years of effort.

The Upper View Shows the Junction of White Plains and Gunhill Roads, and the Lower View the New Subway Work at 230th Street.

Transit Agitation.

Years have gone by since the real estate owners of the section began the agitation for the adequate transit facilities that were sadly needed for its expansion. In 1901, the old Board of Rapid Transit Commissioners practically settled upon the route, but the advent of the newly created Public Service Commission caused a delay. Since that time there has been agitation, periodically, from time to time. Finally, in 1913, the present subway extension from the 180th street station of the West Farms line, to Mount Vernon, was decided upon and construction work actually begun. As part of the proposed new transit system is included also the extension of the Third Avenue Elevated Line from Fordham, along Gunhill road, to White Plains road, where it will meet at the public square the road now being constructed. The third tracking of the Third avenue elevated road is now progressing and it is expected that upon its completion the extension work will be immediately undertaken. These new systems, coupled with the present surface car lines, will give the district new transit facilities and communication with the commercial centers of the city, and will eliminate what has generally been accepted as a deterrent to its growth.

A trolley ride, or walk, along White Plains avenue, will reveal an unusual condition of affairs. Subway construction is actually under way and there is no responsive building movement. This is 211 feet above tide-water. And yet buildings are few and far between and of a uniform type of construction, the small brick or frame dwelling. The major portion of the streets are sewered and have water and gas mains.

The entire section is traversed by White Plains avenue, one of the widest thoroughfares in the Bronx and one of the best lighted. Every fifty feet along this avenue a new Tungsten lamp has been installed. The future of the thoroughfare is particularly bright. It has the distinction of being the only continuous north and south avenue through Williamsbridge and Wakefield and all the future business activity will probably be centered on it as in the past.

With all these advantages, and with the additional stimulant of a subway actually in course of construction, there has been little or no building activity. As far as the eye can see, is broad and level plateau land immediately available for improvement and builders have not seized the opportunity. From time to time there is a flurry of buying activity, and then a lull. The American Real Estate Company has been buying corners along the proposed route, particularly where stations are to be located, including the Mace estate of fifty-three acres, for a reported price of $650,000, and the Crawford estate of about twenty-five acres, in the vicinity of Gunhill road, for about $250,000. The rock at Gunhill road and White Plains road has been cleared and the land is ready for improvement.

No analysis of the reasons for the building apathy can be advanced, because the conditions at present are directly contradictory to those that existed in similar neighborhoods, under similar circumstances. In only one section of New York City did the building boom come after the actual operation of a new subway and that was along Fourth avenue. Perhaps the same thing will happen on White Plains road.

Opinions of Brokers.

"While there has been no building undertaken of importance," said Charles L. Ullman this week, "we have been receiving many inquiries for building sites. There is no doubt that with the clearing up of the financial situation and the easier availability of money for building purposes, Williamsbridge and Wakefield will receive their share of new building operations. For the present there is good cause for optimism and, unless all signs fail, the benefits of the new transit lines will soon manifest themselves in a strong building movement of residential property."

John H. Behrmann, who is the chairman of the committee which will manage the celebration at the completion of the construction work, said: "There is a demand for property not held too high. There are practically no empty stores along the important streets; if there are any they are unoccupied because the property is being held by owners who want to sell and do not wish to have holdings tied up with leases. There is an unusual call for small apartments that cannot be met with our present supply. The demand after the actual running of trains should be largely increased. We have been getting, without any difficulty in this neighborhood, $25 for seven and eight rooms; a few years ago the same number of rooms were only bringing $20. These figures indicate the enhancement of rental values and, as a result, show the increase in realty values. The future of the district is undoubtedly residential. It will not be long before we will experience the building activity which has long been delayed by the lack of adequate transportation facilities."

In regard to the direct State tax controversy, President McAneny of the Board of Aldermen declares his conviction after an exhaustive study that with due economies no such tax as the $18,000,000 proposed will be justified. That will be something saved.

Father Knickerbocker is learning to look out for himself when dealing with public service corporations. He has just decided that the Interborough shall pay the cost of the alterations on the upper deck of the Queensboro Bridge, as the transit company is to have the use of this deck for running trains from the Second avenue "L" to Queens.

A mean trait of the uplifters is to impute evil where none exists, in order that there may be an apparent reason for their interference. The department store girl, as the representative of a class, is not the only true-hearted soul whose reputation has been shamefully attacked in order that some new public service might be started, with well-paying jobs at the city's expense annexed to it.

It would save the city six million dollars, it is claimed, to accept the offer of the Long Island Railroad and run subway trains over its tracks from Corona to Whitestone, besides giving that section of Queens (which includes Flushing and Bayside) rapid transit long before it could be obtained otherwise. The offer is unique, and it sounds good, but it needs to be examined on all sides before taking. And, moreover, there are other sections also pleading.

Seventy or more factories in the Fifth avenue section, employing eleven thousand persons, have been obliged to go elsewhere owing to the restrictions of the new factory law, and especially owing to the provision limiting the number of persons to be employed on a given floor area. They have gone where they have more room and are more welcome. If there were a district law in force, to protect residential sections from industrial invasion, there would be little excuse for the severe limitations which the State factory laws put upon manufacturing.

The Board of Examiners.

The report of the Mayor's Commissioner of Accounts upon the Board of Examiners makes a presumptive case in favor of a different method of electing the board, but neither the builders nor the property owners of New York will agree to a censorious criticism of the work of that body. From their point of view it has served the city well and at an extremely small cost. It has been in existence for a great many years and has acted during the whole period as the final administrative authority for the interpretation and enforcement of the New York building law. It has handled during that period an enormous number of appeals, and its judgments have been accepted with comparatively little friction and complaint. It has been impartial and competent, and it has attended to its business. Its cost to the city, which has amounted to only about $9,000 a year, has been trivial compared to the value of its services. Its work, particularly during the past ten years, has been extremely difficult, because it was administering an antiquated code of building regulations.

Of course some of the rulings of the board have been criticised. No administrative body of men could interpret a superannuated code whose provisions adversely affected so many conflicting private interests without being criticised. But the criticism to which they have been subjected has not impugned their competency and their good faith. The assertions made by the Commissioner of Accounts that certain members of the board were interested in the construction of buildings which were affected by their rulings may be true, but if such an interest constitutes a disqualification for service on the board, that body would have to be entirely reconstituted.

Building experts are people who derive their knowledge in part from their business experience, and they are bound to get it in that way. The only people who are highly equipped building technicians and who are not actually engaged in building operations are instructors in architectural and engineering schools. The members of any board of review for the New York building law, to be really competent, would necessarily have occasional business relations with some of the complainants which appealed to it for relief. The extraordinary fact is that considering the business connections, which a competent group of building experts necessarily has, the rulings of the Board of Examiners have incurred such a small amount of adverse criticism. This fact is a sufficient proof of the good faith with which the work of the board has been performed; and it furnishes strong presumptive testimony in favor of the continued existence of a board of review drawn from essentially the same sources —that is from the organizations of the men who are technically interested in building construction.

The Borough Presidents.

When the decision was made last summer to submit to the Legislature a plan of simplified building inspection which centralized the inspection service in the hands of commissioners named by the Borough Presidents, the Record and Guide pointed out the disadvantages and dangers of such a plan. Since the legal constitution of Greater New York, almost twenty years ago, there have been many excellent presidents of the several boroughs, but in a number of instances also, relatively incompetent men have been elected to the office. On the whole the average Borough President has not been a satisfactory municipal official. There have been many striking exceptions to this rule, particularly in the case of Manhattan, but the exceptions have not been sufficiently numerous to invalidate the rule itself. The difficulty in obtaining good Borough Presidents is similar to the difficulty in obtaining good minor State elected officials.

Popular attention is concentrated on the heads of the tickets, and the consequence is that less discrimination is exercised both in nominating and electing the candidates for the subordinate offices. It is much easier for politicians to "put over" inferior nominations for the less important offices. Thus Presidents in the past have not earned very much confidence on the part of people who are intelligently interested in New York municipal government. At one time a serious attempt was made to entirely abolish them. The attempt failed, but the fact that it was made is an indication of a lack of public confidence in the office. Such being the condition, it could hardly have been expected that public opinion would consent to a very considerable enlargement of their powers. In particular, it could hardly have been expected that they would have been endowed with the responsibility of enforcing State laws—laws which were only partially sustained by local public sentiment.

Since the attempt was made some years ago to abolish the Borough Presidents they have undoubtedly increased in public esteem. No one would think of abolishing them now. When the charter is revised they will probably be granted increased rather than decreased functions. But in one respect their functions should not be increased. They should not, as has been recently proposed, be assembled in a committee to transact business which concerns the entire city. Five men, each representing one borough, do not, when they are collected together, represent New York as a whole. They only represented five one-fifths of New York, which is a very different thing. Political and economic decisions, which concern the whole city should be made chiefly by officials, like the Mayor and the Comptroller, who are elected by the whole city. New York is not a federated municipality. It is one city, which for convenience delegates certain administrative functions to officials, elected by its subordinate divisions.

The New Way to Queens.

After years of delay the Belmont or Steinway tunnel connecting Queens with the Grand Central Station in Manhattan is almost completed. Trains may be running within the next few months. The property-owners of Queens have waited long and impatiently for the final completion of this essential means of communication with central Manhattan; and now that it is almost come they will find it worth waiting for. Enormous unsettled areas in that borough will be brought as close to 42d street as is that part of Harlem north of 125th street. The part of Queens immediately served by the tunnel will fill up rapidly, because many of the increasing number of wage-earners, who work in the neighborhood of 42d street will seek cheaper rents and more spacious living accommodations on the other side of the East River. Moreover these people, although they live in Queens, will be more closely connected in a business sense with Manhattan than are the majority of the existing residents of the Long Island boroughs. The average resident of Brooklyn or Queens either derives his livelihood from local industries or, if he works in Manhattan, he usually does not make his purchases or amuse himself in the central borough. But all the population, which Queens gains as a result of the Belmont tunnel and the new subway will be as closely tied to Manhattan as are the inhabitants of Harlem. They will not merely work in Manhattan but they will patronize Manhattan stores, restaurants and places of amusement. In this way Manhattan real estate will be gradually compensated for any loss of population, which may be expected to result from the diversion of the residents of this borough to cheaper homes in Queens and elsewhere.

Remember the Rentpayer.

The effect of more stringent building laws has ever been to increase the cost of construction. And when you increase the cost of constructing an apartment house, you increase the cost of living; and if you increase the cost of erecting a store or business building, you increase the cost of doing business. For rents constitute a large part of the cost of living and of the cost of doing business. The average family spends more for rent than for any other item of household expenses. In a newspaper of the date of Nov. 7, 1903, this statement was made:

> Then came the Tenement House Commission and then the new tenement laws of 1901, and building ceased on the East Side. In the last two years average room rents have jumped from $3.50 to $5 a room per month. Store rents from $20 to $40; corner store rents from $65 to 125 per month."

In the present agitation against the over-regulation of buildings it is not only the interests of owners which are being guarded, but also the welfare of house tenants and storekeepers, and of everybody who pays rent. And one effect of consolidating the numerous departments that have been exercising jurisdiction over buildings will be to revive construction and maintain a better proportion between costs and income for the average well-doing man.

The Torrens Legislation Bills.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

I have just returned from Albany, where a hearing was had before the Committee on Judiciary in the Assembly on the two bills to amend the Torrens Land Title Registration Law, one known as the Boylan-Ahearn bill and the other as the Bennett-Bourke bill. The first was supported by the representatives of four of the old title insurance companies, namely the Lawyers' Title Insurance Co., the New York Title Insurance Co., the Home Title Insurance Co. and the United States Title Guaranty Company. The second was supported by Register John J. Hopper and his deputy. The Title Guarantee and Trust Co. opposed both bills, and also objected to calling it the Torrens Law.

There has also been introduced by Senator Hamilton in the Senate and Mr. Fertig in the Assembly a third bill to amend the Torrens Law, known as the Hamilton-Fertig bill.

While there are good and bad features in the Boylan-Ahearn bill and in the Bennett-Bourke bill, the best features in both of said bills are preserved in the Hamilton-Fertig bill, which also embodies the amendments made necessary by the presence of "jokers" previously inserted in the law, and also to overcome the technical objections, on points of practice and procedure, which have been raised by the attorneys for the Title Guarantee and Trust Co.

The chief advantages of the Hamilton-Fertig bill may be briefly summarized as follows:

First. Section 385 of the Torrens Law is amended so that the court cannot be deprived of its jurisdiction after making order for the issuance and publication of the summons.

Second. The word "possession" as applied to the plaintiff-applicant is defined as meaning possession of the legal title, instead of actual occupation of the land itself.

Third. The Supreme Court, in a Torrens registration action, is given all the power possessed by the court in an action for partition or an action in ejectment.

Fourth. The payment into the assurance fund of one-tenth of one per cent. of the assessed value of the property is made obligatory, instead of optional in each case, as formerly.

Fifth. Property once registered under the Torrens must remain registered and cannot be withdrawn on the demand of a title insurance company or mortgagee.

Sixth. Certificates must be issued by individual official examiners appointed by the court, the clause as to corporate official examiners having been eliminated.

Seventh. Savings banks and other financial institutions, operated under charters from the State, are obliged to secure Torrens registration for all properties on which they loan their reserve funds by way of mortgage loans.

Every real estate lawyer, broker and operator should heartily support the Hamilton-Fertig bill, which will, if it becomes a law, not only enable the property owner to secure a title in fee simple absolute, vested by the State, at small expense, after all clouds have been removed, but will also facilitate the transfer and mortgage of properties, and thus remove the last obstacle to the successful and beneficial operation of the Torrens Law.

The Newspapers and the Lockwood Bills.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

The press agent of the opposition to the Lockwood-Ellenbogen Bills is certainly both active and influential with the newspapers, and yet it would seem proper for the editors to inform themselves more thoroughly regarding facts before giving the publicity they have to the incorrect and biased statements regarding the bills that have been published.

The facts are these: It has been acknowledged by every one that the multiplication of inspections has almost ruined real estate in New York City. The State Factory Investigating Commission prepared on that account a tentative bill to consolidate the various city departments and bureaus and the State Labor Department, in so far as they related to construction of and structural changes in buildings in a central Building Department under the Mayor. The various boroughs objected so strenuously to this that a conference of real estate and allied organizations in Greater New York was held and decided that the plan was a necessity, but that borough autonomy must be preserved, and it had the "Lockwood-Ellenbogen" Bills prepared and introduced by these much-abused gentlemen.

Either the Mayor, who apparently desires centralized government, or his "unofficial arm of the city government," the City Club, had bills presented by Senator Wagner and Assemblyman Smith to turn the matter over to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, well knowing that the board stood 9 to 7 in favor of centralization, and also knowing that the vote of the board had no jurisdiction over the State Labor Department.

The Conference Committee has had several conferences with their legislative committee, and the representatives of the opposition with a view to meeting any objectionable features that might be in the bill, and on Sunday last these matters were covered and the memorandums taken by the introducers of the bill and Senator Mills to redraft in the bill.

The only matter left unsettled with the legislative committee was whether the construction of and structural changes in tenement houses should be put in the Building Department that now has to pass on the plans, with a representative of the Tenement House Department, in the Building Department to see that the law was properly enforced; or, as suggested by the Mayor's representatives, the entire supervision lodged in the Tenement House Department, thereby adding another building department in the city and enormously increasing the cost of the city administration. The names of the executive committee and the sixty or seventy organizations included in the conference ought to have prevented the mud-slinging and aspersions cast, and as the accredited representative of the Merchants' Association of New York which approved the Lockwood-Ellenbogen Bills, I think that the newspapers should give these facts as full publicity as the other side has had.

On Advertising Legal Sales.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

A better way of advertising legal sales of real estate than the method now pursued ought to be adopted for the good of all concerned. Few persons ever see the formal notices of sale required by law to be published, and fewer still read them; because, first, they are printed where they are not seen by many; second, because they are printed in type too small to be attractive; and, third, because they are not easily understandable.

Consequently, few bidders ever attend the sales, unless special attention is called to them in other ways, and the property is sold under disadvantageous circumstances. Otherwise, if there was a law directing legal sales of real estate to be advertised in a conspicuous and intelligible manner, with fewer unnecessary words and larger type, the sales would be more largely attended, and the mortgagees would not be obliged to buy in pieces of property with which they do not want to be burdened.

As legal exactions are today, a property to be foreclosed, must of necessity be advertised in a certain law journal semi-weekly for three weeks, and in one other newspaper. We respectfully submit that it may be consistent enough, in order to meet the legal requirements, to use the law journal for what may be designated as a "notice of sale," but why should we have to resort to the same verbiage and lengthy description (oftentimes confusing), for the other newspapers? Block books are not hard to obtain these days.

Instead, if we could reduce the lengthy descriptive matter to an "ad" of normal quantity, just as is now in vogue for voluntary offerings, we would then have a larger attendance at sales and better prices. This abridgement, to perhaps a one-fourth the space now used, admits of four insertions (instead of one), in papers selected as natural for the purpose and best fitted to arouse interest and competition according to the location of the property.

Such an "ad" if placed under the classified columns of "real estate at auction" in the Record and Guide would be seen and read by thousands of persons whereas under present conditions it is seen by few. L. P.

Harlem Canal Improvements.

The estimated cost of straightening the Harlem ship canal is $2,030,000, of which $1,180,000 is for the new land required (now occupied by the Johnson Foundry), and $850,000 is for the actual work. The Rivers and Harbors bill, which the President signed, contains an appropriation for carrying forward this improvement when the State of New York deeds the land to the United States Government. When the work is all finished and the new channel is in use the government will deed back to the State the bed of the present channel.

When the canal is straightened the next thing in order will be to remove from the bed of the Harlem River some of the piers of High Bridge which now obstruct navigation. The opening of the Bronx Kills to let vessels from the Sound into the Harlem, so as to cut out Hell Gate, is an improvement which has been on the cards for many years, but the government holds back the means.

The bill also provides for a preliminary examination of the Hudson River from New York to Hudson, with a view to securing a depth of forty feet, and a similar examination of a shoal in Gowanus Bay.

When all these works are finished—when the ship canal is available for Hudson River and Sound steamers, when the Port Morris waterfront of the Bronx and the whole East Side waterfront of Manhattan are open to deep sea vessels—there will be a real estate movement along the east and north shores of Manhattan Island, and the south and east shores of the Bronx, the like of which the city has never known before. The local shipping interests are crying for more room, when there is really plenty of room, if the government would only make the adjacent obstructed waters navigable.

—The secured debt tax law relieves from annual taxation bonds and other forms of secured debts after a payment of one registration tax of one-half of one per cent. It is similar and supplementary to the mortgage tax law. Bonds representing hundreds of millions are now on record and free from further taxation—unless the State changes its mind, which some legislators are advising.

REAL ESTATE NEWS OF THE WEEK

Brokerage Sales, Auctions, Foreclosure Suits Together With Other Current Realty Items

Action By the Advisory Council.

The Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests, through its Law Committee, Walter Lindner, chairman, approves of the passage of the following bills, introduced in the Legislature:

A bill to change the rule of inheritance of real property, where a decedent leaves no descendants so that the father and mother share equally in the inheritance instead of the father taking to the exclusion of the mother, as is now the law.

A bill to amend the Tenement House Law by permitting, in addition to the materials now allowed, the use of hollow cement blocks for enclosing stairs and stair halls, provided the material shall be approved by the Tenement House Department. This bill is permissive, and the use of the material is subject to the approval of the Department, would seem proper to favor its passage.

This Council opposes the passage of the following bills:

A bill to add to the Greater New York Charter a new Section, providing that the Board of Estimate and Apportionment may reduce assessments confirmed after January 1, 1908, which it deems excessive, or where in any two consecutive years the aggregate assessments exceed 60 per cent. of the assessed value of the parcel. This bill would cause inequality among persons liable to assessments. Persons with improvements on their lots would remain liable, whereas unimproved parcels might escape under this provision, and this bill would burden the general tax levy with payments that should be borne by the owners of the property benefited.

A bill to amend the Insurance Law by making policies void if the premium is not paid within thirty days.

A bill to authorize the Board of Assessors of the City of New York to determine damages sustained by owners of real property by reason of the construction of any bridge and the approaches thereto. Numerous special bills on this subject have been disapproved on the ground that special legislation should not be permitted. The principle of this bill is right, says the committee, but it would seem that it will operate to bring before the Board of Assessors claims for damages of this character heretofore sustained. The burden of these damages, which would fall upon the city, might be too great to be borne at the present time. The principle of this bill is approved, and it should be limited to damages arising under future consideration.

Opposes Pumping Plant.

The Citizens Union announced this week its opposition to the plan which is being urged upon Mayor Mitchel and Commissioner Williams of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, for a $3,000,000 pumping plant to be erected at 135th street to provide a high pressure for the Croton water in the lower portion of Manhattan which will supply water by gravity to the top of ten-story buildings.

In opposing the scheme the Union points out that the taxpayers are already overburdened by the water debt of the city. The 1915 budget contains more than $10,000,000 to be paid this year in interest and sinking funds, on the city's water supply obligations, with the $200,000,000 Catskill supply still unavailable. The Union takes the position that the city is not under obligation to deliver water at a level higher than that of the average building and that property owners who require delivery at a higher point should bear the expense involved. It is further pointed out that connections are contemplated in Manhattan to the Catskill tunnel which will permit the shutting down of pumps now in operation in the upper portion of the city, which will result in an increased pressure in lower Manhattan. The Union is urging the city officials to take into consideration the possibilities of the Catskill supply in Manhattan before investing any more money in pumping plants.

William Jay Schieffelin, chairman of the Union, has written to Commissioner Williams giving the basis for the conclusions which have been reached as a result of an investigation of the plan.

Classon Avenue Relief Sewerage System.

The Borough President of Brooklyn has received authority from the Board of Estimate to construct the second, third, fourth and fifth sections of the Classon avenue relief sewerage system. The total cost of the system has been estimated at $2,497,500.

The final authorization for Section Number One of this improvement was granted by the board at its meeting of March 6, 1913, the work then provided for comprising the trunk sewers in Classon avenue, Park street, Skillman street, Myrtle avenue, Nostrand avenue, Vernon avenue and Tompkins avenue to Greene avenue, the cost of which was then estimated at $1,125,500.

A substantial part of the remainder of the improvement has been divided into the following designated sections:

Section Number Two, comprising the following sewers: De Kalb avenue, from Bedford avenue to Skillman street; Skillman street, from De Kalb avenue to Myrtle avenue.

The expenses incurred under the preliminary authorization amount to $378.01, and the total estimated cost of the entire improvement is $25,400. It is proposed to allow eighty days for the completion of the contract.

Section Number Three, comprising the following sewers: Tompkins avenue, from Greene avenue to Fulton street; Fulton street, from Tompkins avenue to Brooklyn avenue; Brooklyn avenue, from Fulton street to a point about 65 feet south of Fulton street.

The expenses incurred under the preliminary authorization amount to $1,748.79, and the total estimated cost of the entire improvement is $350,000. It is proposed to allow three hundred days for the completion of the contract.

Section Number Four, comprising the following sewers: Prospect place, from Grand avenue to Nostrand avenue; Nostrand avenue, from Prospect place to Dean street; Dean street, from Nostrand avenue to Brooklyn avenue; Brooklyn avenue, from Dean street to a point about 65 feet south of Fulton street.

The expenses incurred under the preliminary authorization amount to $1,401.54, and the total estimated cost of the entire improvement is $204,000. It is proposed to allow two hundred and forty days for the completion of the contract.

Section Number Five, comprising the following sewers: Macon street, from Tompkins avenue to Lewis avenue; Lewis avenue, from Macon street to Chauncey street; Chauncey street, from Lewis avenue to Fulton street; Fulton street, from Chauncey street to Troy avenue; Troy avenue, from Fulton street to a point about 55 feet south of Fulton street.

The expenses incurred under the preliminary authorization amount to $1,- 047.95, and the total estimated cost of the entire improvement is $325,000. It is proposed to allow three hundred days for the completion of the contract.

The total expenditure involved in carrying out these four sections amount to $904,400. The assessed valuation of the property to be benefited amounts to $472,324,584.

The remaining work required to complete the entire improvement comprises the construction of the Classon avenue, Park street, Troy avenue and Chauncey street branches of this system, the estimated cost of which work, from data now at hand, would appear to be about $493,500.

New York Mortgage & Security Co.

At the meeting of the stockholders of the New York Mortgage & Security Company at their offices, 135 Broadway, Henry E. Cooper, Guy Du Val and Wilson P. Foss were elected to the Board, to fill vacancies. Harry A. Kahler, president, presented the annual report, which indicated net earnings for the fiscal year of $201,495.29. After deducting 12 per cent. dividends, amounting to $180,000, there remained a balance of $21,495.29, which was carried to undivided profits. The report shows that the company has capital, surplus and undivided profits amounting to $2,722,-859.68, a net reduction of $75,979.46, as compared with the preceding year. Since organization, bonds and mortgages have been made to the amount of $140,601,457.66. The amount of outstanding guaranteed mortgages on March 1, 1915, was $35,991,129.88. The company showed a larger cash balance than normally, the amount of cash on hand and in banks at the close of the fiscal year being $503,853.91.

To Celebrate Subway Opening.

The South Brooklyn and Bay Ridge taxpayers' societies are arranging for a celebration of the opening of the Fourth avenue and Sea Beach subway lines, some time in June. Organizations taking part in the celebration will board a special train at the Fifty-ninth street station and journey over the line, inspecting the stations en route, and at the Manhattan end of the subway meet Mayor Mitchel, members of the Public Service Commission and other public officials. The day's events will terminate in a banquet to be held in the auditorium of Bay Ridge High School. The next meeting of the celebration committee will be held March 29, at Library Hall, corner of Fifty-ninth street and Fourth avenue.

Housing Law Repeal.

One of the immediate effects in Yonkers of the repeal of the State Housing Law was the granting of permits for the erection of a considerable number of new buildings which it would not have been possible to build under the law. The Legislature has placed upon the second class cities of the State the responsibility of drafting their own building and sanitary codes, the enforcement of which will be under the supervision of the State Health Commission.

New Forces in the Advisory Council.

The Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests announces the election of Messrs. Edmund L. Baylies, William M. Ivins and William R. Willcox to its Board of Counsel; and Burt L. Fenner, architect, Charles E. Knox, engineer, and Daniel E. Moran, engineer, to its advisory staff of experts. Frank Pattison, engineer, and Evarts Tracy, architect, have also been elected to the Industrial Code Committee of the council, which is also comprised of Julius Franke and Louis J. Horowitz.

Taxpayers' Mass Meeting.

Final arrangements have been completed for the big mass meeting of taxpayers' organizations under the auspices of the United Real Estate Owners' Association, at the 44th Street Theatre, on Sunday evening, March 21. A number of civic organizations have interested themselves in the meeting and a large attendance is expected.

LAW DEPARTMENT

A Broker's Claim.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

What claim has Broker A in the second sale as described herewith? Broker A brings a piece of suburban property to office of B, in exchange for a private house, of which B is sole agent, on the understanding that commissions are to be equally divided in the event of an exchange being effected. The deal is not closed. Subsequently Broker B hears of property that can be traded for the holdings offered by A. Is B justified in going direct to the owner, whom he had met on A's recommendation and introduction in the first deal? In the event of negotiations being successful, is A entitled to any commission?

Answer: In all common decency, yes! In law, however, we fear not. When treaties between great nations are treated as but "a scrap of paper," brokers without even that can scarcely hope for recognition in deals brought about behind their backs. A. should have obtained from the owner of the property a sole right for a certain time to negotiate the property, or from B. an agreement for recognition in any sale he might effect of it as sub-agent. Then as in America we still recognize "scraps of paper," A. would stand some show of fair treatment.—Ed.

Liability for Damages.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

I leased a floor to "B" in a business building. The lease reads that "B" will not hold the owner of the property for any damages if any leak should occur from water pipes. A short time ago the water pipe in the ceiling burst and water came down and damaged "B's" goods, and he has demanded $300 from owner, who refuses to pay; therefore, "B" brings suit to compel the owner to pay. Is the owner liable for damages in this case? Also, a tenant in same building under monthly lease claims $100 damage to his goods on account of water leakage. Can this tenant compel owner to pay?

Answer: If a covenant was inserted in the lease relieving landlord "for any damages if any leak" arose, as is stated in the question, there can be no ground on which to hold him for the damages arising. But if the covenant were only to apply to plumbing of which the tenant had sole control, landlord might be liable, or another tenant of floor above might be liable for leaks in floor above, causing damage to tenant below.

Without a legal instrument itself before the editor, much has to be assumed from the words of the correspondent, which may be too partially used.—Ed.

Liability on Bond.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you kindly answer the following question? A owns a piece of property worth $10,000, free and clear. In need of money, he borrows $6,000 for three years at 5 per cent. from B. A gives B a bond for $12,000, due date same as mortgage. A sells property to C for $10,-000, subject to mortgage of $6,000. Is A still liable in any way on the bond, or does his selling the property to C relieve him of all responsibility?

Answer: A is always liable on his bond until it is paid or varied, by an extension without his consent, or the like. It is very often provided in the sale deed for C to assume payment of A's bond and mortgage when due. This does not relieve A, but puts C's financial responsibility in toward relieving A. In all events, if A is ever called upon to pay the bond he is entitled to have the mortgage assigned to him again, when he can foreclose it against the property and thus recoup himself.—Ed.

—In 1852 the block bounded by Fifth and Madison avenues, 78th and 79th streets, sold for $3,000. In August, 1889, Henry H. Cook bought it for $575,000, or at an increase of 19,000 per cent. The block has since been divided among a number of owners and is assessed at $3,927,500.

A New Book on Queens Borough.

Secretary Willis, of the Queens Chamber of Commerce, announces that a new 128-page book "Queens Borough" will be ready for distribution next week. Prominence is given to chapters on "Manufacturing and Industries," "Residential Advantages," "Waterfront Development," and "Building Development."

The book is full of interesting data for the homeseeker, the investor and the prospective manufacturer, and includes many attractive illustrations of new industrial enterprises, rapid transit construction work, the many types of houses and apartments which have been recently constructed in Queens, and also the social and educational features of the borough.

The following are the members of the Manufacturing and Industrial Committee under whose auspices the book was published: Burton Thompson, chairman; John W. Rapp, William D. Bloodgood, Henry M. Toch, A. L. Langdon, George E. Woods, John J. Halleran, William H. Dahman, Michael J. Degnon, Clifford S. Fox, and H. W. Drake.

Walter I. Willis, secretary of the Chamber, and author of this publication, says: "Few people realize how great a city the Borough of Queens would be, considered by itself, apart from its political connection with New York City. The following statement of its rank, as compared with the principal cities of the United States, will give some idea of its immensity, of its possibilities for even greater development, and of its importance from a commercial, industrial and residential standpoint: Nineteenth in population (387,444 on July 1, 1914); seventeenth in value of its manufactured products ($151,680,000 in 1909); seventh in building construction for 1914 ($19,373,471); sixth in assessed valuation ($488,686,000 in 1914); fifth in area (117.36 square miles).

LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS.

At the meeting of the Local Boards the following resolutions were approved:

Washington Heights District.—Laying out, closing and discontinuing West 138th street between Amsterdam and Convent avenues.

Murray Hill District.—Since the date of the last meeting, a report has been made by the engineer in charge of sewers, to the effect that the basin at the northwest corner of 52nd street and Madison avenue is needed immediately on account of contemplated repaving improvements.

Construction of receiving basins in West 48th street adjacent to the southeast corner of Eighth avenue and the southwest corner of Broadway at an estimated cost of $820. The assessed valuation of the property is $4,257,000. The proposed construction originates in connection with the repaving of 48th street, as it is deemed advisable to improve surface drainage conditions before the repaving work is undertaken.

Would Not Deserve Sympathy.

(By Henry George.)

If anyone is a great enough fool to buy land when this measure (the Single Tax) is impending, he does not deserve sympathy.

In Southern Nassau County.

Situated midway between Rockville Centre and Freeport in southern Nassau county, Baldwin Harbor presents the sparsely settled area contiguous to both that affords room for growth and improvement comportable with the demand for suburban homes. Rockville Centre and Freeport are both expanding their residential area toward Baldwin Harbor and the latter community is the mediator in the keen rivalry between them. Evidence of it is found in the project to build a modern brick public school building at Baldwin Harbor in face of the fact that Freeport and Rockville Centre have modern school facilities; while numerous new houses are to be begun in the spring.

Like its thriving neighbors, Baldwin Harbor has gas and electric lights and copious water supply, curbed streets and concrete sidewalks, and it is only a few minutes' ride by trolley to either Freeport or Rockville Centre, where all local shopping facilities abound. The question of transportation between Baldwin station and Baldwin Harbor is solved by automobile stage service to and from all trains.

Many homeseekers fond of aquatic sports have been attracted to Baldwin Harbor because of its extensive frontage on Hempstead bay and its numerous safe anchorages for pleasure boats.

There are now practically no vacant tracts of land in either Rockville Centre or Freeport; and, extensive improvement and opportunity for home buying in that part of Nassau county must necessarily be contiguous to those villages or at Baldwin Harbor.

The township of Hempstead, in which all of these home colonies are situated, presents a happy civic circumstance. No assessments are laid against real estate for the cost of improving highways or for other public improvements. These expenses are all figured in the town budget and the increase pro rata in that schedule is so slight as to be hardly perceptible.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

More apartment house building projects, along West End avenue, continued activity in the West Bronx and a $1,600,000 Park avenue investment purchase were featured in the week's business. The buying and building movement, long expected, in these outlying sections to be benefited by subway construction, has already manifested itself in the western sections; in the east, it is still being awaited. The presence of builders among purchasers, foreshadowing building operations and indicating that loans for such projects are being made, furnishes additional stability to the market. This week such buyers figured prominently, and this development, coupled with several large deals involving apartment houses, furnished most of the activity.

The total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 24, as against 26 last week and 31 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 6, as compared with 10 last week and 6 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregated 18, as compared with 16 last week and 25 a year ago.

The total number of conveyances in Manhattan was 128, as against 131 last week, 16 having stated considerations totaling $1,201,599. Mortgages recorded this week number 64, involving $1,149,280, as against 75 last week, totaling $831,574.

From the Bronx 24 sales at private contract were recorded as against 20 last week and 18 a year ago.

The amount involved in Manhattan and Bronx auction sales this week was $1,289,340, compared with $435,250 last week, making a total for the year of $10,298,243. The figures for the corresponding week last year were $772,107, and the total from Jan. 1, 1914, to March 21, 1914, was $9,226,444.

$1,600,000 Park Avenue Sale.

William Ziegler, Jr., bought from the E. A. L. Holding Company, Edgar A. Levy, president, the new thirteen-story apartment house, 755 Park avenue, at the southeast corner of 72d street, on plot 102.2x130, on the one-time site of the Freundschaft Club. The house contains thirty-eight suites, all occupied, at rentals ranging from $3,500 to $5,500 per annum. It was built from plans by Rouse & Goldstone, and was held at $1,600,000. The renting agents were Douglas L. Elliman & Company. In part payment, Mr. Ziegler gave the two six-story store and loft buildings, 2-4 West 37th street, on plot 43x98.9, which he recently acquired as plaintiff in a foreclosure action for $215,000. The deal was negotiated by Jesse C. Bennett and J. Curry Watson.

New Dwelling on Site of Two.

Douglas L. Elliman & Company sold for Mrs. Leopold Plaut 87 East 79th street, a four-story dwelling, on lot 19x82.2, and for Mrs. F. A. Haight 89 East 79th st, a 4-sty dwelling at the northwest corner of Park avenue, on lot 22x82, to a prominent New Yorker, who will demolish the structures and erect a costly residence on the combined plottage of 41x82.2. The two houses were held at $200,000. Directly opposite on the northeast corner of Park avenue and 79th street is the new seventeen-story apartment house erected by Bing & Bing, which was recently sold to the late Mrs. Morris K. Jesup, where the apartments rent from $9,000 to $10,000 each.

O'Neill-Adams Realty.

Large portions of the one-time O'Neill-Adams Company department store property on the west side of Sixth avenue, between 20th and 22d streets, were transferred this week to the Onaco Realty Company, of 5 West 34th street, the James McCreery & Co. store. The deeds were filed at the request of Gould & Wilkie, attorneys. The new company is said to represent mortgagees of the property who intend to prepare the property for renting. Title passed, subject to a mortgage of $500,000. The description and location of the property conveyed will be found in the Records section of the current issue of the Record and Guide.

Strand Owners in Newark.

The Market & Beaver Realty Company, representing Mitchel H. Mark, Edward Spiegel, Max Spiegel and Henry Waterson, owners of the Strand Theatre, have purchased from the H. C. Miner estate through Louis Kamm, the Newark Theatre at Market and Beaver streets, Newark, at a reported price of $450,000. The house will be remodeled and operated along the same lines as the Strand Theatre. The property was reported as being under negotiation for sale in the Record and Guide of January 30, but the prospective buyer at that time was said to be Marcus Loew.

New West Side Operation.

Thomas Dwyer and Donald Durant sold through Henry I. Cooper to a client of Louis Kempner & Son the two dwellings at the northwest corner of West End avenue and 89th street, known as 601 and 603 West End avenue. On the plot which fronts forty-four feet on the avenue and ninety feet in the street, the buyer, it is reported, will erect a thirteen-story apartment house, containing one apartment to a floor, of nine rooms and four baths.

Bank Re-Sells Apartment House.

The German Savings Bank has re-sold to Bernard Ratkowsky, an adjoining owner, the six-story elevator apartment house "Montana," at the south corner of Mt. Morris Park West and 124th street, on plot 100x100.11. The bank acquired the property on Monday at foreclosure at the stand of Henry Brady, for $147,500, about $1,600 below encumbrances.

Mrs. Hyde Sells on West Side.

Mrs. Lilla B. Hyde sold to Frederick Brown, through the Douglas Robinson-Charles S. Brown Company and the uptown office of Goodale, Perry & Dwight the two eleven-story apartment houses, Eton Hall and Rugby, at 29-35 Claremont avenue, each on plot 56.8x100, near Columbia University. The properties have been held at $600,000.

West Side Dwellings Sold.

Edward H. Raynolds sold through Alfred C. Marks, 124-126 West 72d street, two four-story dwellings, each on lot 25x102.2, to a client of the Lawyers Title Insurance & Trust Company. It is said that an apartment house improvement is contemplated. Mr. Raynolds acquired No. 126 about three months ago from Dr. John F. Erdman through the same broker.

LEASES.

Profit in 42d Street Lease.

The Herbert & Huesgen Company, optical and photographic specialists, now at 311 Madison avenue, have acquired, through Clark T. Chambers, the unexpired lease of the Hallett & Davis Piano Company, on the new six-story building, 18 East 42d street, which has still nineteen years to run. The piano company leased the property in May, 1913, for twenty-one years, at about $14.-000 a year, or an aggregate of about $294,000, and erected the present building. The aggregate rental to be paid the new lessees will be more than $500,000, which indicates a considerable profit. Both leases were recorded last week. The attorneys in the deal were Adolph and Henry Bloch, representing the Herbert & Huesgen Company, and Knowlton Durham, representing the Hallett & Davis Piano Company.

Long Fulton Street Lease.

Nelson, Lee & Green leased for Samuel K. Jacobs the five upper floors in the new six-story building, on lot 25x 75, at 141 Fulton street, to Mark Miller and his Metropolitan Optical School, which has been located in the same neighborhood for twenty-five years. The lease is for twenty-one years from May 1, 1915. The building has been rebuilt at an estimated cost of $20.000 by Mr. Jacobs, who leased it last November from the Lorillard estate, through the same brokers.

First Circle Building Lease.

Nelson, Lee & Green, in conjunction with Huberth & Huberth, leased for the Veronica Realty Company the large store in the 61st street side of the new Circle Building, at Columbus Circle, now in course of construction. The tenant is the Racine Rubber Tire Company, of New York and Wisconsin. The building will not be completed until May 1, but by special arrangement the lessee will have possession at once. This is the first lease closed in the building.

Out-of-Town Merchant on Fifth Ave.

A. E. Little, shoe manufacturer, of Lynn, Mass., is the lessee of the two-story building to be erected between the Union League Club and the new Arnold, Constable & Co. store at the southeast corner of Fifth avenue and 40th street. Douglas L. Elliman & Co. were the brokers. The details of the transaction were reported in the Record and Guide of March 6.

"Movie" in Old Haymarket.

Following the announcement in the Record and Guide last week that negotiations were pending for the lease of the one time Haymarket, at the southeast corner of Sixth avenue and 30th street, for a moving picture theatre, it was learned that plans were filed this week for such an improvement by Edward Baresel, architect. The lessee is Abraham Goldsmith and the owner, the 1227 Broadway Corporation.

Clothiers Lease Two Stores.

Smith, Gray & Company, clothiers, leased from I. S. and M. S. Korn and Ottinger & Brother, the stores at 1456-1458 Broadway, opposite the new building to be erected for Brokaw Brothers, and also leased from P. Henry Dugro the ground floor at the northwest corner of Third avenue and 58th street.

$225,000 Sun Building Lease.

The Schulte Realty Company leased, through Pease & Elliman, to the Enelah Company, for twenty-one years, at an aggregate rental of about $225,000, the store, 12x45, adjoining the corner in the Sun Building at Park Row and Frankfort street, which is to be remodelled by August 1.

LEOPOLD PORRINO has been appointed agent for 166 Thompson st.

J. K. MOORS has moved to 301 West 57th st, northwest corner of 8th av.

N. BRIGHAM HALL & WM. D. BLOODGOOD, INC., have been appointed agents for 1407 3d av.

SAMUEL H. MARTIN has been appointed agent for 56 Edgecombe av and 322 West 138th st.

NEGOTIATIONS are reported pending for the sale by Michael Kurzman of the two 4-sty buildings 324 and 328 5th av, on plot 32.1x100.

JOHN PALMER has moved his office from 18 East 41st st to larger quarters at 35 West 39th st.

GEO. R. READ & CO. have been appointed agents for the 7-sty apartment house, 311 West 95th st.

CAMMANN, VOORHEES & FLOYD have been appointed agents for 238-240 and 244 West 56th st.

CHARLES L. BERNHEIMER is the buyer of the residence, 24 East 64th st, recently reported sold, through William B. May & Co.

PEASE & ELLIMAN have been appointed managing agents for 122-124-126 East 58th st, recently sold through them to the New York Genealogical & Geographical Society.

WILLIAM B. MAY & CO have leased from Klein & Jackson the store at 717 5th av, southeast corner of 56th st, from May 1, for their new offices.

HUGO H. PIESEN is the buyer of the 12-sty loft building 31-37 East 31st st, recently reported sold by the George Backer Construction Co., George Backer and Arnstein & Levy.

HERMANS ARNS CO. negotiated the recently recorded sale of the 5-sty tenement 317 East 46th st for Emelia Freeman to Philip McGuire.

H. ACKERLY DOUGLAS & CO. have opened an office in the building they are erecting at 2428 Grand Boulevard and Concourse, just north of 187th st, where they will transact a general real estate brokerage and agency business.

PEASE & ELLIMAN have been appointed by I. Randolph Jacobs, controlling the 161 East 79th St. Co., managing agents of the new 12-sty apartment house to be erected on plot 62x100, at 159-165 East 79th st, from plans by Rouse & Goldstone.

HENRY B. RIECKE has placed mortgages of $8,000 at 5 per cent. on 348 West 12th st for Mary C. Tuting; $6,000 at 5½ per cent. on 613 Hudson st for Louis Dern, and $10,000 at 5 per cent. on 423 West 39th st, for the estate of William Sager.

THE BOROUGH PRESIDENT of the Bronx has fixed Wednesday, March 24, 1915, at 8 p. m., Municipal Building, 177th st and 3d av, for an informal public hearing in the matter of the suggested crossings of the Bronx Valley at 241st st and at 238th st.

THE UPPER MANHATTAN PROPERTY OWNERS' Association has completed arrangements for its second annual banquet, to be held Tuesday, April 20, at the new Broadway-Claremont, Broadway and 135th st. An attendance of 500 is expected.

A PUBLIC DISCUSSION on the Lockwood-Ellenbogen bill for the consolidation of various bureaus concerned in building inspection, will be held under the auspices of the Broadway Association, at the Hotel Martinique, Broadway and 32d st, on Wednesday evening, March 24.

THE LOAN of $450,000 at 4½ per cent. on the Temple Beth-El property at 5th av and 76th st, recently reported placed by Charles F. Noyes Co., was recorded Tuesday by assignment of existing mortgages of the above amount by the Equitable Life Assurance Society to the Seamen's Bank for Savings.

BRONXVILLE will retain the name of Bronxville for at least another year. A movement was begun to change the name to Gramatan and the proposition was to be voted on at the annual election this week. A defect in the petition for submitting the proposition to the voters made its withdrawal necessary.

O'REILLY & DAHN negotiated for Bing & Bing the sale of 946 Hoe av, a 5-sty apartment house, 50x100, to Henry Bennett. The purchaser gave in part payment 73 West 126th st and No. 41 West 113th st, two 3-sty dwellings. O'Reilly & Dahn have been appointed agents for the Hoe av property.

AN INTERESTING Hoboken lease has been recorded which shows the marked influence of the European war upon waterfront rental values. Claus Botjer leased to Theodore Renneberg the hotel property at 316 River st, for five years from June 1, 1916, at $1,800 a year, until the termination of the war, when the rent will be raised to $2,400.

IRVING JUDIS, president of the Hilliard Construction Co., has resold the W. Bourke Cockran mansion at the corner of O and 16th av, Washington, D. C. The property which was held at $125,000 was acquired recently by Mr. Judis in an exchange with Mr. Cockran for the Washington Mansion apartments at Fort Washington av and 161st st.

WM. A. WHITE & SONS have leased for their own occupancy the twelfth floor of the Continental Building at 46 Cedar st. They are moving in order to obtain a large increase in space and because their present quarters at 62 Cedar st, where they have been located for ten years, will be required in connection with the Federal Reserve Bank from May 1.

EQUITABLE LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY has announced that its various departments, now at 165 Broadway and 2 Albany st, will be housed next month at its permanent home in the new Equitable Building, at 120 Broadway, where the 6th, 7th and parts of the 8th and 9th floors have been leased from the Equitable Office Building Corporation.

EUGENE J. BUSHER has placed for Caroline Gareiss a first mortgage loan of $5,000 for three years at 5 per cent., on the plot 70x75, at the northeast corner of Cypress av and 132d st, and for David F. Hanigar a first mortgage loan of $4,000 at 6 per cent. for three years on the plot 100x100 on the west side of Hull av, 125 ft. south of 209th st.

HOPKINS & BOYD were the brokers in the lease, reported last week, by the Pinkney estate to the Fort Lee Ferry Market Co., of part of the triangular block bounded by Broadway, 129th st and Manhattan st. The lease involves that section of the block fronting 132.10 on Broadway, 164.6 in Manhattan st and 116.7 in 129th st. The small plot to the west was not included in the lease.

BERNARD COHEN purchased from Elizabeth Schwein, of Rockaway, L. I., 44 7th st, a 4-sty mercantile building, adjoining his holdings at the southwest corner of 2d av and 7th st. With this last purchase Mr. Cohen now controls a plottage fronting 50 ft. on 2d av, with a depth of 125 ft. in the street. Extensive alterations will be undertaken on both buildings. The broker was John J. Schmuckler.

ADVISORY COUNCIL of Real Estate Interests announces the election of Edmund L. Baylies, William M. Ivins and William R. Willcox to its board of counsel, and Burt L. Fenner, architect; Charles E. Knox, engineer, and Daniel E. Moran, engineer, to its advisory staff of experts. Frank Pattison, engineer, and Evarts Tracy, architect, have also been elected to the industrial code committee of the council, which is also comprised of Julius Franke and Louis J. Horowitz.

SMITH & PHELPS have placed a 1st mortgage loan of $7,000 on the vacant plot 100x100 at the northwest corner of 166th st and Woodycrest av. The same brokers also sold the 1st mortgage of $4,000, on the plot 51.9x103, in the north side of 198th st, 51.9 ft. west of Grand Elvd. and Concourse.

AT A MEETING of the board of directors of the New York Mortgage and Security Co., held March 16th, the following board of officers was elected for the ensuing year: President, Harry A. Kahler; vice-presidents, Cyril H. Burdett, Henry S. Acken; secretary, Frank L. Cooke; treasurer, Gerhard Kuehne, and assistant treasurer, Hubert F. Breitweiser. The following members of the executive committee were re-elected; Edward M. Burghard, William F. Clare, James A. Deering, William E. Harmon, Morgan J. O'Brien and George Zabriskie.

ALBERT B. ASHFORTH, INC., has opened an office in the Bankers' Trust Co. Building, 14 Wall st, which is in charge of Waldron P. Belknap, one of the directors of the company. This office is to be the headquarters of the mortgage and insurance departments. Richard A. Anthony, formerly at 128 Broadway, and Newton B. Phelps, for many years with the Chemical National Bank, are to be managers of the mortgage department. Beekman Hunt, manager of the insurance department for two years, will continue in that capacity.

COMMITTEE ON NOMINATIONS of the Chamber of Commerce of the Borough of Queens, Harry P. Williams, chairman, will make the following report of nominations for officers and directors of the Chamber to be elected at the annual meeting in April: President, Charles G. M. Thomas, of Flushing; Vice Presidents, George J. Ryan, of Long Island City, and John Adikes, of Jamaica; Treasurer, William J. Hamilton of Corona, and Directors, Robert W. Highie, W. H. Williams, William Brewster, Michael J. Degnan and Frank de Hass Simonson.

FIRST MORTGAGE GUARANTEE CO. of New York at its annual meeting last week elected new officers and a board of directors. The new officers are: William H. Williams, president; Clinton R. James, vice-president; H. Pushae Williams, treasurer, and Arvine C. Leach, secretary. The new directors are W. H. Williams, J. A. Wiemore, C. R. James, Cyril Crimmins, Stewart W. Eames, Charles F. Jones, E. Covert Hulst, J. A. Leach, Daniel M. Brady, H. P. Williams, J. J. Halleran, J. F. James, Morgan J. O'Brien, Jr., Samuel Riker, Jr., W. Elmer Payntar, Paul Bonynge, Joseph T. McMahon and Jules S. Bache.

A COMPARISON of the business transacted in the Register's office of Bronx County shows, that for the months of January and February, 1914—the first official year of Bronx County—the number of mortgages, conveyances, chattel mortgages and satisfaction of mortgages amounted to 5,856, while for January and February of this year, the recorded instruments totaled 6,761, an increase of 905. The mortgage tax indebtedness for January and February was $3,447,435.00. Consideration of conveyances up to March 4, $1,057,991.00; mortgage extensions, $2,595,635.00, and folios recorded, 16,734. The fees received amounted to $23,223.62, while the expenses were $15,552.91, leaving a surplus of $7,670.71.

FOLLOWING the announcement in the Record and Guide on Feb. 20, that Newark Factory Sites, Inc., had been formed to take over the Hackensack meadows, it was learned that a deed had been recorded last week whereby the corporation acquired title to eleven tracts of meadow lands, containing 3,493 acres, located in Hudson and Bergen counties, N. J. The property sold consists of all the meadows lying between the Hackensack and Passaic rivers and extending from the Newark and New York Railroad on the south to Saw Mill Creek on the north. The consideration was nominal, but the deed had revenue stamps attached to the value of $2,000, which would indicate a consideration of $2,000,000.

AUCTION SALES OF WEEK.

Except where otherwise stated, the properties offered were in foreclosure. Adjournments of legal sales to next week are noted under Advertised Legal Sales.

*Indicates that the property described was bid in for the plaintiff's account.

The Auction Market.

Auction room offerings next week will be many and varied, with practically every class of property represented. Among the loft buildings to be offered, as the result of foreclosure proceedings, are the eleven-story 85 Fifth avenue, the seven-story 120 West 31st street, the six-story 413-415 West Broadway and the three-story 3 Lispenard street. Apartment houses include 1969 Amsterdam avenue, 815 West 179th street and 164 West 146th street. In the Bronx, a number of unimproved parcels are to be offered.

BUILDING MANAGEMENT

ELECTRIC POWER IN LOFTS

By J. P. MALLETT, Society for Electrical Development

Conducted by Raymond P. Roberts, Building Manager for The American Real Estate Co.

LET us consider an empty loft about to be fitted up with the necessary machinery for making some article which might be readily manufactured in such a place. In all probability the building was not designed for manufacturing purposes, or at least for the operation of large or heavy machinery, but perhaps on account of business shifting from one center to another, this loft has become a prospective place for a manufacturing plant. We will assume that the articles to be manufactured are comparatively small and that the machine tools required would be small in size, although quite large in number.

The problem is, how are we going to provide power for driving the necessary machines? The use of a steam or gas engine (for such a purpose) in a loft is practically out of the question.

Practical Motive Power.

Electricity seems to be the most practical power that makes such a place possible for manufacturing purposes, because it can be readily transmitted to the desired point and can be used for so many purposes and in such a flexible manner that it meets all requirements.

How shall the electric power be applied? That will depend not only upon the work to be done to a large extent, but also in the cost of installation.

I wish to set forth some of the real advantages of the individual motor-drive of machines for a loft.

It is well to consider that the loft may only be a temporary location for your shop, consequently it would not be advisable to expend more money than necessary on the building in fitting it up for your work. Rather make the machines to be installed as completely equipped and self-contained as practicable, so that they can be placed where the work required can be done most efficiently, without reference to location of a line shaft and with less expense and loss of time in fitting up the loft. If each machine has its own motive power and controlling device (all of which is a very simple matter) there is nothing to do but place the machine where desired, bolt it down, connect the electric wires to the controlling device and the machine is ready for operation.

No Overhead Belts.

If at any time you wish to change the location of a machine, this can be done readily and quickly with little expense. There will also be no overhead belts, pulleys, hangers and shafting to obstruct the light. Each machine is a small independent unit that may be located and operated by itself or be made one of a compact group.

I cannot imagine a more ideal method of drive for machines in a loft. Consider the simplicity of installation and the ease in changing the location of the machines.

Now as to operation, there are several points of advantage in the use of this method. The amount of power consumed will be the least possible; the convenience of operation will be enhanced; the amount of material manufactured will be greater.

Effect on the Operator.

The effect on the operator is a phase of the proposition which is not often sufficiently considered as one of the most important. The attitude of the workmen making up the organization will be greatly improved by their having the best tools to work with under best conditions. Only in this way can the best results be expected and a contented organization easily maintain itself—men do not want to leave such a place.

J. P. MALLETT.

The operating features of the individual motor-drive appear to be unsurpassed, and the cost of maintenance should not exceed that of any other method of drive.

First Cost to Be Considered.

There is perhaps no other factor to consider except the first cost of the tools. A machine tool with motor and controller attached will usually cost more than the same tool without the motor and controller, and the difference in cost will be the cost of the motor and controller less the cost of the usual countershaft, pulleys, belt and belt-shifting device, as would be furnished with the tool ordinarily for belt-drive. It can be seen that there should not be a very great difference in the cost of the tool, whether equipped with motor and controller or with auxiliaries for belt-drive, and this difference in cost is still further reduced when the decreased cost of installing the motor-driven tool is considered. The difference will not be a fixed amount as it would vary with the capacity of motor required and therefore cannot be definitely stated here, but can be easily determined when the conditions are known.

It is advisable to buy the tool equipped with motor and controller as the machine tool manufacturer will best know the proper motor and controller to use, and will mount them on the tool in the best manner, but if you have machine tools of the belted type, you can quite readily attach a motor.

Supplying Current.

In order to supply the electric current for driving these various motors and tools, bring the outside supply circuit to the distributing switchboard in the loft which may be very simple, containing the main supply switch and as many distributing switches as may be found advisable to provide distributing circuits throughout the loft, the necessary overload devices and such meters as desired.

The distributing circuits should be arranged and supported so as not to interfere with the overhead space on account of appearance, obstruction of the light and interference in handling material.

If it is found desirable to support the main distributing circuits on the ceiling, it is usually found desirable to bring the leads to the individual motor down some post or wall, so that the connection to the motor or controller may be from below in such a manner as not to obstruct the space above the floor space.

All features of the electric installation should comply with the rules and regulations of the National Board of Fire Underwriters as well as the State Laws and City Ordinances. See some standard handbook on wiring for details.

Individual Drive the Best.

If one cannot use the individual motor-drive, the next best system is the group-drive where a certain number of tools of similar type and class of work is grouped together and driven through line shaft and belts by a single motor, and the next method would be to drive all machines in the loft by one motor through line shafts and belts. Either of the last two methods would allow the use of electric current for power in the loft, but when using a good power, get all the advantages you can by its use. The individual motor-drive for machine tools is the ideal and comes as near the mark as most propositions will allow.

PREPARATION OF TAX MAPS.

The System Followed by the New York Tax Department.

At the time the City of New York as now constituted was created in 1898 by the consolidation of the cities of New York, Brooklyn, Long Island City and other municipalities, the Department of Taxes and Assessments was created, and it was made the custodian of all books, maps, assessment rolls, files and records relating to assessments which were in use in any of the municipal corporations consolidated. Prior to consolidation in a large part of the territory there were no tax maps at all, says a departmental report.

Assessments were made as in most country towns throughout the State of New York today by arranging in alphabetical order the names of the owners of real estate and opposite the name of each owner a description of the various parcels of land owned by him. By the Charter, which applied to the consolidated city, it was provided that assessments thereafter should be in rem, that is to say, against the land itself and not against the owner by name.

It became necessary, therefore, to provide tax maps wherever they did not exist, and the Charter gave broad general powers for the making of such tax maps and for assessment against the property itself. The Deputy Tax Commissioners were required by the Charter to assess each parcel of real estate, giving "Street, lot, ward, town and map number of such real estate embraced within their districts, together with the name of the owner or occupant if known." The Department of Taxes and Assessments was required to appoint a surveyor whose duty it should be to make necessary surveys and corrections of the ward maps and also to make all new maps which might be required for the more accurate assessment of real estate within the territory of the city.

Recording and Indexing.

In the old City of New York there had been instituted by Chapter 166 of the Laws of 1890 a system of recording and indexing instruments affecting land. In substance this system was established for the assessment of real estate by Chapter 542 of the Laws of 1892. This latter chapter provided for tax maps upon which are exhibited in sections and section numbers, block and block numbers, the separate lots or parcels of land taxed within each of the blocks. It is provided that the block once established shall not be changed unless it may be absolutely necessary by reason of changes in the boundary lines. By the act of consolidation Chapter 542 of the Laws of 1892 was extended to apply to the whole city, but it was not made incumbent upon the Tax Department to establish the permanent tax maps required by this act immediately. The actual procedure adopted was to make what are called tentative maps for the suburban territory wherever no maps existed, and to use the maps formerly in use wherever they were reasonably adequate for the purpose.

Since consolidation the permanent tax maps have gradually been made, until today all of the Borough of Brooklyn is permanently mapped and all of the Bronx west of the Bronx River. As yet Queens and Richmond have tentative maps. Permanent maps will not be made in any section until the location of streets has been definitely determined, so that blocks may be laid out with a reasonable prospect that they may continue unchanged indefinitely. The permanent maps are made on a scale of fifty feet to the inch, but the tentative maps covering territory held in large parcels, much of it farm land, are made on a smaller scale, and the scale varies somewhat, being from eighty to two hundred feet to the inch.

The division on the permanent map into sections as well as into blocks and lots is advantageous among other reasons for the publication of statistics. The block is so small in area and the number of blocks is so large that comparison of assessment of areas requires a division into larger areas than are contained in blocks. The ordinary block contains about 160,000 square feet, being usually about 200x800 feet. The block must always be bounded by permanent streets or waterfront.

Lot and Block Numbers.

The lots within a block are numbered consecutively, commencing at the lower left hand corner looking north; starting at that point the lots are numbered consecutively from west to east, then north, then west, then south to the place of beginning. If there is but one lot within the block it bears the number one. If, thereafter, a small parcel is carved out of the block, it is not necessarily numbered two, but receives the number which it would be likely to receive if the whole block were cut into standard lots.

If a block is divided into lots of about standard size and the lots are numbered consecutively and thereafter one of the lots is divided, the part of the lot on the side of the lower number retains the old number and the new lot is designated by the same number with a fraction, or the old number with the addition of a letter. When two lots are consolidated, the higher number is dropped.

As changes occur in lot divisions, the tax maps are altered by the use of different colored ink and the addition of the year for which the alteration is made. If two lots are consolidated, the dividing line is crossed out by small crosses, a dotted line is drawn in the street in front of the lots in a semicircle to indicate the consolidation, and at the center of that dotted line is inserted the year date. If a new lot is carved out of an old one, the new division line is made with a different colored ink and opposite the line the year date is inserted. The tentative tax maps usually have very much larger divisions than the permanent tax maps to avoid the use of arbitrary lines and the splitting of parcels held in one ownership.

A territory of considerable area may be designated as a plot, and when that territory is divided the lots are carved out of it and designated by numbers in the same manner as lots are designated within blocks of the size shown on the permanent tax maps. When a territory becomes settled and the permanent street layout is determined, the permanent tax maps are extended over the territory formerly covered by the tentative tax maps, the large plot is cut into blocks, and those blocks again into lots. When such a change is made, cross indices are prepared, so that the lots shown on the tentative maps may be readily identified with the lots shown on the permanent tax maps.

Field Books.

For the use of the Tax Department there are two sets of maps, one set which is preserved in the offices of the several boroughs, and another set for the use of the Deputy Tax Commissioners to carry with them in the field. The field maps are bound in volumes of just half the size of the office maps. In the front of the map volumes is placed a key map made to a scale of from three hundred to seven hundred feet to the inch, showing all of the territory comprised within that volume. The length of all boundary lines is shown on the maps in feet and inches, and on valuable lots of irregular shape the area is shown in square feet. On larger parcels the area is shown in lots or acres.

As the tax maps are the basis of the assessment of real estate, it is above all things necessary that they shall be accurate. The Charter provides in reference to the assessment roll that real estate shall be described therein by the numbers by which such property is designated on the tax maps and in the annual record of assessed valuations, and such numbers shall import into the assessment roll of real estate any necessary identifying description shown by the tax maps.

METAL LATH PARTITIONS.

A Report from the Fire Prevention Committee of New York Chapter.

A report of certain fire and water tests, made at the Columbia Testing Station, New York, has been made the subject of an interesting notice by the Committee on Fire Prevention of New York Chapter of Architects, of which committee Julius Franke is chairman. The test was conducted by James S. Macgregor, M. S., of Columbia University, on July 17, 1914, on metal-lath partitions erected by the Associated Metal Lath Manufacturers. In a report to the American Institute of Architects, as printed in the official journal, Mr. Franke says:

"Metal-lath-plastered partitions generally have not been classified by fire-prevention experts as being equal to the ordinary brick or terra cotta block partitions; but, from certain tests, it would appear they are very efficient for some particular conditions, although there is grave doubt whether they ever will be considered as affording what is known as 'full protection,' according to the standard of the National Fire Protection Association or the British Fire Prevention Committee.

"Ordinary brick or terra-cotta-block partitions, from tests reported, seem to withstand from 1,700 degrees F. (100 minutes to 2,000 degrees F.) four hours, as against metal lath which, from reports, appears to vary from 1,200 degrees for 28 minutes to 1,700 degrees for one and one-half hours.

"The foregoing figures are derived from certain tests made in England by the British Fire Prevention Committee.

"In 1904, Prof. Ira H. Woolson made tests at Columbia University of metal-lath-plastered partitions which show approximately 1,670 degrees F. for two hours.

"A very elaborate set of tests was made at Cleveland in 1914, under the direction of Mr. Virgil D. Allen, City Inspector of Buildings, which showed about 1,700 degrees F. for two hours.

"Mr. Macgregor's tests at Columbia University above referred to showed 1,700 degrees for four hours. This is truly a remarkable showing, but it would not be advisable to give too much credit to metal-lath-plastered partitions, because of this one test. Judgment should be suspended until more tests are made and details and specifications are worked out, as more depends upon the workmanship and material of this kind of partition than of the ordinary brick or fireproof block partitions.

"On this subject it is worth mentioning that the Underwriters' laboratories in Chicago are preparing to make a series of tests for partitions as follows:

"First—Partitions for the inclosure of vertical communications through buildings.

"Second—Partitions for the division of the area of fireproof buildings.

"Third—Corridor and room partitions.

"It appears to be the opinion of the chief engineer of the laboratories that the metal-lath-partition, constructed in accordance with proper specifications, would probably qualify under the third classification."

More Complete Plans and Specifications.

We often hear contractors complain that architects' plans and specifications are contradictory, incomplete, and a number of other things, says the Quantity Surveyor, and the architect is blamed, even by those of his own profession. To this cause is attributed many of the evils from which the building community suffer. Few persons, however, admitting that some of this is true, ever stop to consider the reason just why such conditions exist. We are inclined to think it very seldom arises from downright professional incompetence.

Some of it arises probably through negligence, some through accepting work at a fee which makes it unprofitable for the architect to go to the trouble of making proper contract documents. The owners, of course, suffer for this, but it would be a farce to extend to them the least sympathy. They may have sought to get their work done at a low fee, too low for their own good or for the good of anyone concerned. Most of these alleged defects arise through the undue speed which so many owners seem to insist upon.

Now an estimate of the cost of a building cannot be accurate without accurate quantities. That much must be admitted. Accurate quantities on the other hand cannot be prepared from inaccurate or doubtful plans and specifications. It stands to reason therefore that among the many advantages which the quantity system has over our present practices, the greatest perhaps are the great saving of time, greater accuracy in figuring, and last, but by no means least, the undeniable fact that the drawings and specifications must be complete and entirely free from the before-mentioned alleged objections. No competent professional quantity surveyor would risk his reputation and his living, by winking at or overlooking incompleteness and uncertainty.

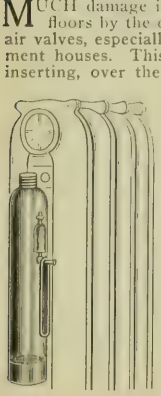
With plans, specifications and details as perfect as the human brain can make them, many, if not all the pernicious conditions existing now will disappear. This is a fact which might well be considered by those who are as yet undecided as to the merits of the quantity system and under which absolutely complete plans and specifications are essential. It will be obvious that the raising of the standard of the finished drawings and specifications will discourage the cutting of fees by a certain class of architects.

Where Ceilings Count.

The landlord was very seriously disturbed by the final clause which the prospective tenant insisted upon writing into his lease.

"Decorate the ceiling every six months!" he exclaimed. "Ridiculous! I never had such a request from any other tenant and many of them have been unreasonable enough, heaven knows."

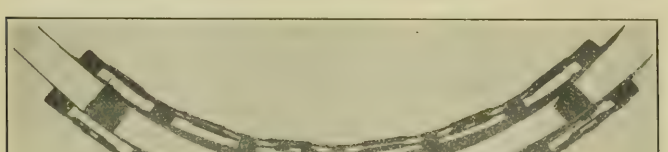
"May be none of them was a barber," said the tenant. "I am. The ceilings of ordinary trades people don't count for much because nobody is going to spend much time staring up at them. With a barber it is different. The average man spends a good deal of time every year looking up at some barber's ceiling, and the least the barber can do to make it tolerable for him is to give him something interesting to look at. I have known men to change barbers just because they got tired of staring at the same old ceiling. May be you have changed on that account yourself before now."



And the landlord fell for it?—Real Estate Bulletin.

USEFUL APPLIANCES

Novelties, New Applications of Familiar Devices and the Trend of Invention, Designed to Aid the Architect, Builder and Building Manager, Described Without Regard to Advertising Consideration



Saves Carpets and Floors.

MUCH damage is done to carpets and floors by the dripping from radiator air valves, especially in hotels and apartment houses. This can be remedied by inserting, over the entire valve, a glass receptacle that is being introduced by a Brooklyn concern. The manufacturers say that the device will fit on any radiator air valve, and that it saves work and worry by catching the condensing steam and at the same time allows enough to escape into the room to keep air in the room moist. It deadens the sizzling sound that emanates from the steam jet when the valve is open, and is sanitary, useful and inexpensive. It is made of glass, in one piece. The cut shows how it is applied to the radiator.

An Adjustable Steel Curb Form.

HERE is something that concrete contractors have been looking for. It is an adjustable steel concrete curb form. While it is designed especially for sidewalk, curb and gutter work, it has many other uses in building construction such as forming wheel bases and making curves in hallways where reinforced concrete construction is being used.

The illustration shows the general character of the device which is now being introduced. It is made of spring steel curved by a system of turn buckles and can be adjusted to any radius or a reverse curve. It is said to be as inexpensive in first cost as a wooden one and concrete can be laid by it 2.4 cents cheaper per linear foot than by methods that are now in vogue. The readiness with which the form can be set and dismantled permits the contractor to finish the curved work at the same time that the straight work is completed. Another advantage is found in the fact that in removing the forms after the concrete has set the danger of chipping is eliminated because by merely unscrewing the curb buckles the pressure against the laid work is released simultaneously.

Hints for Soft Coal Burning.

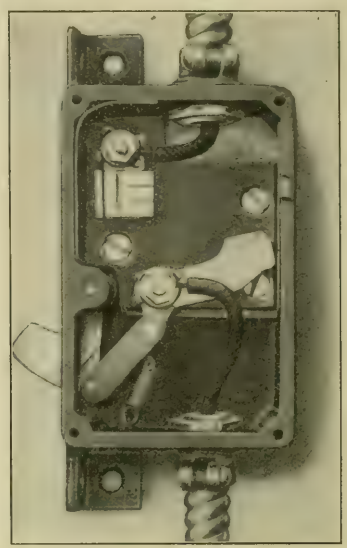
WEN burning bituminous coal under power plant boilers the best results are obtained if the fires are kept level and rather thin, says Technical Paper 80, entitled "Hand Firing Soft Coal Under Power-Plant Boilers," just issued by the United States Bureau of Mines, as a manual for firemen employed in buildings and industrial establishments.

The best thickness is four to ten inches, depending on the character of the coal and the strength of draft. The coal should be fired in small quantities and at short intervals; the fuel bed kept level and in good condition by spreading the fresh coal only over the thin places where the coal tends to burn away and leave the grate bare. Leveling or disturbing the fuel bed in any way should be avoided as much as possible, as it means more work for the fireman and causes the formation of clinker. Furthermore, while the fireman is leveling the fires a large excess of air enters the furnace, and this impairs efficiency.

"The ash-pit door should be kept open and large accumulations of ashes in it avoided, as it may cause uneven distribution of air under the grate. When a coal shows a tendency to clinker, water should be kept in the ash pit. All regulation of draft should be done with the damper and not with the ash-pit doors.

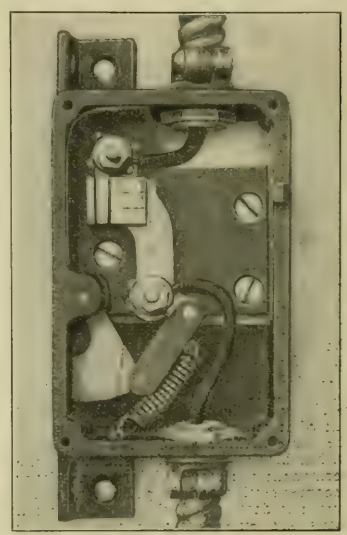
"In firing, place the coal on the thin spots of the fuel bed. Thin and thick spots will occur with the most careful firing, because the coal never burns at a uniform rate over the whole grate area. In places where the air flows freely through the bed the coal burns faster than where the flow of air is less. This variation in the flow of air through different parts of the fuel bed may be due to different sizes of coal, accumulations of clinker, or the fusing of the coal into a hard crust. Where the coal burns rapidly, a thin place forms.

"Before throwing the fresh coal into the furnace note the thin spots, which in a well-kept fire can usually be recognized by the bright hot flame; the thick places showing either a sluggish smoky flame or none at all. In placing the coal on the thin places take a rather small quantity of coal on the scoop, for it is much easier to place the coal where wanted with small shovelfuls. The coal should also be placed in thin layers, because if you fill up the deep hollows in the fuel bed at a single firing, the freshly fired coal may fuse into a hard crust and choke the flow of air, causing the fuel to burn slowly and forming new thin spots. If the high places in the fuel bed are missed on one or two firings the hard crust at the surface will burn through or crack, allowing more air to flow through, and the place will get back to normal condition."



Heating Water With Steam.

LOOKING over the housetops of New York at the waving plumes of steam arising from a myriad of buildings, one cannot help being impressed with the terrific waste that is countenanced by various industries in this city. Apparently this is what the head of a great corporation did recently for he went back to his home up State and devised a system for heating water by the steam that is wasted in large buildings. The exhaust steam is taken from an engine and applied in keeping water hot for tenants, thus cutting down the fuel bill, by getting a double service from the steam generated.



Elevator Safety Assured.

BY the installation of a very simple and inexpensive device positive safety of passengers on passenger elevators is assured. Liability is made remote and efficiency in operation may be expected without menace to the traveling public.

The two cuts presented herewith, show the new device in two stages of operation which is being introduced in this market. It is in the form of an automatic switch control, which makes it possible to operate an elevator car when the door is opened. It has the distinctive feature of being extremely simple in operation and minimizes the number of parts that can get out of order in use. It controls the entire elevator equipment regardless of the size of the buildings, cars or horse-power of motors. It can be applied in any electrically operated elevator, using either direct or alternating current systems. It does not interfere with the safety of the car nor does it in any way alter its operation. It relieves the operators' burdens by giving automatic contingencies. This device has passed an endurance test of 200,000 operations without any mechanical adjustments which is equivalent to two years of hard service. Insulation tests have been as high as 1,000 volts for one consecutive minute without damage in any particular. It has been fully approved by local boards.

The first cut shows the switch open. In this position the circuit controlling the car mechanism is dead and the car cannot move. The second cut shows the control latch pushed in, the switch knife in contact and current at the disposal of the operator. It is invisible to the average observer. Cost of installation is low. It is not a consumer of electric energy.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

Sky Line of West End Avenue Completely Changed Through Erection of Many New High Class Apartments

WEST END AVENUE, between 95th and 100th streets, might well be called one of the busiest sections of the city so far as building operations are concerned. During the last year this thoroughfare has experienced a building boom of no mean proportions and when the general building conditions are considered it would at least be called unusual. Walking along the avenue one is surprised at the number of structures now being erected, as well as those which show evidences of recent completion. Piles of building materials line the sidewalks and curbs and the section seems alive with activity in all branches of building. Modern apartment house construction caused this change and almost every block has at least one structure under construction and one or more recently completed apartment houses.

At the northeast corner of West End avenue and 96th street, the Essie Construction Company, 355 West End avenue, is erecting a twelve-story apartment house costing approximately $600,000. Schwartz & Gross, architects, 347 Fifth avenue, prepared the plans for this structure and F. A. Burdett & Co., 16 East 33d street, were the consulting structural engineers. The front of this building is constructed of buff brick with limestone and terra cotta trimmings. The owners have entire charge of construction and have awarded separate contracts for the various branches of labor and materials. The foundations for this building were awarded to the Underpinning & Foundation Co., 290 Broadway.

All mason work, including setting of terra cotta and cut stone, was included in the contract of the Farber Contracting Co., 747 Fairmount place. Elevators were made and installed by the Neenan Elevator Co., 65 Clymer street, Brooklyn. Wolfinger & Lasberg, 346 Broadway, Manhattan, had a contract for the carpenter work which included trim and cabinet work, glazing, etc.

The cut stone was supplied by the J. H. Young Cut Stone Co., Locust avenue and 136th street, and the architectural terra cotta was furnished by the New Jersey Terra Cotta Co., 149 Broadway. Rapp Construction Co., 30 East 42d street, had the contract for fireproofing and floor arch construction. The ornamental iron work was done by Simons & Mayer, 143 Avenue D, the steam heating installed by the Raisler Heating Co., 129 Amsterdam avenue, and the plumbing and gas fitting by Cully & Co., 160 Old Broadway. The Empire Roofing Co., 138th street near Park avenue, received the roofing contract and the sheet metal work was let to Joseph Zucker, 427 West 41st street. Interior trim and cabinet work was manufactured by the Harlem River Lumber & Woodworking Co., Gerard avenue and 138th street, and the tile for halls and bath-rooms installed by G. Schaille & Son, 664 Oakland place. The electric wiring was awarded to Neilsen Bros., 2580 Briggs avenue, and the plastering to Frank Marell, 35 West 39th street.

Another structure of similar character and designed by the same architects is being erected on the northwest corner of West End avenue and 97th street by the Princeton Construction Co., Isaac Polstein, president, 30 East 42d street. This structure is also twelve stories in height on a plot 120x100 feet. Structural engineers, F. A. Burdett & Co. The owners let separate contracts for various branches of work on this building. Structural steel was fabricated and erected by the Passaic Structural Steel Co., 30 Church street.

The mason work was awarded to the Micweil Co., Inc., 162 East 23d street, and the granite supplied by I. W. & C. Horn Co., 2514 Park avenue. Fireproof arch construction was awarded to the Knickerbocker Fireproofing Co., 56 West 45th street. The steam heating was installed by the Raisler Heating Co., 129 Amsterdam avenue, and the plumbing by Pollack & O'Neil, 3200 Broadway.

Ornamental iron work was made and set by the Perlman Iron Works, 1735 West Farms road, and included elevator inclosures, fire escapes, etc. Elevators were installed by Otis Elevator Co., 26th street and 11th avenue, and fireproof doors furnished by the Consolidated Metal Fireproof Co., Inc., 414 East 125th street. Interior trim and cabinet work was made by Kertscher & Co., 13 Lawrence street; electricians, I. A. Adler & Co., 132 Nassau street; roofing and sheet metal work, Architectural Cornice & Skylight Works, 4077 Park avenue; carpenter work, Solomon Bros., 695 Jackson avenue; tile, J. P. Zurla Tile Co., 157 East 33d street.

During the last two years the skyline of West End avenue has been completely changed by the advent of the modern apartment house. Formerly this avenue was devoted almost exclusively to private dwellings, three or four stories in height, with here and there a five or six story apartment, mainly occupying corner lots Amsterdam avenue and Riverside drive, on the east and west respectively, have for many years been the scene of much apartment house construction, but it is comparatively only lately that West End avenue has experienced the change.

WEST END AVENUE AND 98TH STREET.

Multi-family houses along this thoroughfare are, as a class, well designed and carefully planned and constructed. For the most part they have been erected to a height of nine or ten stories, although the more recent ones, and the ones at present under construction, are generally twelve stories high. Apartments in these houses are arranged in suites of four, five and six rooms with one bath, and some have eight and nine rooms with two baths. As investments these properties apparently pay fair returns to their owners. Houses are well rented and owners have not experienced much difficulty in renting suites in these buildings to a very desirable class of tenants.

BRONX BUILDING PROSPECTS.

A Substantial Increase in Plans Filed Over Last Year's Record.

The records of plans filed in the Bronx Bureau of Buildings for the first two weeks of the current month show that there is no signs of recession in the present building boom predicted months ago by the Realty Bureau of the Bronx Board of Trade; $315,000 more will be expended in building operations than was recorded during the same period last year. The plans filed call for the expenditure of $1,127,575, as against $812,255 during the same period in 1914. The number of new buildings to be erected is 47, the majority of which are apartment houses.

From Jan. 1 to the 15th of March, 1914, the plans filed called for the expenditure of $3,508,818. During the same period of the present year a total of $5,894,177 is shown, this being an increase of the substantial sum of $2,385,359 over 1914; if this rate of increase continues throughout the year, as is confidently expected by the realty operators in the Bronx, the Borough will have over $13,000,000 more expended in building construction than was put into new buildings in the Borough during 1914.

All sections of the Bronx are represented in this building increase. Perhaps the most prominent is around Fordham Heights, where great real estate activity has developed recently.

An Active Bronx Section.

Recent developments in the Bronx are almost entirely in the line of multiple dwellings. In the Fordham section—along the Concourse and on Valentine avenue especially—about twenty-five apartment houses of the non-elevator type are under construction, with others to be started soon. Phelan Brothers, Philip P. Kearns, Horgan Construction Co., Valhalla Construction Co. and the Eberhardt-Rodgers Co. are among the active operators and builders. This section was well started a dozen years ago as a private house section, and up to a recent date was a fruitful field for operations in that style.

New Station for the Bronx.

The Traffic and Waterways Bureau of the Bronx Board of Trade, of which Mr. Olin J. Stephens is chairman, have requested an interview with President Alfred H. Smith of the New York Central in order to urge the immediate commencement of work on the new railroad station to be erected at 149th street. The railroad authorities have signified in a letter to the Bronx Board of Trade their intention to erect the station, but have not up to the present time stated the date when construction will begin.

This station will be, when completed, the third largest railway depot in Greater New York, the Grand Central and the Pennsylvania Terminals alone outranking it in size. Its completion means great things to that section of the Bronx, not only as a great convenience to the traveling public, but as a sure stimulus to the further development of 149th street to the Harlem River. Another interesting feature of the situation is that the Bronx Post Office Building, which Congressman Goulden and Bruckner are working for, will, if secured, in all probability be located across from the railway station.

New Hotel at Jamaica, L. I.

Plans are being prepared in the office of H. T. Jeffrey & Son, architects, 923 Lefferts avenue, Richmond Hill, L. I., for a modern hotel to be erected at Herriman and Shelton avenues, Jamaica, L. I., for Robert E. Adolph, 80 Herriman avenue. The new hotel will be built of brick with limestone trimmings and will be semi-fireproof. It will be three stories in height, with attic and basement, on a plot 64x97 feet. The cost is placed at $125,000, exclusive of land or furnishings. The foundations for this structure have already been awarded to the Richmond Hill Contracting Co., 2124 Jamaica avenue, Richmond Hill, and the architects will soon be ready to consider estimates for the balance of the work.

Marc Eidlitz & Son Awarded Contract.

Marc Eidlitz & Son, 30 East 42d street, have been awarded a general contract to erect an office building upon the site of the old Astor House, at the northwest corner of Broadway and Vesey street. The structure will be owned by the Astor Estate, 23 West 26th street, and will be built from plans prepared by Charles A. Platt, architect, 11 East 24th street. Full details of this project have not been decided upon as yet and it will be some time before active operations can be started.

Brooklyn Churches Award Contracts.

During the week general contracts have been awarded by two Brooklyn churches for the erection of new church buildings. St. Thomas's P. E. Church have contracted with Charles Ward Hall, 140 Nassau street, Manhattan, to erect their new building on Bushwick avenue, between Copper and Moffatt streets, from plans by Hopkins & McEntee, architects, 37 East 28th street. The Sixth Avenue M. E. Church has awarded a contract to Chris Schneider & Son, 1251 De Kalb avenue, Brooklyn, for the construction of their proposed new building at the northeast corner of Sixth avenue and 8th street. Floyd Y. Parsons, 1133 Broadway, Manhattan, prepared the plans for this building. These projects were described at length in the Record and Guide, March 13, 1915.

Addition to Montefiore Home.

A general contract has been awarded to the Hedden Constructon Co., 1 Madison avenue, to erect a pavilion for the Montefiore Home, on Gun Hill road. This structure was planned by Buchman & Fox, 30 East 42d street, and Arnold W. Brunner, 101 Park avenue, associated architects. Plans call for a building four stories in height, with facades of brick and terra cotta designed to harmonize with the buildings already erected. The new structure will cover a plot approximately 150x150 feet. All materials and construction will be fireproof throughout. The cost is estimated at about $200,000.

New Structure for Standard Oil Co.

Turner Construction Co., 11 Broadway, has been awarded a general contract to erect an empty barrel storage building in Long Island City for the Standard Oil Co., 26 Broadway. Plans for this structure were prepared privately. The building will be located in the south side of Duryea street and Newton Creek. It will be built of reinforced concrete, fireproof, three stories in height, upon a plot 65x90x277 feet. The cost is estimated at about $125,000.

Contractor for Chelsea Warehouse.

McDermott & Hanigan, builders, 103 Park avenue, recently were awarded a general contract to erect the new warehouse and garage, at 112-122 West 107th street, for the Chelsea Storage Warehouse, Louis Schramm, president, 426 West 26th street. Wortmann & Braun, architects, 114 East 28th street, prepared the plans from which this structure will be erected. They call for a warehouse nine stories in height and a two-story garage, of absolutely fireproof construction. The cost is given as $100,000. Full details of this project were announced in a recent issue of the Record and Guide.

Contract Awarded for Pratt Residence.

James McWalters & Son, Inc., 1493 Broadway, have been awarded a general contract to build a high-class residence at 7-9 East 61st street for John T. Pratt, lawyer, 43 Exchange place. The plans and specifications for this house were prepared by Charles A. Platt, architect, 11 East 24th street. The structure will be fireproof, five stories in height, with facade of limestone, brick and granite. The structural engineer is E. E. Seelye, 101 Park avenue. This residence will be a noteworthy addition to the number of fine houses recently completed and at present under construction in the Fifth avenue section.

Restaurant for Standard Oil Co.

H. Craig Severance and William Van Alen, architects, 4 West 37th street, filed plans this week for a one-story addition to the Standard Oil Company's sixteen-story office building at 26 Broadway, running through to New street. According to the estimate of the architect the addition will cost $100,000. The additional floor will be used for private dining rooms by the officials and employes of the company. Stairways and elevator shafts will be extended to connect it with the main building. The Standard Oil Building fronts 114 feet on Broadway, 99 feet in New street and has a depth of about 207 feet.

New Building Code Ordinances.

Two new ordinances, to form part of the new Building Code, were introduced in the Board of Aldermen by Chairman McNally of the building committee. The first was one relative to iron and steel (see Record and Guide February 27), and the other relates to the use of wood beams, girders and columns.

NO ARCHITECTS SELECTED.

In this department is published advance information regarding building projects where architects have not as yet been selected.

MANHATTAN.—A. Hamilton & Son, 2490 Tiebout av, owners and builders, contemplate the erection of a 5-sty apartment at the southwest corner of Creston av and Field pl, to cost about $55,000. No architect selected.

BRONX.—J. W. Rowan, 3114 3d av, contemplates the erection of two 5-sty apartments on the east side of Arthur av, 125 ft. south of 180th st. No architect selected.

STATEN ISLAND, N. Y.—Bethlehem Orphans Home, D. Lankenau, president, contemplates the erection of an orphans' home to cost about $100,000. No architect selected.

ARDSLEY-ON-HUDSON, N. Y.—The Village of Ardsley, William C. Lawrence, president, contemplates the erection of a village hall, to cost about $20,000. No architect selected.

WATERTOWN, N. Y.—The Winslow Day Co., 430 Court st, contemplates the erection of a 3-sty reinforced concrete storage building, 50x132 ft., in Morrison st, near Railroad. No architect selected.

RED BANK, N. J.—Trinity Church, Rev. Robert MacKellar, pastor, Maple av, contemplates the erection of a hollow tile and stucco or brick parish house in West Front st. No architect selected.

HAMMOND, N. Y.—The Town of Hammond, A. G. Franklin, town clerk, contemplates the erection of a 2 or 3-sty town hall in Main st, to cost about $25,000. No architect selected.

RIDGEWOOD, N. J.—George W. McIlveen, 27 Beacon av, Jersey City Heights, contemplates the erection of a 2½-sty frame residence at Kathwood Park, to cost about $5,000. No architect selected.

LONG BRANCH, N. J.—The Board of Commissioners of the City of Long Branch, Mayor Bryant Newcomb, chairman of public buildings committee, contemplates the erection of a brick "Independent" fire house on 3d av, near Broadway. Cost about $17,000.

PLANS FIGURING.

APARTMENTS, FLATS & TENEMENTS.

BROOKLYN.—Cohen & Dubenstein, 515 Kent av, owners, are taking bids on subs for a 6-sty tenement, 50x64 ft., in the north side of South 1st st. 150 ft. west of Havemeyer st, from plans by Shampan & Shampan, 772 Broadway, architects. Claremont Iron Works, 12 West 143d st, Manhattan, steel and ornamental iron work. Cost, about $50,000.

DWELLINGS.

NEW CITY, N. Y.—Bids close March 22 for a 2½-sty hollow tile and brick residence here in Rockland county, for F. G. Carnochan, care of architects, Renwick, Aspinwall & Tucker, 320 5th av, Manhattan. Brinley & Holbrook, 156 5th av, Manhattan, landscape architects. Cost, about $50,000.

RIDGEWOOD, N. J.—C. F. Rosborg, 109 Broad st, Manhattan, architect, is taking bids for a 2½-sty frame or hollow tile and stucco residence, 26x44 ft, at Kathwood Park, for Edward Tworger, 40 Brookside av. Cost, about $10,000.

KENSINGTON, L. I.—Henry Otis Chapman, 334 5th av, Manhattan, architect, is taking bids on general contract to close March 23d, for a 2½-sty brick and marble residence, 90x47 ft, and private garage, for Frederick C. Gilsey, care of architect.

WOODBURY, L. I.—Delano & Aldrich, 4 East 39th st, Manhattan, architects, are taking bids for a brick and stucco residence, stable, garage and outbuildings for Victor Morowetz, care of architects.

HOSPITALS AND ASYLUMS.

NORTH BROTHERS ISLAND, N. Y.—Bids will close March 22 at 10.30 a. m. for the 4-sty reinforced concrete pavilions, 25x120 ft, at Riverside Hospital, for the Department of Health. William E. Austin, 46 West 24th st, Manhattan, architect. Cost about $120,000.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.—Bids will close April 2 at 3 p. m. for the 1-sty brick stone-faced post office building for the U. S. Government, Treasury Department. Oscar Wenderoth, Treasury Department, Washington, D. C., supervising architect. Cost, about $120,000.

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

HASBROUCK HEIGHTS, N. J.—Bids will close March 29 at 8 p. m. for the school at the northwest corner of Burton av and Passaic st, for the Board of Education of Hasbrouck Heights. Henry C. Pelton, 8 West 36th st, Manhattan, architect. Cost, about $18,000.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—Bids will close April 6 at 8 p. m. for the 2-sty public high school, 180x190 ft, at Livingston av, Comstock and Belevan sts, for the Board of Education. Alex Merchant, 363 George st, architect. Herman Jackes, care Public Service Co., 759 Broad st, Newark, heating and ventilating engineer. Elwyn E. Seelye, 101 Park av, Manhattan, structural engineer. Cost about $150,000.

WEST NEW BRIGHTON, S. I.—Fred L. Metcalf, 143 North av, Plainfield, architect, is taking bids for a 2-sty parochial school, 130x190 ft, for the church of the Sacred Heart, Rev. Father W. C. Poole, pastor. Cost about $100,000.

STORES, OFFICES AND LOFTS.

PORT RICHMOND, S. I.—Frank Quinby, 99 Nassau st, Manhattan, architect, is ready for bids on general contract for a 3-sty brick and reinforced concrete office building, for the National Lead Co., 111 Broadway, Manhattan.

TOWN OF UNION, N. J.—William H. McElfatrick, 701 7th av, Manhattan, architect, is taking bids on general contract for a 2-sty cafe and restaurant, store, theatre and dance hall, 129x180 ft., at Hackensack Plank rd and Bergenline av, for Carl F. Michelfelder Enterprises, 86 Park st, Montclair, N. J. Cost, about $100,000.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ROSEBANK, S. I.—Bids will close March 31 at 11:30 a. m. for the construction of an animal building at Quarantine Station, for Port of New York. Lewis F. Pilcher, Capitol, Albany, architect.

MT. PLEASANT, N. Y.—Bids will close March 23 at 11 a. m. for six superstructures here for the City of New York Board of Water Supply, Municipal Building, Manhattan. York & Sawyer, 50 East 41st st, Manhattan, architects. J. Waldo Smith, care of owner, chief engineer. Cost, about $200,000.

CONTEMPLATED CONSTRUCTION.

Manhattan.

APARTMENTS, FLATS & TENEMENTS.

HAVEN AV.—Goldner & Goldberg, 391 East 149th st, are preparing plans for three 5-sty apartments on the east side of Haven av, between 178th and 179th sts, for the Nevah Construction Co., Jos. Reiss, president, 5099 Bryant av. Cost, about $65,000 each.

WEST END AV.—Neville & Bagge, 105 West 40th st, are preparing plans for a 12-sty apartment at 321-329 West End av, and 303-307 West 75th st, for the Charmion Construction Co, 2309 Broadway, owner and builder. Cost about $500,000.

RIVERSIDE DR.—Young & Wagner, 1204 Broadway, have completed plans for a 6-sty apartment at the northeast corner of Riverside drive and 161st st, for the Melvin Construction Co., 189 Broadway. Cost, about $600,000.

Corr-Mesh Roof—Canadian Steel Foundries, Welland, Ont.

Another Economy

For permanent, strong, light walls and roofs of industrial buildings—fireproof, low insurance rates, low cost of construction:

CORR-MESH

—an economical and safe reinforcing material for concrete walls, partitions, floors and roofs of factory buildings.

Corr-Mesh comes in sheets. For walls, it is fastened to the frame work of the building and cement mortar applied inside and out. Saves cost of labor and studding. The job is quickly done at about half the cost of brick.

For roofs it permits a thin slab construction, reducing the weight on the supporting steel frame, and saves nearly all the cost of centering.

Corr-Mesh is a stiff-ribbed one-piece expanded metal. The ribs are ¾-inch high, and spaced every 3¼ inches, giving strength to the reinforcement. No extra studding required.

Our materials and engineering skill have been used in more than $100,000,000 worth of Buildings in the past 24 years. They are at your service. Write us. We are glad to work with you and your architect upon your building problems.

CARL HAUG & SONS, architects, have moved their offices from the Fuller-Girvan building to the Hardin & Wheeler building, Little Falls, N. Y.

JAMES H. HUGHES, formerly secretary of E. B. Latham & Co., electrical supplies, has become manager of the Alpha Electric Co., Inc., 116 West 29th st.

LONG & MILLER, consulting engineers, have moved their offices from 172 Fulton st to the Park Row Building, 13-21 Park Row. Telephone, Cortlandt 4088.

THATCHER FURNACE CO., manufacturer of boilers and warm air heaters, has moved its main offices and show rooms from 110 Beekman st to 131-137 West 35th st.

KENNEDY VALVE CO., Elmira, N. Y., will move its New York office about May 1 from 57 Beekman st to 81 John st. Thomas F. Cushing, New York manager.

THE BEERS SALES COMPANY has moved its offices from Bridgeport, Conn., to 1 Hudson st, New York city. The company is the exclusive general sales agent for the Lyhne lamp and the Beers lantern.

CHARLES S. ALLEN, interior decorator, 489 Fifth av, has increased his facilities for doing business and intends to extend his field of operation, including general contracting, interior decorating and furnishing.

CHARLES K. MOTL, architect, has opened an office for the practice of his profession at 117 Fort st, West Detroit, Mich., and desires catalogues and samples from manufacturers interested in the building trades.

CHARLES G. LORING, architect, is practicing his profession at 77 Water st, Boston, Mass. Mr. Loring, who was formerly located at 11 East 24th st, Manhattan, is a graduate of Harvard University and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

CULLEN & CHAMBRE CONSTRUCTION CO., steel construction, is now doing business with offices at 1 Broadway. Mr. Cullen was formerly connected with the Cullen Transportation Co. and Mr. Chambre was lately associated with Terry & Tench, engineers and contractors for structural steel.

RICHARD ARNOLD FISHER, Hubert G. Ripley and Addison B. Le Boutillier have formed a partnership for the joint practice of architecture under the firm name of Fisher, Ripley & Le Boutillier, and have opened offices at 101 Tremont st, Boston, Mass. After May 1 the firm will be located at 45 Bromfield st.

THE EMPIRE CITY-GERARD COMPANY, makers of fine interior trim, window frames sash, doors and mouldings, which has been located for several years at 40 and 42 East 22d st, recently moved its offices to Greenpoint av and Provost st, Brooklyn. The factory has been located on this site for several decades.

ISAAC HARBY, formerly with Bing & Bing and E. Brooks & Co., Ludlow L. Melius, of the Spuyten Duyvil Construction Co., and Louis W. Abrons, of the Perth Construction Co., have organized under the firm name of Harby, Abrons & Melius, Inc., for the purpose of general contracting and building construction. The officers of the new firm are Isaac Harby, president; Ludlow L. Melius, vice-president; and Louis W. Abrons, secretary and treasurer.

OBITUARY

BENJAMIN PACE, a general contractor, died of pneumonia at his home, 1326 62d st, Brooklyn, Wednesday, March 17. Born in Palermo, Italy, he was sixty-three years old and was a member of the Lefferts Park Mutual Aid Society. He leaves his widow and two sons.

NATHANIEL L. BRADLEY, president of the Bradley & Hubbard Company, of Meriden, Conn., manufacturers of gas and electrical fixtures, died at his home of apoplexy Monday, March 15. Mr. Bradley was eighty-four years old. He is survived by his widow and one son.

SAMUEL B. SNOOK, of the firm of J. B. Snook Sons, architects, 261 Broadway, died at his home in Upper Montclair, N. J., Saturday, March 13. Mr. Snook was born in New York City fifty-seven years ago and was educated in the city. The firm of J. B. Snook Sons is one of the oldest architectural firms in the city, having been founded in 1837 by J. B. Snook, father of the late Samuel B. Snook. Notable among the older buildings designed by the founder of the firm were the Old Grand Central Terminal and Vanderbilt twin houses on Fifth avenue. Samuel B. Snook designed and supervised the construction of the Stern Building in 42d st, All Angels' Church, West End av and 81st st, and the Brooklyn Tabernacle, which was destroyed by fire and never rebuilt. Mr. Snook was a fellow of the American Institute of Architects. He is survived by his widow and a son.

CHICAGO ARCHITECTURAL EXHIBITION, given jointly by the Chicago Architectural Club, Illinois Society of Architects, the Illinois Chapter, American Institute of Architects and the Art Institute of Chicago, will be held in the galleries of the Art Institute of Chicago, April 8 to 28.

BUILDING MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

GENERALLY IMPROVING TONE TO CEMENT MARKET—LEHIGH MILLS THROW IN 100 ADDITIONAL KILNS—ONE FIRM ADVANCES

Dealers Say Price War is Holding Back Building Season—Steel Firm

BUILDERS contemplating construction this spring are finding a stiffening tendency in quotations. One of the leading Portland cement manufacturers this week made a quotation of eighty cents mill for cement deliveries later than July 1, while another equally large concern quoted seventy-five cents, mill, to job in city on present day business. The existing mill price in the Lehigh Valley district is fifty-eight cents, base, to dealer.

In this commodity there is a marked change for the better in demand. Three months ago there were 60 valley kilns in service. Today there are 160. The Atlas Company's Lehigh plant was using thirty-two kilns this week as against eighteen last. The Nazareth Company was operating six kilns, the Alpha Company was using extra capacity, the Lehigh Company was employing one hundred per cent. capacity, the Vulcanite Company was shipping on the average of twenty carloads of material a day, the Alsen's Company in the Hudson district was using four kilns and will throw in two more at least, next week and other companies now closed for repairs are preparing to get under way as soon as possible.

Users of Portland cement, as well as dealers, will do well to prepare for a continued advancement in price just as soon as the five-cent advance made this week, by the Allentown Company, has had time to show the strength of the move. The prediction is made, by those whose opinion is worth knowing, that by August, the mill price of Portland cement in the valley will be around a dollar a barrel, making the price here in this market about $1.65, whereas it is being quoted on spot delivery to dealers today at $1.23 to $1.28.

Dealers themselves are anxious for the market to become stable as the existing condition of things has seriously upset purchasing calculations and has disturbed consumers who are holding off for lower prices and are thus delaying the building season. It is still a question whether the purposes of the late price war have been achieved, but dealers are freely assuring their customers that advances in prices are much more likely to occur than cuts and they point to the quotation this week of the Allentown Company to prove the statement.

Perth Amboy, Mattawan and Sayreville brick districts are getting ready for open yard brick manufacture. The frost is not yet entirely out of the ground so that the yards cannot be worked, but they are mining clay in large quantities and are preparing for approximately a 60 per cent. output for 1915, based upon present building calculations and the amount of unsold brick still in sheds. The Hudson River district, where there are 119 plants supplying the requirements of the New York market, still has a large supply unsold in sheds. The dealers in New York have been giving every inch of available space to cement and so brick riding has been from barge direct to jobs according to requirements. This has kept the wholesale price down to $5.75 a thousand. This price is extremely low.

Plan filings everywhere in the district show a gain for the week just closed of approximately 4.8 per cent. over the week before and a gain of 2.1 per cent. over the same week last year. This is a computation of New York, the five eastern counties of New Jersey and Westchester County. Filings in the five boroughs of New York this week follow. In the corresponding week last year there were 272 plans filed with an estimated value of $3,318,385.

DEALERS RE-ELECT HOWLAND.

For Thirteenth Time Well-Known Supply Man Holds Presidency.

FRANCIS N. HOWLAND, of the firm of Candee, Smith & Howland, was re-elected president of the Association of Dealers in Masons' Building Materials at the annual meeting held at 18 Broadway on Thursday. It marked the thirteenth consecutive time that he has been chosen to fill the chair in this important organization. Other officers elected were: William H. Schmohl, vice-president; Nathan Peck, treasurer, and this board of directors: Francis N. Howland, William H. Schmohl, Nathan Peck, John H. Mahnken, William K. Hammond, James E. Clonin, William H. Barnes, Ernst Braun, Wright D. Goss, John C. McNamara, John J. Bell, Andrew J. Brislin, Stephen V. Duffy, Frank E. Wise and F. D. Creamer. Walter Schultz of the New Jersey Mason Material Dealers' Association addressed the meeting, following a dinner served by Delmonico, on "The Value of Association Work." The meeting informally discussed the lighterage and cement situations in this city, but took no action beyond appointing a committee to confer with cement manufacturers. President Howland will announce the names of the committee later.

PORTLAND CEMENT.

Allentown Denies Cut After Advancing Price.

WHAT seemed to be the first step looking toward general price improvement in the cement situation here developed on Wednesday when Fredenburg & Lounsbury sent out to the trade notices to the effect that quotations for Allentown Portland cement in the metropolitan district would be $1.28 a barrel, after March 18. Both the agents here and the office at Allentown denied vigorously that there had been a cut to $1.10, as reported on the very date preceding that on which the advance was to take place. An officer of the Allentown company said:

"I have no knowledge what the action of the other companies will be in the matter of price quotations. I do know that the Allentown Company has decided to take this stand because of the increased demand for Portland cement, as shown by the heavy shipments in February. When demand improves naturally one would expect prices to advance."

Speaking of the situation regarding the outlook for his company William P. Corbett, secretary and general manager of the Alsen Portland Cement Co., made this statement:

"We are preparing to run our plant at heavier capacity—in fact have started. We have not shut down our plant at all, except for necessary repairs, etc., or because of some accident, during the winter months for several years. We have had contracts and have some left today which are netting us forty cents a barrel, actual figures, above the present figures obtainable at the Lehigh Valley mills, and at which they are actually selling for present delivery and some for future delivery with an outrageous disregard for stockholders.

"Now that navigation has opened we are already loading our boats, and have, among others, a single contract at old and profitable prices, which will draw 1,000 barrels a day.

"It has, of course, been a fact that on new business we have not been able to sell our cement during the winter months, when we lose our advantage in freight rates, and have to meet the Valley prices and get cost for our production. Neither has any other mill in New York State or in the Valley, during this bitter war for the survival of the fittest, been able to sell its product at a profit.

"With a reduced general consumption, some companies began to cut prices at or below cost last autumn. The market became steadily worse and the standard companies finally were forced to cut to an unreasonable extent in order to make sales and to keep their organizations together. Now, with the reopening of business and navigation on the Hudson, our plant is starting operations and expects to continue as customary throughout the year until next winter.

"Regarding the German Alsen Company, a separate corporation, the last report we heard from them was to the effect that they were busy and getting liberal orders from the German Government, at satisfactory prices. Their cement is, of course, very favorably known to the Government, and tentative propositions were made some time ago whereby the Government proposed to take over almost the entire Alsen output, thus keeping its organization intact rather than force an enlistment in the army which would curtail production.

"It might be well to state now that the German Alsen Cement Company and the Alsen Cement Company of New York are two separate and distinct concerns. The German company is not in the remotest degree sustained by the American company. Our only active interest is that we act here as the selling agents for the German Alsen Company. We have been selling German cement, in South America, and our remittances have been only those of money received for German cement sold in South America and Mexico.

"These remittances necessarily have been seriously curtailed. What little German cement we can ship since the beginning of the war goes to South America, Mexico, or elsewhere. This has to be shipped by way of Copenhagen, with an additional rail freight; so we have attempted to do very little business, except with the stock we had on hand. As far as this company is individually concerned, and except for the somewhat curtailed general consumption, we would not be aware that this great was existed in Europe."

COMMON BRICK.

Last of the Covered Brick of 1914 Season Passes Out.

THERE passed out of the wholesale market this week the last of the 1914 barges covered for the winter. This throws the market back upon a definite price level where it has virtually been almost since the first of the year. Quotations are steady, practically all the brick being used to-day being ridden direct to job, as dealers are not now stacking to any extent. Unloading reports therefore more closely reflect the actual building movement.

Official transactions for Hudson River brick covering the week ending Thursday, Mar. 18, in the wholesale market, with comparison for the corresponding period last year and a comparative statement of Hudson brick unloaded from barges for consumption here, follows:

LUMBER.

Trade Awaits Spring Activity with Light Stocks in Yards.

CONDITIONS in the lumber trade are believed to depend for improvement upon the further easing of the local money situation. As far as suburban construction is concerned, there is unquestionably a strong movement involving sums between $4,000 and $12,000 per operation, mostly in individual frame or semi-fireproof houses. There has been a tendency toward levying of premium charges on building loans in the suburbs running from 2 to 4 per cent. over interest rates at 5½ and 6. In New York the premium rate has been reported as high as 6 and 8 per cent. for immediate accommodation. Engagements running into the second half of the year and especially into the third quarter may be said not to carry extra consideration for accommodation.

Such being the case there is not much tendency on the part of New York lumber dealers to load up on supplies. Consequently, the trade hears that quotations are extremely ragged in jobbing circles, while dealers are carrying light stocks and taking what the traffic will bear.

STRUCTURAL CHANGES ON ELEVATED LINES

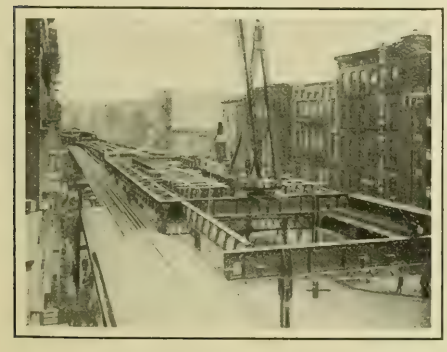
Third-Tracking of the System, Involving Several Millions, Will Greatly Increase Capacity and Reduce Running Time

THOSE who live in Harlem and the Bronx and travel on the elevated railroad lines do not need to be told of the intolerable conditions under which they have been forced to travel to and from their places of business. They have all had experience in cars where standing room was at a premium, and where even straps were unnecessary as the cars were so tightly packed that standees had no room to fall.

AT CHATHAM SQUARE.

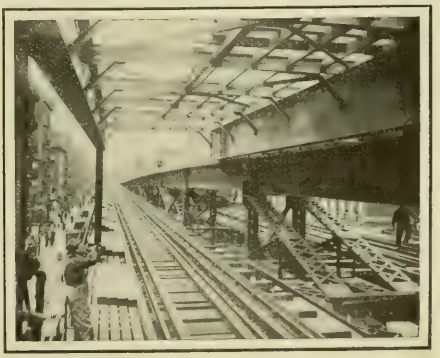
NEW TERMINAL AT 155TH STREET.

The average New Yorker knows little and cares less about the details connected with a great engineering or construction project. He is entirely satisfied to read about contemplated public improvements, sanction or condemn them in his own mind and then wait for their completion, and the enjoyment of the comforts and conveniences they provide. He does not take the time as a rule, to study conditions, or look into the details of the new scheme, but is quite willing to leave these important items to the parties directly responsible.



The Dual System of Rapid Transit, as designed by the Public Service Commission for Greater New York, is a gigantic engineering project calling for the greatest ingenuity on the part of the engineers of the commission and railroad companies. The completion of this work, which is already under contract, will mean that the city will have in operation 620.9 miles of railroads, both subway and elevated, against the 296 miles which now serve the city. At present these lines are carrying about 800,000,000 passengers annually, but when the Dual System is completed and in operation more than 3,000,000,000 can travel in the same period of time.

An important part of this project is the improvement being made to the elevated lines in Manhattan and the Bronx. These systems are owned by the Manhattan Railway Company and are operated under a lease by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company. These lines, which combined consist of 37.68 miles of road, or 118 miles of single track, are divided into three main systems, the Second avenue, the Third avenue and the Ninth avenue lines.



To relieve the great congestion on these lines and to reduce the running time from Harlem and the Bronx, these roads are being reconstructed to provide continuous express service. This reconstruction is generally known as third-tracking and the work involves a number of unique and interesting engineering features. A clause in the contract for this work states: "It is understood that this contract must be performed without seriously interfering with the normal and usual operations of the railroad." When the scope of the work is thoughtfully considered, it becomes apparent even to the layman that, at the outset, the contractors for this work were confronted with a problem of no mean proportions. The work is well advanced now, however, and the patrons of the line have suffered little inconvenience or unusual delays. It is estimated that the addition of third tracks on the Second and Third avenue elevated railroads, south of 42d street, will nearly double the capacity of those lines during the rush hours.

One contract was awarded for the third-tracking of these roads. It was made on a "cost, plus percentage" basis. To undertake this work three firms became associated—the T. A. Gillespie Co., 50 Church street; the Snare & Triest Co., 233 Broadway, and the Terry & Tench Co., Grand Central Terminal.

On the Second avenue line the improvement to provide express service required the construction of a single express track, between the present tracks, and extending from Chatham square to 126th street. North of 126th street it was necessary to erect a structure which rises above the level of the present structure. The superimposed structure carries two tracks and is supported on the columns and girders of the original tracks. These upper tracks will connect with the upper deck of the new Harlem River Bridge.

NORTH FROM CANAL STREET.

New stations are being built at Chatham square, 14th street, 42d street, 86th street, 92d street and 125th street. At 129th street the old station has been demolished and it is proposed to abandon the present station at 127th street.

With the exception of that section between 123d and 129th streets, where reconstruction was necessary to provide for the new station at 125th street and for the connection with the new bridge, the problem was comparatively a simple one. The construction of the third or express track involved only the erection of stringers between the existing tracks as the strength of the old columns and girders was quite sufficient to support, with an adequate margin of safety, the increased load.

In remodeling or supplementing the existing stations on this line for express service, two typical methods of construction are found, one at 14th street and the other at 42d street. At the former the new express station will be above the present station and access to the express trains is to be provided from platforms which have been constructed above the local tracks. At each end of the station the express track descends to the old level. At 42d street an express station is being built by widening the old strucure at this point so that all three tracks are on the same level. An island platform has been built between each local and express track.

On that section of the Third avenue elevated road, which is located on the New Bowery and connects with South Ferry, a new double track structure is being erected between the existing tracks, from Franklin square to Chatham square. At Chatham square the new tracks are above the present level and have been erected on cross girders which are in turn supported on the old columns. Express tracks on the Third avenue line only extended from 42d street to 129th street, but after the improvements now being made have been completed, a continuous express service will be rendered from City Hall to Fordham road in the Bronx.

A structure, which will carry two tracks, is being erected over the existing tracks, between Chatham square and Park Row. This method of construction was expedient on account of the narrowness of that part of Park Row. In this section of the work, new columns and girders were necessary to safely carry the increased load. A new five-track structure is being erected, from Chatham square to Canal street, and from Canal street to Delancey street, a three-track structure is under construction. At both Canal and Grand streets new stations are being built.

The old two-track structure, located at the curbs, from Delancey street to 5th street, is being replaced by an entirely new three-track structure, located in the roadway. A new station at Houston street is necessitated by this change.

Between 5th street and 129th street it was only necessary to fill in the blank spots in the present express track to make it continuous. Between 5th street and 42d street cross girders were erected in place of the present arches from track to track, upon which were placed the stringers for the new track.

At 123d street the express track starts to ascend to connect with the upper level of the new Harlem River Bridge. Express stations similar to the one at 14th street, are being erected at 9th, 23d, 42d, 106th and 125th streets.

North of the Harlem River to 143d street two additional tracks are being built on an upper level, between the old tracks. Northward from 143d street a single express track descends to the level of the old tracks which it is erected between. Practically all of the old columns between 147th street and Fordham Road had to be replaced with heavier ones on account of the increased load. At 149th street, 177th street and Fordham Road, island platforms similar to the one on the Second avenue line at 42d street have been erected. The old island platforms at the other stations which will be local stops, are being replaced by outside station platforms.

A third track existed on the Ninth avenue elevated from 14th street to 116th street. This is being extended southward to Cortlandt street, and northward to 155th street. From Cortlandt to 14th streets a center track has been built and express stations are located at Cortlandt, Warren, Desbrosses and Christopher streets, by the construction of an island platform at each station, which will be connected with the local platforms by an overgrade bridge. The new center track has been supported on stringers which are connected to new cross girders. The new cross girders are supported on the old columns except in a few instances where new columns were necessary.

Improvements north of 14th street involve the erection of overgrade stations at 14th, 34th and 145th streets, and the reconstruction of the old stations at 116th and 125th streets to adapt them to express service. The Ninth avenue tracks will be elevated over the Sixth avenue line at the junction of these two lines at 53d street. At 155th street the present structure is being reconstructed to provide a two-track connection with the proposed elevated railway extension over the Putnam Division Bridge to 162d street.

The reconstruction of these lines will add a total of 10.5 miles of track to the system and make possible the saving of considerable time to patrons of the road as well as providing for more comfortable travel.

The contract for this work was delivered Feb. 13, 1914, and the time for completion was stipulated as 18 months. The contractors have an average of 2,700 men employed, daily, upon this work, which shows every indication at present of being completed before the time limit.

Figures given by the Public Service Commission show that approximately 304,000,000 passengers were carried on the elevated lines last year. The increase during the last few years has been at the rate of between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 passengers per year.

An approximate estimate of the cost of the third-tracking improvements for the elevated lines of Manhattan and Bronx was obtained before the contract was awarded. This estimate was between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000 for the completion of the third-tracking operations. Inasmuch as the work is being done under a cost plus percentage contract, definite figures are not obtainable and will not be until the coming autumn when the work will be entirely completed.

UNFAIR TAXATION OF AQUEDUCT LANDS

A Call to Realty Interests, to Urge the Legislature to Protect New York City From Upstate Assessors

A BILL which provides for the equalization of assessments on the Catskill aqueduct property has been reported out of the Assembly Tax Committee, but apparently there is little chance of having the Senate bill reported out, unless the real estate associations of the city urge upon the members of the Legislature the necessity of this piece of legislation being enacted into law. The city is constructing a new Catskill Water Supply System at a cost of $166,000,000. Of this sum $102,000,000 has already been expended outside of the corporate limits. In four up-state counties property has been acquired through condemnation proceedings, and this property is taxable for State, county, school and village taxes. High prices were paid for these lands, obviously excessive of their real value.

In many cases former improvements upon land have been torn down. Excluding the Croton and Brooklyn water supply system, the total assessment has risen to $40,000,000, with a tax levy of $680,450. Notwithstanding the fact that New York City is carrying on a great and necessary public work, in supplying millions of people with a pure supply of water, local Boards of Assessors in the various counties through which the aqueduct passes have increased the tax rate on the city property to a very high rate, compared to the tax rates of similarly situated property, belonging to local taxpayers.

The Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests has been following this matter very carefully through William P. Burr, former Assistant Corporation Counsel. Recently the Court of Appeals handed down a decision in the matter of the City of New York versus the Board of Assessors of the town of Gardiner, holding that the aqueduct constructed by the City of New York to convey water from Ashokan reservoir, is exempt from taxation. This was the first successful attempt to relieve the city from oppressive taxation, for it terminated assessment on improvements, continuing them only on the land.

The next logical step was to equalize assessments. This has been provided for in the bill introduced by Senator Mills and Assemblyman Smita, but which at the present time has been held up in the Senate. The bill was introduced by the Corporation Counsel, with whom the Advisory Council is co-operating through Mr. Burr. As instances of the unconscionable taxation being levied up-state, the following examples are quoted, which are but a few of many:

In the town of Kent the city owns 3 per cent of the total acreage of the town, but is taxed 48 per cent of the total taxes collected. In the town of Patterson, the city's land was assessed at $738.30 per acre, the remainder of the town at only $68 an acre. In the town of Carmel, Putnam county, the city's land was taxed at $29 per acre, the remainder of the town at $97 an acre. In the town of Somers the city was taxed at the rate of $229 an acre, while local taxpayers were assessed at $75 an acre. In Cortlandt, 3 per cent. of the total area of the town, owned by the city, paid 43 per cent. of the taxes. Parcels in Mt. Pleasant were assessed at from $92 to $100 an acre the year purchased, and the following year, when purchased, were assessed $500 an acre. In the town of Gardiner the city was asked to pay on 8½ acres practically what private owners were asked to pay on 160 acres.

The Mills-Smith Bill simply provides that the city shall pay taxes in the same manner and to the same relative amount as other taxpayers in up-state districts pay. It protects the city from unfair and intolerable impositions, and since New York City has endeavored to help up-state counties to secure a $100,000,000 highway system, and a still more expensive barge canal, it is inequitable that these up-state counties continue their unfair methods of taxation.

The West Farms Subway Connection.

The Public Service Commission has approved the form of contract, submitted by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, for the construction of a portion of the West Farms subway connection. This section, which is authorized by the Dual System contracts, leaves the Third avenue elevated road at about 134 feet north of the center line of East 143rd street, and runs through Willis and Bergen avenues to a point near 149th street, and thence to a connection with the Lenox avenue branch of the existing subway.

SOME HARDSHIPS CAUSED BY LABOR LAW

Real Estate Interests Have to Bear the Burden of Legislation, Which, in Modified Form, Might Accomplish the Desired Results

By WILLIAM DOUGLAS KILPATRICK*

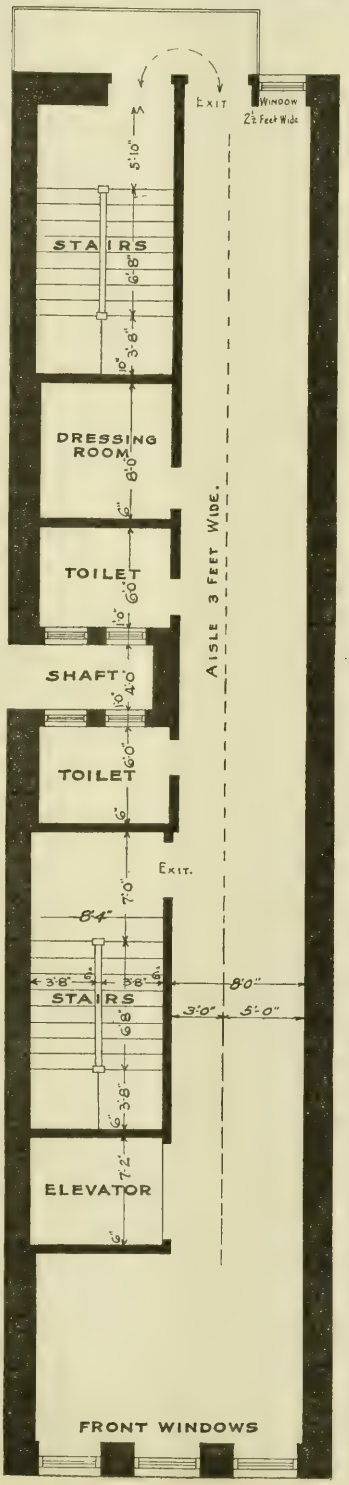
FEW people who have studied the subject will deny that the Labor Law has practically prohibited the erection of a factory building upon a small lot. This condition has meant the ruination of numerous owners. Many properties suitable for improvement, with factories, are left upon the hands of owners, though there is a direct demand for small structures of this type. There is no doubt but that small factories, safe in every particular, can be erected upon small lots, not in any way jeopardizing the lives of the occupants, and, on the other hand, providing ample light and ventilation, which will surely rebound to the benefit of their health.

Two propositions face us. No. 1 is the Simon Pure Social Uplifter, and he modestly admits the possession of all virtues, and the other (No. 2) is the real estate owner, or builder, who, in the opinion of the "Uplifter," is an outcast, selfish and unmindful of any obligation which he owes to his fellow man.

As to proposition No. 1, take the structural requirements of the Labor Law, as an example. From its very inception the law was constantly in the protective, surcharged atmosphere of the Uplift. It was brought into being and heralded abroad as the finest example of Social Law ever vouchsafed to the Empire State. Unfortunately, no rider was attached to the law preventing the pollution caused by the hands of the real estate fraternity.

Upon thorough investigation what is found? We find that so simple and elemental a matter as adequate protection to human life in factories resolved itself into, for one thing, the wanton destruction, amounting to confiscation, of the values of small lots suited to factory purposes. Is sheer stupidity a strong enough definition of such destructive action?

Explanation of Floor Plan.



The floor plan designed by Robert E. Moss, shows that the same number and size of "required exits" or stairways are called for in a three to six-story building, 20 x 85 feet, as in a twelve-story building 60 x 80 feet. In other words, a floor area of from 6,800 to 11,900 square feet requires the same exit facilities as a floor area of 62,000 square feet. It also shows that the light and ventilation, called for in the Labor Law, cannot possibly be attained.

What is the ultimate result? The tenant has a long "bowling alley" shaped strip, about five feet wide, in which his operatives can work. At first glance it does seem that devoting about seventy-five per cent. to "safety first" and twenty-five per cent. to occupation indicates "efficiency" in its extreme form. Of course nothing should be done which might tend to endanger human life, or health, but there is such a thing as exaggeration.

Certain things have been provided for, by the Labor Law, which are just and right. Ample toilet facilities, etc., are most necessary, but it is unreasonable to make an owner provide two stairways, of the proscribed width, in small buildings, when one narrower stairway and an exterior screen stairway would amply answer the purpose.

Today I can, as a builder, legally erect a factory, inferior to, in point of fire protection, but more costly, than a factory now illegal, and less costly, which will afford infinitely better protection to human life.

*Mr. Kilpatrick is a member of the Industrial and Building Codes Committee of the Real Estate Board of New York.

Can it be possible that the shadow of "Sinister Influence" is cast upon page 49 of the Labor Law, in the requirement that all factories over 70 feet in height shall have fireproof windows? To comply with this one requirement would add $20,000 to the cost of the safest and best factory in New York, and $40,000 to the cost of another group of similarly superbly safe buildings, without adding in the slightest degree to the safety of the occupants, the value, rent, or the borrowing capacity of these buildings. The reason for the requirement, if such a thing could be said to exist, is not apparent to the naked eye.

I have often wondered why the fire record was not ample to show that there are many factory buildings in our city which, by mere virtue of their fireproof construction, afford adequate protection to human life. Why were these safe buildings placed practically in the same category as dangerous factories? Why were the rule of thumb "expert's" figures of so many square feet, width of stairways, etc., applied to such safe buildings, to be offset by a 50 per cent. increase in occupancy where sprinklers are installed?

The sprinkler system, like good wine, "needs no bush." It has no peer or anything resembling a peer, and is able to stand on its own merit, without legislative assistance.

Almost immediately after official assistance had been tendered the sprinkler system, came the fearful locked door Asch Building disaster, and, while the building was still all but smoking, there appeared advertisements of the sprinkler people. The ornamental iron men, makers of safe stairways, the fireproof door, hollow metal and wire glass people, and others, who had fire preventives to market, did not seem to consider it an auspicious time, in the presence of death, publicly to exploit their wares.

Owners Were Patient.

As to proposition on No. 2: If "realty interests" were the vicious dragon so freely painted by the ultra-righteous, the Labor Law and other social laws of the same calibre would never have existed. As a matter of fact, until recently the "real estate interests" have done little but growl individually when taxation was unbearable and unwarrantedly increased. They have gone through the same performance, when laws, rules and regulations, unfair and detrimental to their properties have been made and remade. Under yearly increasing burdens, which have diminished the income and value of their properties, they have remained quiescent, have endured being the joke and the butt of each succeeding administration. But few times have they collectively resented being the victims of the whims of the uplifters.

The limit of endurance has now been reached and they have at last joined hands to make war upon unfairness and injustice and to restore real estate, the source of the city's prosperity, to its former status. The stigma attached to the owning of municipal supporting real estate will be removed. The impractical, extravagant notions of the "unofficial government" will give place to the wisdom of the sage, experienced and practical man. A better day will dawn for New York, for every man in it.

The last straw, the Labor Law, may prove a blessing in disguise, to the "realty interests," for it has been the means, thus far, of having accomplished, at least in part, the heretofore impossible task of uniting the owners of $8,000,000,000 worth of realty. This alone is a consummation greatly to be desired.

NEARING AN AGREEMENT ON CONSOLIDATION

The Lockwood Bill Reported by the Senate Committee With Amendments—Tenement House Department Fighting for Independence.

THE Lockwood Bill has been reported out with amendments by the Senate Cities Committee. It provides for the consolidation of building inspection departments in accordance with the borough plan. The Wagner bill, which gives the Board of Estimate supervision over the construction, alteration and use of all buildings (including school buildings and court houses), will not be reported. It is probable that an agreement will be reached presently on the basis of the Lockwood bill. The members of the Board of Estimate will hold a private conference on Monday with the hope of deciding what shall be done. They stand five to three for the amended Lockwood bill.

It is understood that the issue still turns upon whether the Tenement House Department shall be left out of the consolidation. The charity interests have been conducting an aggressive campaign against the bill in the hope of eliciting the Mayor's sympathies and also his veto. The real estate, building and allied interests through their representatives have said they will never consent to the Tenement House Department obtaining sole control over the construction of apartment houses as well as control over their maintenance, as this would mean two separate building departments in every borough, with an added expenditure of several hundred thousand dollars annually.

The Tenement House Department.

At a meeting of the Broadway Association on Wednesday evening President McGuire of the Real Estate Board, Alfred R. Kirkus of the Merchants' Association and other members of the Real Estate Conference publicly expressed their determination in this regard. The Broadway Association adopted resolutions in favor of the bill. About seventy other associations are also advocating it, as providing the most expedient plan for obtaining what everybody concedes is urgently necessary—the relief of real estate interests from over-regulation.

Inception of the Legislation.

The intolerable impositions, first exposed by the Record and Guide, were officially recognized by the State Legislative Investigating Committee, after hearing the testimony of the Borough Presidents and many representative owners, architects and builders. The first tentative bill to simplify building inspection was prepared by the commission, of which Lieut. Governor Wagner was chairman and Samuel Gompers a member. The commission bill provided that not only should the duty of enforcing the labor law locally be given into the keeping of the local authorities, but also the duty of enforcing the tenement laws as well, though Counselor Abram I. Elkus subsequently said the commission might change its view in this respect after fuller consideration.

Real estate interests, finding that the preponderance of public opinion in the various boroughs favored retaining the existing building bureaus for reasons of efficiency and convenience, decided as a matter of expediency to conform to this desire, which was opposed to having only one central department, as recommended by the State Commission.

The Lockwood-Ellenbogen bills were accordingly prepared by the Conference Committee, and the State Commission has so far withheld its own measure. As the main thing sought for was relief from over-regulation, by whatever plan, the conference bill has been freely amended to meet criticisms. Strange to say, those parts for which it was most criticised were those which adhered closest to the terms and words of the city charter.

The Amended Bill.

As explained to the Broadway Association by Mr. Kirkus, the amended bill now stands in this form:

"We take from the State Labor Department, the Fire Prevention Bureau, the Department of Licenses, the Board of Health, the Department of Water Supply, Gas & Electricity, the Department of Public Works and the Tenement House Department all jurisdiction over the construction and structural changes in buildings in the City of New York, and put it in the Bureaus of Buildings as at present constituted. We do not change any of the laws now existing relating to the various departments or bureaus; we only put the enforcement of them in the one department that naturally should have it.

"We abolish none and only want the Building Bureaus to take care of the construction of new buildings and structural changes in old ones. Surely a bureau that can supervise the erection of the Woolworth and Equitable Buildings and the Bush Terminal Stores can take care of the erection or alteration of any factory or tenement house?

"We have made the Superintendents of Buildings of the several boroughs a Board of Standards, which shall hold public meetings at least once a week and such other times as they may determine; and their rules and regulations shall be published, and at least four affirmative votes shall be necessary to the adoption of any rule and regulation subject to the approval of the Board of Appeals.

The Discretionary Power.

"Under the present charter a superintendent when there are practical difficulties in carrying out the strict letter of a statute, ordinance, rule or regulation, may vary or modify the same, consistent with the spirit of the law, but an exception is made for the Tenement House Law, in which no change or variation can be made.

"A Board of Appeals is created to take the place of and have greater supervisory powers than the present Board of Examiners, and while we have been well satisfied with and have honored the present board, we have met the criticism of the manner of appointing the members by making the board to be composed as follows: The Tenement House Commissioner, the Fire Commissioner, the Health Commissioner (all to be appointed of the Mayor) and four other members, also to be appointed by the Mayor; one of whom shall be a builder, one an architect and one an engineer.

"This board shall have power to permit variations, as at present, except in the Tenement House Law; to hear appeals from decisions or orders of a Superintendent of Buildings; to approve or disapprove of all rules and regulations, of the Board of Standards, etc., and any city department, board or officer, although not a party in interest, may appeal to it from any order of a Superintendent of Buildings.

The Board of Estimate's Duty.

"Another important requirement in this law is that upon the completion of a building or alteration thereof, the Bureau of Buildings may issue a certificate authorizing the occupancy of such building for the purpose for which it was constructed or altered, and it shall not be occupied for any other purpose without the permit of the proper authorities.

"We have left the arrangement of the transfer of the various departments, bureaus, employees, etc., and of the unexpended appropriations of same to the Bureau of Buildings to be made by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

"The act will take effect October 1, 1915, but prior to such date the Board of Estimate and Apportionment shall prepare a plan or schedule for said transfer and shall order such transfer and assignment accordingly to take effect October 1, 1915.

"In conclusion, we believe this bill should now meet with the approval of everyone. We desire active co-operation to the end that this great city and its great boroughs, shall once again use the opportunities of increasing and improving, that are now smothered if not murdered.

"It is unnecessary to mention the enabling act sent to the Legislature by the Mayor. It creates a commission form of government for everything in the City of New York, does not agree to do anything to correct present conditions and is admittedly raw and impracticable."

The New Alien Labor Law.

In view of the amendment of the Labor Law, the Public Service Commission has adopted a resolution directing counsel to prepare modifications of all existing rapid transit contracts in conformity with the amended statute. These contracts contain a provision binding the contractor to carry out the provisions of Section 14 of the Labor Law, which formerly provided that none but citizens of the United States should be employed upon public work or contracts let for public work. The law, as amended, provides that citizens shall be given preference but that aliens may be employed when citizens are not available. The amendment also authorizes a modification of existing contracts in conformity with the new provisions.

The New Code of Ordinances.

The Board of Aldermen this week set its seal of approval upon the recodification of the city ordinances which has just been completed by the Committee on Recodification with the able assistance of Assistant Corporation Counsel Arthur C. MacNulty. The fact that not a single vote was recorded in the negative testified to the high character of the work. It is understood that the Mayor will sign the code next Tuesday. Counselor MacNulty's eyes gave way under the long strain of this special work and at the present time he is taking an enforced rest while being treated by an oculist. Forming part of the new code are the building ordinances of the city as of record at this date.

Manhattan Bridge Will Be Ready.

The Commissioner of Bridges has notified the Public Service Commission for the First District that the Manhattan Bridge will be in readiness for the operation of trains from the Fourth Avenue subway by next June. The Commissioner will see that the trolley lines now operating over the bridge tracks to be used by the subway will be removed to other tracks.

Jerome Avenue Subway.

Between Mosholu Parkway and Woodlawn road the contractors are erecting the structure for the elevated division of the Jerome avenue extension of the Lexington avenue subway. And elsewhere along the route, all the way from Harlem River to Mosholu Parkway, the steel girders for the structure are lying beside the road.

ANOTHER FIGHT OVER THE SINGLE TAX

A Hearing Next Thursday on the Hefferman Bill—A New State Tax System Certain—Various New Bills of Importance to Real Estate

THE Single Taxers are charging again. They have introduced the Hefferman referendum bill in the State Senate to gradually reduce by annual stages the tax on buildings, until only one per cent. shall remain at the end of ten years. There will be a hearing next Thursday immediately after the adjournment of the Senate.

This bill, which succeeds the half tax rate bill of last year, is simply an endeavor to establish the single tax principle in New York City. Last year this principle was voted down by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and by the legislative tax committees, because the inequality of taxation advocated under this principle was obvious. The Mayor's Tax Commission is now considering the reduced tax on improvements, and the Advisory Council believes that no action should be taken by the Legislature until the deliberations of this commission have been concluded and made public. The city at the present time is looking for new sources of revenue. Under the proposed "pay as you go" policy the obligations of the city will increase. The possibility of a large direct state tax alone should preclude any consideration of the elimination of the tax on buildings.

As to Testing Building Material.

The Committee on Affairs of Cities has under consideration the Simpson bill (Int. 1088) to amend the Tenement House Law relative to cement blocks. In this bill it is proposed to provide for the use of hollow cement blocks under the same conditions that terra cotta blocks are now permitted for the enclosure of stair halls, fire towers, entrance halls and elevator vestibules.

In a letter which the committee has received from Rudolph P. Miller, ex-Supt. of Buildings in Manhattan, doubt is expressed whether cement blocks are of sufficient fire-resisting value to entitle them to be used for the purposes stated. Apparently, in anticipation of this criticism, it is provided that such blocks shall successfully withstand a three-hour standard fire test made under the department charged with the enforcement of the Tenement House Law. This places in the hands of another department a function now exercised by two departments, namely, the State Labor Department and the several Bureaus of Buildings of the City of New York. In Mr. Miller's opinion the present provision with respect to the use of terra cotta blocks to enclose tower fire-escapes already goes too far. A tower fire-escape to be really efficient should be enclosed with something more substantial, with walls of brick at least eight inches thick.

The Senate has passed Assemblyman O'Hare's bill, amending the tenement house law by excepting tenements hereafter erected, two stories in height and under, from the provisions requiring at least two independent ways of egress from the ground floor to the roof, and such tenements erected prior to April 18, 1912, from the provision requiring fireproof outside stairways or fire escapes accessible to each department without passing through a public hallway. The present exception applies only to one-story tenements.

The Allied Real Estate Interests has prepared an amendment to the labor law giving the Fire Commissioner of New York city the right to waive the requirement for a fire alarm signal system if in his opinion such system is not necessary for the safety of the occupants in buildings not more than four stories in height or buildings equipped with automatic sprinklers. This bill represents an agreement that has been reached between the Allied Real Estate Interests and the Fire Department following a series of conferences.

The Smith bill, which provides that the City of New York shall be taxed on its aqueduct lands at no higher rate than the lands surrounding them has not yet been reported by the Assembly Committee on Taxation. Corporation Counsel Polk in a public letter says:

"If the Smith bill is killed it will show that upstate legislators have a horizon no wider than their local districts, and that injustice will be tolerated where the only victim is the City of New York. The contention that securing water for New York City is a commercial enterprise, and should be taxed as such, cannot be sustained, as every one familiar with the city's finances knows."

According to figures compiled under the direction of Controller Prendergast, approximately 605 religious, educational and charitable institutions owning property in the City of New York and valued, according to the 1914 exempt list, at $300,095,575, would be affected by the enactment of the bill introduced by Assemblyman John L. Sullivan. The bill fixes the exemption at $100,000 each, and leaves $239,595,575 as the assessed valuation of property which would become taxable in the event of the passage of the bill.

Assembly Bills.

A. 1559 (Feinberg). Inserting in the State Boards and Commissions Law a new article (II), establishing a state art commission. The five commissioners are to serve without compensation. The necessary traveling and other expenses of the commission, including the salary of the secretary, must not exceed $10,000 a year. The commission may, in its discretion, forbid the publication, distribution, exhibition, or sale of any books, paintings or sculpture which, in its opinion, is lewd, immoral or obscene.

A. 1157 (Ahern). Amending the Tax Law (New Section 222-a), by providing that when any future estate, vested or contingent, is transferred, the tax on such future estate shall not be payable until the estate shall vest in possession. This section shall apply to all estates in which the transfer taxes have not been paid.

S. 1175 (Heffernan). Amending the Greater New York Charter (Section 249), by providing for the gradual readjustment of the tax rate so that the rate on the difference between the value on real estate with its improvements and the value of unimproved real estate shall be one per cent. of the rate on the value of such real estate wholly unimproved. For the year 1916 the difference is to be 90 per cent., and each year thereafter, for eight consecutive years, the reduction is to be 10 per cent. In the ninth year there is to be a reduction of 9 per cent. The powers conferred by this act are not to be exercised until the tax proposition has been referred to the electors for approval. The bill practically provides for a single tax on land. The buildings or improvements are eventually to bear one per cent. of the tax, and the land 99 per cent. To Cities Committee.

S. 1193 (Wagner). Inserting in the Greater New York Charter a new chapter (XII-b), creating a bureau in the department of licenses to be known as the bureau of boiler inspection, in charge of a superintendent. Such superintendent shall be appointed by the commissioner of licenses.

S. 1194 (Wagner). Amending the Labor Law (Subdiv. 1 of Section 79-b, subdiv. 8 of section 79-e and new section 52-a), by providing that if there shall be practical difficulties or unnecessary hardships in carrying out any provisions of the Labor Law, or rules or regulations adopted by the Industrial Board, affecting the construction or alteration of buildings, the installation of fixtures and apparatus, or the safeguarding of machinery and prevention of accidents, the Industrial Board shall have power to make a variation from such requirements if the spirit of the provision or rule or regulation is observed and public safety secured. Any person affected, or his agent, may petition the board for such variation. The board shall fix a day within a reasonable time for a hearing on such petition. The bill also provides that if an automatic sprinkler system is maintained in a factory building, no point on any floor of any such factory shall be more than 150 feet distant from the entrance to one of the means of exit. At present it is provided that no point on any floor shall be more than 100 feet distant from one of the means of exit in all cases. It is also provided that the number of persons permitted to be employed on any one floor may be increased from 50 to 100 per cent., where an automatic sprinkler system is maintained. To Labor and Industries Committee.

Senate.

S. 1224 (Cromwell). Inserting in the Greater New York Charter a new section (250), empowering the board of estimate and apportionment to fix the number of all officers and employees, except elective officers, in every department, office, board or body of the city, or of a county or borough within the city, including the officers and employees of every court whose salaries are paid from the city treasury, except justices of the supreme court, county judges and surrogates. (Same as or similar to an Assembly bill introduced this session.) To Cities Committee.

Action by the Advisory Council.

The Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests, through its Law Committee, Walter Lindner, chairman, approves of the passage of the following bills now introduced in the Legislature:

A bill to amend subdivision 2, Section 79-b of the Labor Law, in relation to required means of exits, so that the provisions of this section shall apply to six-story buildings, instead of to five-story buildings, as they do now. This subject has been under serious discussion, and it seems to be demonstrated that the requirements of safety will be properly conserved by extending these requirements from five to six-story buildings.

A bill to amend subdivision 1, section 79-b of the Labor Law. This bill raises the heights of buildings which must have at least two means of exits from two to three stories, and requires that these exits must be remote from each other only on the fifth floor and all above; and raises the heights of buildings on which outside fire-escapes are required from five to six stories. The bill also requires that the maximum requirements of this section may be modified by the Industrial Board where the character of the building, and its uses and occupancy, constitute an adequate and safe means of escape in case of fire; and also in buildings in which an adequate sprinkler system has been installed. This seems to be a proper modification of the requirements of the law.

The American people are the kind that when left to themselves get along the best. They need no coddling from the municipality.

Old saying: "The best governed people are governed the least." It is noticed that the countries where government attempts most for the people are the countries where people are most dissatisfied.

A great statesman once said that the true way to tax is to pluck the most feathers with the least squealing. Indirect taxes are the easiest to bear, because often a man pays without realizing it. Direct taxes are more or less odius, but no country is yet civilized enough to get along without them.

The Board of Estimate and the Public Service Commission, in co-operation, have practically decided that the subway system's connection between Manhattan and Queens shall be by tunnel instead of by bridge. The bridge wasn't strong enough. Somehow or other there is always a little more to add to the cost.

The plans being filed in Manhattan and the Bronx are running far ahead of last year's record in number and average cost of buildings, and the filings in Queens have suddenly assumed large proportions. The tightness of the mortgage money market is the only thing standing in the way of a really lively real estate campaign.

The payroll expenditures of the State of New York have increased from $4,510,513, in the year 1906, to $9,284,756 at the present time, or a jump of 105%. A radical revision of legislation providing for new departments and commissions primarily to multiply jobs for indigent politicians, is what the State, as well as the city, most needs at the present time.

The General Business Situation.

Some months ago the Record and Guide ventured to predict that during the year 1915 the general business situation in the United States would be profoundly modified and very much for the better. The prediction has not received up to date any considerable measure of actual justification, and an improvement in business, which was noticeable in January, was not maintained during February. Nevertheless, it looks more than ever as if it would be abundantly verified before the expiration of the year. All the conditions on which the prediction was based are becoming increasingly effectual and important. The most important condition of all is that Europe and South America imperatively need all kinds of economic services which can be supplied by this country only. They are obliged to come to the United States for their food, for many indispensable raw materials, for a large variety of manufactured products and for part of their requirements for new capital. They will be obliged to pay high prices for all their necessities. They are already paying high prices for food, for capital and for war supplies, and before many months are out they will be paying high prices for cotton. The rapid advance in the price of that great staple is the most encouraging phase of the existing situation. In August what with an enormous crop and a total cessation of the export demand, prophecies were freely made that it would be several years before cotton would go back to a profitable selling price. There is now every reason to believe that the combination of an unusually heavy export demand with a limited 1915 crop will enable Southerners to sell their cotton at a highly profitable figure. The South, instead of suffering from several years of depression, is likely to be restored to prosperity during the coming summer, and one great source of business stagnation will be removed.

The result will inevitably be a period of somewhat excited business activity. The activity will not be very wholesome because it will be dependent on the war and the people who are profiting by it will realize that a cessation of the war will bring it all to a sudden and perhaps a disastrous conclusion. It will necessarily assume a somewhat speculative character, and it will be hampered by many extraordinary drawbacks. One of the most serious obstructions will be the difficulty of borrowing money, and the consequent inability of businessmen to endure capital outlays except at a heavy expense. Much of the present depression is associated with the low rate of structural improvements all over the country, the resulting inactivity in the trades that depend on that kind of business. The consuming ability of the domestic market continues to be much smaller than it ought to be, and even a period of speculative business expansion will not wholly do away with this drawback. But while there will be certain important qualifications to be made in respect to the probable business improvement during the current year, there can no longer be any doubt about the improvement itself, assuming that the war continues throughout the year, this country will be selling so many commodities to Europe at such high prices that it cannot but be prosperous. The prosperity will be speculative, but it will be commercial rather than financial speculation. The price of stocks cannot be advanced very far or very fast because a higher range of stock values would provoke a large amount of selling from abroad. Many merchants will speculate in the raw and manufactured articles which they are selling abroad, and this opportunity should be sufficient to keep them fully occupied. In the meantime the American people will be economizing in their own expenditures and in this way will be contributing most effectually to the future prosperity of this country. They will be accumulating capital and when the war is over an accumulation of capital will be more useful than any other valuable they could be storing up. Many services and commodities will be needed to repair the destruction wrought by the war, but most of all there will be an abundant supply of capital. If this country is ready to supply it the result will be enormously to increase the strength of its international financial position.

A Contribution to the Stability of Real Estate Values.

In another column of this issue, attention is called to the importance of the improvements now being made to the elevated railroads. Public attention has been concentrated to such a considerable extent upon the new subways that the great effect of the increased capacity and improved service of the elevated roads has been overlooked. Yet these improvements should largely increase the carrying capacity of these structures and materially improve the running time of the express trains. The elevated roads both on the East Side and the West will be converted into much more efficient agencies of transportation than they are at present; much time and discomfort will be saved to a great many people.

The peculiar merit of these improvements on the elevated roads is that they will inure chiefly to the benefit of parts of the city which are already built up. In this respect they differ from the new subways. Of course the new subways will be of enormous benefit to the upper East Side and the Lower West Side of Manhattan, as well as to the whole central district, but their chief purpose is that of opening up unsettled territory in the outlying boroughs. When this unsettled territory is opened up it will be furnished with means of communication substantially better than those now enjoyed by certain districts which are served by the elevated roads. It is probable, consequently, that these older parts of the Bronx and of the West Side of Harlem might have suffered, in case the building of the new subways had not been preceded by a genuine improvement of the service on the elevated roads.

This improvement will enable the settled territory along the line of these roads on both the East and the West sides to hold their own as against the competition of the newer districts. Their inhabitants will obtain particularly during the rush hours a very much better service. They will be furnished with many more express trains, which will make the journey to financial district in appreciably shorter time. This improved service will, moreover, be furnished by them during the current year, so that its effect will be fully felt a long time before the new subways get into operation. The result should be to make certain parts of Harlem and the Bronx really more desirable places in which to live. Neither will the benefit be confined to those people who wish to travel to and from the financial district, as improved express service will also be made possible to the central part of Manhattan, and the larger number of express trains will diminish the existing congestion on the local trains. Altogether, the changes now being completed in the elevated structures will contribute to the stability of real estate values and to the increased comfort of many thousands of people.

Telephone Charges.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

As a member of the Special Telephone Committee of the Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association and as an extensive owner of New York City real estate, I wish to call attention to the present contract of the New York Telephone Company which refers to installation of slot machines in non-elevator houses.

The telephone company at present has a contract whereby they agree to install one slot machine in the public hall of such premises, and I believe they call this a semi-public pay station. The form of the contract which the telephone company submits is one which requires the owner to pay to the telephone company the sum of $1 per month for such installation and to guarantee to the company a consumption of at least four messages, or 20c. per day. In other words, the telephone company demands a guarantee of $85 per annum for this telephone service. If the amount of calls comes to $85 the telephone company agrees to return to the owner the sum of $12, equal to the amount paid each month for the installation. If, however, the consumption is less, then the owner must make good any deficiency. If the sum is more the company keeps the difference.

This, on its face, is a very one-sided and unfair contract. The telephone company has absolutely nothing to lose; whereas the owner has everything to lose and the best that he can make out is even.

We own seven or eight houses which are under this style contract and in each and every house the deficiency averages about $3 per month. I believe that the telephone company installs the slot machines in stores where there are far less than $85 worth of calls used; and in this case not only is the machine installed free of charge but the proprietor of the store gets a liberal percentage on each and every telephone message through this pay station.

We believe that this is absolutely unfair and unequitable and we think that the contract should be made so that if the owner has to guarantee anything he should, at the same time, have the advantage of receiving some remuneration if the amount guaranteed is surpassed. We also think that the telephone company could afford to install the slot machines in such houses at a very much lower cost than a guarantee of $85 per annum.

The Mechanics and Traders' Exchange Demands An Investigation.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

Herewith please find copy of a communication to the Mayor from this Exchange, in reply to press reports of an investigation of the Board of Examiners, Building Department, by the Commissioner of Accounts. The Mechanics and Traders Exchange has two representatives on said board.

C. E. CHENEY,
Secretary Mechanics and Traders Exchange.

HON. JOHN PURROY MITCHEL, Sir: The members of the Mechanics and Traders Exchange have read in the newspapers that your Commissioner of Accounts, Mr. Wallstein, has been investigating the present Board of Examiners since July, 1914, and that "Wallstein hits the Examiners' Board and tells the Mayor it should be overhauled before power over buildings is extended."

They have also read reports of the attacks made by him on the members of the Board of Examiners who were elected by the Mechanics and Traders Exchange. In his attacks upon Messrs. Crawford and Harding, he endeavored to create the impression that they have used their official position to obtain contracts, and for the purpose of creating the impression that they have violated the law by voting upon appeals in which they had an interest as contractors on the work, he has cited seven appeals which were sustained by the Board.

We firmly believe that the Board of Examiners is a non-partisan board of experts, and is such by reason of the charter provision for the manner in which they are appointed. They are not selected for their political affiliation, but for their ability. We firmly believe the present board to be composed of men of unquestionable integrity. A board selected in any other manner will be more or less political and will come far short of accomplishing the work that this Board of Examiners has performed since its organization, and as economically as the present constituted board has done.

We have opposed strenuously many efforts made in the past to make this board a political one, which would be subject to every change of administration, and however worthy the motives of a Mayor or other officials in their effort to change the method of appointing this board, they will meet with strong opposition from the builders and from citizens, who have had, and will have in the future matters to bring before this Board of Appeals or Examiners. This board should not and must not be of political appointing.

The record of the Board of Examiners since its organization is one of which they may justly feel proud, and the few changes in its personnel is a tribute to the fair and impartial decisions in the matters brought before them. They have been just and equitable. If they had not been so, charges would have been brought against them and a hearing given by the proper authority on such charges, instead of insinuations for political effect.

If the members of the Board of Examiners, who were elected by the Mechanics and Traders Exchange, have used the office for personal advantage or gain, or have violated the law, let charges be properly made and tried out fairly. We would want such, if guilty, removed from office.

The Board of Examiners must be composed of men of unquestionable integrity, and we demand that you proceed to take the action necessary to bring to an issue the charges which your Commissioner of Accounts has made against those men, and furnish the Mechanics and Traders Exchange with a copy of the report of Mr. Wallstein, and appoint a time and place for a hearing of the charges or insinuations alleged to be in Mr. Wallstein's report.

Respectfully submitted,
MECHANICS AND TRADERS EXCHANGE

On Advertising Foreclosure Sales.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

L. P.'s article in your issue of March 20, is timely and deserving of consideration. Rather than publish a legal description of the property under foreclosure in both a law journal and a daily paper and so as not to increase the cost of foreclosure proceedings, a beneficial change in the method of advertising, would be to insert in the daily paper an advertisement containing a commercial description of the premises, such as is done in voluntary auction sales, under the heading of "Real Estate at Auction," at a cost not to exceed that which would be the charge for the legal description.

Such a method would attract more buyers to the auction room, which is what is needed more than anything else at this time to stimulate the purchase of property and restore confidence in real estate as an investment. The papers publish the result of these foreclosure sales, and what is the effect on those interested in real estate to read every evening and morning that property is being purchased for less than the amount of mortgage? The general public does not know that this same property, purchased for less than the amount of mortgage, is sold the next day or week by the plaintiff for a substantial profit.

The public does not know that this purchaser was in the auction room when the property was struck down by the auctioneer to the plaintiff. He undoubtedly was and preferred to let the plaintiff buy it in, because he could go to him afterwards, arrange for a certain amount to remain on mortgage and purchase it for a small profit over the entire amount of encumbrance.

But if by advertising, or other methods purchasers could be attracted to the sale at auction, this method of buying from the plaintiff would soon cease, because there would be competitive bidding, the price would run up, the mortgagee would not have to buy the property, which would create a good mortgage market, the amount of the owner's deficiency would be reduced and the report of the sale in the daily papers would have a stimulating effect on real estate prospective buyers.

How Personal Property Should Be Taxed.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

Referring to the proposed change in the Laws affecting the Taxation of Personal Property, it seems to me, that the surest way for the State and city to "get the money" is to make it "light and easy" for taxpayers, and give them the choice, to either pay the present tax of ½ of 1 per cent. for the life of real estate mortgages, bonds or securities, or have the option to pay an annual tax of say ¼ of 1 per cent. on the same personal property.

The rate of ¼ of 1 per cent. many people who purchase securities for short terms, would no doubt prefer to that way, in paying Personal Taxes.

Unless a law is made, so that the people can have the preference to either pay a small annual rate, or pay the present rate of ½ of 1 per cent. for the life of their property, I don't see how any new law can be enforced any better than at the present time, that is, for Bearer securities and the like.

Notable Meeting of Property Owners.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

The meeting in the Forty-fourth Street Theater, last Sunday, was a great success. The speakers covered the ground, voicing on one hand the complaints of the overburdened taxpayers, and, on the other hand, the excuses of the officials, charged with the maintenance of the manifold necessary activities of municipal life. The most conciliatory spirit animated the speakers on both sides, all recognizing the difficulty of the situation brought about partly by the expenses required for the great subways, bridges, etc., and partly by the shortening of the general incomes of citizens, caused by the European war.

That the meeting has not been without results may be gathered from several editorials in the daily press, hitherto editorially deaf to the plea of overtaxation. The introduction by Senator Bennett of a resolution for the investigation of New York City's finances, complies with one of the demands of the resolutions adopted at that meeting. The letter of Corporation Counsel Polk advocating the bill to secure equality of taxation on land owned by the city for aqueduct purposes, a measure long advocated by "The United," may also be properly credited to this public agitation. The letter given out at the City Hall, explaining the transactions in real estate, connected with the Brooklyn marginal railroad and market, would perhaps have never appeared but for the demand for more light, started at that mass meeting.

On the whole there seems to be no doubt but that the activities of "The United" and of its energetic president, are working for the city's good.

Taxation of the New Catskill Aqueduct.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will not your many influential readers write to their representatives in the Legislature to urge the passage of the Smith bill to equalize taxation for the aqueduct lands of New York City, situated in certain Hudson river counties. At the recent hearing on the Lockwood-Ellenbogen uniform inspection bills, I told the joint committees that it was "time for a returning sense of justice and that those of us who have built up New York and made it the great Metropolis that it is should have more consideration." I spoke with much feeling. Our Legislature should stop ruling New York like a conquered province.

There are five (5) Greater New York members of the thirteen members on that Committee. Some of your readers can get their names and see them personally at once.

At all events, there should be over one thousand letters on the desks of the Assemblymen by next Tuesday morning.

REAL ESTATE NEWS OF THE WEEK

FACTORY ORDERED CLOSED.

Berlin & Jones Envelope Company Must Vacate for Disregard of Sprinkler Order.

Fire Commissioner Adamson was hailed before Justice Newburger, in Special Term Part 1 of the Supreme Court, on Tuesday, on an order to show cause why he should not be restrained from proceeding to enforce his order directing the building Nos. 547-553 West 27th street and 548-552 West 28th street, Manhattan, to be vacated because of the failure of the owner to comply with a fire prevention order requiring the building to be equipped with an automatic sprinkler system.

Mr. Hemmens of Beardsley, Hemmens & Taylor, counsel for the Berlin & Jones Envelope Company, the occupant of the building, contended that the sprinkler order was arbitrary, unreasonable and oppressive, because the building affected by it was but six stories in height, and was not only within the high pressure zone but was provided with a substantial fire wall, extending across it midway of its depth. He also made the point that an automatic sprinkler system was a "patented article" within the meaning of section 1554a. of the Charter, which prohibits municipal officers from requiring the installation of "patented articles" by owners or householders.

The principal attack upon the sprinkler order was contained in the affidavit of William Guerin, formerly acting chief of the Bureau of Fire Prevention, who testified that during the time he was in charge of that bureau he had refused to recommend the requirement of automatic sprinklers in any building, not exceeding six stories in height, "unless an imminent hazard to life or property existed within such building, or some extra difficulty was presented to the department in the extinguishing of fire."

In behalf of the Fire Commissioner, Assistant Corporation Counsel MacNulty submitted testimony showing that none of the basic and indispensable features of a sprinkler system were protected by unexpired patents and that, therefore, automatic sprinklers were not "patented articles," within the meaning of the Charter. He submitted the affidavit of Chief Kenlon of the Fire Department, setting forth that the interior construction and contents of the building were highly combustible and that the arrangement of the raw materials and finished products in the plant was such that it would be extremely difficult successfully to cope with a fire.

Chief Kenlon further testified that in his professional opinion the installation of a sprinkler equipment in the building was necessary not only to safeguard the lives of its occupants but to prevent the certainty of a great property loss in case a fire should happen to get a good start in the building.

In justification of the order to vacate, Mr. MacNulty argued that the fire prevention law provided its own peculiar procedure for a review of a fire order upon its merits, namely: by a survey of the building affected by the order, and when necessary a special certiorari proceeding for the judicial review of the report of the survey. The owner of the building not having availed himself of this privilege, the assistant corporation counsel contended that the Berlin & Jones Company, as the occupant of the building, was estopped from interfering in the matter by the injunction of proceedings.

As the finishing stroke, counsel for the Fire Commissioner read to the court the portion of the Guerin affidavit quoted above, and then, to the consternation of his opponent, produced the original order requiring the installation of a sprinkler equipment in the Berlin & Jones building, which showed upon its face that it was issued upon the recommendation of Guerin as Acting Chief of the Bureau of Fire Prevention.

Decision upon the motion to enjoin the Fire Commissioner was reserved, but will probably be handed down at an early date.

United Owners' Mass Meeting.

More than a thousand property owners, brokers and others interested in real estate, attended a mass meeting, last Sunday evening, under the auspices of the United Real Estate Owners Association, at the 44th Street Theatre. The speakers were Stewart Browne, Henry H. Curran, chairman of the Finance Committee of the Board of Aldermen, State Tax Commissioner Joseph S. Schwab; Dr. Dennis J. McDonald of the Board of Education; Frank Cohen, one-time Master of Works, Glasgow, Scotland, and Borough-President Douglas Mathewson of the Bronx.

Two Years of Subway Construction.

In the two years which have elapsed since the Dual System agreement was signed, the Public Service Commission has awarded thirty-eight construction contracts, which, with those previously awarded, makes sixty-four of the eighty-four sections of the city-owned lines already under contract. The commission hopes to let contracts for the remaining twenty sections within the next six months. The total of all city contracts now outstanding is about $142,000,000. The greater part of the work to be done and paid for by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and the New York Municipal Railway Corporation in the third-tracking and extension of existing elevated lines is also under way.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

West Side apartment houses and unimproved properties figured in most of the important deals of the week, shifting the interest, for the time being, from the West Bronx. Private houses in various sections of the city also felt a moderate demand; the renting for autumn occupancy having just begun. There was also an improvement noted in the volume of commercial leasing transacted.

From the suburbs came the first indication of the beginning of the big season which is eagerly being anticipated. Those New Yorkers who made it a practice to go abroad, will probably spend the summer months in Eastern summer resorts or country places, and a good demand for such properties should soon commence to assert itself. That the outlying sections of New York City, particularly those within easy commuting distance, will feel the benefits of the general suburban activity, is confidently being predicted.

The total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 32 as against 24 last week and 28 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 5 as compared with 6 last week and 9 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregated 27 as compared with 18 last week and 19 a year ago.

The total number of conveyances in Manhattan was 112, as against 128 last week, 22 having stated considerations totalling $1,074,200. Mortgages recorded this week number 91, involving $2,287,882, as against 64 last week, totaling $1,149,280.

From the Bronx 10 sales at private contract were recorded as against 24 last week and 18 a year ago.

The amount involved in Manhattan and Bronx auction sales this week was $1,660,907, compared with $1,289,340 last week, making a total for the year of $11,959,150. The figures for the corresponding week last year were $930,006, and the total from Jan. 1, 1914, to March 28, 1914, was $10,156,450.

Hospital Option on Ball Field.

The Presbyterian Hospital has obtained an option from the New York Institute for the Education of the Blind, to purchase the old New York American League baseball grounds occupying the blocks bounded by Broadway, 165th street, Fort Washington avenue and 168th street. The property fronts 702 feet on Broadway, 536.7 feet in 165th street, 666.8 feet on Fort Washington avenue, and 674.11 feet in 168th street, and has been held at about $2,500,000. The hospital, which at present occupies the block bounded by Park and Madison avenues, 70th and 71st streets, is said to have been seeking a site for a new home for several years. The brokers were the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company.

Adds to Heights Plottage.

Adolph Lewisohn has bought, from George R. Read, a plot of five lots in the south side of 170th street, beginning 90 feet west of Broadway, through L. J. Phillips & Company. These lots were restricted for a term of years to the erection of private houses, but the restriction runs out in July of this year. Mr. Lewisohn owns the frontage on the west side of Broadway between 169th and 170th streets with the exception of the five-story apartment house at the corner of 169th street. With this last purchase he controls a plot of about twelve lots at this point. No announcement has been made regarding his plans.

Bronx Block Sold.

Mrs. Thomasine E. O'Brien sold, through Richard H. Scobie, the entire block consisting of sixteen and a half lots, having a frontage of 202 feet in the south side of 184th street, 210.28 feet on Valentine avenue, 205 feet on Ryer avenue and 206 feet in Field place. This property is 60 feet east of the Grand Boulevard and Concourse, and has been in the O'Brien family for the past 40 years, at which time Mr. Miles O'Brien, who was the president of the Board of Education for many years, purchased it. There are several large building operations under way in the immediate neighborhood. The buyer, it is reported, will improve the property.

Investor Buys Apartments.

Walter J. Rich bought, from the Haven Construction Co., Charles Flaum, president, the three five-story apartment houses, just completed, at the northwest corner of Northern avenue and 180th street, on plot 125 x 147. The property was held at $285,000. Weschler & Kohn, represented the selling company, and Harry W. Mack, of M. S. & I. S. Isaacs, acted for the purchaser. S. & J. H. Albert were the brokers.

"Netherland" in New Deal.

The "Netherland," the twelve-story apartment house at 340-346 West 86th street, on plot 100x102.2, which has been figuring recently in several reported deals, has finally been sold by the Realty & Commercial Company, through S. and J. H. Albert, to an out-of-town investor who gave in part payment 389 lots in Arlington, N. J. The apartment house was built about six years ago by Harry Schiff, and has been held at $650,000.

Morningside Avenue Sale.

West Side Construction Company, Jacob Axelrod, president, sold through Slawson & Hobbs, to Loron P. and Walter I. Bradley, of Stamford, Conn., and Alice S. Smith, of Monsey, N. Y., the "St. Valier," a six-story apartment house, on plot 163.5x150xirregular, occupying the entire block front between 119th and 120th streets. In part payment, was given the five-story building at the southwest corner of 23d street and Seventh avenue, on plot 98.9x25. The deal involves about $750,000.

"Alta Vista" In Trade.

Lowenfeld & Prager bought from the Paterno & Son Contracting Company the "Alta Vista," a six-story elevator apartment house, at the southeast corner of St. Nicholas avenue and 172nd street, on plot 95x125, held at $265,000. In part payment, the buyers gave the plot 100x128, at the northeast corner of Riverside drive and 144th street, on which it is reported a tall apartment house will be erected by the new owners. The brokers were James E. Barry & Company.

Apartment Builders In Deal.

Julius Tishman & Sons sold the six-story "Sunnycrest" apartment house, on plot 75x10.11, at 611 West 113th street, to H. S. & S. O. Crystal, who gave in exchange the three four-story dwellings, 156-160 East 79th street, on plot 60x102.2. It is reported that the Messrs. Tishman contemplate improving this site with a thirteen-story apartment house.

"Ohio" In Cash Sale.

Cammann, Voorhees & Floyd have sold the Ohio apartment house, a seven-story elevator apartment house at the southwest corner of Amsterdam avenue and 79th street, on plot 40x102.2. Hurst of Hurst & Company, publishers, as owner, to M. Berman & Brother, dealers in wool clippings, now located at 449 Water street. The building occupies a plot 50 x 125 and contains more than 50,000 square feet of floor space. It was formerly occupied by the American Bookbindery and Hurst & Company, which firms are now moving into the new fifteen-story printery at 406-426 West 31st street.

Art Film Company Lease.

The Dyreda Art Film Corporation has leased for ten years the sixth floor in 3-7 West 61st street, containing about 15,000 square feet. The firm had an option for one-half of this space but concluded to take the entire floor. With the top floor, also recently leased, it has taken about 30,000 square feet. The aggregate rental in the later deal is about $135,000. The brokers were J. Arthur Fischer, the H. H. Gibson Realty Company and Cross & Brown.

Big Deal Pending.

Mitchel H. Mark, head of the syndicate which owns the Strand Theatre, is reported to be negotiating for the lease of Mrs. Mary Fitzgerald's property at the northwest corner of Broadway at 37th street, fronting 104 feet on the avenue and 195.10 in the street, for a long term. It is said that if the deal is closed, a combination theatre and office building will be erected.

AUCTION SALES OF WEEK.

Except where otherwise stated, the properties offered were in foreclosure. Adjournments of legal sales to next week are noted under Advertised Legal Sales.

• Indicates that the property described was bid in for the plaintiff's account.

Parties in interest acquired this week a number of properties in various sections of the city. The Greenwich Savings Bank, as plaintiff, became the owner of the thirteen-story mercantile building, at 85 Fifth avenue, on a bid of $575,000, about $35,000 less than the judgment which brought about the sale. Another financial institution, the Poughkeepsie Savings Bank, bought the old-time Cafe Boulevard property at Second avenue and 10th street for $100,000, $30,000 less than existing liens. There was lively bidding for the two five-story tenements, 783 and 785 Columbus avenue, which were finally knocked down to the defendant, Arthur Otten, for $27,500 and $28,000 respectively.

Next week's auction room business will be characterized by an unusually large number of offerings. Forty-six properties are scheduled for auction in Manhattan and twenty in the Bronx.

Manhattan.

The following is the complete list of property sold, withdrawn or adjourned during the week ending Mar. 26, 1915, at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, 14 and 16 Vesey st.

"Castles of Comfort"

The wise builder knows that the more comforts and conveniences he places in his new buildings the quicker they will be rented or sold.

That's why the up-to-date apartment house is a veritable "Castle of Comfort."

Not the least of the many comforts installed is electric lighting service. It places at the fingers' tips of the tenants wonderful opportunities to lessen household cooking and cleaning labors.

BUILDING MANAGEMENT

RECOMMENDATIONS FOR HOUSE WIRING

By H. C. CUSHING, Jr.*

Conducted by Raymond P. Roberts, Building Manager for The American Real Estate Co.

PART ONE.

IN designing a house wiring installation, it is necessary to know whether the current is direct or alternating and the voltage of the supply service, if alternating the phase and cycle. In practically all residences, except very large ones with large individual motors, the alternating current is delivered in what is known as single phase, requiring but one transformer, and this condition is assumed throughout this section of the article.

The Code rule is as follows: Transformers must not be placed inside of buildings without special permission; must be located as near as possible to the point at which the primary wires enter the building; must be placed in an enclosure constructed of fire-resisting material; the enclosure to be used only for this purpose, and to be kept securely locked, and access to the same allowed only to responsible parties.

The transformer case must be permanently and effectually grounded, and the enclosure in which the transformers are placed must be practically air-tight, except that it must be thoroughly ventilated to the outdoor air, if possible through a chimney or flue. There should be at least six inches air space on all sides of the transformer.

In equipments with not more than fifty lights and outlets many lighting companies deliver the current, from the transformer to the building, on a two-wire system at about 110 volts and without the use of the third or neutral wire.

Voltage.

With the three-wire system the voltage between the two outside wires is generally about 220 volts and the voltage between the neutral (middle) wire and either outside wire is about 110 volts. The 110-volt outlets, for lights and small appliances are placed on two-wire branch circuits, balanced on each side of this neutral wire. Larger appliances are often wound for 220 volts and connected across the outside or 220-volt circuit. For these larger power appliances and motors 220-volt apparatus is used for the purpose of reducing the size of the wires supplying them. Small heating appliances where considerable heat must be generated are almost universally made for 110 volts.

Where a different rate is charged for various classes of service there should be a separate meter for each class. Many service companies make different rates for light, for power and for heating, cooking and refrigeration. Most companies will furnish and connect three-wire meters for power and cooking, etc., as well as for light, so that both 110-volt and 220-volt apparatus may be used on the same meter by balancing on each side of the neutral wire. The service company should be consulted as to meter arrangements.

Grounding.

In two-wire systems, one side of the service switch, and in the three-wire system the neutral (middle) of the service switch (in both cases on the incoming side), should be grounded by means of a copper wire to the water supply pipe on the supply side of the water meter.

By grounding is meant a solid, permanent connection to the ground by means of connection to water pipes, or plates buried in the ground. The result is that if, either outside the house or in it, anyone touches this neutral or grounded wire, as at a lamp socket, and also touches or makes connection with the ground, as through a gas pipe or radiator, there is no difference of potential, while if either the positive or negative wire is touched only, the system potential, as 120 or 240 volts, is felt, and is considered perfectly safe while pressures above 300 become dangerous.

Branch Circuits.

The rules of the Fire Underwriters allow 660 watts distributed at sixteen sockets on each two-wire lighting circuit. It is recommended, however, that the number of sockets be limited to twelve or thirteen on a circuit, as this does not greatly affect the cost of the work and will permit the use of No. 14 wire for practically all such branch circuits without undue loss in voltage and without appreciable variation in voltage between outlets on the same circuit under any condition of use.

In frame residences, with stud partitions, it is permissible to carry wires on porcelain insulators on the sides of the beams and studs and through them by enclosing in porceiain tubes with flexible non-metallic conduit (flexible tube) from nearest knob to outlet, keeping the wires as far as possible from the floor or ceiling to prevent injury.

Armored Cable.

Some architects and engineers specify armored cable for frame or semi-frame residences. This armored cable is made by wrapping steel tape or ribbon around the two or more wires of the mains or circuits, thus giving a heavy metal-sheathed main or branch circuit. Such cable is made in lengths of from 50 to 250 feet. Armored cable may be laid or drawn between beams and studs or furring strips with practically no liability to mechanical injury from nails, etc., but should not be placed in brick or concrete walls unless imbedded in plaster-of-paris or other suitable material to protect the sheath and wires from the corrosive action of the surrounding ingredients.

Rigid Conduits.

For the highest class of residence work, architects and engineers generally specify rigid conduit construction. These rigid conduits are of gas-pipe thickness and are coated on the inside with a tough, elastic and very smooth enamel. The exterior may either be coated with the same enamel or galvanized. The conduits come in ten-foot lengths and all diameters from ¼-inch to 6-inch and are joined by means of screw couplings of the same material, and the joints are made tight by the use of red or white lead. This prevents the entrance of any moisture. This is the most expensive character of concealed wiring work.

This class of work, which is not permitted in concealed places, is frequently resorted to on account of the cheapness and where it is undesirable, or unnecessary for appearance, to run circuits inside of walls or ceilings. Wood moulding work is especially adapted to the cheaper class of cottages, bungalows, etc. In dry places and where the wires are not liable to mechanical injury or contact with other objects, circuits may be supported on porcelain cleats or knobs. For this class of work the wires should be separated, by their insulating knobs, or cleats, two and one-half inches from each other and at least one-half inch from the surface wired over, where the voltage does not exceed 300.

Approximate Wiring Costs.

Due to the varied cost of labor and material and to varying methods of building construction, universal costs of electric light work for the several types of wiring hereinbefore described cannot be given, but for the purpose of general comparison the following approximations may be a help:

	Per outlet
Knob and (flexible) tube work	$1.50 to $2.50
B. X. cable work	2.00 to 5.00
Flexible steel conduit work	3.50 to 5.50
Rigid metallic conduit work	4.00 to 7.00

All of the various fire underwriters' organizations require "rubber covered" wire for all classes of concealed residence wiring. These wires may have a single impregnated braid in case of knob and tube work and a double braid in the other classes of concealed work hereinbefore described.

Liberal Use of Switches.

A liberal use of switches in a residence invites economy by encouraging the putting out of lights when leaving rooms. They soon pay for themselves. The most satisfactory switches are of the flush type and should be placed in metal cutout boxes, sunk in the wall, and should generally be located just inside of entrance doors.

Large rooms with numerous outlets should be controlled by more than one switch, and, in long living rooms, it is often a good plan to place the lights of each end of the room on a different switch control, both for convenience of occupants and economy in bills.

For electroliers, switches are sometimes used, so designed that one turn of the handle lights one group of lights; the second turn lighting an additional group, without putting out the first group, and a third turn will put all out.

For hall and stairs it is customary to arrange lights that they may be turned on or off from any one of several switches known as 3-way and 4-way switches. A light in first floor hall and one on the second floor may be controlled by a switch at entrance door and also controlled from second floor. In the same manner an outlet on third floor may be controlled by a switch in second hall and one on third floor.

A master switch may be placed in the owner's bedroom and so connected that the switch will control the first, second and third floors, main hall and stairs, 3-way lights, either independent of whether the local switches have been used or not.

Closet Switches.

Closet switches are often controlled by switches set in the door jambs and operated by movement of door.

Fused knife switches in metal boxes should be used in connection with A. C. motors of ½ H. P and larger. These switches should be double pole and located near the motor they control. Motor starting boxes are sometimes used with ½ H. P. to 1 H. P. A. C. single phase motors in order to cut down the momentary rush of current, but nearly every service company will permit motors to be operated directly from the switch. Small motors may be operated from flush switches of room type.

Where portable electrical appliances do not visibly indicate when the current is on, and where such appliances are connected by means of flexible wires, the wall outfit should consist of a switch pilot light and receptacle. All three may be placed in the same outlet box and one plate covers all.

*First installment of an article by Mr. Cushing, which appears in greater length in his work, entitled "Standard Wiring for Electric Light and Power," and prepared in conjunction with the National Electric Light Association and the Society for Electrical Development.

USEFUL APPLIANCES

Novelties, New Applications of Familiar Devices and the Trend of Invention, Designed to Aid the Architect, Builder and Building Manager, Described Without Regard to Advertising Consideration

Rolling Fly Screens.

THIS is a device suitable only for high class residential structures. It is comparatively expensive, but is a convenience. It is designed for use both in fireplaces and as roller fly screens in sumptuous residences where comfort is considered before cost. There is always considerable annoyance in hoisting fly screens, that stick on their runners or have to be clapped together in order to take them from the window frames. But the fly screen operated on the roller shade principle eliminates all this bother. All that is necessary is to pull a string and up goes the fly screen. They are not in the way, and, being made of fine brass or copper they always look well. The average fly screen looks out of place where rich furnishings are employed in fine houses, apartments and hotels. Being constantly in position they are subjected to bumps and breaks that would not occur if the screen could be lifted out of the way at will.

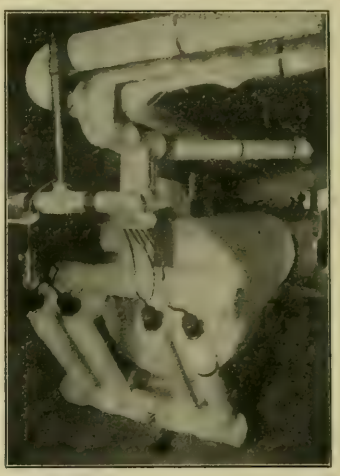
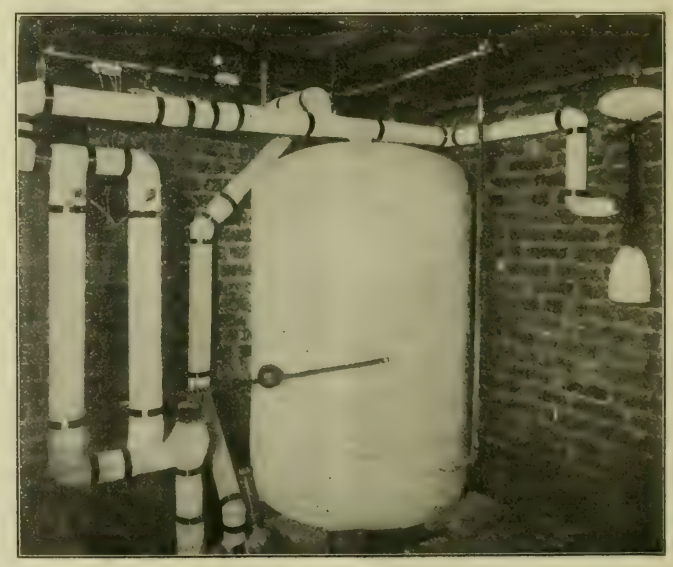
The roller bearings fit into clamps at the side of the window frame and can be readily removed. Screens can be made to fit the entire window or only half the sash. They are also made with galvanized iron. The weaving of this screen is done here now although at one time it was done in Germany and sent here. It has been imported heretofore for use in roller fire place screens, this type being known as the "Excelsior." The screens are finished in any color to match furnishings or fireplace fittings which has been responsible in part for the increasing popularity of this type of window screen over the old style.



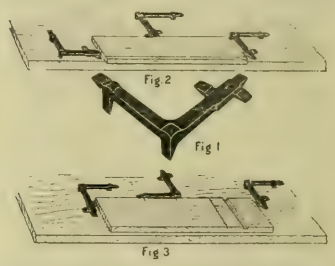
Electric Heating.



BUILDING managers throughout the country are watching with considerable interest the experiments being made in Seattle in the matter of heating houses and buildings by electricity. These tests are being made by the Lighting Department of that city, which has revealed the fact that the hot water system is the only one that is practical in connection with electric heat on account of the fact that it is unnecessary to cut off current during the hours of lighting peak.

The illustrations presented herewith through the courtesy of the Heating and Ventilating Magazine show two types of hot water heater. One is arranged exactly like a hot water boiler in the ordinary hot water system, while the other is the four unit heater which is controlled by a thermostat in the return pipe, which automatically cuts off the return when the return water reaches a certain temperature.

With a lighting peak of 4½ hours experience has shown that 20 gallons of storage for each kilowatt of energy is needed. While the actual cost for energy runs from 25 to 40 per cent. higher than coal in Seattle, the heat obtained is always even in temperature and may be depended upon under all conditions. It may be controlled from a remote point either by switch or by thermostat, or by a time clock.



It will be observed that with the above factor of 20 sq. ft. per kilowatt and 20 gallons storage per kilowatt, the remainder of the heating system may be figured as an ordinary hot water system.

New Bench Dog.

BENCH work in the handicraft shops of all buildings can be very much simplified by the use of a bench dog recently perfected. It is illustrated herewith and is made entirely of metal with well sharpened points and blued finish. One or more of the devices can be so placed on a work bench as to secure a board, pipe or practically anything that requires holding firmly while being worked.

Figure No. 1 shows the tool itself, all the points being clearly indicated. No. 2 represents the tool in gauging the stock in different positions for planing. No. 3 shows the tool in various positions for producing a saw or dado cut in the stock. It is inexpensive and soon pays for itself in the time that it saves.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

New Activity in West Eighty-Sixth Street Changing Character of Thoroughfare—Frank Brothers' New Home

TWO modern fireproof apartments are nearing completion in the south side of West 86th street, between West End avenue and Riverside Drive, which for quality of construction, character of design, plan and general appointments will compare favorably with the best multi-family houses in the city. These buildings are located at 310 to 322 West 86th street and are each twelve stories in height. The operation, including the cost of the ground, represents an expenditure of more than $1,000,000.

Mulliken & Moeller, Architects.
LOOKING WEST IN 86TH STREET, FROM WEST END AVENUE.

The facades of these structures have been designed in the style of a modified Italian Renaissance and they are constructed of a light buff brick, with trimmings of granite and ornamental terra cotta. Every effort has been made to have these apartments as nearly fireproof as is possible in buildings of this type, and fire-protective and fire-fighting devices, of the latest pattern, are being installed. Everything possible in the line of conveniences for the householder will be included.

With a frontage of 144 feet, in an unusually wide street, the architects of these buildings have made the most of their opportunities and have designed structures which are dignified and a credit to their surroundings.

Nearly a year was spent before negotiations for the property now occupied by these apartments were completed. They are owned by the Eighty-sixth Street & West End Avenue Co., Harry B. Mulliken, president, and Edgar J. Moeller, secretary, and were planned by the owners, who are architects with a wide and varied experience in high-class apartment house design.

No general contract for the construction of these apartments was awarded, the owners sub-letting the work in separate contracts. Among the contractors who supplied labor and materials are included the Hay Foundry & Iron Works, 15 Madison Square North, structural steel; Adin G. Pierce Co., 103 Park avenue, fireproofing and floor arch construction; P. Libutti, 426 East 115th street, mason work for foundations; Durando Miller & Co., 2576 Park avenue, ornamental iron work. The brick mason work and setting of cut stone was done by the Fullam Construction Co., 103 Park avenue. The granite used in the facade was supplied by Penney & Bunt, Willow avenue and 132d street, and the ornamental terra cotta was manufactured and supplied by the New York Architectural Terra Cotta Co., 401 Vernon avenue, Long Island City.

Stephen Ball, 271 West 125th street, Manhattan, has the contract for the carpenter work, and the wood window frames and sash were supplied by James Elgar, Inc., 193 Park avenue.. Fireproof doors were made by the Standard Fireproof Door Co., 193 Diamond street, Brooklyn; parquet flooring installed by George H. Storm & Co., 545 East 71st street, N. Y. C. The roofing contract was awarded to the Ford Roof Construction Co., 160 Fifth avenue, and the sheet metal work let to the Fordham Cornice Works, 1004 Tremont avenue.

The steam-heating plant was installed by the Mulhearn Steam Heating Co., 103 Park avenue, and the plumbing by Canavan & Diegan, 126 West 100th street. Otis Elevator Co., 26th street and Eleventh avenue, installed the elevators and the electric wiring and lighting was awarded to the E. J. Electric Installation Co., 221 West 33d street. Tiling for floors and wainscot was set by Vannell Const. Co., 103 Park avenue.

In the construction of these buildings nothing but the best of materials and workmanship has been approved and they will contain every modern convenience for comfort of tenants and efficiency in housekeeping.

If the present plans are carried out the property immediately adjoining these buildings on the east will be improved with structures of a similar character as the ones now under construction. The same owners some time ago acquired the property at 304, 306 and 308 West 86th street and had planned to erect buildings of the same height, design and general character. Plans for this operation are now under discussion and active operations may be started during the coming summer.

These buildings are planned with two suites of seven rooms and three baths to each floor. In addition a large foyer, butler's pantry and many built-in closets of generous size are provided.

Frank Brothers' New Building.

FRANK BROS., shoe dealers, at 224 Fifth avenue, by the coming autumn, will probably be able to occupy the new building which they intend to erect at 588 Fifth avenue, 72 feet south of 48th street.

The building will be a modern fireproof structure, eight stories in height, on a plot 27 x 90 feet. The plans and specifications, from which this building will be erected, were prepared by Alfred Freeman, architect, 29 West 34th street, and the construction will be under a general contract recently awarded to Fountain & Choate, builders, 110 East 23rd street.

This building will be arranged for stores on the ground and first floor, with provision on the upper floors for storage of stock and workrooms for the shoe repairing department. The owners will occupy the entire building.

Alfred Freeman, Architect.
Fountain & Choate, Gen'l Contractors.
NO. 224 FIFTH AVENUE.

The facade has been designed in a simple and dignified manner with only enough ornamentation to give it character. Material for the front will be light buff French limestone.

The treatment of the show windows is distinctly good, getting away from the store effect as much as possible. Fire protective and fire fighting devices of proved efficiency will be installed throughout the building. The cost of this operation, when completed, is estimated at about $50,000.

Municipal Art Society Competition.

The Municipal Art Society has announced a competition open to all architects, engineers, students of architecture and others interested, for "an architectural solution of an intersection of an avenue and a street." The society offers three prizes, the first of $300, the second, $200, and the third, $100, for the best solution of the problem. The drawings are to be delivered to the Municipal Art Society of New York, 119 East 19th street, between nine and five o'clock on Saturday, May 22d. They will be judged and the awards made on Monday, May 24th, by a jury of the following or their representatives: The Mayor, Borough President, the President of the Board of Aldermen, the President of the Park Board, the President of the Department of Taxes and Assessments, the Police Commissioner, the Chairman of the Public Service Commission, the Superintendent of Buildings, the City Engineer, the Chairman of the Art Commission of the City of New York, the President of the New York Chapter of the American Society of Architects, and the President and Committee of the Municipal Art Society. The drawings submitted in competition will be on public exhibition in the galleries of the National Arts Club, 119 East 19th street, from Tuesday, May 25th, to Saturday, May 29th, inclusive.

Building for I. C. S.

Ageneral contract has been awarded to the Manhattan Construction Co., 76 William street, for the erection of a twelve-story store and office building at the southwest corner of Madison avenue and 40th street. The building will be owned by Mrs. Clarence B. Hyde, represented by F. R. Wood, W. H. Dolson Co., Broadway and 80th street, and has been leased to the Foster Building Co. (International Correspondence School), Scranton, Pa. The plans, which are being prepared by F. E. Townsend, architect, 103 Park avenue, call for a brick limestone and terra cotta structure on a plot 54x120 feet. The plans will probably be completed about May 1.

Proposed Mid-Town Loft Building.

William H. Birkmire, architect, 1133 Broadway, is preparing plans for a twelve-story, fireproof loft and store building to be erected at 223-31 West 38th street. The structure will be built on a plot 100x102 feet and will have a facade of brick, limestone and terra cotta. The building will be owned and erected jointly by William H. Birkmire and Andrew J. Kerwin, Jr., a builder, at 1133 Broadway. Active operations on this project which will cost about $300,000, will probably not be started for some time.

Van Courtland Estates to Build.

Cross & Cross, architects, 10 East 47th street, have prepared plans and are taking estimates on general contract, for the construction of a five-story, semi-fireproof apartment house to be erected at the corner of 246th street and Broadway for the Augustus Van Courtland Estates, owners, 47 East 53d street. This building will occupy a plot 100x80 feet and will have facades of brick and limestone.

Artistic Pamphlet.

Hobart Alexander Walker, architect, 437 Fifth avenue, Manhattan, has just issued a beautifully prepared pamphlet, profusely illustrated with pictures, both exterior and interior, of residences erected in the suburban zone. Mr. Walker designed all these homes and supervised their erection.

Hearings Announced.

On Thursday, at 2 P. M., April 8, the Committee on Buildings will grant hearings on the ordinances amending the Building Code in relation to working stresses and loads, iron and steel construction and wood construction.

NO ARCHITECTS SELECTED.

In this department is published advance information regarding building projects where architects have not as yet been selected.

BRONX.—The Thomas Mulhare Construction Co., Thomas Mulhare, 404 East 141st st, contemplates the erection of a 5-sty apartment at the northwest corner of 181st st and Grand Concourse and Blvd. Cost about $45,000. No architect selected.

BROOKLYN.—The March Realty Co., Inc., Louis Rubin, president, 4915 5th av, Brooklyn, contemplates the erection of 4 or 5-sty apartment houses in the south side of 50th st, 100 ft west of 6th av. No architect selected.

OSWEGO, N. Y.—The Italian R. C. Church, Rev. Father F. Geremia, pastor, contemplates the erection of a church here. No architect selected.

HUNTINGTON, L. I.—The Bank of Huntington, Douglas Conklin, West Neck av, is receiving competitive sketches for a 2-sty bank building in Main st. No architect selected.

FORT PLAIN, N. Y.—Fort Plain Lodge No. 433, F. & A. M., Chas. B. Snell, master, 16 Cemetery st, contemplates the erection of a 3-sty brick masonic temple here. Definite action will be taken about May 1. No site or architect selected.

EDGEWATER, N. J.—The Borough of Edgewater, Henry Wissell, mayor, contemplates the erection of a 2-sty brick fire house here to cost, about $12,000. No architect selected.
